When confronted with danger, it aids our endurance to have such a pertinent prayer veritably on the tip of our tongue. Similarly we can view or face sickness or the approach of death with the more compassion or submission if we are prepared with appropriate intercessions. And again, on joyful occasions or in circumstances when thanksgivings are called for, our joy is the more complete if we can be spiritually articulate. Let us think, therefore, of our needs in the matter of prayer with the idea of seeking the means to satisfy them from the pages of our priceless manual of spiritual exercises, the Book of Common Prayer. Build up a repertory or selection of your own choosing and use it frequently and as occasions demand. Finally, let us be sure to include media of praise and adoration such as the Gloria in Excelsis Deo, the 150th Psalm, or my favorite among the offertory sentences, "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all."

New Cathedral Organ To Be Dedicated Easter Day

ON EASTER DAY at the 11 o'clock service Bishop Donegan will dedicate the new Cathedral Organ, which Mr. G. Donald Harrison, President of the Aeolian-Skinner Organ Company, has been rebuilding and installing for the past year. Mr. Joseph S. Whiteford, Vice-President of the Company, writes as follows:

"The aim of the rebuilding and enlargement of the organ is to provide the Cathedral with a completely modern and unique instrument which could best be characterized as 'American Classic'.

"Since the original organ was built, a great deal of development has taken place in the design of instruments, particularly those which are to be housed in large buildings with reverberant acoustics, and the organ has been so planned that it will play with equal fidelity the compositions from the Classic, Romantic and Modern periods, and the ensemble of the organ will be very much clarified for better accompaniment of the choir and particularly congregational singing.

"The original organ was built when the Cathedral itself was very much smaller. The completion of the Nave made a considerably enlarged and improved instrument necessary.

"The organ will be rebuilt into eight separate divisions playable on the four manual console and containing 156 sets of pipes. Each set of pipes contains one pipe for each note existent on the manuals and the pedals. When the instrument is completed, it will contain approximately 8000 pipes ranging in size from 32 feet long and big enough in diameter for a man to crawl through, to tiny pipes no larger than a lead pencil. The divisions of the organ will be the Great Organ, Swell Organ, Choir Organ, Solo Organ, Tuba Organ, Bombarde Organ, Pedal Organ, and one division in the west end of the Cathedral directly under the great Rose Window. This latter division will contain the 'State Trumpet', which is the only stop of its kind in the world. The pipes of this stop are very brilliant Trumpet tones which will be used on many occasions for music appropriate for this sort of sound. Dr. Coke-Jephcott has composed a Fanfare especially for the Dedication of this stop, which will be heard Easter Sunday morning.

"The rest of the organ will be located in its present position on either side of the choir behind the organ spaces.

"Although the instrument is not the largest by any means in the country, the Cathedral itself offers the instrument an unparalleled acoustical atmosphere in which to create a completely unique and satisfying musical result.

"The organ is being overhauled and enlarged in sections. To date, three of the sections are practically complete, with five more to be completed by Easter or shortly thereafter.

"The old instrument was built by Ernest M. Skinner Company in 1910 and many of its fine, original voices are being retained in the new plans. When the instrument is finished, all of the old existing mechanism that is being employed will be completely renovated so that in all respects the instrument will be as completely new.

"In addition to the specific musical advantages of the newer tonal design of the instrument, great stress has been placed on creating sounds in the instrument which will be much clearer for accompanimental purposes. This is an essential in such a very large building, and it will be noticed as more of the organ is completed that greater clarity can be achieved for both choir and congregational accompaniment."

Operation "Alajandra" April 26 Is Youth Sunday

FOUR MONTHS ago the United Movement of Christian Youth focused attention on one of the four major activities of its program, Youth Sunday. Young people were alerted to the Youth Offering Project for the year 1953, "Alajandra". Since then the National Council, Division of Youth, has furnished the clergy with material and supplies that would insure a successful campaign. An attractive poster illustrating the mission area, a booklet — "About Alajandra", and a letter suggesting other materials, were sent to every Parish and Mission in the United States. Mite boxes and envelopes were made available from "281", and a filmstrip entitled "Alajandra" was produced.

The National Council has attempted in this way to bring to the attention of our young people the needs of their Mexican neighbors. Have you made use of the materials placed at your disposal? If not, there is still time. The filmstrip "Alajandra" may be rented from the office of the Department of Christian Education, Diocesan House, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25, New York.

Explains Missionary Quota

This money will support the work of our national Church at home and abroad. It will pay the cost of maintaining salaries and work in aided dioceses and missionary districts in our own country (which will require approximately 25 per cent of that sum), and it will also support the work of our Church overseas — in Japan, China, the Philippines, etc., (which will take approximately 40 per cent of it).

The total missionary budget of the Diocese is, therefore, $834,507. The Canons of the General Convention state that the two parts of the budget be treated separately and that the income pledged and received toward them must be divided proportionately between them in the ratio that the two parts bear to the total.

Our failure to meet this budget in full means curtailment of our own work as well as the work of the National Church: 59 per cent of each missionary dollar received by our diocese must go to the National Council; the remaining 41 per cent will stay in the Diocese for our missionary program.

Your missionary dollar is broken down approximately as follows: 59 cents of it goes to the National Church, of which approximately 15 cents supports missions in this country, and 23 cents supports our work in the foreign missionary field. The remaining 21 cents is needed for the various activities of the National Council: Christian Education, Social Relations, Promotion, etc.

41 cents of it remains in the Diocese of New York, of which approximately 18 cents goes directly to missionaries' salaries and Church extension in our own diocesan family. Approximately 14 cents help support the agencies at work in the community, doing real missionary work. The remaining 9 cents is needed for the Council's other departments.

Your missionary dollar has high purchasing power and far-reaching influence. It works for you "around the corner", near you in your neighborhood; and it works for you in far-off places. What a privilege it is to go, through your gifts to missions, with our missionaries to literally thousands of places, to help thousands of people and to bear witness to your God. Your dollars, given to missions, buy for you more joy than they buy anywhere else.

The Archdeacon

The Venerable George F. Brätt

THE DIOCESE of New York extends over some 4,763 square miles. In some places the population is scattered, and in others the concentration is so great that few areas on earth can compare. In the rural counties large farms and majestic woodlands remain much as they were one hundred years ago, whereas the city's sky-line is forever changing. Some communicants drive a mile or more to visit the nearest neighbor, while in the city it is not uncommon to find a family of eight living in one room in a block which is home to several thousand.

Wherever people dwell one finds our Church fulfilling her great commission. In city and in village the bell rings to remind God's people of the primary things, — of holiness, of righteousness, of the privilege of joining with others in praise and thanksgiving, of the lighted candle and the holy Altar! The "two or three are gathered together" in the Name of Our Lord and know the power of Presence.

Finding the wayward and the lost is a task incumbent on every Christian. Methods of evangelism in areas where people own their own homes, however, follow a pattern which cannot be used in a parish ministering to those living in apartment houses. A priest cannot call on new people in a multiple dwelling if he cannot get past the ever-vigilant doorman.

Because the Diocese is so large and because there is a tendency among congregations to judge their own situation as unique, one might expect that ultimately the sin of parochialism would rend us asunder. And indeed, this might happen were it not for the cohesive elements so well known to all. We are one in our allegiance to the living Christ; we share the same Bible, the same incomparable Book of Common Prayer; we are all blessed and strengthened by the same spiritual Meat and the same spiritual Drink. The Bishop, Father in God and Chief Pastor, binds us together in one great family urging all to go forth in peace, to comfort, to hold fast the faith in unity of spirit, to show our thankfulness in obedience to the will of God. We are bound together in our common desire that all the world shall be saved, and to this end we pray, and work, and give, that the Gospel of Christ might be preached to all men everywhere.

The Diocese is large in area but it is bound together in such a way that even the most remote Mission must never feel isolated. On occasion the Missionary comes to Convention, to Convocation, to Clericus, and Conference, and there shares with his urban brother the life of faith and witness. In like manner layman finds layman and shares a common loyalty for the Church. Thus the bond of fellowship is strengthened as each discovers afresh the basic task of the Church, — the conversion of the world to Christ. Thus, too, they know that whatever the difficulty or the problem, all have the same ultimate commission, — namely, to bring a brother to Christ.

THE BRONX CONVOCATION

The women of all the parishes of the Convocation joined with other Christian women for a World Day of Prayer Service on February 20 at the CHURCH OF THE ATONEMENT. A social hour followed in the parish hall.

At CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale, social activities of the parish "closed" for Lent with the Annual Brotherhood Dinner and Dance. It is reported that "good food aplenty satisfied the appetite; live music in good measure made toes tingle. Teen-agers and their friends, Mom and Dad and their friends, all friends of CHRIST CHURCH came to make more friends in CHRIST CHURCH."

At a recent Corporate Communion breakfast for men and boys of the CHURCH OF THE MEDIATOR, Kingsbridge, the speaker was the Honorable Charles S. Colden, Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, and active layman of the Episcopal Church.

A 100th Anniversary Committee has been formed at ST. JAMES', Fordham, under the leadership of William Lueckel, with the Rector and representatives of the Vestry and all parish organizations. The young people of the parish have published the first issue of a new monthly bulletin, "The Scroll", which will present news of parish activities, as young people see it. This paper, financed by the Youth Committee, represents the first step in the revitalizing of the youth program of the parish. The men of the parish held an evening "at home" recently for all members of the parish, their friends and guests.

The Laymen's League (Men's group) of the CHURCH OF THE HOLY NATIVITY is sponsoring during Lent a series of lectures and discussions concerning the "Faith of the Church".

THE BISHOP OF NEW YORK was the Celebrant of Holy Communion and the speaker at the breakfast at the Annual Convocation Men and Boys' Service held in SAINT PETER'S CHURCH, WESTCHESTER, on Washington's Birthday holiday. Seats at the breakfast had to be limited to 225.

Christian Social Relations Makes Clear Its Stand

RECENTLY the Welfare and Health Council of The City of New York disputed the admission of the Planned Parenthood Committee of Mothers' Health Centers to its ranks. This organization was a member in good standing of the Health Council, but when the Health and Welfare Councils were undergoing a merger, it was agreed that all agencies not supported by the Greater New York Fund would reapply for admission to the new agency. All who applied were admitted except this Planned Parenthood group, whose application for membership was denied in spite of the fact that a majority of the members of the Board of the Welfare and Health Council approved the program, policies, and standards of the Planned Parenthood Committee of Mothers' Health Centers.

So strong was the rising protest against the action of the Welfare and Health Council, that they (the Council) felt constrained to send the following questionnaire to its members, inasmuch as there was forceful request that the Council reconsider its decision:

"1. Are you in accord with the majority action of the Board in endorsing the program, policies and objectives of Planned Parenthood Committee of Mothers' Health Centers?

"2. Are you in accord with the majority action of the Board in declining their application for membership because of the resolve of the Catholic agencies to withdraw from the Council, based on moral and religious conventions, which in the opinion of the Board would result in the probable dissolution of the Council or in any case, a crippling diminution in its effectiveness as well as the destruction of inter-sectarian cooperation?

"3. The Catholic agencies have taken the position that cooperation within the Council by them with Planned Parenthood Committee would be repugnant to their moral and religious principles. Were a situation to arise relating to the moral and religious principles which you profess and involving a question of incompatibility on your part, would you feel privileged to withdraw from the Council?

"4. Do you prefer to make no comment on the issues involved?

"5. Other comments you may wish to make:"

This questionnaire went out to all member agencies of the Welfare and Health Council, but under date of February 11 it was also sent again to all Episcopal member agencies, with the following answer which makes the position of our Department of Christian Social Relations most clear:

"A STATEMENT from the Department concerning its stand on the matter of the admission of Planned Parenthood Committee of Mothers' Health Centers to membership in the Welfare and Health Council of the City of New York; and commended to Episcopal agencies which are members of the Council for their consideration.

A. We would answer affirmatively question #1 of the Questionnaire circulated by the Welfare and Health Council. We make this further comment: We accept the right of a majority of the Board of the Welfare and Health Council to determine whether any given agency meets the qualifications for admission to the Council and to admit that agency to membership in it.

B. We do not feel that question #2 can be answered "Yes" or "No". We make this comment: We doubt that this kind of board action (the approval of the program, policies and objectives of any given agency followed by refusal to admit that agency to membership) can "maintain the high degree of mutual confidence and respect between all faiths within the Council, which has made possible the outstanding results obtained in recent years"; and we request a clarification of the principle upon which such apparently undemocratic action is taken.

C. We would answer question #3 affirmatively, but should like to record our conviction that while any group has the privilege to withdraw on the basis of religious, moral and ethical principles, it is not obligated to do so.

D. We should like further information from the Board of the Council on the question of whether the withdrawal of any group from the Council as it now exists would in actuality mean its dissolution.

E. We approve the resolution of the Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society regretting the decision of the Board of the Welfare and Health Council not to include the Planned Parenthood Committee in its membership, and expressing the hope that the question will be reconsidered and that the Planned Parenthood Committee will be admitted to membership of the Council. We see the issue as not primarily a matter either of the program, policy and objectives of any given agency, or of the withdrawal of any group. Rather we hold the conviction that any agency which serves a large segment of the population of this city, and whose program, policy and objectives are approved by a majority of the Board of the Council, should be admitted. This does not mean that we should necessarily and always approve the program, policy and objectives of any given agency, but that we defend its right to membership if it meets the standards and requirements for admission as determined by the Board of the Council."

The Walfare and Health Council has taken no further action on the issue (at this writing), probably awaiting the result of its poll of member agencies.

One of the high spots of the Christian Citizenship Seminar was the supper and square dance with All Souls' GFS in Harlem, New York. These flashlights give a few of both groups on the steps and again as they ate and visited together.

The Dean's View On The Planned Parenthood Issue

THE MAJORITY of the Board Members of The Welfare and Health Council voted approval of the plans and policies of the Planned Parenthood group but frankly stated in their resolution that they would be denied admission since a minority bloc (namely the Roman Chatholic Charities of the District of New York and Brooklyn, and their member agencies) opposed the admission of Planned Parenthood and threatened to resign if it were in fact admitted.

The Very Rev. James A. Pike, J.S.D., Dean of the Cathedral Church, who is chairman of The Clergymen's Advisory Committee of the Planned Parenthood group, in speaking of the issue said, in part, "The Roman Catholic Church is free to take any position it wishes on contraception. No one can have objection to their disciplining their own people any way they wish in this matter, nor can any one object to their seeking to persuade the rest of us to their views. But to use threats and boycotts to force majorities to take action other than that which they would otherwise have taken by proper deliberation and democratic vote, is damaging to the best interests of religion and cooperative social work.

"The Roman Catholics defend themselves on this by maintaining that what Planned Parenthood stands for is against the ethical teaching of the Roman Catholc Church. This may be. As a matter of fact the general line some supporters of Planned Parenthoood take doesn't square up point for point with the ethical teachings of the Anglican Communion, since under the opinion of the Lambeth Conference a couple is not free to use contraception unless there is some legitimate reason they should not be having a child; or to put it positively, if a couple in line with prayerful and conscientious consideration believes that it is the will of God that they should have a child or further children, then they have the positive duty to take all possible steps to have them, including medical help if necessary. And in case of doubt the decision should be to have children. Nevertheless, there are situations in which it would be sinful to have a child. But the decision rests with the individual conscience under God; and therefore the freedom of access to contraceptive information is something that under Anglican principles should be maintained."

The Church and The City College

THE CHURCH in the Diocese of New York is called upon to minister to many colleges and universities without the conventional environment of campus and "Ivy-covered" hall. John Jones and Sally Smith from a parish in the Greater New York area are more than likely to attend one of the enormous New York "commuter colleges" where they will converge after long periods of subway or train travel. After attending lectures, interspersed with coffee and doughnuts at a nearby counter, they will rush to the subway for another hour's struggle to Jamaica, Astoria, the Bronx, or Jersey. Here these students will resume their roles as members of family and local parish and community.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

Two months ago in this BULLETIN (January, page 8) there was printed a picture of the Presiding Bishop welcoming two New Yorkers then recently elected to the Church's National Council. One was our Diocesan. The other was a layman, and a distinguished industrialist, who is now in the book columns as the author of Reaching Out in Management (New York, Harpers, $2.50). This is Mr. Given's second book and it may seem an off choice to pass in review in a church magazine. But as I read Reaching Out in Management it seems to me to have a Christian motivation and to express the concern of a Christian placed in a position of top management for the well-being of the company's workers – his people. This note is sounded at the very beginning of the Preface: "We, like others, realize that better and better routes must be found to giving our people the maximum sense of fulfillment that can come out of their work."

And this is no mere accident, for Mr. Given is an active layman in the Church. Not only is he the father of a missionary priest serving among the Navajoes of Arizona but he himself devotes an astonishing portion of "his time, his talents, and his treasure" to the Church. President of the Episcopal Church Foundation, member of the National Council, trustee of the General Theological Seminary, are but his major activities for the Church. There are others.

But this book is the expression of a business man's philosophy and the NAM News calls it "an extremely readable and valuable book for men on the way up and a must for those who have already arrived." The publishers, too, have presented this business message, described by Industrial Relations Letter as "rich, authoritative and chocked-full of sound experience" a most attractive and inviting format.

As we enter upon the final weeks of Lent our devotional reading needs, perhaps, a lot of refreshing. And on the new book shelf are two volumes admirably suited to lead us to a triumphant Easter.

Father Hughson as he wandered from parish to parish, preaching missions, holding quiet days, counselling men and women with problems became one of the best beloved spiritual advisers in this diocese. His earthly life came to an end a little more than three years ago, but the Order of the Holy Cross of which he was a member for nearly half a century and twice its superior has published his Spiritual Letters (West Park, $3). These letters, the earliest of which is dated 1910 and the last, an excerpt from one dated 1949, range over all life and abound with the simple urbane wisdom that was so characteristic of Fr. Hughson's discourses. His old friends will see him recreated in these pages; those who knew him not will find a new strength in the words of these letters.

But whatever books of devotion we read we must return from time to time to the Gospel itself. A few years ago the question on every lip was "Have you read Letters to Young Churches?" This was a new translation of Epistles by a young English parson, the Rev. J. B. Phillips. Here was a translation that made "Paul and the others speak to us in the sort of language that they would certainly use if they were with us in the flesh." Now Mr. Phillips has done the same thing for The Gospels (New York, Macmillan $2.75). In this translation Mr. Phillips has attempted "to translate the Greek text as one would translate any other document from a foreign language, with the same conscientiousness but also with the same freedom in conveying, as far as possible, the meaning and style of the original writer."

In carrying out this purpose Mr. Phillips has produced a superbly readable version of the Gospels – not a version to be used in the Church's services but a version for study and devotion to find new spiritual meanings in words the familiarity of which has often dulled their full significance. The translator has prefaced each chapter with helpful notes and

by Chad Walsh

ILLUSTRATED BY JACQUELINE JACKSON

We take pleasure in announcing the publication of a book that represents a new approach to Confirmation instruction. We venture to predict that it will revolutionize the method of instruction in many parishes.

The Rev. Chad Walsh is recognized as one of the foremost writers for adults of the Church. In KNOCK and ENTER he turns his attention to the Church's children, and combines entertaining reading with sound Church teaching. The illustrations by Jacqueline Jackson are delightful, and give a candid view of life in and around the church and the rectory.

KNOCK and ENTER will serve so many different purposes that it is being published in two editions – a cloth-bound one, for gift use and general reading, and a paper-bound one, for actual Confirmation instruction.

cated to God and through which, when accepted and made holy by Him, He can work in the world. Thus His real presence is vouchsafed to us through the very oblations which we have offered. Quietly preparing the oblations during the anthem and then noisily bringing up the alms gets this out of balance; thus, in common with many parishes these days, at the Cathedral lay people bring the oblations from a credence table in the nave, following the ushers with the alms. We raise at the altar – in full view of the people – alms, bread and wine, complying with the rubric which requires this order of offering, all during the anthem – which the rubric says is to be sung "when the alms and oblations are being received and presented".

5. WE REMAIN STANDING FOR THE PRAYER FOR THE CHURCH. What we offer is not a perfect offering: the lives we offer are inadequate, broken and needful; so our prayers for the completing and mending of life are joined with the offering in the Prayer for the Church, as the Prayer Book really intends: "We humbly beseech thee most mercifully to accept our alms and oblations, and these our prayers, which we offer unto Thy Divine Majesty". Since this is the completing of the offertory, not just another prayer, we remain standing for it, with the servers and assistant ministers surrounding the altar and the laymen remaining at the common rail. At the end of it the participants resume their places and all kneel for the Confession at the words "devoutly kneeling", which are thus restored to meaning.

It is refreshing that these changes have nothing to do with "high" or "low", but are simply an attempt to carry out the full implications of the Book of Common Prayer and the theology of worship underlining it.

We are happy to be at one in these practices with our sister cathedrals in Washington and Newark, with our neighbor, St. Paul's Chapel of Columbia University – and with an increasing number of parishes throughout the land.

"We Shall Build On"

In January, 1932, the Rector—the Reverend Clifford Gregg—died and was succeeded by the Reverend Edward Tower Theopold (now Rector of St. Simeon's Church, Bronx) who, incidentally, was ordained to the priesthood in the church on December 11, 1932, by the Right Reverend Arthur S. Lloyd, Suffragan Bishop of New York.

But again came problems and stress. During the Cure of Fr. Theopold great changes took place in the neighborhood. Many parishioners, following inevitable population trends, moved into Westchester County, Long Island, and New Jersey. At the Bishop's request Fr. Theopold added to his responsibilities by accepting appointment as Vicar of the Emmanuel Chapel on Cortland Avenue, a mission of the Diocese.

The mission grew rapidly and soon it became evident that it must move its location. In the meanwhile the rector at St. Simeon's had retired, and it appeared that a merger of this parish with Emmanuel Chapel would strengthen the Church in this area.

Consequently the members of the mission transferred to St. Simeon's; the mission was closed, and Fr. Theopold was called to St. Simeon's as Rector.

Before long the great influx of new people into the parish of Trinity made it impossible for one priest to serve the two parishes adequately, and the burden of his duties had begun to undermine the Rector's health. Fr. Theopold resigned as rector of Trinity and the Reverend Wendall C. Roberts, who had recently come to the Diocese from Jamaica, B.W.I., was appointed priest-in-charge by the Bishop. A new vestry was elected and in the short span of about six months the parish repaid its indebtness to the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extension Society which had aided it over its critical period, and Fr. Roberts was called as Rector in May, 1951.

The great influx of people into the area continued, taxing the housing available and resulting in an immediate growth of the parish. The Rector and Vestry hardly had time to consider improvements to the parish buildings when it was announced that the City Housing Authorities planned to erect a large development to be known as Forest Houses, which would mean the condemnation of Trinity Church.

The Vestry sought the aid of the Bishop, who requested the Suffragan Bishop and the Treasurer of The Missionary Society to intercede on behalf of the parish. After long negotiation, agreement was obtained to exclude the church from the site of the development. The cooperation and assistance of the State Housing Commissioner, the New York Housing Authorities, City Planning Commission, the President of the Borough of The Bronx, and the devotion of the New York City Mission Society made the agreement possible.

Today, Trinity Church, Morrisania, stands amid the leveled ground and rubble of many blocks soon to be occupied by Forest Houses. It looks as if it were standing in the kind of bombed-out area to be found in Europe. BUT – in all this turmoil Trinity, Morrisania has lost only one parishioner, by transfer to Long Island. On the other hand it has gained, in the last year, 62 new parishioners by transfer from other parishes, and 40 persons additionally by confirmation. Today, Trinity, Morrisania has a membership of 731. The Rector, the Vestry, and the congregation is preparing for the influx of still more people because of the new housing development on its doorstep. They are planning to raise a sizeable sum of money to meet this challenge, to be expended on the enlargement and beautification of the church and the strengthening of the fabric of the building – and the strengthening of the fabric of its congregation for the new task – and their faith is reflected in Studdart Kennedy's famous line, "We shall build on . . . "

As The Twig Is Bent

Close to 200 people were present at the 42nd Annual Meeting of Youth Consultation Service held at the Community House of St. Bartholomew's Church on February 19th.

The following officers were elected: The Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., S.T.D., Honorary President; The Rt. Rev. Charles F. Boynton, D.D., S.T.D., Honorary Vice-President; George W. Van Slyck, President; Mrs. William C. Dickey, First Vice-President; Ludlow Bull, Ph.D., Second Vice-President; Robert A. West, Treasurer; Mrs. James J. Pilliod, Secretary; Byron G. Clark, Assistant Secretary.

The Reverend Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., gave the invocation. Following reports by the President, Treasurer, and the Executive Director (Mrs. Leonard E. Hoag), the Reverend Otis R. Rice discussed the contributions of Psychiatry to pastoral counselling. The Bishop of New York, Honorary President of the Agency, gave the benediction.

The Annual Report, distributed at the meeting, records that in 1952 throughout the three offices of the agency – located in Manhattan, the Bronx, and White Plains – 850 girls were helped with their problems about school, family conflict, religion, unmarried motherhood, or vocational difficulties. While the majority were drawn from Greater New York, many came from other parts of the United States. It is of interest that a large proportion came from families above the lower income brackets, many from an educational level of college. 50% came with problems stemming from personality difficulties or conflict with school or family. 47% were from broken homes, a sad commentary on life today.

Each year the Agency succeeds in reaching more very young adolescents and last year ⅓ of the clients were under 16 years of age. These bewildered adolescents came at the suggestion of teachers or guidance counsellers at shcool, a relative who was concerned, a probation officer, clergy, hospital clinic worker, or another social agency. Many heard of the Agency through friends, or publicity in periodicals and the daily press. During the year 46 churches, 24 schools, 42 private organizations, and 18 public agencies referred girls.

The Agency continues to give special help to the unmarried mother. It plans with her for her shelter, pre-and-postnatal and maternity care and confinement, and for her own and her baby's future, including adoption when desireable. Last year 170 mothers were under extended care and 89 babies were planned for. 42 babies were surrendered for adoption, 7 were placed in boarding homes, and 40 were kept by their mother or close relative.

However statistics may indicate the extent of help given, they do not express the feeling of an unmarried mother such as Gloria, who told her case worker: "Now I know there is hope, I feel I can go on."

They do not explain as well as did Jenny, a near delinquent, when she said, "Now that I know my mother really loves me, I feel like minding."

"You helped my sister so much, I thought maybe you could help me," was the way Ann made application.

"Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined." It is our task and purpose to help these young girls who are out of step with life to build for themselves a useful place in the community.

Youth Consultation Service looks forward to 1953 in the hope that its service to the adolescent between the ages of 14 and 25 may become better known to the Clergy of the Diocese, thereby increasing its usefulness. Youth Consultation Service takes this opportunity to thank Trinity Church for so generously giving it the use of its former rectory for its Central Office at 27 west 25th Street. It also wishes to express its gratitude to the many contributors who have made the work possible, many of whom gave generously of their time and thought to the undertakings of the Agency. But it does need more support and help in order to move into new areas of service, as well as to sustain fully its present services.

The Church and The City

Commuter colleges also have commuter faculties. Professors in institutions such as The College of the City of New York, Hunter College and New York University may live at great distances and be subject to the same commuter struggle as their students. In their local parishes such professors may have an active church life and assume responsibilities of leadership, but in their teaching and college community life they may never know each other as concerned Episcopalians.

What is the Church to do about these commuter students and commuter faculty people? What kind of a ministry can reach these people whose time and energies are so divided between college and home, between the Church in college and the Church in the home parish?

Essentially the problem of the commuter student or faculty member is the problem of the commuter of any category. His life is split. He lives out his family and social life in one situation and his vocational life in another. The Church which seeks to minister to the whole man is hard put to it to become a living part of both sides of the commuter's life. Yet, this is exactly the responsibility the Church must assume. It must find the vocational relevance of the Gospel where the work is being done.

How can this kind of relevance be achieved with the Christian student and professor within the teeming life of a city college? The Church must be at the center of these complex situations with a living ministry that includes the following action:

1. The bringing of Episcopalians together to know each other as members of the Church in the midst of the impersonal commuter college.
2. The teaching of the Faith of the Church.
3. The examination of the assumptions of the various academic disciplines in the light of the teaching of the Church.
4. The asking of questions by Churchmen and inquirers.
5. The counselling of individual students as they face personal questions and anxieties in their lives as Christians.
6. A missionary effort to open the whole climate of opinion in the college to the insights of the Christian point of view.
7. The offering of a true community Eucharist regularly within the life of the college.

gram of deaconess training by opening "Grace House Training School" on East Twelfth Street. Because his was a venture of faith, Dr. Huntington named the building that housed his school "St. Faith's House".

The Grace House Training School for Deaconesses proved so satisfactory that the following year, 1891, the school was organized as an independent institution and incorporated as "The New York Training School for Deaconesses".

The newly incorporated school thrived. Nineteen years later the name "St. Faith's House" was transferred to the school's new and larger home in the Cathedral Close, the gift of the then Archdeacon Tiffany in memory of his wife.

Designed to prepare candidates for the Deaconess Order, the New York Training School accepted also students who wished to train for work in the Church but who did not feel called to the life-service of the deaconess vocation. The course of study was based on the requirements of the Canon (#51, sec. 4). Also in conformity with the Canon was the granting of the school diploma only after the requirement "of at least nine months of field work under competent supervision had been satisfactorily met."

Dr. Huntington always insisted that the Training School he founded was a school for the whole Church. In this the School has been eminently successful. "St. Faith's" graduates are actively serving the Church in a variety of fields and over wide areas: as Deaconesses; as missionaries at home and overseas; as parish and diocesan workers; and as teachers and heads of institutions.

When in 1948 St. Faith's House became "Diocesan House", the Trustees of the New York Training School for Deaconesses suspended the operation of the School as a staffed institution. However, the active concern to forward the purpose of the School is being continued in the program set up to make scholarship grants available to aid qualified women who wish to prepare for the Deaconess life and work, or to train for Church work at recognized training schools.

There Is No Ready Solution

"THIS IS JUST a line to let you know that I am nicely settled and very happy," wrote Mrs. Clark in a letter addressed to The Episcopal Service to the Aged. "I feel as though I'd come home at last and I can never thank you enough for what you've done."

This letter is typical of many which have been received by The Service to the Aged in the less than three years of its existence. During this time more than 400 elderly men and women have brought their problems to us and in almost every case have expressed appreciation for the help offered by the Diocese.

Few people have seemed more alone than Mrs. Clark who came in at the suggestion of her rector to whom she had turned after the death of her husband. Mr. Clark had been an invalid for ten years, and during that time Mrs. Clark had cared for him constantly. Savings which had been substantial at the onset of his illness steadily diminished until there was less than $1000 left after funeral expenses were paid. There were no relatives and no close friends. Physically and emotionally Mrs. Clark was exhausted, and yet the days seemed so endless and she was so concerned about finances that her initial request was that we help her secure work.

Several interviews were necessary before Mrs. Clark could accept the fact that what she must have first of all was a complete rest and that financial help would be needed to make this possible. Old Age Assistance was explained to her, and she was helped to secure the necessary documents. When she finally applied for it everything went smoothly, and relief was given without delay.

Now that Mrs. Clark's physical needs were taken care of, it was time to think of new interests for her so that the days would not seem so long. Fortunately, one of the Department of Welfare Day Centers for Older People was located not far from her home. Because after so many years of staying closely at home Mrs. Clark was timid about trying something new, we accompanied her to the Center the first time. The workers there had been alerted and welcomed her cordially. She immediately found herself a part of the group, and later when an opportunity for a two weeks' holiday at camp was given her she accepted readily and had a wonderful time.

After her return from camp Mrs. Clark tried again to work and was able to secure occasional odd jobs. The long years of caring for Mr. Clark, however, had taken their toll, and she found it more and more difficult not only to work but to go to the Center and even to do her marketing and cooking. She finally decided that the time had come for her to enter a Home. She was very fortunate. Most Homes have long waiting lists, but the interviews with Mrs. Clark had brought out facts which made her acceptable to one Home which, because of its highly specialized eligibility requirements, even had occasional vacancies. Mrs. Clark made her application and was admitted in less than a month. The letter already quoted arrived at our office ten days later.

Obviously not all problems can be as happily resolved as those of Mrs. Clark. Lack of resources for the care of older people is the greatest problem we have to face. Homes have waiting lists, hospitals are crowded, private boarding and nursing homes are expensive. We cannot, therefore, offer a ready-made solution to all situations, but at the same time it is often helpful to people to know just what they can and cannot expect of the community. Miss Ellis, for instance, had always expected to enter a particular Home when she became too old to work. Without inquiry into the situation which existed in the Home or its eligibility requirements, Miss Ellis had considered no alternative plans until the day she came to the office of The Service to the Aged to refer a friend. In the course of the discussion the general situation regarding Homes was explained to her and for the first time she began to think along more constructive lines. Only recently she telephoned to say that she was making plans for her old age on a much more realistic basis.

Many people who come to ESA have been referred by the clergy, but there are many others who ought to have been but were not. In one week, for example, we had appointments with three elderly people, each of whom had first turned to his rector and been referred to other organizations. It was these other organizations who recognized the problems as falling within our province and referred the people to the Service. In one instance an old lady had been given the names of several organizations by her rector and had dutifully and at considerable physical effort called at every one.

Sometimes the unnecessary effort is expended not by the old people but by the clergy themselves. A few weeks ago the rector of one of our churches called us almost apologetically to refer to one of his parishioners. He explained that he had tried to help by telephoning various homes for the aged to find out which ones his parishioner might be eligible for. He had spent considerable time at this task without finding even a possible place for his friend. We cannot stress too strongly the fact that The Service to the Aged has been established by the Diocese in order to help the clergy and their older parishioners in every possible way. It is earnestly hoped that the clergy will at no time hesitate to ask for information about resources or to refer people to us.

Report of the Chaplain of Youth Consultation Service

THE BY-LAWS OF YCS provide that one of the officers of the Board be a Chaplain, but the By-Laws — oddly enough — state no duties for him! This must not be taken to mean that the Chaplain has nothing to do, for it is obvious that he is to further the spiritual purposes that are ours by our Charter: "The recovery and restoration of those in need by the Church's Faith and Ministry." The concern of the Chaplain is therefore the spiritualities in our work and the spiritual aspects of our work. He serves therefore as, not only an officer of the Board, but as Chaplain to the staff in their worship in the educational program in connection with the by-weekly staff meetings, and also as religious consultant for staff members on the religious aspects of clients' problems and consultant for clients whose problems indicate referral to him. These are the duties of the Chaplain on the one day a week he is to devote to this work.

This year I mean to read you a sermon — with, however, a different purpose than if I were preaching you this sermon.

I present this sermon then as a sort of window through which you may see this side of our life here, and perhaps it may serve to answer several questions that from time to time occur to you:

How can a staff, whose hourly concerns are the baffling and absorbing problems of youth, see these problems in perspective — and in a perspective that is both scientific and religious?

How can a staff of trained workers see beyond the standards their profession sets for their work to sense its meaning as their particular "vocation and ministry (where) they may truly and godly serve" Him Who calls them to it?

And here also, there may be some answer to the question, just what is the spirit of our staff? It is true of course that every preacher tries to "speak to the condition" of his hearers; and, sadly enough but obviously enough, it is equally true that he fails in this more often than not. But let this sermon stand as statement of my conviction about our work and the spirit in which it should be done; and let it stand as statement of my conviction that this manner of address is proper address to what I am sure is the heart and mind of our staff in their devotion to their work and in the work of their devotion to God.

THE CHAPLAIN'S SERMON

"We meet here to inaugurate a new year of our work together in a social service for others in the name of Christ and of His Church. It seems fitting, therefore, that we begin before God's Altar. Here we wait upon Him, open ourselves to Him, dedicate our gifts, our knowledge, our skills to Him, even as we offer the bread and wine and ourselves to Him, asking "that by the indwelling of His Holy Spirit we may be enlightened and strengthened" for a service that is His service.

"Yet at this moment here in this Chapel our minds and hearts naturally go out to our colleagues, case workers in other agencies, some of whom are perhaps starting in new positions there, as some of us are here, and who also are all starting a new season as we all are here. And we cannot but notice that they are under no such auspices as we here take this morning, as we here celebrate to inaugurate our work. We may, therefore, be somewhat embarrassed at the extra holiness that, as it were, attaches to a Church agency.

"For they say, as do we, that social work is based on democratic principles: first, to recognize and to help realize the dignity and integrity of the person; and second, to increase and to enable one's social unity with others. This philosophy of social work is thought by many to be far from anything religious, and sometimes it seems so to us. But some of our colleagues see that these democratic principles are rooted in a Christian apprehension of life. They see social unity as another name for the brotherhood of man, something that can only be fully known when it is known in relation to Him Who is the God and Father of us all. They see the dignity of the person to be another statement of what a Christian phrase puts as "the infinite worth of the individual" or, if this emphasis upon the individual seems now too much a part of an outgrown 19th century, they may think, as do we, of the prayer at the blessing of the water when the Chalice is mixed, "O God, Who didst so wonderfully create and still more wonderfully renew the dignity of the nature of man, grant that by the mystery of this water and wine, we may be partakers of His Divinity who for our sake became partaker of humanity."

"It is therefore with this understanding of social work, of theirs and of ours, that we here in this Chapel today renew our apprehension of these deep Christian truths which stand behind the democratic principles that all Americans talk about and mean to live by. Or, to put it another way, here we make explicit that what we do in all our work is done not only for the client's sake, not only for the community's sake, but finally for God's sake.

"We may see the meaning of this if we take two examples that are not quite so close to home as casework: medicine and education. The question is, "What is medicine for?" Most obviously it seems to be for the patient's sake. When I am sick, I want medicine to assuage my pain and give me comfort, to strengthen me to return to the world so that I may get on with my affairs. But the question remains whether my affairs are good or evil. Whichever may be said of them, at the best certainly they are but mine own affairs, petty affairs. People realizing this

*At a meeting held on invitation of Bishop Donegan (second left) some 23 Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox, and Jewish leaders launched an inter-creedal movement "for quickening and sustaining public morality in New York City". sometimes say that medicine is not for the patient's sake but the community's sake, for the well-being of society. But if this be all that is said, it is hard to see why physicians should not always be willing – as many Nazi physicians came to be willing – to sacrifice the maimed, the halt and the blind for the welfare of the total state. Actually most physicians would say neither of these things but speak of their work as dealing with that which concerns both the individual patient and also the community. Medicine exists for health's sake, they would say, and yet, this seems a very abstract and impersonal goal except when there remain in it more than an echo of the original meaning of the word "health". For the word "to heal" comes in our language, as in all languages of the Indo-European tradition, from the same root as the words "to be holy" and "to be whole". "Thy faith hath made thee whole", the New Testament puts it. Health is participation in that unity, that wholeness of soul, body and mind as it is lifted to unity with Him Who is the Holy One. It is for this reason that there exist church hospitals, houses of healing that are under openly religious dedication. It often is the case in such hospitals, as in St. Luke's Hospital, that there is a Chapel at the front door; and this is the place of our Chapel here, and for the same reason. Upon entering the place where one is to be healed, this is first seen to let one know that at its deepest level to be healed means to participate in the Divine Holiness. Likewise the Presbyterian Hospital in the city here has inscribed in letters of stone over the door the text from Apocrypha, "Of the Most High cometh healing." Medicine is not only for the patient's sake only, nor for the community's sake only; most deeply, it is for the sake of the God Who, saying to us, "All hail," imparts to us haleness and wholeness and holiness.

"Or again, "What is education for?" In this century of the child, it is frequently said that education is a communication of truth for the student's sake. Truth is communicated to me for my development, one may say. Yet child-centered education leaves the question whether one develop, whether every isolated individual develop, for the purposes of anarchy in isolation, one from another, or for purposes of tyranny, one over another. Seeing this question, many observers now speak of community-centered education. Truths are communicated to us for the sake of us all, for the whole community, for the nation or perhaps even for all nations. But this answer still leaves the problem of how we are to distinguish between truth and propaganda. The problem comes up most clearly in Soviet countries where we readily see that propaganda goes under the name of education. We know it to be wrong because it contradicts truths in which we see hope of our national use for international welfare. Yet, if truth is supposed to be only what is to be used for the welfare even of all peoples, it may still be asked whether this is the whole truth, genuine truth, truth as it is in itself. Or is this truth only as man takes it and turns it and perhaps twists it for his own widest but perhaps passing benefit? The deepest concern of education is, therefore, not truth as it is for me or even for us all, but truth as it is in itself, God's truth, over and above the individual and any and all communities – in which nevertheless we participate for our great good and for His great glory. It is for this reason that the phrase in the Prayer Book about education, "God, the Fountain of all wisdom" is an apprehension of truth that must be made a living reality within every process of education. This is why there must be teachers who teach with a sense of the Divine. Education is not only for the student's sake, nor certainly only for the state's sake, but finally for God's sake.

"We do not, therefore, offer any final worship to Athena, the goddess of wisdom, nor to Aesculapius, the lord of medicine. Likewise we do not give any final worship to Kwan-yin nor to any other goddess of mercy, but only to Him Who is God of gods and Lord of lords, Who came not to be ministered unto but to minister.

"This then is how our service can be His service. For what we do is not only for the client's sake, not only for the community's sake, but finally and most deeply for God's sake. This then is the program and the philosophy of our work in the agency, what we do, and why we do it; and this is the spirit in which we do it. Our Common Prayer here in the Chapel is that by His Spirit all our work may be begun, continued and ended in Him. We therefore might well take as our text for all our work the prayer which we pray here "that by the indwelling of Thy Holy Spirit we may be enlightened and strengthened for Thy service."

The Convention is the legislative body of the Diocese consisting of all canonically qualified clergymen and delegates from parishes in union with Convention and aided parishes and organized missions.

At the Convention in May 1952 the structure for performing the missionary work of the Diocese was reorganized by the adoption of Canons establishing The Council of the Diocese of New York. At the Special Convention last October, 5 Clerical and 5 Lay Members were elected to this Council and immediately thereafter 5 additional Members were appointed by the Bishop. The new Council has been in operation since the first of the year and will make its first report at the coming Convention.

Like Many Churches Across The Land

Grace Church, Middletown, has experienced joys and sorrows, pain and progress

HIGH ABOVE the rooftops in the heart of Middletown's shopping district stands the glistening Cross upon the spire of Grace Church. In location and general appearance Grace Church is similar to many other churches in cities and towns across the land. It is similar, too, in that during the more than 100 years that have passed since its incorporation as a parish, its people have experienced both joys and sorrows, pain and progress, frustration and hope.

Services according to the Book of Common Prayer were first held in Middletown in 1843. Clergy from the neighboring parishes in Newburgh, Walden and Goshen officiated here before the first Rector was called two years later. In that year, 1845, land was purchased for a church edifice, and construction was begun the following year. The work was completed in 1847 and the cost — $6,500. The new church was consecrated in 1848 by Bishop De Lancey of Western New York.

The parish must have grown slowly, for by 1856 there were only 25 communicants. But as the town increased in population, the Church increased in communicants. and by 1866 there were 134 communicants, and by 1869, 400 communicants. The two transepts and the spire were added about this time. In 1912 a large parish house was added behind the church for educational and social functions. For many years the parish carried a large debt, but at present it is free of debt.

During the years since 1845, the

Who Are You At Night?

SCATTERED IN every District of our Diocese are close to two hundred Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary. The majority of these hold their meetings and activities in the daytime because that is the free time of the women who make up these Branches. However, there are many interested Church women who are not free in the daytime, either because they are business women or are mothers of young children. Some of these women are gathered in Evening Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary. These too are scattered in all Districts of our Diocese. Because the greatest concentration of these is in Manhattan, they have long been established in their organization there. Miss Katharine B. Southmayd is Chairman of Evening Branches of Manhattan and contributes the following description of them which is fairly typical of all Evening Branches.

Evening Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary! To some, that is a frightening title, to others, it is dull! But many recognize in it their opportunity to serve their Lord and their Church, a golden opportunity to help spread the Gospel far and wide.

The ones who shie away, sometimes, from joining an Evening Branch are just the ones we need, the young women. Sometimes it is said that Evening Branches are made up of "old fogies". That may be true in some instances, but it need not be so. In the District of Manhattan there are far too few Evening Branches but those few, seventeen active Branches, do a tremendous amount of work and their influence is felt, not only in the District but in the Diocese. They do a great deal of Supply work, their United Thank Offering last year amounted to over one thousand dollars. Every Department of the Auxiliary is represented in the Evening Branches.

In every Parish in Manhattan there are business women who cannot take their part in the active life of the Parish because they are not free during the day. The Evening Branch is for them, also for mothers

In a colourful and traditional service on Easter morning at the 11 o'clock Procession, Holy Communion and Sermon. Reading from top to bottom:—

The Bishop comes out of his house to approach the Great Portals of the Cathedral Church, and In Traditional manner he knocks on the Great Portals with his pastoral staff.

Passing through the opened doors he joins the Procession gathered in the Narthex, and there blesses the State Trumpets, the Memorial Banners of St. George, St. David, St. Patrick, St. Andrew, and the Banner of the Bishop of New York.

The Procession then turns east, down the nave of the Cathedral, and upon the choristers reaching the Great Choir there is sung the Dedicatory Introit, written especially for the Trumpets by Norman Coke-Jephcott, with words selected by Canon Edward H. West, D.D. Sacrist, and Dedicated to The Right Reverend Horace W. B. Donegan, the Episcopal Bishop of New York.

The Bishop's Message

Christ Is Risen!

THE FESTIVAL of Easter commemorates the most thrilling fact in sacred scripture. Christ is Risen! Jesus Who died on the cross is alive! Sin and the grave are overcome. And because our Redeemer lives we know that those who believe in Him will not perish but have everlasting life.

Easter made all the difference to the early disciples. After the tragedy of Good Friday they ran away in fear and disillusionment. Their radiant hopes were shattered — all seemed lost. They had faithfully followed their Master but when disaster came they forsook Him and fled. It was not until the disciples came face to face with their Risen Lord that they were ready to suffer and, if need be, to die for their faith, fearlessly preaching "Christ that died, yea, rather that is risen again."

The crucifixion made it seem that God had forsaken His well-beloved Son. The resurrection was God's answer to the cry from the cross, "why hast Thou forsaken Me?" It was God's personal and triumphant vindication of Jesus. Behind the resurrection stands the God Who was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself.

By raising Jesus Christ from the dead God gave the pledge of eternal life to all who believe in His only-begotten Son, and the assurance of victory over pain, suffering, and death to all who put their trust in Him.

As we link our lives with Christ through faith we can share His triumph. But as Archbishop Temple reminded us, our share in Christ's victory always depends upon our readiness to share His endurance of life's trials and tribulations. We are as St. Paul says, "joint heirs with Christ if so be that we suffer with Him that we may be also glorified together."

"If we endure with Him, we shall reign with Him,
If we die with Him, we shall live with Him,
If we deny Him, He will deny us."

Through our worship, and through the Holy Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ, may God grant us this Eastertide such a vivid awareness of our Risen Lord that we will steadfastly endure all things for His sake, and for the good of the Church, His mystical Body on earth, which is the blessed company of all faithful people.

The Lord is risen indeed! Let us keep the feast, "not with old leaven neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness, but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth."

Your Bishop Counts On You For Your Help On May 3, 1953

Missionary giving in the Diocese of New York is not going forward. Based on current pledges made by the parishes and missions of the Diocese, this year's giving will be

- far below the Diocesan quota
- below the levels attained during the past 3 years
- so low that if the level of giving is not substantially increased, drastic curtailments in the missionary services performed by our Diocese will be forced upon us.

The missionary progress of our Church is very much a part of our Lord's command: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

The City Mission Society will require $41,124 merely to maintain its services at last year's level! The Diocese helps support the Society's chaplaincy service in 39 hospitals and other city, county, and state institutions. Last year these chaplains ministered to 26,695 patients, conducted some 5,255 religious services—all on a budget of $125,000 of which only $84,000 was contributed by city, state, or other sources.

The Seamen's Church Institute will need $39,994 this year to conduct its religious work, including chaplains' salaries and maintenance. In these days of waterfront corruption, the Church can make its witness.

The Youth Consultation Service needs $23,640 to continue its expanding work, which in 1952 reached and served 822 girls in distress and need.

The Episcopal Service to the Aged will need $10,591 to support the ever increasing demands on this agency which last year served 122 parishes and missions in the Diocese.

The Diocesan Council, after making a downward revision of the budget has announced that $61,369 is the amount now lacking for full support of the departments of the Council and the four agencies named above.

Moreover:

The National Church will get $141,829 less from New York in 1953 than our Diocese was asked to give—because of inadequate pledges received from parishes and missions. What's more, our contribution to the National Council will still be $28,567 less than 1952!

What are we going to do?

The Bishop asks us to go the second mile and to contribute to the 1953 Bishop's Offering for missionary work in our own Diocese

And For

The Diocese of New York's contribution to the Church's national budget. He asks our help through a special offering on May 3, 1953, the Fourth Sunday after Easter. Give through your parish or send directly to The Right Revd. Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., Synod House, Cathedral Heights, New York City 25.

The goal? We actually need $203,198.

The measure? Our Lord reminded us all—laymen and clergy alike: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Like many churches

following men have served as Rectors — the Reverend Messieurs G. W. Timlow, 1845-1851; J. Sheldon Spencer, 1851-1854; P. Teller Babbit, 1854-1862; Alexander Capron, 1862-1877; George D. Silliman, 1877-1882; Pascal Harrower, 1882-1884; William McGlathery, 1884-1889; Charles Scadding, 1890-1891; David J. Evans, 1891-1904; Francis S. Smithers, 1904-1918; Maxwell W. Rice, 1919; Henry E. Batcheller, 1920-1922; Roman L. Harding, 1922-1933; Harold L. Andress, 1933-1942; E. Spencer Gilley, 1943-1951; Herbert M. Barrall, 1952—.

As in every parish family, with the passing of years and with changing conditions, "new occasions teach new duties." The parish has had many Rectors, each different from every other, but each making his distinctive contribution. No parish is without problems, real or imagined. Nor should it be our dream to make of a parish a problemless machine isolated from a very troubled world. The words of Dr. Elton Trueblood remind us that "what we seek is the emergence of the true Church, the company of loving souls exhibiting the mind of Christ . . ." and that "our fondest hope is that our own modest experiments may facilitate the emergence of this sacred fellowship." (From "Alternative to Futility".)

Since it is the function of the parish church to be the instrument by which God in Word and Sacrament confronts sinful men with the saving Gospel of Jesus Christ, the question before us in the parish is: How can we best cooperate with God, and use what we have to bring men to the foot of the Cross where they will become reconciled to God and to each other? Our tools in the parish ministry are Bible, Prayer Book, church building, water, bread, wine, parish house, music, etc. But these are mere helps at best. They are "dry bones" that by God's indwelling Spirit must be made to live and to give life.

Our "modest experiments" are not original. First, we are trying to make our corporate worship as beautiful, as straightforward, and as meaningful as possible. A family service at 9:30 allows whole families to come to church together and to go home together. We often have public baptisms during this service. While children are in class, an Adult Bible Class is held for parents. Coffee is served in the parish house before the 11 o'clock service, not only for the refreshment it offers, but primarily for the opportunity it provides for strangers to become acquainted. A Christian Education Committee meets regularly and plans ways and means to educate people of all ages in the Christian Faith. When we broadcast our service of Holy Communion over the local station, one of our laymen reads a carefully prepared script, narrating the service. To further the interest of our own people, we send out a Parish News Letter about every month, full of news about the parish, the Convocation and the Diocese. Volunteers seem to enjoy working on this and sending it to the 475 families on our mailing list. We mimeograph minutes of meetings of the Vestry and other organizations and send these to all members of that group. This keeps people informed and removes doubt as to what transpired at the meeting. Opportunity to work for the Church is also given the men in a program of painting and cleaning the parish house, while the women have already begun to work for the Annual Bazaar to be held next October. Women's organizations include the Auxiliary, St. Mary's Guild, St. Martha's Altar Guild, and the Guild of the Holy Comforter. Special concern is shown for the sick and shut-ins of the parish, who are very many.

We have three choirs with about 20 voices each, under the able direction of Miss Marilyn Barr. About a dozen boys serve faithfully as acolytes. Activities for young people are being studied with a view toward organization along functionally planned programs in the future.

Within recent years three men from Grace Church have gone into the ministry: The Rev. Frank R. Wilson, Assistant Minister, St. John's Church, Lafayette, Washington, D.C.; The Rev. Douglas B. Northrop, Rector, All Saints' Church, Tacoma, Washington; The Rev. Herald C. Swezey, Church of the Ascension, West Park, New York.

We had an interesting Annual Meeting recently when Archdeacon Brätt was our guest speaker. It was strictly informal; everyone brought his own "covered dish and table service" and following the example of the Early Church, all food was placed on a common table and shared by all. Mimeographed reports were presented to everyone present, containing details of all activities and finances for the year. Three new Vestrymen were elected from five names presented. People stayed away because they thought Annual Meetings are always dull — and I suppose some stay home from Church on Sunday mornings for the same reason, but part of our task in the parish ministry is to "stir up" the wills of our people, and to help them change their minds from indifference to action.

So this in brief is the story of Grace Church, Middletown, not unlike many another parish. I like to recall the words attributed to the late Billy Sunday, "The Episcopal Church is a sleeping giant, but watch out when the giant wakes up!"

With humble pride in the past, and with confidence in God's continuing help for the future, we sing the familiar hymn —

"And when the strife is fierce, the warfare long,
Steals on the ear the distant triumph song,
And hearts are brave again and arms are strong."

THE MANHATTAN CONVOCATION

The Convocation of Manhattan boasts more than fifty parishes and missions ranging in size from SAINT PHILIP'S CHURCH West 133rd Street, the largest parish in the entire Church, to small missions. It has been felt that two correspondents could cover the varied activities of the Convocation far better than one. To that intent, the Reverend John H. Edwards, Vicar of SAINT LUKE'S CHURCH, Saint Martin's Parish, Convent Avenue, has consented to serve as a second correspondent. News and information may be sent either to him or to the Reverend James H. Morgan.

THE CHURCH OF SAINT MATTHEW AND SAINT TIMOTHY, West 84th Street, held one of its most successful parish dinners recently. The proceeds amounted to almost $323.00, and 190 dinners were served. Mr. and Mrs. Xenakis cooked the dinner, and a volunteer group undertook the serving. The Rector, the Reverend Frederick Burgess, reports that it was a very pleasant occasion in the parish life.

SAINT STEPHEN'S CHURCH, West 69th Street, reports that the offering taken in that Parish for Theological Education Sunday amounted this year to $385.35. The money was sent to the General Theological Seminary.

The Junior Auxiliary of HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, Inwood, has provided a projector and screen for use with the religious pictures at the Wednesday afternoon services held during Lent. In addition, they are paying half of the cost of the shades for the Parish Hall. This same Parish has reason to be proud of its basketball team in the Junior League. As of recent date, this team was leading its league of the Episcopal Basketball League. Mr. William Brewer is responsible for the splendid showing of the team.

Following the lead given many years ago by the Reverend Dr. William A. Muhlenberg, THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY COMMUNION, West 20th Street, is planning gradually to develop a center for research and application in the sociology and psychology of Religion. This will utilize and develop the parish resources and in time benefit those far beyond the parish itself.

There will be a Rally for the Young People of the Manhattan Convocation at SAINT PHILIP'S CHURCH, West 133rd Street, on Youth Sunday, April 26th, at 4:00 o'clock. The Rector of this Church has been sending out letters to the people of the parish who might like

"Is Dullness the Sin Against the Holy Spirit?"
by Ursula M. Niebuhr

"THAT IS THE SIN against the Holy Spirit? The New Testament describes it as the unforgivable sin. "Whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit never has forgiveness, but is guilty of an eternal sin," so the saying of Our Lord is recorded in the Gospel of Mark. The early disciples, the later writers of the New Testament, the Fathers and theologians of the Church at different times and on different occasions have tried to explain and define what it is. The rules of the early Church, and the later development of moral theology reflect the weight and importance attached to "the great offence", as the Psalms describe it, or of "the sin into death" as it is called in the Epistle of the Hebrews.

Often it was regarded as one or other of the three deadly sins. Perhaps it was apostasy,—betrayal of Christ, the sin of Judas and of all those who for the price of safety or success barter their witness of faith. Perhaps it was murder, the sin of Cain who destroyed not only his brother but also the very reason of human existence, for God has created us to be brothers, and without brotherly love, life cannot exist. Or perhaps it was adultery, which, like murder, like apostasy, is betrayal. A relationship of love and truth is destroyed, so that the purposes of God in nature and for His realm of creation and freedom are thereby also destroyed. "From the beginning of creation, God made them male and female. . . . and the twain shall become one flesh."

It is easy to see why any or all of these are sins against the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit in the words of the creed is "the Lord and Giver of life". Each of these sins destroys life; apostasy, murder, adultery all cut at the life-blood of the relationship of faith to Christ, or to the brother or to the other self of marriage. Thus apostasy and adultery are murder of a kind, a relationship possible and actual between man and God, man and woman, man and man is destroyed. So that these sins are acts which blaspheme against the Holy Spirit, and contradict the very purposes of life as ordained by God and shown forth in His Word and by the life, death and person of Christ. That is why Our Lord describes hate as murder, and also why love is equated with the Spirit of Life.

In the Church, however, the "called-out ones", the disciples of the Lord also blaspheme against the Holy Spirit. Not by the three deadly sins of apostasy, murder and adultery but by the most deadly sin of dullness is the Spirit indeed often killed all the day long. Dullness is no modern or recent discovery. All through the Bible prophets and evangelists speak of those who have hard hearts and are dull of comprehension. The word of the Lord speaks life, but the hearts of men are dull, or hard, or set. They have eyes and see not, ears and hear not. In the New Testament, our Lord describes this dullness of heart being like the attitude of sullen and uninterested children, who do not respond to the music of their playmates. "We have piped unto you, and you did not dance." St. John calls this dullness darkness in which the true light shined, and although the dullness or darkness persisted, yet the light is not overcome.

Dullness or deadness or darkness all describe the attitude which cannot receive Christ, His Word and His Spirit. This same attitude cannot but produce dull or dead works, for indeed, it is Spirit which giveth life. Many a Church service, many a sermon is dull, dead or lifeless, and does not speak to men of the Spirit which is of God. So that often the questioning visitor, the seeker after truth, as also the faithful and regular worshipper feels that the worship of the Church is formal, even if beautiful in detail or general effect, and does not speak or mirror forth the words of life. Furthermore, the many activities large or small, which are

THE RICHMOND CONVOCATION

The Convocation held its 13th Annual Corporate Communion and breakfast at CHRIST CHURCH, New Brighton, on February 23. Nothing that could be written would be adequate to describe this outstanding event of the year for Episcopal men and boys.

Great credit is due to George C. Novey of the CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION, Chairman, and his committees, whose names were in the November BULLETIN.

The speaker was Chaplain Captain Harry Grant Campbell, Jr., now at Fort Jay, who returned last September from Korea, and who was splendid, had a good sense of humor and, at the same time, gave a real message.

He told in pretty plain language what our boys are fighting and dying for – in a rough country, in weather that reaches 22 below; how he and his soldiers lived in underground bunkers, and what it meant to experience fierce fighting.

He said that he found apathy towards the chaplains and prayers largely on a bargaining basis; that the boys grow up too fast, learn the wrong things first and need more real Church training to give them confidence and faith in God in times of danger. He called for more real earnestness in Church training and an end to the smugness and complacency that he found here on his return.

There were, as usual, an undeterminable number who could attend only the service, but a record of 322 attended the breakfast in the parish house, all of whom, including the Clergy, were thrilled.

Many thanks are due to the ladies of CHRIST CHURCH, this year's host parish, for their efficiency in serving such a good breakfast.

The offering of $241.75 at the service was taken for the benefit of St. Francis Boys' Homes at Ellsworth and Salina, Kansas.

ST. ALBAN'S, Eltingville, reports about $850.00 netted from the Annual Revue mentioned in the March issue. The Mr. and Mrs. Club, now "St. Alban's Rubicons", meaning "those who shall not be deterred from the goal they have set", held a successful "Gay Ninety's" dance.

Mrs. Calvin, W.A. Supply officer of ST. ANDREW'S, was guest speaker at an overall W.A. meeting.

ST. ANDREW'S, Richmond. The Rev. Francis R. Godolphin, Rector Emeritus, observed the 50th anniversary of his ordination March 1 as celebrant at the 11 A.M. service. The Church School faculty sponsored a coffee hour afterwards, related to the Christian Church, often run the risk of being "dead works" because they are directed by a spirit which is not of God, the spirit of wordly success, for example,—of promotional zeal for its own sake, the spirit, which, in the words of Our Lord minds "not the things of God, but the things of men".

Judgment here must begin with the household of faith. The Church which is, or claims to be, the Body of Christ, also claims to live by the Holy Spirit. "If we live by the Spirit, by the Spirit let us also walk." In our day and generation, when men faint for lack of vision, let us recall how the person and work of the Holy Spirit is described in the Bible, in the liturgy and hymns of the Church. The Spirit of God purges and cleanses, sweeps away the accumulation of dead works; and brings life to the dry bones of tradition and conventional habits. The Spirit can kindle our dead hearts, can turn them from the hard and dull hearts so often described in the Bible, to hearts in which the new convenant can be written, and which move according to the promptings of love, mercy and truth. It is the activity of God's Spirit working mighty acts that shows forth the quality of life which belongs to His Kingdom. It is in this sense that the New Testament describes it as an installment or "earnest" of the Kingdom. "If I by the Spirit of God cast out devils, then is the Kingdom of God come upon you."

But the Holy Spirit is that Spirit which dwelt preeminently in Christ. Thus it is the Spirit of love, of forbearance, of truth and integrity. Otherwise the Spirit may be very "spiritual", even very ecstatic, but not "of Christ", as St. Paul writes in his letter to the Corinthians. Vitality of itself, "interesting" services, unusual or striking sermons, spectacular or "lively" projects are not necessarily sacraments of the Holy Spirit. "Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits to see whether they are of God."

In the New Testament, the true, the authentic Spirit is one which excels in the building up of the fellowship. The test, therefore, is love. "I will show you a still more excellent way;" the activity of the Spirit is the activity of love.

The Spirit of God is also the Spirit of freedom. Over against dullness, prejudice, or slavishly conceived and perpetuated custom, can be set the Spirit of freedom. St. Paul describes the condition of being what we call a slave to convention as being still "in the Spirit", "for as many as are led by the Spirit of God are sons of God. You have received the Spirit of sonship. When we cry 'Abba! Father!' it is the Spirit himself bearing witness with our Spirit that we are children of God, and if children, then heirs, heirs of God, and fellow-heirs with Christ . . ."

If Christians be heirs through hope of the glorious liberty of the children of God, how can dullness co-exist with such a hope of such a glory? Dullness settles in upon a person and upon an institution when things are taken for granted and what is — is equated — with what should be in the sight of God. Do we forget that the Spirit is free also on God's side, to blow where it listeth?

The Church in her history is always re-enacting the story of the Book of Acts, often correctly described as the Acts of Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit was always breaking the bounds set by the Church and the authorities thereof. The story is so familiar; the Church at Jerusalem assumed it had the monopoly of Holy Spirit, but the Lordship of the Holy Spirit would not be denied, and . . ."Who was I that could withstand God?" The words of St. Peter echo saying after saying of the Lord he so often misunderstood, "Not everyone that sayeth unto me Lord, Lord, . . . but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven;" . . . "many shall come from the east and from the west." And we remember that in the parable of the sheep and the goats the really righteous did not even know they were, or were supposed to be, righteous.

The pattern of freedom is given us. It is by the gift of the Spirit that we recall humbly, that God's ways are not our ways. Yet by the gift of the same Spirit we dare hope to search even the deep things of God. Then perhaps we can be free to recognize and to assist the workings of the Creator Spirit in the affairs and undertakings of the world outside; free also critically to examine ourselves, as individuals and also as corporately one; free finally, to confess our sins and to ask that we may be renewed in the Spirit of our minds. Then indeed, we may hope that we lay aside every weight of dullness and selfish habit and the sin of conventionality which does so easily beset us, for only in the power of the Holy Spirit can we hope not to blaspheme against the Holy Spirit.

Department of Promotion

The Department of Promotion is pleased to announce that Mr. Howard Richardson, member of Christ Church, Bronxville, N. Y. has accepted the Chairmanship in the Department of the Committee for consulting service on the Every Member Canvass. This Committee will work in close cooperation with the men in the Laymen's Training Program under Mr. W. Ted Gannaway's direction.

The Committee stands ready to consult with parishes who wish help in planning their Every Member Canvasses. Rectors and Every Member Canvass chairmen who desire assistance should write to Mr. Richardson at the Department of Promotion office, Diocesan Headquarters, or to Mr. Richardson at 270 Madison Avenue, N.Y.C.

The Rev. George Nichols, Rector of St. Mary's, Staten Island, has planned area vestry conferences for late May and June in fifteen locations in the diocese. The purpose of the meetings is to discuss parish financing including missionary quotas and to offer information of the program of the Church. These meetings should be helpful both to individual parishes and to the Diocesan work.

THE WESTCHESTER CONVOCATION

The Choir of SAINT JOHN'S CHURCH, Yonkers, under the direction of the organist, Mr. Clifford Dinsmore, gave a special musical service, on March 22, at 11:00 A.M., when they sang the "Requiem" by Brahms.

Recently, upon the recommendation of the Rector, The Rev. James Harry Price, Bishop Donegan licensed four layreaders to work in SAINT JAMES THE LESS PARISH, Scarsdale. The new layreaders are: Mr. F. Laurence Chandler, Mr. Walter S. Fleming, Mr. Robert W. Geissinger and Mr. William E. Lassiter.

SAINT PETER'S CHURCH, Port Chester, is making plans for their Jubilee Anniversary, and the Rector, Dr. Lewis R. Howell, has appointed the following committee to work on the project: co-chairmen, The Hon. Frederick G. Schmidt, Mrs. William Maslin; secretary, Mr. Leonard Gaylord; and publicity, Mr. C. Leslie Avery.

SAINT LUKE'S CHURCH, Somers, has recently received a lovely new gift. An iron memorial railing has been placed on the steps leading up to the entrance. This is a gift of Mr. George Chapman of Mount Kisco.

At the annual meeting of the CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER, Pelham, the following new officers were elected: Wardens, Mr. Christian S. Philips and Mr. David J. Marsden; Vestrymen, Mr. William G. Luke, Judge Bryon B. Ralston, Mr. Harry Hall and Mr. Robert Fenwick.

TRINITY CHURCH, Ossining, sponsored a Mission during the week of March 15-22. The Missioner was the Very Rev. Albert J. DuBois, Canon Missioner of the Diocese of Long Island. The neighboring Hudson River Parishes were invited to participate in the affair.

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY of Westchester acted as host to a Diocesan meeting, held at CHRIST CHURCH, Rye, on April 7. The meeting began at 11:00 A.M., and the speaker was the Rt. Rev. Oliver L. Loring, D.D., Bishop of Maine.

An Old-Fashioned Hymn Sing was conducted at CHRIST CHURCH, Tarrytown, on the second Sunday in February. Instead of the sermon, the Rector, the Rev. C. Kenneth Ackerman, had the Choir march down the center aisle of the Church, and the members of the congregation were encouraged to sing wholeheartedly their favorite hymns. The Rector gave a brief history of each hymn and told how it came to be written. This service is held annually, and is a very pop-

ONE OF THE MOST PRESSING CURRENT PROBLEMS OF PRIVATE SCHOOLS (Church-connected and otherwise) is how to teach religion effectively. Religion is a subject, to be sure – and the traditional pattern in many schools is the "sacred studies" classes. But the impact of such classes has in fact been quite inadequate as far as communicating a dynamic Christian outlook is concerned. We must continue to teach religion as a subject, but the main problem is how to communicate a religious understanding of all subjects, for Christianity is a "world-view", a way of looking at all of reality. So serious is this problem that the rector and rector-elect of two of our leading Church schools have recently spent periods at Union Seminary studying the problem. And two non-Church schools which heretofore have not even taught sacred studies and which are now determined to do something more significant in the realm of religion in education, have postponed any teaching of religion until they find a way to integrate it with all of the subjects. One has had its entire faculty studying with the Department of Religion of Princeton University; the other is seeking to attract a member of a university department of religion to its staff – not as chaplain, not as "sacred studies" teacher, but as a colleague of the faculty in an attempt to produce a religious perspective in the teaching of all subjects.

IT WAS WITH THIS CONCERN VERY MUCH TO THE FORE that when Canon Green succeeded Canon Sparks in the pastoral work at the Cathedral (in addition to his precentorship), Canon Betts was invited to leave his work as instructor in the Department of Religion at Columbia University and the acting chaplaincy there to assume the headmastership of the School on the Cathedral Close which has been providing education for our choir boys. Canon Betts, who had been very much interested in this whole problem, agreed with us that a small school can provide an excellent laboratory for the development of an over-all aproach to the Christian faith in the whole curriculum. Naturally our primary concern here is the group of boys committed to our charge; but the hope has been that through the work with them advance ground could be broken in connection with this whole matter of the religious perspective in education. Our headmaster is admirably fitted to lead in this development: because of his advance work in theology (for which he received his S.T.M.), his experience of teaching at Columbia, and his own central concerns.

THUS THE CHIEF CONTRIBUTION THAT THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR SCHOOL may make will not be in the number of students educated (for the School is bound to be small) but the pattern which can be evolved there and which can be useful for setting the course elsewhere. Canon Betts saw very early that the staff and facilities of the School were meeting the needs of too few students. Classes of 7 or 8 (required because of the wide age-range of the boys in the Choir) were no more pedagogically sound than they are financially sound. Therefore we experimented this year by admitting day-boys on a singing and a non-singing basis. This coming year we plan to admit more day-boys, and are even opening the door to a few non-singing boarders, and are waiting to see if enough apply to make worthwhile the readjustments of the building which would be called for in connection with such a plan. The primary function of the School is to provide a first-rate education for those who assist in the worship of the Cathedral at the daily choir offices and the 11 and 4 o'clock services on Sundays and at the choral eucharist on holy days. But this function will not be in the least diminished: in fact by the addition of singing day-boys the choir is being augmented. There is such a need for facilities for education with a religious base that we feel that we would be recreant in our duties and in the stewardship of the facilities at our command if we did not seek, within the limitations of our

THE RAMAPO CONVENTION

The spring business meeting of the convocation will be held from 5:00 P.M. until 8:00 P.M., Thursday, April 16, at THE CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Greenwood Lake.

A convocation Youth Rally at GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, on Passion Sunday, began with Evening Prayer, conducted by the young people, games and supper, Mexican style, movies, film strip and lecture by the vicar of Haverstraw, the Rev. Douglas Wolf, and a sermon on the theme: "Go Ye and Teach", delivered by Moss W. Armistead, associate field director in the Diocese. The offering was sent to Alejandra, Mexico, to enlarge the Church School by building a dormitory for boys of the Episcopal Church.

Fridays at 7:15 A.M. the young people of GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, attended the Lenten Communion Service, then had breakfast. The parishioners have contributed $1500 to St. Barnabas' house, and are continuing to work, worship, study and give, as their financial and other reports indicate.

GRACE CHURCH, Middletown, is painting formerly unused portions of the basement, to create a choir room, place for vestments, music library, and rehearsal spot with choir stalls in proper position. Miss Marilyn Barr, two-year scholarship holder at Union Seminary School of Sacred Music, New York, is Director of the Adult Choir, and two Junior Choirs. Faure's "Requiem" was sung in Holy Week.

The Sunday School now has a slide and film strip projector; also a beaded screen.

The rectory kitchen has been modernized.

The cornerstone and seal of ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River, appear as masthead of the Lenten newsletter. In 1952 the parish was incorporated; in 1953 it will apply for admission into union with the Convention. The motto for the church, as stated by the first rector, the Rev. Ernest William Churchill, is an inspiring one:

"Christ is our cornerstone, On Him alone we build;
With His true saints alone, The courts of heaven are filled;
On His great love our hopes we place, Of present grace and joys above."

Union services were conducted in Suffern on Good Friday, in Nyack all through Lent, and also in New City, Pearl River, and Spring Valley. Middletown and Chester have cooperative activities – the one in weeks of prayer, the other in Christian Education. The Nyack

The Kneeland Chalice is, intrinsically, one of the richest possessions of the Cathedral. It is entirely of gold and set with a large number of precious stones. The basic late Medieval form is overlaid with a rich tracery and the medallions are all lightened by enamel work. The canopied niches around the top of the base contain delicately done figures of the Evangelists and the two great Apostles. The infinite detail in the chalice is characteristic of late Victorian workmanship. It is a most spectacular piece and attracts considerable attention from visitors to the Cathedral.

THE ART TREASURES OF THE NEW YORK CATHEDRAL

by Canon Edward N. West, D.D., Litt. D., Sacrist

PART of the Cathedral's treasure in plate is illustrated on these two pages. It covers a period of time dating from 1550 to 1923 in actual year of manufacture, but a considerably longer period in term of design, since the great Pastoral Staff by design dates back to the end of the 15th century. The Kneeland Chalice is an elaborated form of Gothic design and the others demonstrate by period the gradual move toward simplification and again towards ornamentation which characterizes the late 16th and 17th centuries.

The Pastoral Staff illustrates the height of English Gothic design. Pastoral Staves were, anciently, double-headed—an elaborated form of the letter "T". Staves of various kinds have always been associated with dignity, and the pastoral staff of a Christian bishop is a combination of the dignity of rule plus the obligation to care for the flock of Christ. It is interesting to note that the habits of local shepherds and the staves used by them have very largely dictated the forms the pastoral staff has taken in different countries. The English form is, as might be expected, a refinement of the staff customarily used by English shepherds. The sharp projection below the crook of the staff itself was designed to hold the top of the sudarium—a form of pennon originally attached to a staff in order to keep the bishop's hand from coming in contact with the metal of the staff.

Theological opinion and ceremonial practice has always had an effect on the Church's art. In ancient days, when the administration of the chalice to the people involved ceremonial procedure quite foreign to any existing Rite nowadays, great two-handled chalices were used. (They are, indeed, the original form of Loving Cup.) As ceremonial changed, the handles were dropped off but the cups remained large.

At one time the laity were communicated through a golden "straw". As the Church more and more tended to withhold the chalice from the laity, the bowls of chalices became smaller and smaller and the stems and knops necessary for Elevations became more pronounced. With the restoration of the cup to the laity which came in during the Reformation, the bowls again had to be large enough to meet the need. There is considerable evidence that a number of Medieval chalices had their original bowls or cups replaced by larger ones at the time of the Reformation. There is some reason to think that this might have happened to the Kropelin Chalice shown on the opposite page.

One of the most graceful sets in the possession of the Cathedral is this 17th century silver gilt chalice. The diamond cross on the bottom of it is modern. The chalice is satisfactory from every point of view. The knop is smooth and easy to handle. The bowl is large enough to allow for ease in administration, and the base is broad enough to give it secure footing. In design it is more conservative than its European contemporaries, but it is a particularly effective blending of austere functional line and reserved Spanish ornamentation. The engraving is excellent and age has softened the total effect.

This attractive pair of goblets is Nuremberg work of the mid 17th century. The one on the left is a double-ended marriage cup used in the Lutheran Church. It is of silver with rather fine Scriptural scenes done in repoussé. The division between the two ends of the cup is a fine commemorative medal struck in honour of Melancthon, dating from the 1580's. The tiny goblet on the right is of silver gilt and probably had a similar ecclesiastical usage, although there are some reasons for thinking that it was not designed to be a chalice.

Donor: Edward K. Warren, Esq.

This extremely fine chalice bears around its base a Latin inscription which says "John of Kropelin gave this chalice. Pray for him." The shield at the bottom of the front of the chalice is slanted in the customary German fashion and surmounted by a figure of the Virgin and Child treated as though it were a crest. This latter is obviously a later and almost certainly Nuremberg addition to the original chalice.

The lozenge shapes interspersed between the acorns on the knop bear the somewhat corrupt late Latin form of the Holy Name "IHESUS".

The great Pastoral Staff of New York is of silver gilt and is closely modeled on the most splendid example of goldsmith's work of the 15th century. The original was the property of Bishop Foxe and was given by him to Corpus Christi College of the University of Oxford. In the opinion of experts, the original was made in 1497. The Staff of New York was made for presentation on behalf of the churchmen and churchwomen of the Diocese of London, headed by the Bishop of London. It was originally presented to Bishop Manning as a personal gift. He, in turn, left it to succeeding Bishops of New York.

This large silver gilt chalice and paten carry the hallmark of the reign of Bishop Johann Ludwig van Elderen. The paten is engraved with a representation of the crucifixion and on the back face of the paten and on the bottom of the chalice are superb engravings of the Imperial Elector's arms. Around the knop of the chalice are the letters I E S U S. This set was made in Lüttich in 1680. The total effect of this chalice is one of rich simplicity. The 17th century fondness for curves as over against straight lines is starting to show. All the curves move easily into each other, but the characteristic octagonal or hexagonal base of the Medieval times or the solid unbending circle of the late 16th century are tending to disappear.

THE BRONX CONVOCATION

At CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale, the Rev. Gerald Barry celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of his Rectorship on the Third Sunday in Lent. A Junior Altar Guild, recently formed, now has full charge of the work for the 9 o'clock Sunday Services.

The Rev. Ellsworth Chandlee, Instructor in the Theological Seminary at Manila, P.I., was the preacher at the Annual Corporate Communion of the Women of the Convocation, held at SAINT JAMES, Fordham, on March 10. Father Chandlee, who is on furlough in this country until May, gave an impressive account of a work of Christian conversion and truly spiritual missionary endeavour, both in his sermon and later in his illustrated talk.

Twelve parishes of the Convocation were represented at the Annual World Day of Prayer for all Women, held recently at the CHURCH OF THE ATONEMENT.

"POPULARITY CONTEST: Who is the most popular person at ST. PAUL'S, Morrisania? See the Entertainment Committee for details." (From St. Paul's "Parish Notes".)

At SAINT MARGARET'S CHURCH the Young Adult Club is sponsoring two speakers on the subject of Race Segregation in South Africa.

The friends of the Rev. Robert Creech of SAINT MARTHA'S CHURCH will be sorry to learn that he suffered painful injuries when he was thrown from a horse. At this writing he is making progress in Saint Luke's Hospital. During his enforced absence from the parish the services are being taken by the Rev. Daniel A. McGregor, Ph.D., formerly Director of Religious Education for the National Council.

At SAINT PETER'S CHURCH, WESTCHESTER, the Lenten program took the form of a School of Worship, with identical sermons at 9:30 and 11 on Sunday mornings, a course of instructions at Sunday Evensong, and a series of lectures on Wednesday nights followed by Panel Discussions in the church undercroft. The "textbook" was the fourth volume in the Church's Teaching Series.

The Annual Meeting of the Convocation will be held at SAINT STEPHEN'S, Woodlawn, on April 22. Bishop Boynton will be present. Evensong will be followed by a business meeting, an address by the Rev. John W. Pyle, Diocesan Chaplain of College Work, and refreshments in the undercroft.

financial resources, to extend the educational advantages available to a wider group. Classes of 12 to 15 will still be small classes and will in fact provide a more varied experience in personal relationships than could be provided by the smaller classes to which the School has been accustomed.

BECAUSE OF THE PROPORTION OF EXPENSE PROVIDED BY ENDOWMENT, the School offers extraordinary advantages for a relatively low tuition. So that the number of applicants will permit the best possible selection of students on the high level to which the School is dedicated, we are happy to have people know – especially Church people – what the School offers and how reasonable its charges are. (For the latter I refer you to an advertisement elsewhere in this BULLETIN.)

THE SCHOOL HAS ALWAYS HAD A FINE REPUTATION—one that is deserved, because it has been doing a good job. We believe that in the future it can do an even better job with the special concentration on the matter of religion and ethics in the whole curriculum and with an increase of enrollment. Especially, we hope a permanent contribution can be made in the relationship of religion to "secular" subjects—or, to put it more precisely, in the way in which the educational program can be presented so that no subject is "secular".

SO WE REQUEST THE PEOPLE OF THE DIOCESE, to whom this School really belongs (in the sense that it belongs to the Cathedral), to spread the word about this School and its opportunities, to pass on to us their frank suggestions, and to pray for its success in the high task to which it is committed. Above all they should be thankful that because of this School the Cathedral Church offers daily, in the name of everyone in the Diocese, the praise of God morning and evening. The services which the Prayer Book labels "Daily Morning Prayer" and "Daily Evening Prayer"—in no way imply that the Church's bounden duty of praise is to be limited to Sundays. Should any of you reading this far wish to hear these boys exercising their ministry (at a time not interfering with attendance at parish services) come at 8:30 or 5:00 any weekday (except on Monday and Saturday afternoons when the Cathedral Chapter generally sings at the service in plainchant unaided, so that the boys can have a little time off). Should you know of any boy who would make a likely candidate for the School, whether he has a good voice or not, please suggest that he send for a catalogue and visit with the Headmaster about the matter.

with young children. There should be an Evening Branch in every Parish of this District. Those who have none are urged to confer with their Rector about starting one.

Evening Branches are an integral part of the Woman's Auxiliary. True, we cannot often attend Diocesan meetings unless one such as that held in February 1953 is arranged. However, we have three District meetings during the year, the second Tuesday in November, January and May. By attendance at these meetings we are enabled to keep in touch with what our sisters of the Day Branches are doing, find out what is happening in the Diocesan Auxiliary work and hear reports of what we ourselves are accomplishing. We have one other time during the year that the District Evening Branches meet, during Lent, for a Devotional Evening at which time we pray and meditate together.

The Church needs Evening Branches and the Auxiliary needs YOU. Find out if there is an Evening Branch in your Parish; if there is, join it. If you cannot sew, perhaps you can knit; if you can do neither, you might like to contribute toward the purchase price of materials for those who can. You can send your magazines, secular or religious, on to missionaries through the Church Periodical Club. You can do much in Christian Social Relations work; you must be thankful day in and day out for blessings received—that's where your United Thank Offering is so important. There is a place for every woman in Auxiliary work.

Women of the business world, and those kept at home by daytime duties, need never feel left out of the Program of the Church if we take our rightful place. All who read this, who have been apathetic toward doing missionary work because it has seemed a daytime proposition, are invited to come to the Spring District Meeting on Tuesday, May 12, at 8:15 p.m., at the Church of the Resurrection, 115 East 74th Street. You will be most welcome, and, I hope, will feel the enthusiasm of women who are busy, hard-working women, but who have in their hearts the inspiration and the will to "pray fervently, labor diligently, and give liberally to make Him known to all nations as their Saviour and their King."

THE DUTCHESS CONVOCATION

Special Lenten services in the Convocation churches have offered a variety of activities. Informal, group Question-Answer sessions were held on Wednesday evenings at ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, Poughkeepsie. There were special preachers on Thursday evenings at ZION CHURCH, Wappingers Falls, which included sometime Rectors, the Rev. Messrs. Maxwell Rice, Oliver Carberry, and Richard L. Harbour. Outstanding preachers at CHRIST CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, on Friday evenings, were the Rt. Rev. Charles F. Boynton, the Rev. Percy L. Urban, the Rev. Prof. J. V. L. Casserley, the Rev. John M. Krumm, the Rev. Frederic Hood, and the Rev. Canon Edward N. West. At ST. PAUL'S, Poughkeepsie, the Rector answered questions after Evening Prayer, and ST. JAMES', Hyde Park, heard area preachers. Unusual preachers from the Church of Sweden and the Syrian Orthodox Church in India were at CHRIST CHURCH, Red Hook, while the Rector of ST. PAUL'S AND TRINITY, Tivoli, lectured on Church History on Wednesday evenings. At GRACE CHURCH, Millbrook, after Evening Prayer, a different layman reviewed a chapter in Emerson Fosdick's "A Guide to Understanding the Bible" at a Rectory meeting. Visiting preachers were at ST. JAMES' CHURCH, Dover Plains, and ST. THOMAS' CHURCH, Amenia Union.

A School of Worship was conducted by the Woman's Auxiliary of GRACE CHURCH, Millbrook, on four Wednesday afternoons in March. Worship in the church was an integral part of the course with a silent devotion period, followed by a prayer book service and a program in the Parish House.

A complete set of altar, lectern and pulpit vestments in purple was dedicated last month at ST. PAUL'S AND TRINITY PARISH, Tivoli. They are the gift of an anonymous member of the parish.

A Quiet Day for Women was conducted by the Rev. William T. Gray, Rector of ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, on March 17, at CHRIST CHURCH, Red Hook.

The assistant District Attorney of Dutchess County, Russell E. Aldrich, was the principal speaker at a breakfast following the Men's Lenten Corporate Communion at ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, Beacon, Mr. Aldrich, who is also a member of the Council of the Diocese of New York, told seventy-five men about the working of the District

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

AND JESUS showed Himself alive after His Passion by many proofs, appearing unto His disciples by the space of forty days, and speaking of the things concerning the Kingdom of God. . . . And after that, as they were looking, He was taken up, and a cloud received Him out of their sight. . . . Then returned they unto Jerusalem, and they continued steadfastly in prayer until the day of Pentecost was come when . . . they were all filled with the Holy Spirit.

So runs the Biblical description of The Great Fifty Days, the period from Easter to Pentecost. What a thrilling period it must have been; full of breath-taking encounters with their Risen Lord, having their minds opened that they might understand the Scriptures, and being clothed with Power from on high.

How natural it has been for the Church to commemorate this period as The Great Fifty Days, with the Passover and Pentecost as the two poles of one continuous celebration of God's ultimate redemptive activity through the death and resurrection of Christ, and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Nor did the Church stop with just the commemorations of the historical events in chronological sequence. From time to time have been added to the various Calendars the "birthdays in eternity" of the Martyrs and of the Saints, so that today the Season commemorates "those mighty acts" by which our Lord, both directly and through His Church, has brought redemption to men.

As you receive this issue of The Bulletin, you are in the midst of this exciting celebration. Don't miss a day of it. There is no period like it in the whole of the Liturgical Year.

As I sit thinking about it, with The Prayer Book and a Church Calendar before me, I feel as though I am part of a tremendous, noisy, colorful, joyous religious carnival. All the senses are called into play; and history, art, doctrine, piety, goodness, courage, things of heaven and things of earth, prayer, procession, litany and praise — all are wrapped up into one glorious, audible, and action-filled drama.

Events of no less than cosmic significance are being enacted on the stage (the Resurrection, the Ascension, the coming of the Holy Ghost), while at the same time Apostles and Martyrs, Bishops and Confessors, Theologians, Virgins and Widows pass in almost endless reviews. Feasts are extended into Octaves; Antiphons, with Alleluias, introduce Venite; Creed, Proper Preface and Gloria in Excelsis are the order of the day; and Cherubim and Seraphim continually do cry, "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Sabaoth, Heaven and Earth are full of the majesty of Thy Glory."

Time is telescoped and chronological order discarded, so that while the Risen Lord is appearing to His disciples by the space of forty days, and while the Apostles are waiting in Jerusalem after the Ascension to receive the power of the Holy Spirit, Leo the Great (AD 461, Apr. 11th) is stopping Attila the Hun at the very gates of Rome, and Justin Martyr, (AD 167, Apr. 14th) is proving eloquently that Christianity is the oldest, truest and most divine of philosophies.

S. Anselm, Archbishop of Canterbury, (AD 1109, Apr. 21st), is bequeathing to posterity the ablest treatment of the Atonement yet to have appeared, and Richard the Lion-hearted is invoking St. George the Martyr (AD 285, Apr. 23rd) as Patron Saint of England.

S. Mark the Evangelist (AD 68, Apr. 25th), having given his Gospel to the Church, gives his life for his Lord, and the Virgin Catherine of Sienna (AD 1380, Apr. 30th) leads a religious revolution. SS. Philip and James, Apostles and Martyrs, (1st Cent., May 1st) shed their blood, the seed of the Church, and S. Athanasius (AD 375, May 2nd) successfully defends the Nicene Faith: "Christ was made man that all might be made divine".

St. Helena, mother of the Emperor Constantine, Finds the Holy Cross (AD 326, May 3rd), and the Widow, S. Monica (AD 388, May 4th), along with S. Ambrose, converts her famous son S. Augustine, (AD 387, May 5th) who knew full well that God hath formed us for Himself and our hearts are restless till they find their rest in Him.

On and on, for fifty days, the movement of the Calendar flows back and forth through the centuries, commemorating the ancient events and the anniversaries of Saints and Martyrs; serving as an instrument for teaching and appreciating the history of the Church throughout the ages. Then comes the Feast and Octave of Pentecost, when the exalted Christ acknowledged the allegiance of His disciples by the gift of the Holy Spirit. Pentecost was indeed a Day of the Lord. So were all of the Great Fifty Days for that matter. And so have they been for the worshipping community, for you and for me, ever since.

United Thank Offering

second presentation of the United Thank Offering of this Triennium will be made at this service, at which a representative of each Parish will lay the gift of her Parish on the alms basin. Many parishes are increasing the interest in the Offering and thereby increasing the number of women who participate in it.

Immediately following the service, the Annual Meeting will be held in Synod Hall, at which time brief annual reports and election of officers will take place. The subject of the meeting is Our Job in the Diocese of New York, which will be presented by the Ven. George F. Brätt, Archdeacon of the Diocese and the Rev. Alexander Stewart of St. Margaret's Church, Bronx.

clergy do a remarkable job each day in the hospital, so that all sick persons who desire the holy communion and other pastoral blessings are served by the various members of the clergy association on a regular schedule. The released time classes in Suffern are taught by ministers of the Methodist, Lutheran, Presbyterian and Episcopal churches.

Alan P. Maynard, from the Diocese of Rhode Island, a junior in the General Theological Seminary, is assisting the rector of CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, in a teen-age program. He is also in the Senior Choir, and acts as lay reader on Sundays.

Family groups had supper Monday nights in Lent, the children enjoyed making an African village and hearing missionary stories, everyone saw films on Liberia, South Africa, and had discussions about the overseas and domestic program of our Church. CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, has enthusiastic supporters of the missionary movement in the Vestry, Sunday School and Woman's Auxiliary. Folders have been ordered for the Bishop's Offering.

ST. FRANCIS' MISSION, Sloatsburg, sent the choir a lecture on Church Music that was delivered by Canon West for clergy, organists, and choristers. Lutherans as well as our own Church members enjoyed the discussion on music at weddings and funerals; some booklets were on display, products of the General Convention Commission on architecture, liturgics, and music. The Vestry of CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, and the Senior Choir, served fairly elaborate refreshments to 55 persons who came to the lecture. Mrs. Amos R. Poole was in charge.

The Ladies Guild of ST. JOHN'S in New City celebrated its 50th Anniversary on February 25 by holding a luncheon in one of the local restaurants. The retiring officers of the Guild, Mrs. T. Youmans, Mrs. A. Garrison, and Mrs. C. Plass, who had served for twenty-five years, were made honorary officers for life, and were presented with engraved gold crosses with chains, in recognition of their loyalty, interest, and service. There were 28 ladies present. Mrs. K. Swenson, Miss A. Butterfass, and Mrs. L. Eberling are the newly elected officers of the Guild.

ST. PAUL'S, Spring Valley, and ST. JOHN'S, New City. At a joint meeting of the Vestries of ST. PAUL'S and ST. JOHN'S on March 12, at which representatives of the Ladies Guild of each parish were present, the request of the Diocese of New York authorities that ST. JOHN'S and ST. PAUL'S together and jointly meet the full contributions to the Vicar's stipend was unanimously accepted. This means that the Diocese will be relieved of the payment of $780 a year as its contribution to the Vicar's salary, and thus this amount will be free for use in other needy parishes and missions. We are grateful to the Diocese for its assistance in the past, and we are grateful to God for the great work the Vestries and Ladies Guilds of both parishes have done and are now doing.

The congregation of TRINITY CHURCH, Mount Vernon, recently sponsored a dinner in the Parish Hall. The dinner was given in recognition of the faithful and devoted services of the Church Choir, whose members were the honored guests.

to have part in a Parish-wide "get-to-know-each-other" movement. It is all done in Alphabetical Groups—starting with A and going through to Z. Seldom has anything in that Parish met with such universal enthusiasm and approval.

SAINT MARY'S CHURCH, Manhattanville, is very proud of a parishioner to whom high honors have come. She is Miss Avis E. Harvey who has been appointed Chairman of the Joint Commission on Missionary Education of the National Council of the Churches of Christ. Miss Harvey is the first woman to hold this post, and also the first Episcopalian. She is also the Associate Secretary in charge of the Department of Education of the Woman's Auxiliary and Editor of "Churchways". "Operation Paint" is the name of the fine painting job in the interior of the Parish House of SAINT MARY'S. The work is being done by the Vestrymen during their weekends. Not one is a painter, but they all seem to have the "know-how".

The monthly bulletin of SAINT PETER'S CHURCH, Chelsea, of late has been attractively decorated by pen and ink sketches of that venerable church. It was impossible to find the name of the artist, but surely there would be capable people in almost any parish who could thus bring their church's beauties to the attention of the public.

On Thursday evening, May 14, at 7:45 P.M., the Cantata Singers, Inc. will present Bach's "B Minor Mass" at SAINT MICHAEL'S CHURCH, Amsterdam Avenue. Peter Fyfe, the Organist and Choirmaster of SAINT MICHAEL'S, will be at the organ. Arthur Mendel, head of the Music Department of Princeton University, is the Conductor of the Cantata Singers. Tickets for the concert will be on sale in advance March 16 at Colbert-La Berge, 205 West 57th Street, New York 19; JUdson 6-2910.

The Jack and Jill Parents' Association of SAINT GEORGE'S CHURCH, Stuyvesant Square, has been sponsoring a series of lectures on the general subject of the needs of the young child. The Association is the parents' organization of the Jack and Jill Workshops, a nursery school for children from 3 to 5 years of age. The school is a fully accredited nursery school, meeting through the week from 9:00 to 12:00 o'clock.

GRACE CHURCH, Broadway, has been operating a summer camp for boys since 1920. On the shore of Lake Kanawauke in Bear Mountain Park, the Camp takes boys between 8 and 16 years of age. Registration is now being taken at the Grace Church Parish House.

TRINITY CHURCH, Wall Street, with usual generosity, contributed $1,000 to the Archbishop of Canterbury for Flood Relief in Great Britain, and $500 for the Restoration Fund of Westminster Abbey.

On Saturday, March 7, the Confirmation Class of THE CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST, Fifth Avenue, attended a Quiet Day in the Cathedral. The Reverend Herbert Bicknell, OHC, conducted the Retreat. Luncheon was served at the Cathedral House. The Retreat was in preparation for the First Communion of the Class on March 8. Canon B. I. Bell conducted a Teaching Mission in this Parish during Passion Week.

THE CHAPEL OF THE INTERCESSION, Trinity Parish, West 155th Street, issued one of the most attractive Lenten schedules seen on this desk. It consisted of a packet in which were cards announcing the meetings and special services. A special card was also enclosed in which parishioners were requested to list the people whom the Chapel program had reached. These cards are to be returned to the Vicar so that a follow-up program can be initiated. The Chapel Choir, assisted by guest soloists and instrumentalists, presented Bach's "Passion According to Saint Matthew" on March 22. The service was recorded in its entirety by the ABC Radio Network for presentation during Holy Week.

On Sunday, April 12, the 75-voice Choir of Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y. sang at 11:00 o'clock in the CATHEDRAL, and at 4:00 o'clock in SAINT THOMAS CHURCH, Fifth Avenue. The Choir is under the direction of John L. Baldwin, Jr., formerly organist of the CATHEDRAL, and presently organist of Grace Church, Utica, and Instructor of Music at Hamilton.

On Mothering Sunday, the Fourth Sunday in Lent, March 15, SAINT LUKE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Hudson Street, followed an ancient English custom and blessed and distributed the Simnel Bread. The Fourth Sunday is called Mothering Sunday because several centuries ago it was the custom for boys and girls who were away from home, "bound out" as servants, to spend this one day out of the year at home. In our day, the accent of the day is upon all mothers, on the Church "the mother of us all", and on our Lord's Mother, the Blessed Virgin Mary. The Simnel Bread and the money offered on this day are the symbols of the love felt for our mother, the Church. There is a prayer for the Blessing of the Simnel Bread and a recipe for making it, on the special card used for services on this day.

at which he shook hands with hundreds of old friends. A native of England, he graduated from Sewanee in 1901, two years prior to his ordination in San Antonio by the Rt. Rev. James S. Johnston, Bishop of West Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Godolphin celebrated their Golden Wedding last June.

ST. JOHN'S, Clifton, has instituted a "Family Worship Service" at 9:30 A.M., followed by an Adult Bible Class, while Sunday School is in session, until 10:45.

ST. MARY'S, Castleton, was host to the Protestant Churches in the area on the World Day of Prayer.

The W.A.'s merchandising club will use profits for their missionary work. At their meeting, March 6, the speaker was Miss Palmer, social worker and representative on Ellis Island of the Protestant Church and the W.A. of the Diocese. She told several inspiring anecdotes of how the Church has stood behind the often despairing, lonely and sick immigrants, and has helped to start them off in their new lives, with hope in their hearts.

At ST. STEPHEN'S, Tottenville, the men have started a real work — building a utility room, much needed for parish activities, Sea Scouts and fraternal organizations. Under Walter Wood, architect, and Henry G. Stiles, contractor, the men, including Fred Reinwald, Louis Schultze, Frank Prusak, Sam Weening, Sam Weening, Jr., Charles Weening, H. Cave, William Bausch, J. Pistek, Merrill Guinn, Charles Kelley, Jr., Charles Kelley, 3rd, W. H. Wetherill, Carl Rossel, and the Senior Warden, W. P. Uhler, contributing his engineering skill and equipment, have finished the foundation walls and pouring concrete. When work is completed in about three months, the church will be truly theirs.

The Rt. Rev. Robert Campbell, formerly Bishop of Liberia, spoke and showed films on the Church's work in Liberia. The women of this parish use Mite Boxes along with the children of the Church School.

The eighty-foot steeple of ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, has been repaired inside and covered outside, thus completing a major repair of this 118-year-old landmark long contemplated by the Vestry.

Address to 172nd Convention
May 12, 1953

BRETHREN OF THE Clergy and Laity: Grace be unto you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

WE MEET in the 172nd Convention of the Diocese at a time when there is undoubtedly a renewal of the Church. Looking over our great Diocese there is much to inspire and encourage us. As I go from place to place there are many evidences of awakened spiritual concern and increased zeal among our people. The Diocese is united in its duty to carry out the task entrusted by Our Lord to His Church on earth.

There is a fine spirit of faith and hope and brotherly fellowship amongst us, and in that spirit the Episcopal Church in this Diocese can become an increasingly stronger instrument in propagating the Christian faith.

At the very beginning of this report I wish to voice my personal appreciation to our clergy and laity for their unfailing cooperation and support.

In saying this word of thanks to those to whom I am especially grateful, a primary place in my gratitude is always reserved for Bishop Boynton for his fidelity and helpful assistance. To the Chancellor for his wise counsel in legal matters that constantly confront the Bishop; to the Archdeacon for his zeal in carrying out the many responsibilities of his office; to Mr. Oxholm for his skillful aid in his immensely valuable service in the business affairs of the Diocese; to Miss Rede and Mrs. Adams, the Bishop's secretaries; to Miss Weber, secretary to the assistant treasurer; and to all clerical and lay workers in our Diocesan and Cathedral organization who make it possible for the Diocesan machinery to function smoothly, I offer my appreciation.

During the past year 3,281 persons have been confirmed. I do urge the clergy to be thorough and careful in the preparation of candidates for Confirmation. They should be well trained in the Christian faith and the practice of religion as it is set forth in the Book of Common Prayer, so that later on nothing will come between their loyalty to our Lord and His Church. Poorly instructed and half-converted candidates do not strengthen the Church of God. We must present frankly to those seeking Confirmation the privileges and obligations of Church membership.

In addition to those confirmed, we have received 193 adults from the Roman Communion. I wish briefly to comment on the significance of this figure. In the Episcopal Church we do not report this figure separately because of some special bias, or because we rejoice any more in conversions from Rome than from any other church or from agnosticism. But the Roman Catholics who come to us have been confirmed by a Bishop and hence they are not re-

City Mission Society Summer Camps

THE 55th season of Episcopal City Mission Society summer camps will open June 30 at Edgewater Creche and Rethmore Home and on July 1 at Elko Lake Camps.

Nearly 400 children, aged 5 to 8, will have country vacations at The Creche and close to 1000 boys and girls, aged 9 to 15, will have at least two weeks at Elko Lake.

Paul Edwards, who comes to us with the approval of Bishop Donegan, has been engaged as chaplain at Elko Lake Camps. Mr. Edwards is a candidate for the priesthood and attends the University of the South; his father is, the Rev. George W. Edwards, Ph.D. professor at C.C.N.Y. Paul Edwards will work under the direction of the Rev. William E. Sprenger, director of the Society, who will, as in the past, conduct the communion services at the camps regularly every two weeks.

A very evident need at the girls' camp at Elko Lake is being met this summer. Provision is being made for the enrollment of 8 or 10 girls, aged 15 to 16, who are too old to be campers but too young to be engaged as junior counselors. They will be chosen on the basis of demonstrated leadership ability and enrolled as camp aides. This method of developing leadership within our own ranks has worked out admirably in the boys' camp and excellent results are expected from its use in the girls' camp.

One of the purposes of camp is to try to teach every boy and girl who goes for two weeks or more to learn to swim, so that in any emergency he will be able to save his life or that of someone else.

The Camp Committee and the staff have been considering ways and means of stimulating boys and girls to direct their water-front activities toward some definite purpose, as well as to have fun. Seven years ago the camps were given three old canoes. We discovered that children will make a serious effort to pass their swimming tests if they can be rewarded with the privilege of paddling a canoe on the

Convention Address

confirmed, but are simply received with the words, "I receive you into this branch of Christ's Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church."

Since these figures are separately reported it is possible for us to observe the trend in this particular type of transfer of religious allegiance. As you may have read in the LIVING CHURCH a while back, a survey made by Bishop Littell and Father Carruthers, which included nearly all of our Dioceses, showed a 200 percent increase in the annual rate of accessions from Rome over the last ten years. Why do so many thus come to us? In a word, because they find that the Anglican Communion more faithfully represents the Catholic faith and because it is a reformed Catholic Church.

The Bishop Speaks

I mention these things to you because of the widespread erroneous notion that the traffic is in the other direction. This impression is due principally to the large publicity given to such as go to Rome. For example when last year a Curate in one of our parishes became a Roman Catholic many inches of type were devoted to it. But this year when a distinguished former Roman Catholic priest, a noted scholar and author, a former member of the faculty of the Catholic University of America was received by me in the Cathedral Church, though all the facts were furnished to all the daily papers, not one line appeared in any of them.

There are at this time 385 clergy canonically resident, and 64 clergy licensed to officiate. There are 11 Deaconesses canonically resident, and there are 263 licensed Lay Readers.

Since the last Convention I have ordained 15 candidates for Holy Orders to the Diaconate, and 9 Deacons to the Priesthood. There are 90 postulants and candidates and pre-theological students.

RECRUITING FOR THE MINISTRY

MAY I remind the clergy to be alert in presenting to likely candidates the claims of the Christian ministry. The canons now require careful screening of all applicants for Holy Orders. This is imperative for the clergyman's task today requires men of intelligence and character as well as devotion to Our Lord and love of people. The final decision as to whether a candidate is accepted rests with the Bishop, but it is my policy to carefuly consider the recommendations of my clerical, medical and lay advisors before final action on any application. The Church cannot be a vital influence without a sufficient and first-rate ministry.

I have instituted the following Rectors:

The Reverend Messrs:

Dr. John Heuss, Trinity Church
George E. Nichols, St. Mary's, Richmond
Newell A. Lasher, St. Luke's, Tuckahoe
Ernest W. Churchill, St. Stephen's, Pearl River
G. Clare Backhurst, Calvary Church, Manhattan
Shirley G. Sanchez, St. Luke the Beloved Physician, Manhattan
Dr. S. Alexander Walcott, St. Ambrose, Manhattan
William E. Arnold, All Saints', Briarcliff
Richard A. Isaac, St. Stephen's, Bronx
Fenimore E. Cooper, St. Mary's, Tuxedo
Ernest D. Vanderburgh, Trinity, Mt. Vernon, and I installed the Reverend Darby W. Betts as Canon of the Cathedral, and assisted in the installation of the Reverend Dr. John McGill Krumm, as Chaplain of Columbia University.

Since the last Convention eight of our clergy have retired from the active ministry, namely, the Reverend Messrs. Carmelo DiSano, Lewis H. Huber, Claudius E. Nero, Donald Macdonald-Millar, Frank E. Aitkins, Thomas A. Sparks, Francis W. Bliss and William P. McCune. We wish them many blessings in their retirement.

Talking it over

As usual, in addition to Episcopal Visitations all over the Diocese, I have officiated at numerous special services at many places and at the Cathedral, and presided at innumerable meetings.

I wish there were time to speak in detail of the invaluable service of our Diocesan agencies. The City Mission Society, the Seamen's Church Institute, Youth Consultation Service and the Episcopal Service to the Aged, in their particular sphere of endeavor are truly making an important contribution to the total ministry and witness of our Church.

In thinking of the accomplishments of individual congregations, I feel it is appropriate to mention a few outstanding events. Last week I officiated at the burning of the mortgage on St. Stephen's, Manhattan. In December I consecrated the new St. Christopher's Chapel of Trinity Parish, which opened up a new field of activity in the name of our church on the lower east side. St. Paul's, Spring Valley and St. John's New City, working together now require no Diocesan assistance; Grace Church, Monroe and St. Paul's, Chester, now operate without Diocesan aid. I congratulate the clergy and people of these congregations on their achievements. Last October I laid the cornerstone of the new wing of St. Luke's Hospital. Since its founding by Dr. William Augustus Muhlenberg, at that time Rector of the Church of the Holy Communion, there has been the closest tie between the Hospital and the Episcopal Church. In fact it is this relationship which creates the unique spirit which characterizes St. Luke's. This new addition will enable the hospital to extend its healing ministry to greater numbers of God's sick and suffering children.

FINANCES

THE REPORT of the Committee on Diocesan Finances has been sent to you in the Calendar of Business and will be presented later by its Chairman. I believe the Assessment Budget to be a conservative estimate of our administrative needs. Considering the magnitude of our Diocesan enterprise, I believe we are operating with a minimum of administrative staff. Bishop Boynton and I have been able, with the occasional assistance of Bishop Campbell, to meet the Confirmation schedule, and the Archdeacon has given me his usual untiring assistance in the many tasks I have assigned to him. In the administration of the Diocese's business affairs I have continued to have the valuable counsel of the Assistant Treasurer whose tasks increase as the work expands. The growing demands on his time have convinced the Committee on Diocesan Finances that he should have more assistance and they have so provided in this budget. I fully approve of this recommendation.

THE COUNCIL

THE RESULTS of the four months of operation of the new Council give me great encouragement. There is now a fine feeling of unity of purpose and a missionary zeal that we have not had before. Bishop Boynton as Secretary of the Council will report to you in detail the work of the various departments.

The Council budget for 1954 reflects our increasing needs as we spread our influence. The greatest increase in this budget is for our

The Suffragan Reports

Department of Missions. This Department faces two critical problems: one, the need for assistance to parishes in the lower income urban areas; and two, the need for providing the ministrations of the Church to the thousands who are moving to the suburbs or even farther away from the city convocations. Much of the future growth of the Church in this Diocese will depend upon the work of this Department.

As the Chairman of the Department of Missions I want to mention the helpful cooperation we have had from Trinity Church under the leadership of its Rector. The Corporation of Trinity Church has made available to the Bishop this year the sum of $25,000, for use at the Bishop's discretion for parishes and missions in the Diocese. After careful consideration I decided that this money should be administered through the Department of Missions under my direction. Without these funds it would have been impossible to provide churches with deservedly needed assistance. Needless to say I am most grateful for this interest of Trinity Parish in the overall effective administration of our Diocesan life.

I wish to pay particular tribute to the Chairmen of our new Departments: Dr. Heuss of Christian Education, the Reverend John A. Bell of Christian Social Relations, the Reverend Albert A. Chambers of Promotion and Mr. Ellis H. Carson of Finance. They have given liberally of their time and talents and under them the Directors of two of these departments, the Reverend Leland B. Henry and Mr. W. Ted Gannaway have continued to serve the Diocese well and faithfully in their spheres.

I am sorry to announce at this time that Mr. Gannaway has resigned as of June 1st. I wish to assure him in my own name, and in the name of the Diocese, of the deep appreciation of his faithful service.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

WE HAVE been handicapped in not having a Director of the Department of Christian Education, but as you know the Reverend J. Stuart Wetmore has accepted appointment and will begin his work with us on September 1st. The Reverend Mr. Wetmore has had a wide experience in the field of Christian Education, and comes to us highly recommended, and I have every confidence that under his leadership, with the cooperation of the clergy, we shall eventually have one of the strongest departments of Christian Education in the Church. Mr. Wetmore is here and I hope to present him to you during Convention.

PROMOTION

OUR NEW Department of Promotion will soon present a well-rounded program designed to assist our churches in meeting their parochial and missionary obligations.

I continue to believe that our people will give generously when they know the needs and that our missionary giving can be increased to the point where special offerings to meet our ordinary needs will not be an annual necessity. It is our task as clergy and lay delegates to use every opportunity offered to us to spread the news of our missionary work both at home and abroad, and I bespeak your support of the Department of Promotion in its efforts.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

FOR SOME time many of our clergy and laymen have deplored the fact that the Diocese had no organized means of interpreting the Church to the community in which we live and work. Such attempts to foster good public relations and publicity as we had made were ineffective and inadequate. In the community, which is at least half-unchurched, we must not be content to let the impact of our faith fall only on our own people.

In 1951 when I asked the Convention to bring about a reorganization of the missionary enterprise of the Diocese, I asked that provision be made for a public relations office. The Committee on Reorganization in its report which was presented to the 1952 Convention suggested that such an office would involve the Bishop in his capacity as Diocesan rather than as President of the Missionary Council. The report therefore suggested that the public relations program be financed by Diocesan Assessment.

Acting on this suggestion, and in cooperation with the Trustees of the Cathedral, who were facing the same problem, I appointed Mr. William J. Moll as Consultant in Public Relations on January 1st of this year. I feel certain that in the brief period of four months the Director of Public Relations has been engaged, all of you will have noted the progress that has been made. The purpose of this office is to reach the public with the message of our Church through the press, television, radio and other agencies of communication. Mr. Moll is also Editor-in-Chief of the Diocesan BULLETIN which is our major channel of communication to our own people. I know Mr. Moll will welcome the cooperation of clergy and laity in extending the usefulness of our Diocesan publication which should enter every Episcopal home in this Diocese every month.

THE BISHOP'S OFFERING

ON MAY 3rd the parishes and missions of the Diocese participated in the second Bishop's Offering. Reports are still too meager for me to be able to say at this time how successful we have been.

The Council of the Diocese found upon its review of "expectations for 1953" that our Council departments and affiliated agencies would be some $61,000.00 short this year. The Council decided that its departments should have first priority, and consequently the affiliated agencies suffered the most drastic cut.

Our first need therefore from the Bishop's Offering is to reduce this cut in appropriations to these agencies. If the response to the Bishops Offering warrants it, the Council should consider our significant responsibility as the strongest Diocese in suporting the work of the National Council.

We must take care of basic needs of our own agencies and at the same time do our part in maintaining the work of the National church.

INSURANCE

AS YOU know, I have been concerned for the financial welfare of our clergy and their families. Last year I urged the continuing consideration of vestries in the matter of clergy stipends, and I am glad to say that many parishes have taken action in this regard. In the mission field we have established higher minimum standards and hope to be able to keep abreast of any further increases in living costs.

Of almost equal concern and still unsolved are the problems of adequate provision for the families of clergy in the event of death, and for the clergy and their families in the event of disability, sickness or need for hospitalization or surgery.

I have been called upon time after time in such emergencies, and only occasionally in the most serious situations have I been able to meet the needs. While my discretionary fund of $3,500 annually has helped, it has never been sufficient for this purpose and for the many other calls on me for assistance. I do not, however, believe that the solution to the financial problems created by death and ill health is an increase in this fund.

In the event of the death of the rector or other clergy of a parish their dependents are immediately faced with the need of finding a new home and adjusting themselves to a great reduction in income. Few of our clergy are able through savings or otherwise to provide adequately for their families and in many cases the $1,000 grant from the Church Pension Fund and the small pension itself are all that is available. Few parishes are able to afford adequate lump sum payments to the widows of clergymen and yet I am sure that all parishes would like to help in this matter.

I believe that a partial solution to this problem would be group insurance on the lives of all active clergy, contracted for by the Diocese and paid for through the Diocese by the parishes and missions. The amount of such insurance on the life of each clergyman I would suggest be nominal, say $3,000.

It is estimated that the annual premium on such an amount of insurance would be in the neighborhod of $50. per year. There would be no limitation as to age, and no physical examination would be required. Even this small sum would in most cases avoid considerable embarrassment to the parish and to the bereaved.

As to the problem of adequate provision in case of accident, hospitalization, surgery or sickness, I believe the clergy themselves would take advantage of an opportunity to insure themselves against these contingencies. A few years ago the Diocese formed a clergy group under the Blue Cross Hospitalization plan. However, the coverage is not broad enough and because the premiums are collected by the carrier, the rates are high. I believe that if the Diocese acted as the collecting agent, a broad contract at low rates could be secured.

In the case of both of these proposals, there would be no financial obligation on the Diocese. There would be the cost of collecting premiums. A nominal addition to the premium and the retention of dividends would probably meet this expense.

I would suggest that this matter be referred at once to the Committee on Miscellaneous Business for immediate study and recommendation to this Convention.

HISTORIOGRAPHER

IT GIVES me great pleasure to announce to you that the Reverend Dr. Powel M. Dawley, Professor of History at General Theological Seminary has accepted my appointment as historiographer of the Diocese.

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

ANY REPORT of the activities of our Church must include recognition of the remarkable work of the women in giving moral and financial suport to the program of the Church. It is appropriate to make special mention of the effective service rendered by the Woman's Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. George W. Burpee, whose term of office as President has just expired. During her administration the work of the Auxiliary has been carried to new heights of effective service. Mrs. Burpee's zeal for missions, her concern for every detail of the program, and her self-sacrificing devotion have brought her the deserved gratitude not only of the members of the Woman's Auxiliary but also of the entire Diocese. To the new president of the Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. Arthur J. Simpson, we wish every success.

ANGLICAN CONGRESS

WHEN THE Bishops of the Anglican Communion met at Lambeth in 1948 one of their concerns was to find ways to increase cooperation and mutual understanding between the different parts of the Anglican Communion. One proposal unanimously endorsed was that of an Anglican Congress to be held between the Lambeth Conferences. On the invitation of the American Bishops this Congress will be held in Minneapolis August 4 to 10th, 1954. Every Diocese of the Anglican Communion will be officially represented by the Bishop or Bishops, one priest and one lay person. Each Diocese has been asked to sponsor an overseas delegation other than one of its own missionary districts, providing some financial assistance for travel. The Congress of 1954 can be an important occasion in the life of the Anglican Community and certainly New York will want to be represented by an official delegation and provide assistance to an overseas diocese needing financial aid. The American Committee on Arrangements wishes to be informed as to the names of the official delegates and whether or not our Diocese will be willing to sponsor an overseas delegation. This information is requested on or before the first of next September. I am referring this matter to the Council for recommendation.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

LAST DECEMBER, as a duly elected representative of our Church I attended the Biennial Conference of the National Council of Churches in Denver. This organization has drawn together in cooperation on many levels thirty communions representing the Protestant and Orthodox churches, and constituting the largest body of Protestant and Orthodox Christians organized anywhere. While differing in many details of heritage, custom and doctrine, the Churches in the National Council are at one in their allegiance to Jesus Christ our Divine Lord and Saviour.

The success of the National Council of Churches during these first two years of its existence is in no small measure the result of the wise leadership given by Bishop Sherrill who at all times "in true ecumenical spirit combined a loyalty to his own communion with a loyalty to the Church of Christ as a whole." During these two years much progress has been made and while many problems remain to be solved, there are solid grounds for confidence in the future.

THE PROTESTANT COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

WE MUST not neglect the responsibility which rests upon our church to cooperate where we can in the work of the local expression of the National Council, which with us is the Protestant Council of the City of New York, in serving the moral, social and spiritual welfare of the people of our city.

CIVIC RIGHTEOUSNESS

IN THIS Convention our business is the work of the Church in the Diocese of New York, and in this great city, but it includes whatever affects the life and welfare of our community and, therefore, I feel called upon to urge you to fulfill your civic obligations as churchmen and citizens, to bring your influence to bear on the issues confronting us in this city.

About 60 years ago my distinguished predecessor, the Right Reverend Henry Codman Potter exposed in clear and specific terms the prevalent evils of the slums and the wicked influence of organized wrong-doing. To get his facts Bishop Potter spent the summer in a poor neighborhood.

We are considerably ahead of Bishop Potter in one way — we have more and better fact-finding agencies. Now the city is so vast that we must depend on the organized surveys of civic groups to give us a useful picture of conditions, and we are fortunate in New York to have at the service of the community many such groups to provide factual information.

As I said in my address to the Church Club, being a churchman — clerical or lay — does not mean one is an expert in political matters, criminology or urban sociology. But churchmen — clerical or lay — are supposed to know something about righteousness and decency and to have a passion for it.

Though the Church should be an important factor in shaping public opinion on civic issues which concern the life and welfare of the community, nevertheless, it is not the Church's task to endorse candidates for public office. It is not the Church's task to propose or endorse particular legislation, administrative regulations or techniques for reform. It is not the Church's task to engage in the enormous and complicated work of fact-finding and investigation of wrong-doing.

But it is the Church's task and duty to condemn civic unrighteousness in whatever form it is expressed, and to hold up before the people within and without the Church a picture of community life in accordance with the noble principles of our faith.

To acknowledge that the Church should hold up ideals of personal morality, and be silent on questions of public morality, is to forget the scene of St. Ambrose barring the Emperor Theodosius from Communion. It is to forget the prophets of the Old Testament, Isaiah and Amos, denouncing evil in high places.

Those who cry, "let the Church stick to the Bible," are obviously unaware that almost every page of the Bible has something to say about the very conditions with which we are concerned.

The Church must not only speak out against evil, but also place it on the conscience of her people to act in their own particular spheres of influence.

We are apt to be so concerned with world affairs, which is right and proper, that we often forget to keep our attention on affairs right here at home. We assume that what really matters is the world scene about which we can do nothing, rather than on conditions in our own city about which we can do much.

Actually, what we do here has a great bearing on what happens in the world as a whole. One reason why democracy is not taken too seriously in many parts of the world is because so much happens in day to day existence which makes a strong argument against our way of life.

Widely spread abroad, not only behind the Iron Curtain, but throughout Europe, are the accounts of corruption in our cities, gangsterism and crimes of violence. The exposé of a corrupt public official is given much more space than a report of our progress in housing facilities and educational facilities. Robberies and shootings make page one, while the quiet family life of a happy home is not reported at all. It is up to us to demonstrate that in a free society the citizenry can so take hold of responsibilities that reliable order and decency are achieved within freedom. We must not only better our own situation and further the safety and self-respect of ourselves and our families, but we must also contribute to the public relations of democracy throughout the world and remove one of the chief arguments against our way of life.

INTERFAITH COMMITTEE

Most of you have noticed in the press the announcement of an Interfaith Mass Meeting, which I had expected would take place on June 14th. The meeting was planned on the basis of the cooperation of the major religious groups in this city; Protestant, Jewish, Roman Catholic, and Orthodox. In other words it was to be a meeting in the interests of the welfare of our city, sponsored by the major religious groups, with laymen of the various churches as speakers.

I regret to announce that the Roman Catholics have finally advised me that they cannot participate in the proposed meeting on the grounds that such a meeting would have political implications. I fail to understand this position for I have made it crystal clear from the beginning that the purpose of this endeavor was non-political and concerned only with alerting the citizenry to the conditions in our city which need correcting. It was not a matter of Interfaith worship, but Interfaith cooperation for the welfare of our community.

Since our Roman Catholic brethren are not willing to participate, and in view of this action, our brethren of the Jewish Faith felt that under the circumstances it would not be truly an Interfaith approach which was the purpose of the gathering, it has been decided, therefore, to cancel the meeting.

I trust however that we may yet find a way as an Interfaith group to bring the forces of religion together in action for the betterment of our city.

THE CATHEDRAL

There are many things I could say about the life and work of the Cathedral Church during the past year. I want only to comment on the strides that have been made in fulfilling the directive of its Constitution that the Cathedral be "a center of intellectual light and learning in the spirit of Jesus Christ."

The Secretary of Convention wishes to record his own personal thanks and appreciation to the boys from the Cathedral Choir School who served as pages to the 172nd Convention. They were most helpful and contributed a great deal to the sessions.

Since last October several educational activities have been undertaken which will make a permanent contribution to the life of our Diocese and which indicate clearly the direction of the future of the Cathedral's educational program.

Most conspicuous, of course, was the School of Worship, held in collaboration with the Woman's Auxiliary for four weeks last fall which brought great help and insight to over 300 women of our Diocese.

The large attendance at the two leadership training sessions held this spring in preparation for the next School, gives reason for the expectation that next fall's enrollment will be even greater.

Similar in plan was the series on "Peace in a World of Strife" held this winter under the sponsorship of the Department of Christian Social Relations.

But equally important are the three forums which meet regularly throughout the year for graduate students and college faculty; for clergy interested in contemporary liturgical developments, and for clergy and doctors interested in psychological counselling.

Each of these illustrates the Cathedral's eagerness to function in the life and thought of the Church and each demonstrates the happy results that can be achieved anywhere in the Church when a group's program includes the three elements in the Cathedral forums and schools — worship, fellowship and study.

In the light of the educational function of the Cathedral, I am happy too that the Close is increasingly a center for meetings of theological scholars and other Christian groups. This emphasis is due to the stirring leadership given by our dynamic Dean whose engrossing interest is the New York Cathedral. I wish to thank Dean Pike, Canon West, Canon Green, Canon Betts, and the Bursar for their devoted attention to their several responsibilities.

COMMITTEE ON UN-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES

I cannot close this report without making some reference to what I consider a most serious threat to our national life at the present time. There is abroad in our land a spurious patriotism whose main intent seems to be to investigate anyone who does not fit into their pattern of narrow-minded outlook. In their hysterical fear of communist infiltration they are undermining the basic freedoms of our country's life. They seem now to be training their attention on the clergy. Obviously any clergyman against whom there is genuine evidence of subversive action, or illegal activities, or proof of his seeking the violent overthrow of the government of the United States should be investigated and tried, and where found guilty, punished. But the investigation should be based on genuine evidence and not on rumor, hearsay or gossip of irresponsible persons which seems to be the case in many situations. Consider this alarming, inexcusable action which I quote: (from an editorial in "Outlook," page 17, May issue)

"The latest shocking illustration is the case of the House Committee on un-American Activities and the Right Reverend Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The Committee received an inquiry as to whether it had investigated the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. A reply was given, on the stationery of the Office of the House Committee on un-American Activities, that the Committee has never investigated the National Council. But the letter went on to say that its files contain information concerning certain persons connected with the National Council. One of those thus mentioned is Bishop Sherrill. The allegation against him is that he was a sponsor of a congress of Soviet-American Friendship, and the reader is left to assume that this means a reprehensible pro-communist attitude. But now note the facts which the document of the Committee on un-American Activities wholly omits. The date of the sponsorship was 1942 when the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. were allies in arms, and when it was a patriotic duty to support the war. Moreover, other sponsors include such high officials of the government as Honorable Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, together with scores of the most eminent and honored citizens!

"The Committee on un-American Activities, by the action of some member or employee, thus misrepresents the position of one of the most honored Christian leaders of America. Further, it permits the document to be published by THE CHRISTIAN BEACON and widely circulated among people who have no way of knowing how completely false the alleged picture of Bishop Sherrill is.

"The case of Bishop Sherrill is not an isolated one. There are hundreds of other clergymen who have been treated with similar un-American procedures . . .

"This is a good time to recall the words of a great American patriot, Theodore Roosevelt, and to apply them to our present situation in the church:

" 'No greater harm can be done to the body politic than by those men who, through reckless and indiscriminate accusation of good men and bad men, honest men and dishonest men alike, finally so hopelessly puzzle the public that they do not believe that any man in public life is entirely straight; while, on the other hand, they lose all indignation against the man who really is crooked.' "

FINALLY, in our thinking together let us turn our thoughts to the message which this Rogation-tide brings to us. It is our task to sow the seed. The blessing of our efforts and result are in the hands of God. Our Lord hath said, "Abide in me, and I in you, as the branch cannot bear fruit of itself except it abide in the vine, no more can ye except ye abide in Me. I am the Vine, ye are the branches, he that abideth in Me and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit, for without Me ye can do nothing."

Horace W.B. Donegan

THE CRUCIAL YEARS

by Thomas Clark Pollock

THE YEARS young persons spend in college are crucial years. They come to college boys and girls, eager to learn, eager for new friends and new experiences, eager for what they have been told will be the most important four years of their lives. They leave it young men and women, with their attitudes developed and often set for life.

Their attitudes toward religion and the Church are usually well established by the time they leave college. When they graduate they may have been taught by their college experience that religion is something which hardly anyone takes seriously. Or they may have learned that the Church is something which you are associated with in childhood, but which you discover in college is simply a superannuated conglomeration of old superstitions and untenable hypotheses not intellectually respectable. Or they may have learned that the Church is a central ongoing reality which helps them see the meaning of the bewildering new knowledge they have met in classrooms and books and laboratories, which has been alert to their intellectual and spiritual needs as they have been growing toward maturity, and which has offered them an opportunity for the development of Christian friendship with other students.

It is the responsibility of the Church to see that college students have the opportunity to grow in Christian faith and understanding and friendship during their college years. The leaders of the Church tomorrow must come from the college students of today.

Most Episcopal students will not go to Episcopal or even to Church-related colleges. Unless the clear trend of the last thirty years is suddenly reversed, most college students from Episcopal homes will go to non-sectarian colleges and universities, public and private. The problem of the Church, therefore, is only in part how to care for its young people who go to Church-related colleges. It is also how to care for its sons and daughters who are students in Columbia and Hunter, for example, and New Paltz and New York University and Sarah Lawrence. There are more Episcopal students in New York University, for another example, than in Kenyon College.

There has been a heartening trend toward the introduction of religion into the curriculum of good colleges of liberal arts in recent years, and more and more Episcopal and other Christian faculty members have been taking thought about their religious responsibilities as college teachers. But the curriculum of nearly all colleges and universities in this generation is not one curriculum making a unified meaningful impact on students, but rather a wide and often bewildering variety of programs of study, many of which have no observable relationship to religious faith or to the development of the religious life of the student.

The Church must put thought and time and money into providing opportunities, through its Chaplains and Commissions for College Work and other agencies, for students in the crucial years of college to be strengthened in their faith and devotion so that they may grow into active Churchmen who can be leaders of our Church in the future.

THE RICHMOND CONVOCATION

Roger Roughton, Esq.
The Richmond Correspondent

ON APRIL 23 THE CONVOCATION held its Spring business meeting at ALL SAINTS'. It acted upon the new By-Laws to bring them into line with those of the Council of the Diocese.

Bishop Donegan graced the meeting with his presence, giving a real spiritual message, in which he stressed the necessity of a re-awakening in the Church.

Mr. Oxholm explained the new organization of the Diocese. Archdeacon Brätt, speaking along the same lines as the Bishop, pointed to successes obtained, when real awakening had taken place.

The Rev. John Pyle, Diocesan Chaplain of College Work, emphasized the necessity for such work, explaining how the HOME parishes could assist.

Elections:

Dean for two years, The Rev. Bernard A. Hemsley, of ST. ANDREW'S.

To the Executive Council for: one year, The Rev. Raymond E. Brock, ST. STEPHEN'S two years, The Rev. George E. Nichols, ST. MARY'S one year, Howard Smith, ST. ANDREW'S two years, Hart Lehman, ST. ALBAN'S

Sec'y.-Treas., Howard Smith

ST. SIMON'S, Concord, received a bequest of $5,000 from the estate of Mrs. Minna C. Nichols, for many years a devoted communicant and member of the Ladies Guild.

A new series of monthly meetings for all women of the parish was inaugurated in January to provide a firmer basis for parochial unity over and above existing organizations. In April the work was consideration of the church's work on the lower East Side, with Sister Juliana of the Order of St. Margaret as speaker.

ALL SAINTS', Mariners' Harbor. Released Time school was conducted weekly during Lent for children from four neighboring schools by Miss Alice Britton, second-year student at Windham House.

The CANTERBURY CLUB, open to all college students studying or resident on Staten Island, is well under way with a study course on "Faith of the Church". Supper meetings are held monthly at ST. SIMON'S, under the direction of The Rev. Donald Cheetham of ST. ALBAN'S, and The Rev. Douglas Glasspool of ST. SIMON'S. A Corporate Communion and breakfast is planned for May 21, and the June meeting will be devoted to planning activities for the next academic year.

At ASCENSION, West Brighton, Fr. Rogers reports the installation of an amplification system. First used on Passion Sunday, it permits the chimes to be heard over an area of better than 6 blocks. This was accomplished by funds deposited for this rather than for Altar flowers. Numerous memorials have been provided by similar means during the past 8 years. Books for the Epistoler and Gospeler have been blessed and are in use in memory of Benjamin Reese and Emma Wisely.

Fr. Rogers also reports 97% reenrollment in the Day School for September, 1953, with openings available only in kindergarten.

W. A. members heard Miss Thelma Caruso, ST. ALBAN'S, Field Consultant of the Diocese, speak on G.F.S. with slides; and Eliko Takigo, presently a student at Wagner College, on customs, education and living conditions in Liberia. He was dressed in native attire and played native records.

All children of ST. ALBAN'S, Eltingville, and their friends were invited to the G.F.S. card party. Proceeds will go to the Scholarship Fund, Cuttington College, Liberia.

ST. JOHN'S, Clifton. Lenten Clam Chowder sales paid the premium for Fine Arts Insurance, covering the priceless windows and all Communion ware.

With funds raised, except for the new cushions, Redecoration started April 13 with the hope that its completion would mean a rededication of ourselves to Him whom the Church is meant to glorify.

On April 12 at 4 P.M. Fr. Frier presented to the Rt. Rev. Robert E. Campbell, D.D., O.H.C., retired Bishop of Liberia, 17 candidates for confirmation and 3 to be received from the Roman Communion.

A letter of appreciation to Mrs. Hafferkamp and the church school children for their gifts of toys and equipment was received from Mary Vita Beltram of the Philippines.

At ST. MARY'S, Castleton, on April 12, Fr. Nichols presented for confirmation 9 boys, 5 girls and 7 adults, and to be received from the Roman Communion, 2 adults, to the Rt. Rev. Robert R. Campbell, D.D., O.H.C., retired Bishop of Liberia, at the 11 A.M. service.

ST. MARY'S won the S. I. Protestant Council Midget League's basketball championship. Congratulations to Lee Hanson, Blake Gabbett, George Morren, Jr., Jack Cafaro, Kim Miller and Sammy Bullock.

An inspiring pageant of the Resurrection was given at the Children's Service on Easter afternoon. Thirty Sunday School pupils took part. On April 9 the Men and Boys held a successful evening of Fun and Fellowship with refreshments. Twenty-four attended, and another is planned for May.

Mrs. Arthur B. Achilles of ASCENSION has been elected chairman of the District W.A. to replace Mrs. Thomas Dobson of ST. JOHN'S, retired. The Evening Branches held their meeting May 11 at ASCENSION, and the Day Branches will hold theirs at CHRIST CHURCH on May 26. A Quiet Day will be held at ST. JOHN'S on May 20, conducted by Mrs. Arthur Crosby of Philadelphia.

Much To Many

MANY institutions in the Diocese are aided by the Woman's Auxiliary through gifts made and collected in its Supply work, as well as through contributions of money for their support. The list of recipients nearly equals the list of diocesan institutions, and the amount of the gifts is very considerable.

Warm clothing is sent to the Family Service Department and to the Ellis Island project of the City Mission Society, and household linen and clothing go to St. Barnabas House. St. Faith's House and the Youth Consultation Service receive layettes and girls' clothing; Sea View Hospital, St Barnabas', St. Luke's, and St. Mary's Hospitals are provided with linens, surgical dressings or clothing according to their specified needs. Knitted sweaters, socks, scarves, etc., as well as Christmas gifts, are sent to the Seamen's Church Institute. The Greer School, St. Mary's-in-the-Field and the children of the mission at Dover Plains, and Sheltering Arms Children's Service are aided in their work for needy folk at one end of the age scale, while the chaplain at the City Home for Dependents is aided with the work with the needy at the other end.

The brief mention here indicates the breadth of interest which the women of the Diocese bring to bear in a practical way through the Woman's Auxiliary service to these and other institutions close at hand. Beside providing the salary of the City Mission Society's worker at Ellis Island, many branches contribute money as well as supplies for other Diocesan work. The value of new garments, linens, etc. given through the Supply Department in 1952 was $7,960.88; in addition, 6,717 used garments in good condition were sent.

REPORT ON SCHOLARSHIP FUND

The Committee on the Scholarship Fund of the Church Club gratefully announces that it has received $4,423.50, and presented to Bishop Donegan at the Annual Dinner $500.00, leaving a balance of $3,923.50.

This is more than a splendid beginning and it is sincerely believed that the Fund will, with the continuing support of the membership, attain its goal—$12,000.00—which it is estimated will provide an income of $500.00 each year for some worthy seminarian selected by Bishop Donegan.

Annual Meeting of Cathedral Guild

THE ANNUAL Meeting of the Cathedral Guild of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine was held on Tuesday, April 14, at Cathedral House. The Bishop of the Diocese and the Dean of the Cathedral made addresses. There was a large attendance. The meeting was followed by tea.

It was reported at the meeting that during the year the Guild had contributed toward the Building Fund $500.00, and toward summer music $1500.00, and made many other gifts.

The Dean's Column

AS I SAID IN AN EARLIER COLUMN, the New York Cathedral is charged in its constitution with the responsibility of being "a center of intellectual light and leading in the spirit of Jesus Christ." This month I wish to talk about one way we have been seeking to discharge this responsibility: through forums for particular interest-groups.

THE THREE WHICH WE NOW HAVE MEETING regularly in Cathedral House represent what we hope is only a beginning of this type of educational work at the Cathedral: we can envision a score or more of such forums meeting regularly.

THE FIRST TO BE ORGANIZED, and now over a year old, is the Graduate-Faculty Forum, which meets Sunday evenings at 7:30. The meetings attract from 35 to 100, largely graduate students and college teaching personnel. The group has heard from various distinguished visitors to the Cathedral, such as the Dean of St. Paul's and Chancellor Milford of Lincoln, and from theological scholars nearby such as Professors Casserley, Pittenger and Richardson, and Chaplain Krumm. Though most of the sessions have been addressed by such scholars — grouped in series on theology, liturgy, history of Christian thought, etc. — a good number of the sessions have been led by Chaplain Pyle, who is in immediate charge of the forum.

THIS WINTER THE CATHEDRAL LITURGICAL FORUM was organized (I shouldn't say "organized" because actually none of our forums have any organization; those come who want to; a friend brings a friend; Cathedral clergy perform the necessary functions of convener and of secretary). The clergy who come — of every range of churchmanship — are drawn by a common interest in "the liturgical movement" — the aim the needs and understanding of our people. While loyalty to the Book of Common Prayer is presupposed, the approach is ecumenical. At one meeting, the conclusions of the group of Roman Catholic liturgical scholars meeting at Maria Laach were discussed; at another about twenty American Lutherans met with us and told us of the liturgical movement in their Communion; at another a priest of the Swedish Church discussed the movement in Scandinavia. At the next meeting the Liturgical Commission's proposed revisions of the Prayer Book Eucharist will be reviewed.

THE NEWEST FORUM, THREE MEETINGS OLD, is the Cathedral Psychological Counselling Forum, made up of clergy specializing in counselling, rectors of parishes where such services are available, and psychiatrists who are churchmen. Our aim here is to explore the frontier between religion and the psychological sciences and to exchange information and experience in the work of healing. Each time a report is made as to the program at one of our counselling centers and then the discussion centers on a particular problem (e.g., the relationships between counselling and private confession).

OUR GENERAL PLAN WITH THE FORUMS is to relate education, worship and fellowship (the didaché, eucharist and agápe of the early church's meetings). Thus the Liturgical Forum starts with a service (sung by the members in plainsong), continues with coffee and buns, concludes with a paper and discussion. And the Graduate-Faculty Forum concludes with compline (the singing is good) and a coffee hour. The Psychological Forum begins with dinner and ends with compline.

SIMILAR IN PURPOSE ARE THE OCCASIONAL MEETINGS and conferences such as the semi-annual weekend session of the Society for Theological Discussion, an ecumenical group sponsored by the Hazen Foundation. We formerly met at Princeton and Drew but now use the Cathedral as our permanent meeting place. Underway now are plans for a summer conference on church service, sponsored by the Joint Commission on Church Music, of which Canon Green is a member.

THESE ARE SOME OF THE WAYS the Cathedral is seeking to be "a center of intellectual light and leading in the spirit of Jesus Christ."

lake. These old canoes have ceased to be safe.

After serious investigation. the Camp Committee decided that we should have three 15 foot aluminum canoes and one war canoe for each of the two camps. A 15 foot canoe with three paddles, two life preservers and one middle seat will cost the camp $161.76. The war canoes, seating 10, with paddles will cost $266 each.

The Churchwomen's League for Patriotic Service and two members of the Camp Committee have each agreed to purchase one 15 foot canoe. We sincerely hope our friends will make it possible for us to purchase the others.

Would you be willing to help the water-front program for these boys and girls by a contribution of a canoe or whatever you feel you might give toward the cost of one? Mr. William W. Kennedy, Chairman of the Camp Committee, will be very grateful for any assistance you may give us for this purpose.

THE HUDSON CONVOCATION

The Rev. Peter W. O. Hill
The Hudson Correspondent

THE spring dinner and meeting of the Hudson Convocation of the Episcopal Diocese of New York was held Tuesday evening, April 14, at the Rosendale Grange Hall, with over 150 representatives from numerous parishes in the convocation.

The Rev. Harold F. Hohly of CHRIST CHURCH, Bronxville, was the principal guest speaker. Speaking on Modern Man in Search of Community, he stated that there are two theories today, individualism, in which man believes himself to be all important, and the state is made up of a collection of individuals, and the Christian concept of society and state, which he believes should predominate.

Other speakers included the Rev. John W. Pyle, Chaplain for College Work, who briefly described his duties, and Theodor Oxholm, assistant treasurer of the Diocese of New York and treasurer of the board of managers.

Following a turkey dinner, the convocation adopted new by-laws and elected officers. The Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger of Kingston was elected and installed as dean, replacing the Rev. Alan H. Tongue, who resigned after a two-year tenure. The Rev. Charles H. Brieant welcomed the group to Rosendale. This was the first convocation ever to be held in Rosendale.

ST. JOHN'S, Kingston, has signed a contract for the complete rebuilding and electrification of the Organ.

At their recent Annual Meeting it was decided to limit the term of the Wardens to not more than two consecutive terms and to change the date of the Annual Meeting to the second week in January.

The American Legion Commander of the Sullivan-Shafer Post of New Paltz recently made a special request of their chaplain, the Rev. J. Marshall Wilson, for prayers for peace in ALL OF THE CHURCHES OF NEW PALTZ. Father Wilson accordingly contacted the local pastors, and all promised to offer prayers for peace at their services.

Mr. W. W. Smith has presented to TRINITY CHURCH, Saugerties, a pair of handsomely-carved mahogany Standard Candlesticks in memory of his parents, Robert and Margaret Smith.

ST. GREGORY'S, Woodstock. Bishop Donegan paid his first visit to the Chapel recently. Following the Confirmation Service a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Frederica Milne.

At ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, Cornwall, Easter Day was a time of using New Things and dedicating them to the service of God. At the 7 A.M. service a Paten was dedicated in memory of Elmer and Raymond Ostrander and was used for the first time at the 8 A.M. Eucharist. At the 11 o'clock service a Receiving Basin was blessed, and a surplice for the priest (also the gift of the Altar Guild) was used for the first time. The Paten was the gift of Mrs. Elmer Ostrander.

Bishop Campbell of Holy Cross Monastery administered the rite of Confirmation at ST. JOHN'S on Rogation Sunday.

A group of young people interested in the Rosendale Work Camp Project met at ST. JOHN'S CHURCH in Cornwall on Friday evening, May 8, for a meeting. Following a Celebration of the Holy Communion and breakfast the next morning, they went to Rosendale to visit ALL SAINTS' MISSION and made final plans for the summer's work. The Rosendale Work Camp Project will begin on August 17. The Rev. David Bradley and Mrs. Bradley, of CHRIST CHURCH, Yonkers; the Rev. Charles M. Brieant and Mrs. Brieant of ST. PETER'S, Stone Ridge, High Falls, and Rosendale; and the Rev. Robert Ward and Mrs. Ward of ST. JOHN'S, Cornwall, will be the adult supervisors of the project. Information regarding the Project may be had by writing either the Rev. D. P. T. Bradley or the Rev. Robert Ward.

At HOLY INNOCENTS, Highland Falls, the Easter Festival was ushered in with a Celebration of the Holy Communion, at eight o'clock. Almost every pew in the church was occupied. This service was followed by a short Sunday School service, after which the children enjoyed an Easter egg hunt on the church grounds, under the supervision of the Warden, Mr. Albert S. Johnston and Vestryman, Mr. Daniel H. Herman, together with Mrs. Clara Browne, Sup't., Mrs. Robert Nikola, and Mrs. Theodore H. Hicks. At the 11 o'clock Eucharist Gounod's Messe Solennelle, commonly known as the St. Cecilia Mass, was superbly rendered by the parish choir to the Communion, under the direction of Miss Mary Drew, parish organist. It was the largest Easter attendance during the 27 years of incumbency of the Rector. Altogether, it was a glorious Easter for HOLY INNOCENTS, and one to be long remembered.

Many repairs and improvements have been brought about in the rectory under the personal and very efficient supervision of the Warden, Charles W. Erichsen. Because of work done, personally, by Mr. Erichsen, and, through his influence, by Mr. Max Steffen, one of the outstanding mason workers in the village who donated his time and materials, much cost of time and labor was saved to the parish. All members of the Vestry have freely given much time and labor to necessary repairs to buildings which are beginning to show the ravages of time. Mr. Daniel Herman, Major Rathke and Mr. Ebenezer Conley have been and are devoting much time to the Church grounds; while Mr. August Getz has been responsible for repairs to the church and rectory roofs. HOLY INNOCENTS rejoices in a Vestry who serve the Lord most faithfully on the Lord's Day, and give their spare time, on the other six days, to the temporal works of the parish. In all this they are ably supported by Saint Mary's Guild, a parish organization of hard-working women, of which Mrs. Bertha Nikola is President.

The members of HOLY INNOCENTS Parish, Highland Falls, have not yet recovered from the sorrowful shock sustained by the sudden death of Mr. Griffith J. Jones who, for the last ten years of his life, had served the parish most faithfully; as a member of the Vestry, and most loyally and meticulously as Parish Treasurer.

St. Lukes Nurses Graduate

Donegan, D.D., S.T.D., the Bishop of New York, presiding, and Dr. William Edgar Park, President of the Northfield Schools and trustee of Simmons College, delivering the Commencement address.

In the photograph to the left we show J. Stewart Baker, Esq., President of the Hospital, who confers the diplomas, and Dr. William E. Park in the procession, taking their places for the exercises.

The smaller photograph shows Mr. Baker in a typical pose for delivering the diploma to a graduate.

Krumm, of Columbia University, who spoke on the subject of Missionary Inspiration.

The Reverend James Harry Price, Rector of ST. JAMES THE LESS, Scarsdale, announced that he is resigning his parish connections as of July 1. He spoke of his long association of twenty-five years with the Convocation and his regret at parting.

The new Dean and Executive Committee members were formally installed by Bishop Boynton at Evensong.

One hundred men and boys attended the George Washington Communion Service and Breakfast on February 22, sponsored by the Men's Fellowship of THE CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER, Pelham. The guest speakers at the Breakfast were: Past Commander Murrel H. Consorty, of Pelham Post No. 50, of the American Legion, and Mr. Thomas R. Lashar, Chief Metallurgist, of the Joseph Dixon Crucible Company of Stamford, Connecticut.

On Palm Sunday at SAINT MARK'S CHURCH, Mount Kisco, the Helen Whitehouse Walker Silver Cross was awarded to Ned Foss, Crucifer, and Dale Sarles, Acolyte. At 5:00 o'clock and again at 8:15 P.M. on Good Friday, at THE CHURCH OF ST. JAMES THE LESS, Scarsdale, a Mime was presented by the young people of the Parish. A Mime is a story of the Cross. It tells simply and devoutly each of the fourteen Stations. It is called the Mime because it is done with no dialogue, except for a Narrator. Music is used to set the mood. First the Narrator speaks the Stations, then the actors portray in pantomime the action. This type of production has been given in churches down through the centuries until now and is one of the best liked traditions of all the churches.

The boys of ST. PETER'S SCHOOL sang the Choral Eucharist on Sunday morning, May 3, and also at Evensong at 4:00 P.M. at TRINITY CHURCH, Ossining. The boys were entertained at the homes of parishioners for dinner.

The newly elected Wardens and Vestrymen of ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Yonkers, were formally installed in office at the 11:00 Service, on April 12. The new officers are as follows: William Holme, Senior Warden; John G. Kelly, Junior Warden; Frederick S. Harper, H. Wilson Taylor, Robert Jackson, John T. Parton, Vestrymen.

An unusual series of special Lenten Services was held in ST. ANDREW'S MEMORIAL CHURCH. Yonkers, on Sunday evening during Lent. These featured dramatic readings of great passages and sections of Holy Scripture by the Rector, The Rev. Henry Sears Sizer, Jr. These Services were preceded each week by a Parish supper served by a committee representing 1/6 of the Parish. The whole congregation were invited to come with their children without charge. One hundred to one hundred twenty-five people attended each week, with a peak attendance of one hundred forty-two.

A most successful Father and Son Corporate Communion and Breakfast was held at CHRIST CHURCH, Yonkers, on Sunday The speaker was Mr. Wynn Bussmann, Diocesan Chairman of Layman's Activity, whose subject was: "Why I am an Episcopalian."

A series of Bible Seminars was conducted at ST. BARNABAS CHURCH, Irvington, by the Rector, The Rev. Richard L. Harbour, on Wednesday evenings during Lent. The general theme of the Seminar was: "Redemption and Revelation", revealing the Bible as a record of God's mighty acts in history for the redemption of sinful mankind.

The Men's Club of ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, White Plains, had as a speaker at their March 23 dinner, the Rev. Roger Blanchard, Secretary for college work, of the National Council of the Episcopal Church. CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, Tarrytown, announced on Easter the successful completion of a fund-raising campaign for the church school. The goal set for the campaign was $25,000, and it was over-subscribed by approximately $3,000. The money will be used to create new classrooms on the first floor of the church, and the work will begin on June 1.

The EVENING BRANCH of the Women's Auxiliary of GRACE CHURCH, Hastings, sponsored a Children's Fair, held on Saturday. May 9, from 12 noon to 5:00 P.M., under the chairmanship of Mrs. Norman Webb and Miss Joan Minnis. Toys, books, clothing, ceramic arts, popcorn, food, were prominently displayed from various booths. Pony rides were featured. Proceeds from the fair will go toward the purchase of a sound movie projector for general parish use.

The SCHOOL OF WORSHIP for the Hudson and Harlem Division of the Women's Auxiliary met at GRACE CHURCH, Hastings, on Tuesday, April 14. The meeting began with Morning Prayer conducted in the church by the rector at 10:30 A.M. The Rev. Arthur R. Willis, rector of GRACE CHURCH, also gave a brief introductory sermon dealing with the theme of the day, "God's Grace as it Motivates the Individual." Later, coffee was served in the parish hall, and the panel discussion was held. These meetings, which are held monthly, are very well attended. The next meeting of the SCHOOL was at CHRIST CHURCH, Bronxville, May 12.

THE BRONX CONVOCATION

The Rev. Leslie J. Lang

THE Annual Meeting of the Convocation was held at ST. STEPHEN'S, Woodlawn, on Wednesday, April 22. Evening Prayer was read by the Rector, Father Isaac. Bishop Boynton brought the greetings of the Bishop of the Diocese, and made a brief address. The By-Laws of the Convocation, as amended to meet the requirements of the new Canon, were unanimously adopted. The Assistant Treasurer, the Director of Public Relations, and the Chaplain of College Work spoke of their respective responsibilities in the Diocese, and enlisted the cooperation of the members of Convocation. The following were elected to office: The Rev. Leslie Lang, SAINT PETER'S, Dean; the Rev. Wendell Roberts, TRINITY, Morisania, Secretary; Silas Gairing, ST. PETER'S, Treasurer; the Rev. Gerald Barry, CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale; the Rev. Arthur Litchfield, ST. JAMES'; Neilson Tomlinson, TRINITY; and G. Harry Belmont, ST. PETER'S, members of the Executive Committee. After the installation of the new officers, and the Bishop's blessing, a social hour was held in the church undercroft.

On Low Sunday, two new windows were dedicated at CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale, in memory of Percival and Marion Williams Wild. One of the central figures is St. Elizabeth of Hungary, the daughter of a king, noted especially for her works of charity as well as for her Christian self-effacement. The other is St. Andrew the Apostle, known for his zeal in furthering the cause of Christ among his associates.

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH BASKETBALL LEAGUE Championship was won by the SAINT JAMES' FIVE. Pressing on to further victory they have challenged their own Championship Team of 1947.

The Young People's Fellowship of SAINT MARGARET'S recently took part in the New York Times Youth Forum on Channel 5, WABD DuMont Network. The Archdeacon of New York was the celebrant and preacher at the Eastertide Witness Service.

The Chancel of ST. PAUL'S, Morisania, has been completely refloored through the memorial gifts of many members of the parish. A special service of Dedication was held on the afternoon of Low Sunday, when the Chancel Memorial Plate was blessed. The Dean of the Convocation was the preacher. In addition, the Girls' Club has paid for the decorating of the Chapel of the Blessed Sacrament, the Basketball Team has presented a new receiving basin (the Vicar reports that the old one is not big enough to hold the offerings), and the Confirmation Class of this year has given a pair of candlesticks for the High Altar.

Two parishioners of TRINITY CHURCH, Morisania, have made a gift to the parish of a Chalice and Paten, and an additional hymn board has been presented by Oliver Skeene. The church will soon be standing in the midst of a vast Housing Project of the City of New York. Because most of the surrounding buildings have now been demolished, the church "stands out in bold relief and its physical imperfections are apparent." Therefore Father Roberts and the Vestry have begun a campaign to raise $15,000 for repairs and improvements of the property.

Miss Edna Maguire, a communicant of CHRIST CHURCH, Yonkers, and active in Young People's activities in the Diocese, having

The Bishop Sets Apart a Deaconess

THE RIGHT REVEREND Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., S.T.D., The Bishop of New York, Set Apart Pauline E Watts, to the Office of Deaconess on Wednesday, May the 13th at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, Amsterdam Avenue and 112th Street, at 10 A.M

Miss Watts spent her early childhood in Newburyport, Mass., and taught school in the eastern part of the United States, until she decided on Missionary work in Alaska. In Alaska she was associated with Deaconess Anne Kathleen Thompson at the St. Mark's Mission in Nenana, for four years. Her close association with Deaconess Thompson whose "life of devoted Christian service, was an inspiration and a challenge, and undeniable call to 'carry on'" said Pauline Watts, prompted her to make this decision.

Miss Watts studied as a Deaconess Candidate in Washington under the supervision of The Reverend J. Wilson Sutton, D.D., St. Stephen's Church, Manhattan, and Deaconess Bechtol, Superintendent of the Episcopal Eye, Ear & Throat Hospital of Washington, D.C., assisting the Deaconess for the past year and a half.

Dr. Sutton preached the sermon. Miss Watts will be at St. Stephen's Church, 122 West 69th Street, New York City, as parish Deaconess.

Immediately following the service a small reception was held at The Cathedral House.

served her postulancy, was received as a Novice in the Community of the Holy Spirit, on February 14, in the Convent Chapel. Canon West, the Warden, was assisted by Father Lang, the Chaplain, at the Service. This new Community administers St. Hilda's Day School, 621 West 113th Street, under the direction of the Rev. Mother Ruth, C.H.S. The Bishop of the Diocese of New York is the Episcopal Visitor to the Community, and President of the Board of Trustees of the School.

A unique endowment has been called for by the Rector of CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale. Says a recent Bulletin, "As handsome and useful an addition to our parish house equipment as could be made is acknowledged with thanks . . . a large, cut-glass punch bowl, together with eight matching glasses. Securing enough additional glasses to meet requirements will not be difficult; what we really need is someone to ENDOW said punch bowl, so that it will ever be in the category of the widow's cruse of oil (I Kings 17:14)".

The Theatre Guild of SAINT JAMES', Fordham, presented its annual pageant, "The Resurrection of Our Lord" at the Mite-Box Offering Service on Easter afternoon.

Mrs. Ethel Mackie and members of her family have presented SAINT STEPHEN'S, Woodlawn, with a fine chalice and paten in memory of the late Charles Y. Mackie, a devoted servant of Christ and His Church. Mr. Mackie was for some years a Layreader of the Parish, and Clerk of the Vestry. The sacred vessels, executed by Louis F. Glasier, were consecrated by the Bishop of the Diocese at the High Altar of the Cathedral on Tuesday, March 24, and were used for the first time on Easter Day. The parish has also raised money with which to purchase a memorial for Mr. Mackie, the nature of which will be determined later.

THE DUTCHESS CONVOCATION

The Rev. J. Jack Sharkey
The Dutchess Correspondent

THE Spring Convocation Meeting was entertained at ST. PAUL'S AND TRINITY PARISH, Tivoli. The principal business of the afternoon session was the reorganization of the Convocation. Each parish is now entitled to representation by three delegates – one of which may be a woman.

A complete set of white vestments for altar, pulpit and lectern were recently dedicated by the Rev. Frank H. Frisbie, at ST. PETER'S CHURCH, Lithgow. The material was the gift of Mrs. Herman G. Place; the designing was done by Miss Sally Gifford; and the embroidering, sewing and assembling was done by members of the Millbrook group under the direction of Mrs. Daryl Parshall of Smithfield. The group included Mrs. Joseph Diore, Mrs. Arthur Barry, Mrs. Beverley Davison and Mrs. Robert Watson Pomeroy.

Several church schools in the Convocation presented special features in relation to Lenten Missionary Study. At CHRIST CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, a display of handwork was called "African Afternoon" with tea served. Lenten art work was exhibited and prizes awarded at GRACE CHURCH, Millbrook, following the children's Festival Service Easter afternoon. ZION CHURCH, Wappingers Falls, held an African Palaver in the Parish House on the Saturday afternoon after Easter with decorations, exhibits, light supper, and movies all on the African theme.

Services and meetings have been shifted from Trinity to St. Paul's at ST. PAUL'S AND TRINITY PARISH, Tivoli. This is an annual move started when the two churches combined into one parish some years ago. The parish entertained the Convocation meeting and dinner last month.

Rogation, or "prayer Sunday", is recognized at CHRIST CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, in special ways. The fields are blessed and loaf bread is used in the Eucharist. The Church School children go into the churchyard after their service for a procession, and the congregation gather outside for prayers at the conclusion of the late service.

Deaconess Alice Reynolds has taken over duties as Deaconess-in-charge of ST. CLARE'S HOUSE, Upper Red Hook. A Day of Devotion is planned to be held at the house on Ember Wednesday in Whitsuntide, beginning at 10:30 in the morning.

As part of a gift to the Endowment Fund of ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH, Staatsburgh, Mrs. Lytle Hull has presented a hard-carved oak pulpit in memory of Robert P. Huntington, Helen G. Huntington, Helen F. Dinsmore and Madeleine I. Dinsmore.

Continuing a practice started several years ago, the unused balance of money in the Easter Memorial Flower Fund at ZION CHURCH, Wappingers Falls, has been used to plant flowering trees in Zion Church Park, a block-square park in the heart of Wappingers Falls. Fourteen trees are now growing there.

CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH, Rhinebeck, has received a gift of six dozen silver tea spoons to add to the Tea Service owned by the Parish. The only remaining item to complete the service is a silver tray.

The Grace Church Bulletins, GRACE CHURCH, Millbrook, are bound handsomely each year by Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Busher, members of the parish. Volume IV has just been received and makes a valuable gift.

Mrs. Herman Ebeling has presented a Sanctuary Lamp to ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, in memory of Alexander Duncan, Isabella Scott Duncan, and Margaret Duncan Hogan.

THE RAMAPO CONVOCATION

The Rev. Fessenden A. Nichols
The Ramapo Correspondent

THE ANNUAL business meeting was held on April 16 at the CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Greenwood Lake, with the Rev. H. B. Malcolm, Rector, as host. The retiring Dean, the Rev. E. W. Churchill, Rector of ST. STEPHEN's parish, Pearl River, presided. Reports of diocesan activities were made by the Rev. G. W. Rubino on Christian Social Relations, Mr. Theodor Oxholm on the new diocesan council set-up and its bearing upon the convocations, and the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Bishop of New York, who laid emphasis upon the Cathedral and its significance to all the people.

Addresses were made by the Rev. John W. Pyle, College Work Chaplain, and the Rev. Donald W. Greene, Diocesan Missionary in Connecticut, who gave a detailed account of how his diocese is meeting the challenge of new communities as the population changes occur all over the state of Connecticut.

The Rev. Fessenden A. Nichols, Rector of CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, was elected Dean for a two-year term, and the following men were chosen to assist him: The Rev. Gerard Rubino, Rector of CHRIST CHURCH, Warwick, secretary; Mr. Walter Belding, of ST. DAVID'S, Highland Mills, treasurer; The Rev. Harold Thelin, Rector of GRACE CHURCH, Nyack; and The Rev. Herbert Barrall, Rector of GRACE CHURCH, Middletown; — clerical members of the executive committe; Mr. Arthur C. Whritner, senior warden of CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern; and Dr. Charles Lawrence of the Department of Sociology, Brooklyn College, member of ST. PAUL'S, Spring Valley; — lay members of the executive committee.

By-laws were adopted. Men and women are eligible to serve as delegates to Convocation by unanimous vote of those present. This proposal was made by the Rev. Walter W. Reid, Vicar of ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, Tomkins Cove, who pleaded for equal rights of Episcopalian men and women in legislative bodies of the Church.

Eighty persons attended the dinner, served by the Woman's Guild of the CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, in the Greenwood Lake community hall.

The Rev. Walter W. Reid reports good news from Tomkins Cove, where the chapel of ST. JOHN THE DIVINE and its parish house have received a needed paint job: — likewise the HOUSE OF PRAYER at Jones Point. His people in Fort Montgomery hope to be able soon to buy a pipe organ, and to have the church building painted on the exterior.

All these congregations went over the top in the 1952 missionary quota.

The Rev. Fessenden A. Nichols reports that his new parish house is in constant use, not only by church societies, but also by Girl Scouts. So many are the requests from civic and fraternal groups that the parish authorities have to say "no" at times, else the distinctly religious activities might be crowded out. In Lent a missionary education project on Monday nights attracted family groups that brought their own food, enjoyed singing, studied Africa, saw pictures, and made a miniature African village. The Easter offering in the children's mite boxes was one hundred dollars.

The Rev. Fenimore E. Cooper was instituted as priest and rector of ST. MARY'S, Tuxedo, by the Bishop of our Diocese, on March 18. 150 parishioners and friends attended a reception the night before; then on the occasion of the church service two choirs, led by Frederick Bentley, senior warden and organist, sang "The Bells of St. Mary's", and many other songs, an anthem, and appropriate hymns; — clergy from Westchester, Manhattan, Bronx and Ramapo Convocations

Then The Vicar Said . . .

THE VICAR observed, as we walked the streets of Spring Valley that day, God had been good to him and to his people. The service marking the 80th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of St. Paul's Church, Spring Valley, had ended, and the villagers had returned to their homes. We stopped for a moment and looked back at the "little white church on the hill", her gleaming white paint and neat green trim attesting to the love lavished on her by devoted communicants. We were silent for a time and our hearts were quickened with feelings of gratitude and pride. Then the Vicar said, "we have come a long way together." Modestly he told of his own part as priest and leader, preferring rather to use superlatives in praise of his people. "But," he concluded, "it was God through Christ who gave us the faith."

The Rev. Gustave A. Zeltner had indeed "come a long way with his people" since that day in 1944 when Bishop Manning had blessed him and sent him to Spring Valley and New City. His was a dual responsibility, a ministry to two assisted congregations. Slowly, methodically, and with the patience of a school master (he had taught at our own Trinity School, New York) he went to work, and soon discouragement turned to hope and hope to achievement. Attendances increased, budgets were enlarged and this year for the first in more than I can remember, St. Paul's, Spring Valley, and St. John's, have informed us they will need no financial aid from the Diocese.

With characteristic humility he said he hoped I too could appreciate the extent of his gratitude to those who had served with him. He spoke of Ernest Strack, and Harry Meitzel, of Robert Foreman and John Davidson, of Mary McMahon and Adele Hall and their work at St. Paul's. He was warm in his praise of Mrs. Thomas Youman, Mrs. Annie Garrison and Charlotte Plass, of Mrs. Edith Williams and Sophie Butterfass, Mrs. John Lee (who for many years while superintendent of the Sunday School walked three miles to Church every Sunday in "rain, shine or snow"), of Roswell Blauvelt and John Coyle and his brother Harry Coyle. He told me of Edward Roeke, of George and Richard Cordwell, of Albert Eberling and Robert Hausen, — all of St. John's. I wish I could remember all the names he mentioned, but he included all in this statement, "With such men and women at my side progress in both churches was inevitable."

St. Paul's has 120 sittings and St. John's 100, and capacity congregations are now frequent. In terms of Sunday averages the attendances today are three times what they were.

We had reached our destination and it was good to hear him say of his ministry what I had suspected, all along, — "It has been fun, — inspiring, satisfying, worthwhile."

marched into the famous and beautiful church. The Bishop preached on the duties and privileges of a rector as counselor, prophet, priest, pastor and preacher. Out-of-town guests were given a chance to visit around the festive board in the parish hall after Evensong.

Seventy-five young people, from eight missions and parishes, enjoyed a missionary program at GRACE CHURCH in Nyack, Sunday, March 22. The Rev. Harold Thelin, Rector, organized a Mexican fiesta supper; Candie Nichols and five other young persons read Evening Prayer; choristers from all over the Ramapo sang; Moss W. Armistead, Associate Field Director in the Diocese and a worker in GRACE CHURCH, preached on the evangelistic opportunity in Mexico, a challenge to the Episcopal Church; the offering goes to Alejandra, Mexico. After supper the Rev. Douglas Wolfe, Vicar of ST. LUKE'S, Haverstraw, showed a film strip about the National Youth Offering for 1953. Movies about Mexico concluded the program.

GRACE CHURCH, Port Jervis, vestrymen sponsored a pancake supper the Monday before Lent; after which they joined with others in a Brotherhood program organized by the Jewish Men's Club. On Ash Wednesday the Rev. Oliver Shaw Newell was Celebrant for the Holy Communion at 6:00 and 10:00 A.M. The Rev. Herbert Barrall was the Celebrant on Sunday, March 8, and the Archdeacon of New York on Easter Day. GRACE CHURCH participated in a community observance of Good Friday from 12-3. The minister in charge is the Rev. John D. Chequer, a deacon.

On his way to conduct the recreation program for young people of our Convocation on Sunday, March 22, the Rev. Herbert M. Barrall, Rector of GRACE CHURCH, Middletown, was bumped into; then he had the added hard luck of hitting a police car, which led to a sixty-minute arrest, with the usual noise, talk, and papers to fill out. The priest and his youth delegates reached Nyack too late for church, but they did participate in all other events, in spite of the unhappy exerience on the highway.

GRACE CHURCH, Easter Day, had 642 persons at church. The Altar Guild used white lilies to decorate the chancel; the men of GRACE PARISH delivered the flowers to 50 shut-ins after the Sunday School festival. Nearly one hundred children decorated a huge Easter cross with multi-colored flowers at Evensong. On Maundy Thursday Gabriel Faure's "Requiem" was sung by 63 choristers, under the direction of Miss Marilyn Barr, organist.

In the Diocese of Central New York two of our Ramapo clergy preached in April: the Rev. Fessenden Nichols at GRACE CHURCH, Carthage, on Low Sunday; and the Rev. Herbert Barrall, in Trinity, Binghamton, at a Diocesan Youth Rally, April 24. The former used as its theme, "The Meaning of Grace"; the latter, "Living with the Prayer Book".

THE MANHATTAN CONVOCATION

The Reverend James Morgan
The Reverend John H. Edwards
Manhattan Correspondents

ON Palm Sunday evening, at SAINT MARY'S CHURCH, Manhattanville, there was held a coronation service of the Order of Sir Galahad. The Reverend Dr. Ackley, Rector, writes that to his knowledge this is the only chapter of the Order in the Diocese, and has been active for over thirty years. It was a colorful service carried on by teen-agers and might well be copied in other parishes.

THE CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY, York Avenue, always manages to print a most attractive leaflet. The one for Holy Week and Easter was done in light blue with a translation of the portions of the Easter passages of the Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom. The leaflet opens up to provide space for reports from the various parish organisations, as well as providing space for the services during the period covered.

SAINT JOHN'S CHURCH IN THE VILLAGE, Waverly Place, is this year celebrating its centennial. A program of building modernization has been begun. The first step which has included a new Sacristy pleted. The next step, a new floor in the Parish House and new offices, await the response of the parishand a new Kitchen is almost comioners of this lovely and venerable Parish. Congratulations to them on what they have already done.

On May 15 and 16 there will be held at SAINT BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, Park Avenue, a Workshop for Youth, especially of the Bronx, Manhattan and Staten Island. It will be modelled on the two very successful workshops held during the Fall, and ought to be most pleasant and instructive. Mark the dates in your engagement books.

On Palm Sunday evening, the Choir of SAINT LUKE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Hudson Street, presented a Bach program. The music included Cantata No. 106 and portions from both the B Minor Mass and the St. John Passion.

The Reverend Dr. Brooks, Rector of SAINT THOMAS CHURCH, Fifth Avenue, has announced that almost $20,000 has been contributed in gifts for the endowment of rooms of the new Saint Thomas Choir School soon to be rising on West 55th Street. The income from the gifts will be used for the support of the School and for scholarships for boys going to other schools.

It is hoped that the refurbishing of the Parish Hall of the CHURCH OF THE RESURRECTION, East 74th Street, will be completed by May. Among other improvements, will be the reopening of the stage. This parish also reports a great number of communicants at all the Lenten services, and especially at the Week-day Celebrations.

On Maundy Thursday, the 42-voice chorus of the University of Puerto Rico, directed by Augusto Rodriguez, sang parts of the Holy Communion service at TRINITY CHURCH, Wall Street. Bishop Boynton, formerly Bishop of Puerto Rico, was the Celebrant.

In the Trinity Churchyard inside the Broadway fence, there was set up for Holy Week an Easter Creche. There were two scenes. One, arranged to indicate the events in our Lord's life during the week before the Crucifixion shows objects of the Passion: the Cross, the thirty pieces of silver, the rich robe, the crown of thorn, the spear, the sponge and the scourge. They were strangely impressive in their stark simplicity. For the events of Easter Even and Easter Day, a second scene was arranged with appropriate objects. The artists for both arrangements was Mrs. Margaretta Soyez. After all, if we have a Christmas Creche, why not an Easter Creche too?

Several of the Manhattan churches held memorial services for Queen Mary. Among them were TRINITY CHURCH, SAINT PAUL'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, THE CHURCH OF THE TRANSFIGURATION, East 29th Street, and SAINT THOMAS' CHURCH.

The Annual Spring Festival at SAINT JAMES' CHURCH, Madison Avenue, was held on April 23 and 24. The proceeds were divided between Saint Luke's Hospital which is engaged in a building expansion campaign and has recently joined with the Woman's Hospital, and the Youth Consultation Service of the Diocese.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, Inwood, is justly proud, among other things, of its boys' basketball team. Now it has been announced by the Rector, the Reverend C. L. Heron, that a girls' team is being formed and will be ready for action in the Fall. The team will be coached by Mr. Charles Buchman.

The mission conducted at the CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST, Fifth Avenue, during Passion Week by Canon B. I. Bell was a great success. Most of the spiritual gains are still to be reaped, but the Rector, the Reverend Dr. Large, recently announced that 1,140 communions were offered to our Lord during the Mission, that the Question Boxes were so filled that they had to be removed by mid-week, that a grand total of 700 people made their communions on Palm Sunday, which is a record for that day at the Parish, that over 1000 people were present for the Mission during a remarkably rainy week. Surely all this is a cause of great rejoicing to God!

The Reverend Dr. Sutton, Rector of SAINT STEPHEN'S CHURCH, West 69th Street, announced during Lent that the final payment on a mortgage on the church dating back in its original form to 1897 had at last been lifted. The Bishop of the Diocese will officiate at the burning of the mortgage on the 148th Anniversary of the first service held in the parish. Hearty congratulations to the Rector and people of Saint Stephen's Church!

At GRACE CHURCH, Broadway, there was recently an exhibition of the Altar silver and linens. These lovely religious objects represent the gifts of faithful souls from the beginning of the parish to the present time.

The Vestry of SAINT PETER'S CHURCH, Chelsea, has been able to report a good year in the work of the Every Member Canvass. The strong support of the people of the parish has resulted in the worthy program of the parish among the new people in the neighborhood, although there is continued need for outside aid from the Diocese. The church school has also showed a marked improvement in numbers. The students of the General Theological Seminary aid in the entire program of Saint Peter's.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, Convent Avenue, during Easter Week had a display featuring the missionary work of the parish at home and abroad. The Woman's Auxiliary had attractive posters and tables containing articles being sent this year to the House of Bethany in Liberia, Seaview Hospital on Staten Island, and St. Stephen's Mission in Charleston, South Carolina. Also featured was a layette given to the Youth Consultation Service. Speakers from the mission field and a representative of the Department of Christian Social Work addressed the congregation.

The boys' basketball team of ST. MARTIN'S CHURCH, Lenox Avenue, which has been recently organized by the Rev. Fred Dickman, has won the Episcopal Church Basketball League Metropolitan championship.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY at its Triennial Meeting last September in Boston adopted a statement on Christian Citizenship and Social Responsibility. To implement these words the Auxiliary's Executive Board is issuing a series of papers under the title "This Is Our Business" calling upon the women of the Church to act constructively in matters relating to human rights and freedoms. The Bishop of New York lately has assumed aggressive leadership in a movement to combat civic corruption. These are two recent examples of the Christian's constant struggle against injustice, discrimination, violence against human rights and freedom.

Another example is that of seventy-year-old Lucy Randolph Mason, daughter of a Virginia rector, who for the past fifteen years has been a champion of the rights of working men and women in the South. She tells this story in To Win These Rights, a personal story of the CIO in the South, with a Foreword by Eleanor Roosevelt (New York. Harpers).

Lucy Mason's zeal for social justice might be considered an inherited trait. Her great-great-grandfather was George Mason, author of the Virginia Bill of Rights, which later was incorporated into the United States Constitution as its first amendments. Both her parents were reformers. Her mother once spent the night in jail, comforting a young woman who had attempted suicide. Mrs. Mason described the horrors of the jail to the newspapers with good results. Single-handed, she began a campaign to clean up the evils of the penitentiary. Her father, the Rev. Landon Randolph Mason, for twenty-seven years rector of Grace Church, Richmond, Virginia, carried a sack of coal on his back to a destitute family when neither automobile nor horse could get through a sudden snow. This was typical. He and his wife never regarded parish lines, but helped all who appealed to them. The poor came to them from everywhere.

Miss Mason learned from her parents that love of God is not whole or sufficient unless it includes love of man. In her teens she thought of being a missionary, but later decided to tackle social problems at home.

At twenty-two, she taught herself typing and stenography and spent eight years as a stenographer with a firm of corporation lawyers.

During this period she became increasingly aware of the social injustice suffered by working people. As a church school teacher in one of Richmond's missions attended by factory workers, she saw young women grow old before their time, drudging fifty-five and sixty hours a week for a mere pittance. In the law firm she took depositions about accidents to workers who were permanently incapacitated and received little or no compensation.

To Win These Rights is a powerful witness of a Christian woman serving God through her service to her fellow men, an example which might have been emulated by those Christian ministers whom Miss Mason occasionally found arraigned against her and her cause. This is one of the most tragic aspects of her story; the glorious aspect is the support which Christian leaders gave to her work "to win these rights" for her friends, the laboring men and women of America, especially in the South.

ANOTHER biography of a Christian widely known for his deeds is Melville Harcourt's story of Tubby Clayton, The Impudent Dreamer, (New York, Oxford $5.50). Chaplain with the BEF in France during World War I, founder of Toc H, vicar of All Hallows Church, London, and founder of the Winant Volunteers, a program that has brought young Americans to England to do social work without pay in the poorer districts of London, Philip T. B. Clayton is here presented by his long-time friend as a champion of many good causes, a courageous human being, occasionally impatient, but above all a man of deep Christian conviction.

The author, who served as chairman of the All Hallows Restoration Committee, is rector of St. Ann's Church, Brooklyn.

Girls Friendly

recreation and creative activities, each girl broadens her interests, defines her ideals and increases the number and quality of her friendships.

Perhaps no youth service has as many interpretations as camping. It has been underrated as education, over-emphasized as recreation. Children, of course, go to camp to have fun together in the out-of-doors. Parents send them for health, recreation, friendships, camping skills, education and safety.

The same flexible kind of program which is carried on throughout the G.F.S. branches during the year is carried over into G.F.S. camp. Camp Interlochen-Sherwood owned and operated by the G.F.S. of the Diocese of New York is located on Lake Kanawauke, 11 miles southwest of Bear Mountain, N. Y. in the Palisades Interstate Park. Comfortable Adirondack cabins, separate tent units and open recreation spaces are strategically placed in this wooded and hilly country. Cookouts, overnight hikes, campfires, nature craft, lake front activities, handcrafts, dramatics, folk dancing, group singing, sports and trips are all part of the program. Health and safety requirements as set by the Interstate Park Authority are reinforced by the Park Health Officer. A registered nurse is on duty in the camp infirmary; a doctor is on call. Food is good and wholesome. Dairy and other products, in season, come from nearby farms. First class cooks prepare appetizing dishes in a large, spotless kitchen. No one is forced to eat anything. Most everyone eats something of everything. Worship services are conducted daily by a resident camp chaplain. There is a Celebration of Holy Communion every Sunday morning. The girls are free to meet and talk with the chaplain to discuss their worship experiences and to ask questions about the Christian life.

Campers range in age from eight to fourteen, girls of similar ages being grouped together for all activities. Many social, religious and racial backgrounds are represented. Girls come to camp for two, four, six or eight weeks periods. Enrollment is limited to 75 girls for each period of camp from July 6 to August 31, 1953. Rates are approximately $30 a week, including board, medical insurance, linen supply, crafts materials and all spending money. Some partial "camperships" are available by writing to the Camp Office.

A special training unit for Junior Counselors has been set up this year. Girls between the ages of 14 and 16 may apply. Those showing leadership ability will be included in this program whereby some time of their otherwise regular camp day, will be devoted to working under the direction of Senior counselors,

She Goes To Liberia

Miss Lucienne G. Sanchez, daughter of the late Mr. Marcus P. Sanchez and Mrs. Esther Sanchez of Yonkers, is the first employee of the Cathedral Close to become a missionary.

Miss Sanchez is secretary to the Director of the Department of Promotion of the Council of The Diocese, and is leaving in the middle of August for Liberia, where she will be a layworker at the Holy Cross Mission in the Hinterland.

Miss Sanchez was born in Yonkers on August 18, 1926 and as she grew up attended St. Augustine's Church, where she was an active member. She came into the staff of the Diocese of New York in the Fall of 1950, and her intelligence, hard work, and winsome personality has endeared her to everybody. In 1951 she became associated with St. Andrew's Church, Manhattan, where she has served as an officer of the Young People's Fellowship, and is now a member of the Women's Auxiliary. Under the consecrated spiritual guidance of her rector, the Rev. Theodore J. Jones, Miss Sanchez became increasingly aware of the role that the Church must play in the life of every individual.

When Lucienne's friends on Cathedral Heights said how much they would miss her, with her fa-

"THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH"

The Church of The Good Shepherd, in Newburgh, moves ahead with the years

In June the Church of the Good Shepherd, Newburgh, will observe the 82nd Anniversary of its beginning as a mission and the 62nd Anniversary as a parish. In June, 1871, Dr. Octavius Applegate, Rector of St. George's Church, organized a Sunday School in McConky's Hall on lower Broadway. In October a change was made to another hall and Dr. Applegate began conducting evening services. In 1873 a small brick church was built for the mission on Broadway at the head of Carpenter Ave., which was named St. George's Chapel. Within a few years the Chapel became inadequate for the flourishing mission. In 1889 the site of the present edifice at Broadway and Mill St. was purchased. The cornerstone was laid for the new brick church on January 1, 1890, and the first service was held on September 30, 1890.

On June 18, 1891 the mission attained parish status and chose the name of The Church of the Good Shepherd. It was consecrated by Bishop Henry Codman Potter on July 28. On the day that it became a parish the Rev. John Marshall Chew became Rector.

From the beginning progress was evident and the faithful leadership of Dr. Chew spurred the parish forward for many years. The membership increased steadily, with a large class presented for Confirmation every year. Many improvements were made in the Church edifice. In 1927 the tower was built. A large memorial window was presented at the 50th Anniversary in 1941. The Baptistry was constructed and dedicated at Christmas, 1941, as a memorial to Mrs. Chew.

Dr. Chew died on April 11, 1946, having served the parish as its first rector for almost fifty-five years. Throngs attended his funeral, to pay tribute to the man who had been their faithful pastor and friend.

Although the Church of the Good Shepherd moved ahead for years, like many other churches, due to changing conditions, it suffered a reverse of fortune. No money was available for upkeep of the fabric, and the Church, Parish House and Rectory got into a state of disrepair. Attendance at services, too, was considerably less than in former years.

For several months in 1946 the Rev. William Alfred Grier served as locum-tenens. He often referred to

Mixed Choir at The Cathedral for the Summer

HERETOFORE THE Cathedral Church has had only a men's choir, but for these Summer months at both the 11 o'clock Morning Prayer, and at the 5 o'clock Evensong, (please note this new time for Evensong) the Cathedral Choir will be one of mixed voices. This is the first time women will have sung in the official Cathedral Choir.

The voices for the Choir have been selected from other choirs in the city, and the music and the choir will be in charge of John Hall Upham, assistant organist, under the direction of Canon James Green.

The new choir arrangement will begin on Sunday, June 14th and continue until the boy choristers return from their Summer vacations.

The Old Order Changeth

himself as the buffer between the old and the new. On September 15, 1946 the Rev. G. Melbourne Jones became the second or "new" rector. He was faced with the problem of the re-juvenation of an old parish. This was to be two fold – 1. renovation of the fabric, and 2. reorganization and institution of new methods.

It was estimated that $35,000 would be needed to put the buildings in first class condition. That was more than could be raised at one time, so a long range program was set up whereby a campaign for the "Building Fund" would be held every two or three years and the work done in stages.

In 1947, the first campaign was held in which $6,000 was raised. To this was added $1,800 previously received. The rectory was renovated, and an entire new heating plant installed in it.

In the second campaign in 1950 the goal was set at $7,500, but $8,700 was pledged and $8,600 paid. The Church was reconditioned and redecorated, using a light color scheme to make it bright and cheerful. A large hall was closed for a sacristy, and two oil-fired furnaces were installed.

In 1952 the third campaign was conducted, the goal was again set at $7,500, but only $6,000 was received. The Church and Parish House were re-wired, the outside trim will be painted this spring; part of the main floor of the Parish House is to be remodeled to construct a modern kitchen and two washrooms, and the study will be re-decorated.

The sacristy is probably the most beautiful and best equipped in the Hudson Valley. The cabinets were custom-made of imported oak. The floor is covered with red and blue rubber tile, and one wall is covered with red damask drapes to cover two unsightly windows. All the furnishings were given as gifts or memorials. Bishop Boynton blessed the sacristy last Advent III.

Future campaigns will be held to complete the restoration. This will include the upper parish hall, choir room, a new entrance to the parish house, refinish the pews, and new sidewalks. A memorial organ fund has been set up, with minimum contributions of $200 to modernize the tracker-action organ.

Several hundred dollars are received each year in addition to pledges by having Building Fund envelopes included in the regular boxes of duplex envelopes.

The advantages of a long range program such as the one followed in the restoration of an old Church is that no debt is incurred. No work is contracted until the money is received to pay for it. There is no easy way to undertake such a job, but this plan is easier and has less worry for all concerned than to do all the work at once and incur a heavy debt. Having a project under way at all times creates interest and is also a stimulus to do more.

Besides the sacristy furnishings, the following gifts have been received during the past six years: 250 Prayer Books, 250 Hymnals, Missal, Choir vestments, acolyte cassocks (red), silk brocade eucharistic vestments, funeral pall, office lights, sanctuary lamp, ciborium, filing cases for music, 200 steel chairs, 18 tables.

Church Schools everywhere are a problem, but there was a unique one at the Church of the Good Shepherd. When the present rector arrived children up to and including those nine years of age were called "The Infant Class." Why didn't the children like Church School? Make a guess! The school is now divided into upper, middle and lower sections with classes corresponding to public school grades.

Other changes in the life of the parish have been made. The Girls' Friendly Society has membership among the teen agers. The older members of the former GFS, still wanting to be of service in keeping with the ideals of the organization, formed themselves into St. Martha's Parish Guild, and St. Elizabeth's Guild.

Because the Annual Parish Meeting fell on a canonical date in Advent, and was at an inconvenient time, the meeting date was changed in 1951 and became the "Annual Parish Dinner and Meeting" on a canonical date in January, and includes, as it is supposed to, the election and reports. The vote was extended to the women. At the annual meeting this year the rotation system for Vestrymen was adopted. It includes also the Wardens, limiting them to two terms. It was also voted that Vestry meetings should be open to anyone who wishes to attend, although they have neither voice nor vote. This creates greater interest in the business affairs of the parish and the entire church program.

In 1946 the Church and parish house were insured for $24,000. This has been increased to $150,000 which includes contents. The insurance is underwritten by the Church Fire Insurance Corp. and payments are made each month. Liability insurance is also carried on the Church, Parish House and Rectory, an item often neglected by parishes. The treasurer, financial secretary, treasurer of the building fund and rector are now bonded as required by the canons. The treasurer's books are audited annually by a professional accountant as required.

In 1942 the annual "Fair Fund" was inaugurated and the plan has been continued by the present rector. The parishioners are asked to make a special contribution of the amount they would spend at the former three day fair. The fund has never been less than $1,200 and in 1952 was over $1,600. While the people miss the fellowship of the fair they are delighted to miss the work involved.

The most recent venture is "Open House" for the youth of the parish and their friends, ages 13 to 22, held on Sunday evenings (except in Passiontide). Dancing and games are featured and refreshments served.

At the Church of the Good Shepherd the wholeness of the faith is taught. The ceremonial is in line with "Central" churchmanship. All programs of the parish begin at the altar. The religion of the Church is emphasized and not "parish house" religion. That is the reason the Church was restored before starting work on the parish house. Confirmation classes have been small but carefully instructed. All marriages except one have been solemnized before the high altar. The Church has taken a definite stand against ostentation concerning funerals. The Church's funeral regulations were sent to all parishioners and undertakers. Unfortunately, not many funerals are held in the Church where they should be.

It is not easy for any priest to succeed a long-time rector, especially one who has been held in high esteem and much beloved. New ideas and methods are not always acceptable. But it can be done satisfactorily, although it is hard to explain. At a dinner given by Miss Grace West MacDonald, sister-in-law of the late Rev. John Marshall Chew, S.T.D., first rector, on the fifth anniversary of the present rector, the Rev. Wm. Alfred Grier, locum-tenens in 1946 remarked. "You have been here longer now than most priests who succeed a longtime rector. Dr. Chew's friends have become your friends. That does not always happen!" Perhaps that is the key – make friends with the faithful, and then in-season-and-out teach the wholeness of the Faith – the Sacraments, the Bible, and the Book of Common Prayer.

Conrad Library

IN THESE lean days of shipping, when an American seaman is in New York and has a long tedious wait for a ship, the varied volumes of the Conrad Library in the Seamen's Church Institute assume a new importance in his shoreside life. Under the solicitous guidance of the librarians, a man may widen his technical comprehension of skills which he may have to employ in land jobs, if the sea can no longer offer him a livelihood; or he may seek advice on interesting books for his youngsters, or simply make the time weigh less leaden by reading the stories calculated to entertain.

The Conrad Library, named for one of the world's great seaman-writers, not only offers a fine collection of marine reference works, but includes standard research books and material on many diversified subjects, from mythology to violin making, and ranges in language selection from Scandinavian to Hindustani. It attempts to achieve the maximum variety to fill the needs and interests of men whose daily work carries them to the farthest and strangest lands in the world.

A seaman has a 24 hour a day, seven day a week job, and the book bundles provided by the Library at 25 South Street for shipboard reading while away many an entertaining and instructive hour. Literature is also distributed to seamen at hospitals.

The Conrad Library is regarded as one of the foremost sources of maritime material and is used as a research authority by those seeking factual marine information. Its technical books on marine subjects have aided many seamen in their studies as they readied themselves to qualify for higher ratings.

Many of the books with which the Conrad Library carries on its work were obtained through donors, and the Library maintains a series of pick-up points throughout the city, placed for the convenience of those who wish to help by donating books and magazines.

The Bishop's Message

THE CORONATION of Queen Elizabeth II was of universal interest, but in no country outside the Commonwealth of Nations did the thousand-year-old rite arouse such attention as it did here in America. It was particularly appropriate that special services were held in our churches, for this ancient ceremony was far more than glorious pageantry of historic grandeur, symbolic of the attitude of a great nation towards its own traditional form of government. It was more than the remarkable fact that numbers of different people in a world-embracing community of nations could unite in a common loyalty to the civil ruler who was crowned that day. It gained its importance and its ultimate value from the fact that a young woman called to the exacting tasks and duties of her vocation publicly accepted the vows of her responsibilities derived from the summary of God's own law which requires that each person shall within the framework of his own calling love both God and his neighbor. Within the setting of religious ceremonial including the sacred service of Holy Communion the Sovereign was anointed and set apart for her high calling. As the Archbishop of Canterbury has insisted, it was the consecration of the Queen as well as the crowning.

ALL OVER THE WORLD people joined gladly in prayers on behalf of the Queen and her peoples, but the citizens of our own country did so with an affectionate understanding, so much more objective than is possible for any others. We understand only too well that the freedoms we share guarantee the rights of individuals to express opinions which sometimes do not seem helpful, but in spite of this or possibly because of this Americans recognize in the British Commonwealth that community of concern for the freedom and dignity of the individual human being which must ever be the first obligation of democratic governments.

AMERICANS have an unbounded admiration for the simple virtues lived out in humility, for normal and happy family life, for courage and devotion to duty. It was in that spirit we gathered to offer our intercessions for the Queen and to pray that America and the Commonwealth of Nations, with all freedom-loving people everywhere, may, in these testing times, stand together with renewed purpose and deepened fellowship for the promotion of peace, justice and brotherhood in all the world.

Order of St. Helena

A CONTRACT HAS been signed for the purchase of the John Wilkie estate, New Windsor, New York (near Newburgh) on behalf of the Order of St. Helena, a religious community for women in the Episcopal Church. The place at New Windsor is to become the Mother House of the Order, the center of its life and work. The Sisters hope to move into their new home in June or July.

The present Mother House is in Helmetta, New Jersey, where Bishop Gardner has very generously permitted the Sisters to use the buildings of the old Christ Church Home for Girls for the past five years. Since the Order has almost doubled in size during that time, these buildings are no longer adequate. The guest rooms have had to be used for Sisters, and there is now no further room for expansion.

The New Windsor property was originally built for a private home, but is almost ideally suited for a Convent. There are ample grounds to insure privacy, and the buildings are of brick in a simple Georgian design, low and rambling. The main house is large enough for the Sisters who will be stationed there with room for more, and there is in addition a separate guest house. Eventually, a Chapel will have to be built, but there is a large room which will serve the purpose temporarily.

The Order of St. Helena was established on November 8, 1945, in Versailles, Kentucky. It is one of the youngest communities for women in the Episcopal Church, but it shares in an older tradition, that of the Order of the Holy Cross. The Sisters keep the Rule of the Order of the Holy Cross, they wear the nun's counterpart of the men's habit, and the Superior of the Order of the Holy Cross is their Superior also.

The work of the Order of St. Helena at the present time consists largely of teaching, speaking, and assisting with missions, retreats, and conferences.

Margaret Hall School, a college preparatory boarding school for girls in Versailles, Kentucky, is owned and operated by the Order. When the Sisters move to New Windsor, they plan to do work in St. George's Parish, Newburgh; the rector of that parish, the Rev. Frank L. Carruthers, will be their chaplain. The guest house will be used for retreats for individuals or groups of women, and the Sisters will also be available for talks and quiet days in parishes of the Diocese.

The Right Reverend Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., S.T.D., Bishop of New York, has approved the Order of St Helena in the Diocese of New York. He is the Episcopal Visitor of the Order of the Holy Cross and will officiate at the opening ceremony and dedication of the St. Helena Mother House this fall.

Department of Promotion Reports

WE ARE in a position to make only a preliminary report on the total giving to the Bishop's Offering received throughout the diocese on Sunday May 3, 1953. The actual cash received as of June 1st was $18,742.49 and an additional sum of $11,412.23 was pledged through preliminary reports. This makes a minimum amount anticipated of $30,154.72. We are confident that this is minimum because many of the reports sent in to the Diocesan Office were received in the week immediately following the offering and actual cash received has, in many instances, exceeded the amount reported. We are hopeful, therefore, that the offering will reach at least $35,000. This is less than the minimum amount needed and we wish the report could be more encouraging. However, we are deeply grateful to all the parishes and missions who contributed; offerings in many cases were truly sacrificial.

Area and Convocation meetings of wardens and vestrymen, with the clergy and members of the department are being held during the month of June throughout the diocese for the purpose of discussing the autumn Every Member Canvass and to consider parish budgets. Through these meetings the Department hopes to learn in which areas help is needed by our parishes and missions for their Canvass presentation, and also to give the Department an opportunity to present the work of the churches in the diocese and National Church. We are grateful to the many clergy and laymen who have made plans for these twenty meetings and who have assisted the Department so efficiently.

The Department at a recent meeting has voted to subscribe to the Diocesan Bulletin for each warden and vestryman of the diocese who is not now a subscriber. We feel that each lay leader in each parish and mission should be informed of the work of the diocese brought to them through the Bulletin and we hope that they will become regular subscribers to and readers of our Diocesan magazine.

A mailing piece to present our Diocesan appeal in connection with the Every Member Canvass is in preparation, copies of which will be mailed to the clergy during the summer. Information as to cost and how to order will also be sent. The mailing piece will present some of the missionary work in our diocese as well as the work of the Departments of the Council.

The National Council mailing piece which has already been received by the clergy can be ordered any time. The fourth page of this 8½ x 11 folder is left blank for the use of the parish, if desired.

The Closed Doors

by Edward K. Warren

SOME MONTHS AGO, as I was returning from Europe, I was impressed by the great number of watertight doors through which I had to pass as I walked forward or aft within the ship. These doors were there for just one purpose, to be closed in an emergency and thus to divide the ship into as many non-communicating compartments as possible. The essence of safety in building a ship is measured by the number and placement of separate compartments.

It does seem at times as though Christian laymen think that this principle applies with equal force to the building of Christian lives. The truth, however, is just the opposite. The more a human life is compartmentalized, the weaker that life becomes and the smaller its contribution to the Church's life and work. This I have observed again and again during my many years of service in the Diocese, but the truth of it seems to elude the recognition of so many earnest laymen. Such men attempt to divide their lives into two main compartments, religious and secular. Their religious life is kept rigidly closed to the benefits of their secular experience, training and judgment, and their secular lives are shut off, less completely, from their Christian Faith and principles.

A vestry meets to consider a building project, the purchase of land or investments, the legal interpretation of some disputed document. Around the table are experienced laymen who are daily facing similar problems in their businesses and have accumulated a large store of experience in such matters. The question is raised and perhaps the Rector makes a suggestion to open the discussion. Do these experienced men enter into the debate, gradually hammering out a policy which combines the best contribution of each? Usually not. If, for example, the subject is an exorbitant bill, the Treasurer states that there is money available with which to pay it and after a few minutes, and fewer opinions, the original suggestion is adopted without modification. After the meeting adjourns I have so often heard one vestryman say to another, "I'd never dream of paying that price if this were a business proposition, but after all it is a Church matter." It appears to me that the parable of the talents pointedly demands that our conduct of the secular business of the Church shall be with all, not a part of our skill, experience and wisdom.

The other phase of our own watertight doors is equally familiar to each of you. How often have I heard words which can be easily paraphrased as "This is a secular matter, leave Religion out of it." Where are we taught that there is any part of our lives from which we can profitably exclude the teachings of Christ and his Church? Are they not applicable to business deals, to race relations, to labor management problems? There is no use laboring this point for as a matter of fact we cannot create a truly "watertight" compartment. Try as we may to exclude the Christian Faith, it is so deeply a part of our lives, so much in our environment that it will inevitably appear in our decisions, influence our judgment and color our thinking.

Living our Faith is the major part of the Layman's Ministry. We are not called to perform the Sacraments. Very few of us are asked to preach the Gospel from the pulpit. But every one who is baptized is required to bear a living testimony to his Faith. Our response to this demand, yours and mine, will hasten or delay the Kingdom. Let us open the doors.

and Senior Warden, was co-chairman of the anniversary celebration with Mrs. William R. Maslin. Many former Vestrymen and Choir members returned for the Service.

Over 250 pepole recently attended a Thanksgiving Service and Reception in honor of Amos Bedell's fiftieth anniversary as a Vestryman and Warden of ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Ossining. Mr. Bedell was elected to the Vestry of ST. PAUL'S on April 13, 1903. He has served as Vestryman and Warden and Clerk through the years. Ministers of the area attending the service included the Ven. George F. Brätt, Archdeacon of the Diocese, the Rev. Charles E. Karsten of Dobbs Ferry, the Rev. Bradford Ketchum of Pleasantville, and Rabbi David Prince of Ossining. A scroll was presented by the Parish to Mr. Bedell, and a purse, in appreciation of his untiring efforts and his interests in the Church.

A group of fifteen women, members of the Woman's Auxiliary of CHRIST CHURCH, Bronxville, recently made a field trip to New York City, where they visited the Missionary Institutions of the Diocese. This trip included a tour of St. Barnabas' House led by the Rev. William E. Sprenger, and Dr. Hawthorne spoke to them. They had luncheon at the Seamen's Church Institute and later went over to Rikers Island.

On Ascension Day a luncheon was held at ALL SAINTS CHURCH, Harrison, after the 11:00 a.m. Communion Service. The speaker was the Rev. Dr. Albert J. M. Wilson, retired Rector of CHRIST CHURCH, Greenwich, and honorary Chaplain, St. George's Society. Dr. Wilson's subject was "The Spiritual Significance of the Coronation". Afterward a film was shown entitled "The Coronation Ceremony".

"The Rector's Men" of SAINT ANDREW'S MEMORIAL CHURCH, Yonkers, sponsored a joint meeting of the laymen of the Episcopal Parishes of Yonkers on Monday evening, May 18, at 8:00 p.m. The speaker was the Rev. Ernest W. Lefever, and his subject was "The Challenge of Communism".

Plans were announced on the first Sunday in May by the Rev. Osborn Budd, Rector of ST. JOHN'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH, Tuckahoe, for the erection of a larger Parish House. The new building will add 17 new Sunday School classrooms for 225 pupils and an auditorium enlarged to seat 500 persons instead of the 200 now accommodated. The building will cost between $80-100,000. Construction, it is hoped, will begin in the early summer.

On Sunday, May 3, the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan dedicated a Bronze Memorial Plaque in memory of Alexander Hamilton at ZION EPISCOPAL CHURCH, Dobbs Ferry. The plaque reads "To the Glory of God" and in Memory of James A. Hamilton, Vestryman 1838-1853, and Alexander Hamilton, Jr. Vestryman 1847-1859, sons of Alexander Hamilton, 1757-1804, First Secretary of the Treasury of the United States.

The Rev. Ronald Garmey, Rector of ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, White Plains, dedicated a new memorial stained glass window in the church on Sunday, May 3. This window is a gift of the late Mr. Frederic W. Squires, a devoted member of the Parish. The theme of the window is the Te Deum, and it was the thought of the donor that the window should be one with a teaching message. The various figures mentioned in the Te Deum are beautifully expressed in colored glass, and the window is one of the finest ever placed in any church in this area.

On Sunday, May 10, at 11:00 a.m. the clergy and the choir and congregation of ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, Larchmont, marched in procession through the church grounds, observing the annual Azalea Garden Commemorative Service. Each azalea in the church has been given to commemorate a baptism, confirmation, or in memory of someone who has died.

The Reverend Reginald G. Stewart, Rector of the CHURCH OF SAINT MARY THE VIRGIN, Chappaqua, announces that another link has been made in the chain of relationship existing between their Parish and the CHURCH OF SAINT MARY THE VIRGIN in Monken Hadley, England. It is in the form of a lectern Bible which the Westchester church is giving to the sister church in England.

Those acquainted with the history of the Church in Chappaqua, will recall that the founder, the Reverend Frank Montrose Glendenin, D.D., built the church at his own expense on land donated by his wife Gabrielle, the daughter of Horace Greeley, and modelled it after the church in Monken Hadley, from which it also took its title. At the time, in the beginning of this century, the church in Monken Hadley sent a window of mediaeval glass to the new church in Chappaqua,

A CONVINCED SECULARIST (say, a believer in the dogmas of John Dewey) teaching school will teach from that perspective and nobody will gainsay that. But a convinced Christian often teaches as though she were a secularist (i.e., talks about men and things without God — which is what secularism is), because she is under the impression that such a frame of reference is "neutral". This of course is exactly what the secularists would like for us to believe — that their view is the objective one. But of course secularism, whether by intent or by default, is not neutral at all; it is a "bias" as much as is Mormanism — or Anglicanism for that matter.

THEREFORE, IT IS IMPORTANT that Christian teachers teach intelligently from a Christian perspective, just as John Dewey-ites are free to teach from the perspective of naturalism. To help teachers do this we are inaugurating a new phase of the Cathedral's educational program this summer. This is not because the summer is the most pleasant time in New York to inaugurate anything, but because that's when the largest number of public school teachers are in captivity in one place at one time, namely, at the Summer Session of Columbia University, our near neighbor.

THE PLAN IS TO HAVE A SERIES OF SEMINARS on Religion and Education at Evensong (moved to 5:00 in the summer) followed by a light supper and a forum-discussion in Cathedral House to which school teachers are invited. The preaching will be shared by Chaplain Krumm (head of Columbia's Department of Religion) and myself. We will share in the forums, as will Professor A. T. Mollegen of Virginia Seminary, and the Rev. Kenneth W. Cary, Chairman of the Department of Parish Day Schools of the Diocese of Los Angeles. For the dates and topics of these forums, please refer to Page 1 of this issue.

OUR HOPE IS TO SEND BACK TO A FEW DIOCESES at least nuclei of teachers prepared to organize an Episcopal Guild of Teachers, to carry forward this type of study and fellowship. Pray for at least modest success for this venture this year, for it has to do with a vital issue in the life of the Church and of the nation. And tell teachers you know in the Diocese about it too: all are welcome.

The Resurrection tapestry is majestic in its effect, exploiting the text of St. Matthew 28: 2-4. The Church does not use this text as part of any Liturgical Gospel, but it has always been a favourite with artists because of its pictorial possibilities. Note, at the top, the version of the Rising Sun as a type of Christ's Resurrection. Seventeenth Century admiration for classic sculpture accounts for the curious effect of the torso of one soldier; it is only by looking at the upper arm and neck that one can see any sign of the figure being clothed.

THE ART TREASURES OF THE NEW YORK CATHEDRAL

by Canon Edward N. West, D.D., Litt. D., Sacrist

THE USE of tapestries in ecclesiastical buildings was first and foremost a measure designed to warm up the churches and palaces in winter time. The cold stone floors were covered with rushes (indeed the first use of flowers in churches was in the attempt to give the rushes a sweeter smell; the flowers were scattered on the floor at times of festivals), and the equally cold walls were covered with tapestries. Some tapestries were made to go around stone pillars, and others to go along the walls running from the floor level upwards. Scenes from the Scriptures and the apocryphal Gospels were interlarded with illustrations of the favourite mediaeval moralistic "Romances". The Renaissance passion for classical allusion brought the introduction of figures from pagan mythology – thus the River God is often shown viewing our Lord's baptism. Probably the finest complete set of mediaeval tapestries in the world is the great Unicorn series in the possession of the Metropolitan Museum. The Cathedral is fortunate enough to own a distinguished late Renaissance set.

The twelve famous Barberini Tapestries represent the Crucifixion, the Delivery of the Keys, the Annunciation, the Adoration of the Shepherds, the Adoration of the Magi, the Flight into Egypt, the Baptism, the Transfiguration, the Last Supper, the Agony, the Resurrection, and a map of the Holy Land. The tapestries, which are about 15 feet 8 inches by 17 feet in size, were woven in the first half of the 17th Century on the papal looms founded by Francesco Cardinal Barberini under the patronage of his uncle, Urban VIII. They were executed under the direction of Jacques della Riviera from cartoons painted by Jean Francois Romanelli. The cartoons are now in the Vatican. The tapestries, originally designed for the Throne Room of the Barberini Palace at Rome, and afterward a part of the Ffoulke Collection at Washington, were presented by Elizabeth U. Coles. They are in various places in the Cathedral.

The Annunciation is a stately Renaissance scene. The spear with which St. Gabriel was anciently shown has, by this time, come to be regarded as a lily. The Blessed Virgin is a queenly figure at prayer rather than the troubled young woman about whom St. Luke writes. Cherubim are now shown as little babies with wings, but, in spite of this sentimentality and the courtliness of the gesturing, it is an effective piece of pictorial representation.

The Adoration of the Shepherds preserves the grotto tradition characteristic of Christmas scenes in all parts of the world save northern Europe and North America. The use of light and shade gives this tapestry an effect of depth and richness unusual in this medium. Incidentally, the fact that the Holy Child as portrayed here is considerably older than the few-hour-old Lord visited by the shepherds would not have bothered anyone in the 17th Century.

The Giving of the Keys to St. Peter, a version of the text of St. Matthew 16:19, changes the tense to the present and shows the Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven as material objects. This mixture of symbolism and naturalistic portrayal involves serious problems in the philosophy of art, but the perspective effect is such good drawing that the tapestry must be taken seriously as a work of art. Whether it be Christ or St. Peter who dominates the picture is another matter.

The Scene on the Mount of Olives shows an angel and four of the cherubim bringing before Christ the primary symbols of the Passion. The sleeping figure, in the lower left hand corner, is the only poor piece of drawing in the series. Attempts to portray the Agony in the Garden are generally unconvincing because they make the mistake of assuming that physical pain was the core of the Passion.

Over it is this inscription: "The light has fallen through this window for nearly five hundred years upon the children of the Catholic Church of England, and now falls through the same glass upon the daughter Church in America, witnessing to us the unbroken life through the ages of the Catholic Church of the English speaking people."

On Rogation Wednesday, May 13, the Woman's Auxiliary, Evening Branch, of GRACE CHURCH, Hastings, entertained the delegates from the other branches in the Westchester Convocation at their annual meeting held in the Parish Hall. Miss Mary Heilmer, who has been stationed in Berlin, Germany, for the past two years doing Christian educational work in a large church there, told of her experience and showed many excellent pictures. Miss Heilmer's work was done under the auspices of the World Council of Churches. The evening branches of the Auxiliary have grown tremendously this past year, and there are already over 30 chapters in the Westchester parishes and missions.

A fine sanctuary lamp was recently dedicated by the Rector at GRACE CHURCH, Hastings. This lovely gift is a memorial to Richard Osborne Chittick, a devout son of the Church and servant of God.

The Reverend and Mrs. Paul L. Lattimore of SAINT ANDREW'S CHURCH, Hartsdale, will sail on the "United States" for England on June 26, setting in motion the exchange of SAINT ANDREW'S and BIRCHAM Parishes. The Reverend and Mrs. John Cornish of BIRCHAM Parish, Kings Lynn, Norfolk, England, will come to Saint Andrew's for July and August.

BIRCHAM PARISH CHURCH is one of the typical twelfth century English churches. The village itself is located next door to Sandringham Palace, and about five miles from King's Lynn, Diocese of Norfolk.

SAINT ANDREW'S CHURCH, Hartsdale, announces the opening of a Nursery School to be operated by the parish. The class will open in September, 1953, under the direction of the Reverend Paul L. # The Suffragan

FROM THE SUFFRAGAN'S CONVENTION REPORT

IT WOULD BE impossible in this report to do justice to the work done, and the plans and vision, by all the departments of the Council equally. Therefore, with the permission of the Bishop, I will stress a different department each year in this annual report. Suffice to say now —

The Department of Missions, under the inspiring leadership of the Bishop who is its Chairman, with its ever changeless scope and purpose to bring the Word and Sacraments to all people and its ever changing aspects in the carrying out of that Divine Commission deserves the consecrated support of Convention through the enthusiastic underwriting of its asking budget to the amount of $173,800. Can this budget be justified?

At the present time there are 60 Missions and Assisted Parishes in the Diocese looking to the Diocesan Department of Missions for financial aid.

Forty-one Missionary Clergy are supported to a greater or lesser degree by the Missionary Society in order that these sixty congregations may receive the ministration of the Church.

It is interesting to note that within the last five years, for example, the careful execution of the missionary responsibility vested by Canon in the Bishop and the Board of Managers has resulted in: 7 Assisted Parishes, regaining full parish status; 6 Missions attaining for the first time full parish status; Yes, and even 6 Missions and 1 Assisted Parish being closed because of the discovery of an unnecessary duplication of effort in each case.

During the same period, because of shifting populations and the changing nature of the neighborhoods, especially in urban communities, five more parishes have had to turn to the Diocesan Missionary Society for aid, and are now numbered among our total of 25 Assisted Parishes. Two former parishes, in order that they might perform a new type of work within their immediately surrounding communities have been changed to the status of Organized Missions. And one parochial chapel has also become a Diocesan Mission, making the present total of Missions 35.

In spite of all this, one of the tragedies of these recent years is the fact that the Diocese, because of lack of funds, has not been able to open a single new work in any of the many new communities which are mushrooming in the suburban and rural areas of the Diocese. The increase in missionary giving, which has been far less than planned and hoped for, has been sufficient only to meet the rising operating costs of existing responsibilities. This inability to meet the unprecedented missionary challenge of our day within our own Diocesan borders should be the grave concern of us all. We, to whom the Church was first brought through the missionary giving of others, are inadvertently but literally keeping the Church from thousands of others who want it and need it as much as we do. Is it really fair?

Let us never forget that the missionary work within the borders of this Diocese is an enterprise larger than a third of all the diocese and missionary districts of the Episcopal Church at home and abroad.

June 18, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Kinlin. The present fine stone Gothic building was erected in the days when Fordham was a small village, not yet incorporated into New York City.

The Men's Club of SAINT LUKE'S, Williamsbridge, has raised a fund to equip the parish house kitchen. At a recent breakfast, 160 persons were served.

At SAINT PETER'S, WESTCHESTER, the Men's Club is sponsoring the landscaping of the front of the church with trees and flowering shrubs.

On the Titular Feast of TRINITY CHURCH, Morisania, Father Brown of SAINT PETER'S was the Celebrant at the Solemn Eucharist, and Father Morgan of ST. THOMAS', Manhattan, the Preacher. This marked the 78th anniversary of the founding of the Parish.

The ANNUAL OUTING of the Churches of the Convocation was held at Playland, Rye Beach, on Saturday, June 20. The opening ceremonies, beginning with a Procession with church banners, was held at the Stadium. The event was under the direction of the Men's Committee of the Convocation, with John Purdie and Ted Decker as co-chairmen. Last year over 1500 Episcopalians were present.

The Convocation meeting on April 30 at HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, East 88th Street, was very well attended with almost every parish and mission in the Convocation represented. The Bishop spoke stirringly on the need for great participation in civic affairs on the part of all Church people, especially in the matter of the situation on the docks and in other matters of importance especially to Manhattan. Billing Wilson, director of operations of the Port of New York Authority and Senior Warden of CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale, and the Reverend Benson B. Fisher, executive secretary of the Social Service Study, spoke. Their remarks were interesting and well received. The Reverend Dr. James A. Paul, Rector of HOLY TRINITY CHURCH was re-elected Dean of the Convocation. The Reverend James Morgan of SAINT THOMAS' CHURCH, Fifth Avenue, was elected Secretary and Mr. Eliot Ward of SAINT JAMES' CHURCH Madison Avenue, was elected Treasurer.

SAINT HILDA'S SCHOOL, West 113th Street, benefited from a Circus Bazaar held on May 22 and 23. Many articles were for sale, and afternoon tea and snacks were served. The pupils of the School made the decorations—and very attractive ones too!—and also managed a booth. SAINT HILDA'S is under the care of the Sisters of the Community of the Holy Spirit and provides instruction for boys and girls from the kindergarten through the third grade.

THE EPISCOPAL ACTORS' GUILD held its anual meeting on May 19 at the Fulton Theatre. The Reverend Anson Phelps Stokes, Rector of SAINT BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, Park Avenue, was one of the speakers, along with Basil Rathbone and Frank Carrington. The Reverend Dr. Randolph Ray of the LITTLE CHURCH AROUND THE CORNER was elected a Vice-President, and the Reverend Dr. Charles B. Ackley of SAINT MARY'S CHURCH, Manhattanville, was elected Secretary.

The Y.P.F. of SAINT MICHAEL'S CHURCH, Amsterdam Avenue, enjoyed an overnight trip to Croton Point Park on May 1. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Christie, Miss Annette Streeter, Mr. John Kelley and Mr. Ivan Kaufman accompanied the group. While not exploring outside, the group gathered around the central lodge and fireplace. Miss Streeter and Mrs. Christie provided the excellent meals. Other such trips are being planned by the Fellowship. SAINT MICHAEL'S Church School presented an offering of over $500.00 at the Presentation Service at the Cathedral on May 23.

Visitors and worshippers at SAINT JAMES' CHURCH, Madison Avenue, will note with pleasure that three London plane trees have been planted on Madison Avenue and five on 71st Street, bordering the church properties. The trees are gifts of parishioners and others interested in the neighborhood. The Reverend Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, Rector of SAINT JAMES', is among other preachers who have been invited by the British Council of Churches to preach this summer in England in both Anglican and free churches.

The Clares and Friars of THE CHURCH OF THE RESURRECTION, East 74th Street, sponsored a Smorgasbord recently at which $537.15 was realized for the Missionary quota of the Parish. The Clares and Friars are an organization of young people of the parish. Extensive repairs have been announced by the Reverend Dr. Louis W. Pitt, to the fabric of GRACE CHURCH, Broadway. Scaffolding has been erected on the spire, and repointing will be done during the summer. The spire of GRACE CHURCH can be seen from the Battery on clear days, and has been a landmark for a hundred years.

The active basketball team of the CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY, Inwood, recently received the trophy for the season in its class. Eric Sutton received at the same time a gold medal for his work with the team. This parish conducted a Lawn Festival on June 5. It is one of the big events of the year.

Some time ago the Altar Guild of the CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST, Fifth Avenue, published an interesting and helpful book on the care of the altar. Now the same group is at work collecting favorite recipes and menus for a cook-book. The book will be ready and for sale at the annual Country Fair in October.

On May 7 the Bishop visited SAINT STEPHEN'S CHURCH, West 69th Street, for the burning of the mortgage and to preach. Two memorials were dedicated at the same time. On May 13 the Bishop set apart Miss Pauline E. Watts, a member of SAINT STEPHEN'S congregation, as a Deaconess in the Church of God.

THE CHAPEL OF THE INCARNATION, East 31st Street, reports an Easter offering of $291.-04 and a Lenten offering of $184.70. Such offerings reflect the deep interest and affection for the Chapel which its parishioners feel.

On May 9 there was held a successful May-Fair at ALL ANGELS' CHURCH, West 80th Street. Each booth was named after a Broadway hit show. The proceeds were used to rehabilitate the Drawing Room and Basement Dining Room in the Parish House.

THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY COMMUNION, West 20th Street, is planning an exhibit and contest for October. The general theme of the event will be "Religion and Humor". Poets, painters, photographers and hobbyists in general, parishioners or not, may take part in the show.

Again this year, the Tulip Festival at SAINT MARK'S CHURCH IN-THE-BOUWERIE, East 10th Street, was well attended. The Dutch motif was carried out in the Flower Mart, the Dutch Luncheon and the gifts for sale. This is one of the most unusual events held in any New York City parish. The Festival emphasized the contributions of the Lower East Side to the Tercentenary Year of the City of New York.

On Youth Sunday, there were sixteen youth groups marching in procession at the eleven o'clock service at SAINT GEORGE'S CHURCH, Stuyvesant Square. Almost every activity in which a girl or boy might be interested was represented, from the Junior Choirs to woodworking classes.

As part of the Centennial Celebration of SAINT JOHN'S CHURCH IN THE VILLAGE, Waverly Place, an attractive and informative Year Book and Directory has been issued. A Spring Sale and two plays excellently presented by the Saint John's Theatre Group have been part of the total celebration.

SAINT AUGUSTINE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Henry Street, publishes monthly one of the best and most interesting parish magazines seen anywhere. It lists activities and also has a short and snappy presentation of the Faith along with illustrations and jokes and news.

On April 25 a bus-load of parishioners of SAINT LUKE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Hudson Street, visited the Convent of the Sisters of Saint John the Baptist at Mendham, New Jersey. So successful was that venture that on May 9 another trip took them to West Cornwall, Connecticut, for the Rogationtide Blessing of the Fields at Camp Schlueter.

A new activity for young men and women was begun in January by SAINT BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, Park Avenue, with the establishment of a Young Adult Fellowship. The group meets at six o'clock on Sunday evenings for a light supper, followed by a speaker and a discussion period on topics of current interest. There have been discussions on Corruption in New York City; South Africa; Buddhism; Labor; Christian Marriage; the Theatre; and Alcoholics Anonymous.

The annual parish lawn party at SAINT MARY'S CHURCH, Manhattanville, was held on June 13, beginning at two o'clock and ending with entertainment at eight. The parish paper is now displayed on the bulletin boards of all the schools and colleges in the Columbia University neighborhood.

On May 11 there was a Memorial Organ Recital at SAINT PAUL'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Broadway, in memory of Andrew Tietjen, Associate Organist of TRINITY CHURCH and Founder and Director of the Trinity Choir at SAINT PAUL'S CHAPEL that broadcasts a program of sacred music from the Chapel each Sunday morning over CBS. Mr. Tietjen died on April 13 after a brief illness.

The pupils of SAINT LUKE'S SCHOOL, Trinity Parish, Hudson Street, presented an art exhibit on May 23. The Exhibit showed the art work of pupils from the nursery through the eighth grade, represented by over 200 pictures.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

ONE MORE BOOK for you to consider is a very different kind of book, but one in which you will want to browse to discover – if nothing more – the references to Episcopalians and the Episcopal Church. The book is A Reporter in Search of God by Howard Whitman (New York, Doubleday. $3.50). It is, I believe, another evidence of the renascent interest in Christian verities in the world today, an interest that demands that all Christians witness as never before to the faith that they profess.

The Reporter's viewpoint in his search is well expressed in these sentences from the Foreword:

"As a journalist, I have done my exploring in the past mainly in two fields, psychiatry and sociology . . . My books and articles have dealt with mental health and with social problems because I felt that therein were the two great relationships of life: man's relationship to himself and man's relationship to others . . . Then . . . I began to get interest in a third relationship. It seemed, actually, to be a cut above the other two and perhaps even to embrace them. It was man's relationship to his universe . . . to God."

With this viewpoint the Reporter began his search, and early in that effort he found a keynote in a conversation with the Presiding Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill. Here's how he records it: " 'People are turning to God,' said Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill, 'because they've learned something from history. They've learned that mankind cannot save himself by himself.'

"We sat in the bishop's study on Fourth Avenue, New York, and saw out the window some of the wondrous towers of steel and stone which man had built. I remembered how that morning, in one of the wondrous towers, I had seen a busy little man, tacking up notices about where to run in case it should come toppling down.

"Bishop Sherill continued, 'Until now people felt that man himself could work out everything. 'Progress' was the answer to all his problems. He thought he was going up an escalator. All he had to do was learn more, invent more, progress more – and the world would get better and better. Now people can see that something has been left out of the picture. What has been left out – is God.'

"Something deep inside of people seems to tell them that. That's why they're reaching out. Bishop Sherrill, then presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church and president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., summed up the mood of the times – 'Man's necessity is God's opportunity.' "

Many other interviews and conversations are recorded by the Reporter. Together they present a flavor of the time in which we live and the urgency for Christian lay men and women to follow actively and constantly in the path of Jesus. In no other way can you and I and the world find peace.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH, Goshen, observed Ascension Day with a festival for choir and acolytes, installation of the Woman's Guild officers, and the United Thank Offering. Bishop Boynton preached on Whitsunday.

Other Goshen news items include the decision of the Men's Club to keep the cross over the church door lighted from dark till dawn, and an Antique Show being planned by the women for July 7 and 8.

The Rev. G. A. Zeltner ministers to the patients in Summit Park Sanitarium, Pomona, to several nursing homes and to a school run by the Gould Foundation, as well as to two churches. In the rectory garden at ST. PAUL'S, Spring Valley, he raises marvellous flowers, fruits and vegetables. Public school children have had classes in the parish house for three years, due to lack of space elsewhere.

ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River, celebrated its first year as a self-supporting parish on Sunday, May 3, with tribute to persons who have been a long time in the church, historical items in an exhibit of pictures, and prayers of thanksgiving. The young people recently have enjoyed suppers, trips to New York, and other social events.

The Nancy Ruth Churchill Memorial Fund of $1000.00 has been legally established. This fund will provide an Annual Award, beginning this year, to the student in the Pearl River High School graduating class who is chosen by concurrent vote of the faculty and graduating class, as the one "Who has shown the most concern, interest, and love for fellow students during the High School Years". Gilbert B. Ayres, Ph.D., J. Alan MacWatt, and Allen E. Hull are the trustees of the fund. Future trustees must be members of the Vestry of ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH.

The Memorial Fund for a new Altar Window in the church, toward which many have contributed, now amounts to about $1400.00. The cost of the window, which will replace the present window, will be approximately $1800.00. Present plans provide for reconditioning the present window, which is in need of repair. This is to be preserved for future use in the church when changes are made. The main figure on the new window will be that of the glorified Christ, with St. Stephen "looking steadfastly into heaven and beholding the glory of God".

GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, has spent $37,000.00 in rebuilding projects since the beginning of this new plan. 884 came to the church on Easter Day. The Church School enrollment is 240 pupils.

On May 18 the Dean of Convocation had his first meeting with the newly elected executive com-

Dr. Casserley To Lecture at Graduate Faculty Forums

THE Graduate-Faculty Forums at the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine will open this month with a series of four lectures on "The Genius of Anglicanism" to be given by The Reverend J. V. Langmead Casserley, D.Litt. Dr. Casserley is Professor of Dogmatic Theology at The General Theological Seminary, in New York City, and recently arrived from England. While in England, he was Head of the Department of Sociology at the University College of the South-West in Exeter, and in 1951 Dr. Casserley was appointed lecturer in King's College, London.

The Forums, sponsored by the Dean, The Very Reverend James A. Pike, and Chapter of the Cathedral, and the Reverend John W. Pyle, Chaplain for College Work, Diocese of New York, begin on October 4th, when Dr. Casserley will lecture on "Catholicity." An address on "The Evangelical Protest" will follow on October 11th, and discussions on "Anglican Theology" and "The Anglican Theologian" on October 18th and October 25th respectively. The Sunday night programs begin with the address and discussion at 7:30, followed by a Service of Compline at 8:45 and an informal period for coffee and further discussion at 9:00. All graduate students and recently graduated students are cordially invited to attend.

The Graduate-Faculty Forums have had a widely popular appeal since they first began in the Fall of 1952. Students and Faculty alike, from the numerous colleges and universities in the Metropolitan area welcome this informal community of learning and study. These Graduate students and Faculty people have a genuine concern for the implications of the Christian Faith in their various fields of study. The Cathedral House at 110th St. and Amsterdam Avenue, on the Cathedral Close, where the Forums are held provides an excellent meeting place for a group of this kind.

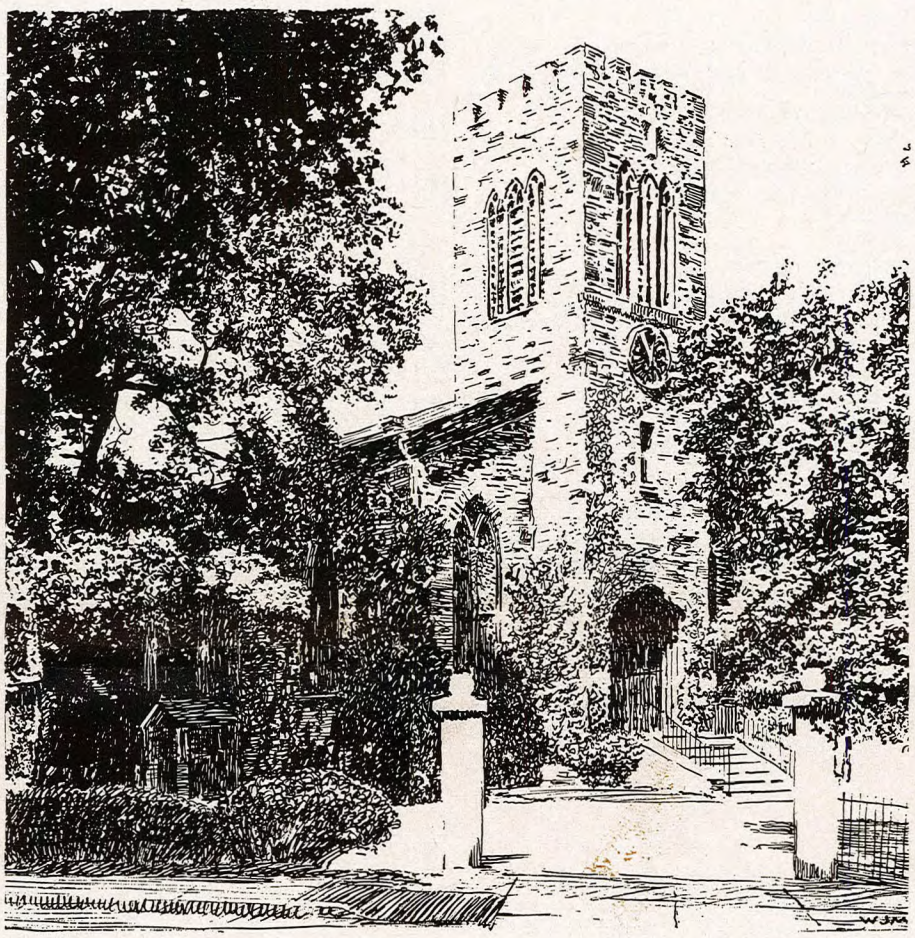
O, SION . . . THY MISSION HIGH FULFILLING



A hundred and thirty-three years ago, Joanna, the wife of Matthew Mesier, began a Sunday School class under the shade of an apple tree where Zion Church Parish House now stands in Wappingers Falls, then called Wappingers Creek. The Creek, which drops over stone ledges in the town and descends to the Hudson River a mile below, took its name from the Wappinger Indians who came north from the state of Delaware.

Out of that little Sunday School sprang Zion Church, founded on February 20th, 1834, with Matthew Mesier and Benjamin Clapp as the first wardens.

The parish, still without a church building, was immediately received into union with the Convention of New York, and Bishop Benjamin T. Onderdonk made his first visitation in 1834. He wrote in his journal:

"Second Sunday after Trinity, June 8th, in the morning preached for the parish of Zion Church, Wappingers Creek, in the Methodist Chapel. A church is about being erected in this parish, which is in charge of the Rev. George B. Andrews, who has removed thither from his former residence at Amenia, in the same County; and who, there being no Church there, has, for many years rendered faithful pastoral service to the neighbouring churches of Connecticut and to the parish of Lithgow in this Diocese."

Within four years from the celebration of the first Holy Communion Service held in Matthew Mesier's house with four communicants present, a stone church was built, costing $3,810, "between the Cemetery and the Turnpike." There were now forty-five communicants, a bell had been received from George B. Reese of Philadelphia, a marble font had come from St. Mark's-in-the-Bowerie and a donation of $750 had come from Trinity Church in New York City.

Participation - Instruction - Application

THE second annual "School Of Worship" for the women of the Diocese will be held at the Cathedral on Monday mornings, November 2, 9, 16, and 23, from 10:30 to one o'clock. The theme for this year is: God — Creator, Redeemer, Sanctifier — as Revealed in Holy Scripture. For our lecturers Dean Pike has secured four of the outstanding scholars and teachers in the field: The Rev. Robert C. Dentan, Berkeley Divinity School, The Rev. Cuthbert A. Simpson, General Theological Seminary, Dr. Ursula Niebuhr, Barnard College, and The Rev. Albert T. Mollegen, Virginia Theological Seminary.

In accordance with the plan which proved so successful last year, each session of the school will include Participation, Instruction and Application. The opening services of corporate worship, focused each time on the great theme for the day, will take place in the Great Choir of the Cathedral. This will be followed by the lecture and then a break for coffee. The final period will be given to discussion in small groups of the relevance in our daily lives of the theological truths we have heard presented.

Canon Richardson, of Durham Cathedral, one of the leaders of Christian Education in England, says that the learning process is best accomplished where there is personal involvement in a diverse group of individuals intent on the common aim of understanding God's will. Many of the women in the Diocese of New York have had opportunity to test the validity of this principle in prayer-study groups, workshops, and schools of prayer. For this reason careful preparation has been made to make the discussion groups fulfill their important role. A group of eighty clergy and women leaders spent two Mondays last April in training for the November program. Women registering for the 1953 "School Of Worship" are asked to indicate their choices from among six possible fields of in-

Christian Education

PROBABLY the greatest affliction that could strike any part of the Church's work is the affliction which might well go by the name of "pigeon-hole-itis" . . . and unfortunately many parts are so afflicted. It is the disease which forces a phase of the work into a water-tight compartment and delimits its scope; it is a disease which creates narrow-minded specialists who roam to and fro in high-walled fields and begin to talk a language which they alone can understand. It is a disease which persuades those who happen to be outside that special field that they should have no concern for it; it cuts off those who are inside the field from any possibility of a normal and wholesome grasp and opportunity in the whole work of the Church.

Christian Education has frequently been afflicted by such a disease. Not only has there been a tendency to build high walls between the educational work of the Church and all the rest of the Church's work, but there has also been a marked development which works its damage within the educational field itself . . . the children's workers frequently are out of real relationship with the youth workers, those concerns with young men on the college campus often know nothing of what these young men have experienced as boys in the Church.

"Pigeon-hole-itis" must be strenuously combatted. There is a real need that the whole work of the Church should be recognized and appreciated by all of the Church's leaders. It is eminently true that no one area of the work can gain a healthful stature while it lacks the ability to think with and co-operate with all other areas of the work.

The Church has a special need of this stress where its educational work is concerned for all that the Church attempts is bound up with educational procedures. The whole gamut from evangelism to finance is permeated with the need of educational success, and while those who have these special concerns are carrying out their responsibility they are taking part in the program of Christian education whether they do so consciously or not.

The new Diocesan Director of Christian Education, the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, has taken up his work as of Sept. 1st. He is most anxious that his first word in the Diocesan BULLETIN should be this word about the wholeness of the Church's work. He looks forward with keen anticipation to close co-operation with all others who have special responsibility within the Diocese and

IT is good to be home again. Indeed, the best part of a vacation is not in going forth but in returning to the places and people that are dear to one. I am sure we are all grateful for our holidays and the opportunities for rest and refreshment. Now we are glad to take up again our responsibilities with new enthusiasm.

THE Diocese was saddened by the deaths of The Reverend Francis J. H. Coffin and The Reverend Richard W. Wamsley. For thirty years Mr. Coffin was the greatly beloved Rector of St. John's Church, Larchmont. During his rectorship St. John's became one of the strongest parishes in the Diocese. No priest was more devoted or so genuinely loved and respected not only by his own parishioners but by all who knew him. When I became Suffragan Bishop I lived in St. John's parish; consequently I very soon became aware of the reality of his devotion, and his complete sincerity. The secret of the affection that everyone had for Francis Coffin lay in the breadth of his sympathy and depth of his understanding. Many people have told me of his helpfulness to them in time of trouble or sorrow. Though no longer visibly present, his spirit and influence will live on.

THE Reverend W. Wamsley who died as the result of an automobile accident in July, had been the Vicar of Holy Trinity Church, Pawling, and Priest-in-Charge of Christ Church, Patterson, for the last eleven years. During the last two years he had also served as Chaplain of Trinity-Pawling School. When Bishop Weston died it was said of him "he was a very friendly man." This was certainly true of Dick Wamsley. He was modest, and above all things, a very friendly Christian. In the deaths of Richard Wamsley and Francis Coffin the Church of this Diocese has suffered a true loss. May they rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon them.

IN August Dr. Norman Coke-Jephcott announced his retirement as Organist and Master of Choristers of the Cathedral. In an address given to the friends of Chickester Cathedral, Mr. T. S. Eliot said, "It is the function of the Cathedral to have the best performance of it; and that this is necessary as a part of its worship. The Cathedral has the responsibility of satisfying the best taste, correcting the imperfect and educating that which is uninformed, and setting the standard in these matters for churches." This has always been the purpose of Dr. Coke-Jephcott. Not only the Cathedral but also the Church is the richer in its musical standards as the result of Dr. Coke-Jephcott's contribution as Organist and Master of Choristers. He is famous on both sides of the Atlantic for the brilliance of his improvizations. We wish him health and happiness in his retirement.

THE Diocese congratulates Canon Green on his unanimous election as Dean of the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, Diocese of Long Island. Since 1941 he has been Cathedral Precentor and Headmaster of the Cathedral Choir School. He has servd the Church in this Diocese faithfully and untiringly both at the Cathedral and in Trinity Parish. We rejoice in the honor which has come to him and regret that he will be leaving the Diocese. He is well fitted for the high office and responsibilities to which he has been called. Canon and Mrs. Green and the children will be greatly missed on the Cathedral Close. We are glad that he will be a near neighbor and we wish for him a joyful and useful ministry in the years ahead.

AS another season commences may there be more zeal for the Kingdom on the part of us all — clergy and laity; may we strive to be more loyal to Our Lord and to the Faith as set forth in the Book of Common Prayer. Then the Church in this Diocese will be stirred with new power in its work for God.

Faithfully and affectionately your Bishop

Horace W. B. Donegan

Bishop of New York

he pledges to them and to the Diocese as a whole an earnest effort to serve the cause of Christian education, in its broadest sense, to the utmost of his ability. He also appeals to all clergy and laity to see that the Church's work is almost always an educational work; Christian education in Sunday School classes is often being undermined by the wrong kind of eduaction brought about by the example of Churchmen and women as they engage in other parts of the Church's work.

Let us all think often that the Church is the Body of Christ. Avoid every tendency which would fracture that Body, either by the tension which results in denominationalism or by over-specialization which causes even a more subtle damage.

A survey of the population trends and Episcopal coverage in the greater Poughkeepsie area was begun this summer by Robert R. Rodie, Jr., a Senior at Berkeley Divinity School, under the direction of Rev. Benson B. Fisher of the Department of Missions of the Council of the Diocese. Towns to be covered by the study include Poughkeepsie, Wappingers Falls, Hyde Park, Pleasant Valley, Pine Plains and Hopewell Junction. Ma-

The Wynants are a group of American students who volunteer their services in the East End of London under the direction of the Reverend "Tubby" Clayton (TOC-H), Vicar of All Hollows Church, London.*

The interior of the church was as simple as it was quaint. A wine-glass pulpit reached by a winding staircase, was set against the reredos and towered above the Holy Table. This remained until 1854 when an apsidal chancel was provided. A major architectural change occured in 1869 with the building of a new choir chancel complete with stone arches which produced an interior cruciform effect. Later a balcony was added to the west end.

Rectors of this old parish have been comparatively few in number. During its first hundred and eleven years, there were but seven, with only three more to the present.

The Rev. George Andrews continued for forty-two years as Rector, ministering often in Lithgow, Amenia and Pleasant Valley. Often he rowed across the Hudson to officiate at Marlboro, and during that time Zion contributed gifts towards the erection of churches at Amenia, Rhinebeck, Milton and Piermont.

Ten years before Andrew's death at the age of ninety in 1875, Henry Yates Satterlee became assistant and was then called to be Rector. His ministry at Wappingers has been described in his biography called "The Master Builder", written by the late Bishop Brent.

For many years the Sunday School met in the church basement, but during Dr. Satterlee's absence on a European vacation in 1881, funds were raised as a surprise gift for the construction of a parish house, costing ten thousand dollars, which was completed the following year. This was a forward-looking venture in the days when parish houses were still comparatively rare, except in so-called "institutional parishes" active in community social work. Most of the money came from workers in the Dutchess and Franklindale Works, the principal livelihood of the community.

Dr. Satterlee left Wappingers to become the Rector of Calvary Church in New York, and later first Bishop of Washington, where he founded the National Cathedral before his death in 1902. A beautiful carved, black walnut Rector's chair and Prie-Dieu are now in the chancel in his memory.

Then came as Rector, Dr. J. Nevett Steele under whose direction the Rectory was built in 1886 at a cost of $13,000. It is a Victorian structure with eighteen rooms, four chimneys and eight fire-places.

There followed in order, the Rev. Prescott Evarts, later rector of Christ Church in Cambridge, the Rev. William H. Pott, the Revs. Gerald Cunningham and Maxwell W. Rice, who served for twenty-seven years until 1945.

Three post-war rectors came in rapid succession, the Rev. Oliver Carberry, now Rector of St. Paul's, Albany; the Rev. Richard L. Harbour, now Rector of St. Barnabas' Church, Irvington-on-Hudson; and the incumbent, the Rev. J. Jack Sharkey, who had been Rector of St. Thomas' Church, Bethel, Connecticut and came to Wappingers in January of 1950.

The priesthood of the laity has been well exemplified in the history of Zion Parish. Matthew Mesier gave the land on which the church stands in the heart of the village. Henry Mesier drew in his own wagon most of the stone for the building, and was a member of the first confirmation class. William H. Reese served as Warden for thirty-four years and was instrumental in building the Zion Memorial Chapel at New Hamburg, where he served as lay reader in charge of services for sixteen years. Perhaps Irving Grinnell is the most outstanding of past laity. He served for fifty-four years as Warden and Vestryman, along with teaching Bible classes for both men and women, superintending the Sunday School, and directing the Supplementary Choir.

Below Wappingers Falls at the mouth of the Creek on the Hudson lies New Hamburg. There a chapel was built in 1902, although a Sunday School had been meeting in the hamlet since 1876. Six years after building, the chapel property was conveyed to the Rector, Wardens and Vestrymen of Zion Church. With the exception of clergy stipends, the Chapel has remained self-supporting with a small active Sunday School and a busy Woman's Auxiliary. Weekly services are held under the direction of the Rector by lay readers, Herbert Nussbickel and Harold Furber. It was here that the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan celebrated his first Holy Communion on the morning after his installation as Bishop of New York.

The parish had its growth in the days when the "river folks" drove in carriages with coachmen from their estates along the Hudson and circled the gravel drive to Zion's door to take their places in family-owned pews. This was a parade the youngsters watched goggle-eyed. Now, with the breaking up of the estates, the valley picture is changing. There is an influx of people employed by the Poughkeepsie plant of the International Business Machine Corporation to the north and the Texaco laboratories to the south. No longer are the "departments" of an "institutional parish" needed, the pews are all free, and endowments of something over $130,000 make possible the upkeep of the Church, Parish House, Rectory and a block-square park lying between Satterlee Place and the Post Office.

Since a number of parishioners are employed at the Lockwood-Dutchess Bleachery below the falls, and report for work very early each day, it has been customary to have an early service on Holy Days at six-fifteen. A couple of acolytes and from six to twenty people are in attendance. Another service is held at nine o'clock.

Eight years ago, the Rev. Oliver Carberry instituted an all-parish Harvest Festival Fair and Supper to supplement the income for much needed repairs on the buildings. It was a success, and every year since, the Saturday after Labor Day has seen the park filled with activity as all organizations combine their efforts. Never less than fifteen hundred dollars has been realized, and the top effort a couple of years ago brought twenty-two hundred in the one day. This has provided for complete roofing of the church and parish house, the decoration inside and out of the Rectory and the decoration inside and out of the church.

The church is one of the beauty spots of the Hudson Valley, set as it is on a hill above the village. Perhaps that is where it got its name. Its windows of exquisite English glass; the Italian mosaic apse; the hand-carved, black walnut chancel furniture; the perfectly balanced Choir, Great and Gallery pipe-organs by Austin and the handsome altar vestments all center around a foot-square piece of stone set in the floor of the sanctuary before the Altar. It is a stone from Solomon's temple on Mount Zion in Jerusalem, sent at the request of the Rector by the Bishop of Jerusalem. It was flown out of the Holy Land and arrived at Zion by happy coincidence on the afternoon of Good Friday 1951.

High on the square stone tower of the church is a clock face which times the whole village. It is operated by an old weight-driven clock installed during the rectorship of Mr. Evarts in memory of Mrs. Fannie Bowdoin and Mrs. Fanny Kingsford. In the tower is a chime of thirteen bells which mark the hour and the quarters and may be manually sounded. For many years, the Chimer, Miss Adelaide Horton of Hughsonville, has played concerts before all services and on the occasion of community events.

The past two years have seen a complete change in the parish's support of the Program of the Church. At the Rector's suggestion the Vestry and Wardens, Richard M. Hunter and Charles E. Hicks, appointed a Mission's Treasurer and "adopted" a native Haitian priest, The Rev. Octave C. Lafontant. Missionary funds go through regular channels with plenty of opportunities for special gifts. Bishop C. Alfred Voegeli of Haiti visits the parish when he is in the States, Mr. Sharkey has been to Haiti, and last month Octave Lafontant was the guest of the parish for a three-week visit. The interest created by this personal approach to a basically impersonal requirement has resulted in overpayment of appointed quotas.

The late Dr. E. Clowes Chorley concluded his historical address on the occasion of Zion's one hundredth anniversary celebration with these original verses:

"Remember, of the thousand ages past
We are the heirs.
Today the task is ours
To trim the lamps
And guard Zion's sacred towers.
So grant us, Lord
Thy noblest work to do.
Our children may perchance
Thy glory view."

TRACE ELEMENTS

by Ralph Bradford

WHILE the men of science have delved dangerously of late into the awful secret of the atom, along the way out of the darkness of alchemy and necromancy they have also given us the boon of a better and richer life.

Especially in studying the properties of food and soil, they discovered and named certain essential ingredients to which I like to attach a moral as well as a physiologic significance. They discovered, in short, the trace elements!

They are not present in abundance, these trace elements, but are remnants, so to speak, of the basic substances that make up the material cosmos. But they are there — borium, calcium, copper, chlorine, iron, magnesium, manganese, and all the rest. They are there in traces — or else the vegetation will be dwarfted, or misshapen, or sickly, or wholly unfruitful or downright injurious. If a soil does not have them, it is a dead soil, inert and non-productive.

Is there not a similar need, a like elemental hunger, in the chemistry of our lives? If in the production of our food and fiber we try to understand and use wisely the trace elements of chemistry, then in our lives, our work and our responsibility as citizens we ought also to seek earnestly and use wisely the trace elements of character.

What are they? From the quick response of every moral instinct we possess, it is evident that the trace elements of character are to be found in the ethical concepts of honesty, courage, patience, fairness, charity, kindliness, industry, self-reliance, moderation, fidelity, and in that undefinable trait which contains something of all these, plus something more—the quality of elemental decency.

Of course we do not expect mankind — poor, foolish, groping, selfish and deluded mankind — to develop into an angelic host. I do not hope for myself, or for my friends, that we shall become paragons of virtue. Please keep in mind that I am talking about trace elements — those qualities which, though indispensable, need appear only in trace quantities in order to give life and vigor and stamina and beauty.

We expect no more of ourselves, and I rather suppose that God expects no more of mankind, than that. Only the saints among us are wired emotionally to withstand the voltage of full sanctity; and as a matter of cosmic balance, it seems hardly likely that the Supreme Chemist would demand more of mankind than He does of the soil itself, which is endowed at best with trace elements only.

But if the trace elements are there in sufficient number and balance, then the soil will be productive of food and fiber and the poignant beauty of leaf and flower. If the trace elements of decency are present, even faintly, there is hope for the character. It remains only to combine them in proper balance, and then there is hope for the man. And when there is hope for the man, then there is hope for the race!

Does that formularly present a long road to salvation? I fear it does — but it is the only road. More than ever, I am convinced that the individual is the key to the universe. The matter of personal salvation and rebirth is at the core of all religions, and rightly so — inevitably so; for every man is his own deepest mystery and gravest problem.

But every man has a bit of God within him. If he lets it grow, the God within will govern him, and it will be seen of men that he is God-possessed. That's what the Greeks called it; and it is from their phrase for God within—en Theos — that we derive our word enthusiasm.

God within! That is the trace element of divinity. Given scope, not smothered or pushed aside wholly by the demands of the ego, the God within will flow out; and so, building upon the Latin in and fluo, the man will be said to have influence!

The Department of Promotion Reports

ELSEWHERE in this issue is the announcement by the Bishop of his appointment of Mr. E. J. Yowell as Director of the Department. We are pleased with the appointment. Mr. Yowell has had considerable experience in the Every Member Canvass, and is a devout and informed churchman. He stands ready to serve the clergy and laymen of the Diocese and we hope they will call on him without hesitancy.

The department is beginning a new service to the clergy this autumn. This will be a monthly mailing of what we hope will prove to be helpful material on various subjects related to the departments work. It is also an effort to give the parishes and missions of this Diocese materials that may prove helpful in their parish programs. This project is under the direction of the Rev. Kenneth Ackerman, Chairman of the department's Committee on Publicity Kits.

Orders for Canvass materials can still be filled, even though the hour is late. This includes the National Council materials, as well as our own Diocesan mailing piece — "Many Opportunities" which was produced by the Department's Canvass Material Committee of which Mr. Joseph Boyle is Chairman.

The department held a meeting of Manhattan Canvass Chairmen and Rectors on September 24 to discuss the successes and failures of the Every Member Canvass techniques in Manhattan. Many useful suggestions were made at the meeting.

We urge the churches of the Diocese to use the materials and the help offered for the presentation of the needs of the Diocese and National Church.

The Diocese of New York has a great work of its own and a large share in the work of the National Council. Our people must be informed of the opportunities and responsibilities that are theirs. Let this department help you in your canvass plans. A telephone call to the Department of Promotion office (UN 5-3600) will bring results.

Albert A. Chambers, Chairman

To Celebrate Holy Communion According to Newly Proposed Revised Liturgy

THE Standing Liturgical Commission of the General Convention has recently proposed a revised liturgy of the Holy Communion for the study of the Church. It must be understood that any change in the Prayer Book requires for its adoption the action of two successive triennial General Conventions of the Church, and could not therefore be ratified before 1958 at the earliest.

The Cathedral Liturgical Forum, a group of clergy which for the past year has been maintaining a study of would be useful to have in the Cathe- liturgical movements, feels that it dral a celebration of Holy Communion according to the proposed revised rite, and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral have concurred in this idea.

Therefore, with the permission of Bishop Donegan, who will preside at the service, there will be celebrated the Holy Communion in the proposed form on Monday, October 19th, at 10:30 in the Great Choir. A choral setting of the new services will be provided for the participation of those attending, and the boy choristers of the Cathedral will assist in the singing.

The Bishop will preside; the Dean will be the Celebrant; the Reverend Morton C. Stone, member of the Standing Liturgical Commission, and Assistant at Christ Church, Bronxville, will be the Gospeller; the Rev. Hugh D. McCandless, Rector of Epiphany Church, Manhattan, will be the Epistler; and Canon West will be the Master of Ceremonies. The music will be under the direction of Mr. John Upham, Acting Master of Choristers.

To complete the worship and fellowship, and provide an opportunity for informal discussion of the proposed revisions, it has been arranged to have coffee and rolls at the Cathedral House after the service. In order that ample preparation of these modest refreshments can be made, the clergy of the Diocese and others who plan to come should so indicate to the Cathedral offices.

New Director For Promotion Dept.

BISHOP Donegan has just recently announced the appointment of Mr. E. J. Yowell as Director of The Department of Promotion to succeed Mr. W. Ted Gannaway.

Mr. Yowell is a resident of Dobbs Ferry and a member of Christ Church, Tarrytown. He has been active in the affairs of that parish since 1946 as Vestryman, Canvass Chairman, Church School Superintendent and Lay Reader. For the last several years he has been active in the laymen's program of the Department of Promotion.

He comes to us from the business world, having been in the sales organization of the Union Special Machine Company of Chicago for twelve years, including seven as Manhattan representative.

Mr. Yowell is an informed, persuasive and devoted layman. We know that he will have your full support in directing the important functions of the Department of Promotion.

Church Club Dinner At Seabury House, Oct. 16

THE FIRST of the dinners of the Church Club of New York will be held at Seabury House, Greenwich, Ct. at 6:30 on October 16th.

The dinner is for members and their wives, but inasmuch as the accomodations at Seabury House are limited it is advisable to make your reservations early.

It is expected that Bishop and Mrs. Sherrill will be present—if not at dinner then afterwards—so that the Bishop might speak of his extensive trip to Alaska and the Far East and the Pacific.

On Tuesday, July 14th there was a special Commemoration of the arrival of Commodore Perry in Japan, held at SAINT MARK'S CHURCH-IN-THE BOUWERIE. Canon West of the Cathedral represented the Bishop of the Diocese and the Rector of the Parish. The Japanese Ambassador, the Mayor and other officials were present.

SAINT JOHN'S CHURCH-IN-THE-VILLAGE wished Godspeed to Mr. and Mrs. Preston W. Barker on August 16th. Mr. Barker had served as a Vestryman and Treasurer of the Parish and Mrs. Barker had many times helped at the console of the Organ. The Barkers were moving to California.

THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY COMMUNION, West 20 Street, is sponsoring a Hobby Show on October 27th. Paintings, photographs, poems and anything creative — wood carving, leather work, metal work, etc. — are being considered for entries. The general theme is 'Religion and Humor,' but entries are not in any way limited to such a theme. There will be prizes in all categories and classes.

The Reverend Dr. Large, Rector of the CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST, Fifth Avenue, reports that the size of the 9:30 A.M. Family Service on Sundays has more than doubled even after the number of children who come with their parents is subtracted. The Parish Paper, DISCIPLE, now has a weekly circulation of 1750 copies reaching almost every state in the union and also several foreign countries.

Frederick Weidner, tenor soloist at the LITTLE CHURCH AROUND THE CORNER, East 29th Street, has been awarded a Fulbright Scholarship. This entitles him to a year's study of music abroad.

The first Festival Parish Service of TRINITY CHURCH, Wall Street, and the Six Chapels was held on Sunday, June 7th. The parishioners arrived by bus, subway and automobile to worship together at the 11:00 service. Assembled in the church-yard, they marched into the Church led by the Acolytes and Choir. The Reverend Dr. Joseph S. Minnis, Vicar of the CHAPEL OF THE INTERCESSION, West 155th Street, was the preacher at this Festival Service. Additional seats were placed to hold the assembled congregation of nearly 900 persons. The Choirs filled the Broadway gallery, the Chancel and extra seats placed below the chancel steps.

SAINT AUGUSTINE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Henry Street, sends out every month one of the best parish papers ever to reach this desk. It has humor, advice, cartoons, news and even schedules of the services at the chapel! There is also good teaching to the Faith, done in attractive ways. It is a well done job, anyway you look at it.

The Chantry at SAINT GEORGE'S CHURCH, Stuyvesant Square, has been completely rebuilt, and wonder of wonders for churches, is actually air-conditioned!

Isabel Bigley, star of "Me and Juliet," Rodgers and Hammerstein's latest show now playing on Broadway, and formerly starred in "Guys and Dolls" and "Oklahoma!" has given SAINT MICHAEL'S CHURCH, West 99th Street, forty choir hymnals and three hundred hymnals for the Congregation in loving memory of her father, Joseph Bigley, who was formerly a tenor soloist in Saint Michael's Choir and served on the Vestry.

SAINT MARY'S CHURCH, Manhattanville, has again published a most attractive and helpful "Directory and Year Book". It is one of the most complete issues, with every organization represented usually with excellent photographs, to come to this desk.

The annual Watermelon Festival of SAINT AUGUSTINE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Henry Street, and SAINT CHRISTOPHER'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Henry Street, was held as an all-day event on Saturday, August 15th. The program began at 10:30 a.m. with a procession of clergy, acolytes, crucifers and members of the two congregations. They marched along Henry Street to Saint Augustine's Chapel where the Reverend C. Kilmer Myers, the Vicar, officiated at the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Following the service there was an interval for box lunches in the Parish Hall. The younger boys and girls remained there for games and sports and movies while the older children assembled for games at East River Park. All children were served watermelons and the day came to a close with a dance for young people in the evening at the gymnasium of Saint Christopher's Chapel.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, Convent Avenue, The Convent Avenue Guidance Center, equipped to handle educational and vocational services as they relate to family and community relations, opens at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, 141st Street and Convent Avenue, on Monday evening, October 5th. The Center's opening was announced this week by the Rev. John H. Edwards, vicar of St. Luke's Church.

On Wednesday evening, September 16th, from 8:30 to 9:30, the Guidance Center did hold registration for parents wishing to enroll themselves and their children for participation in the Center's activities.

The Convent Avenue Guidance Center, the first of its kind in the Hamilton Grange area, will concern itself with parent education groups, adolescent discussion sessions, community education programs and a psychological testing program for children and adolescents. The Center, for the present, will not offer services for the treatment of the diagnosis of mental or emotional disturbances.

The Guidance Center, serving all nationalities, will be under the supervision of Dr. Ross Thalheimer, consultant, Association for Psychiatric Treatment; Benjamin Coleman, case supervisor, New York State Training School for Boys; and the Rev. Mr. Edwards.

The City Is The Mission

MANY CITY PARISHES are waging a valiant battle against far greater odds than is often suspected. All parish problems are basically similar, but in cities—especially large cities—they are in such acute form as to be malignant rather than simply irritating.

In this article we confine ourselves, naturally, to New York City and make four observations on the basis of daily intimate study of parishes in Manhatten and Lower Westchester. Under the news from The Dutchess Convocation (page 3) you will find that similar studies have begun in that part of the upper Diocese.

The first point of observation is that of Rapid Turn-over. A young man or woman who is ambitious often comes to the Big City to seek his or her fortune. Young people by the tens of thousands come to New York City to study in the universities or other schools; to prepare for some specialized job at the headquarters of their employer-corporation; or simply to try their wings in the "big-time" of a major metropolitan center.

These upward-moving, and mobile, young people are most often single or newly married when they arrive here. And when marriage and the children come, and/or promotions and a degree of success make their impress on their life they are apt to move to the suburbs — if their employer hasn't transferred them to another city.

This constant loss to other cities, and to the suburbs, of almost 50,000 per year of the young, the able, and those of child-bearing age have important implications for church work in New York City and its suburbs.

In many a city parish the average residence of communicants may be as short as two or three years. Thus, few of us realize that such a parish is really a large mission station feeding and stimulating the lives of suburban, or other city, parishes as well as evangelizing the individual. The New York City parish often does not reap the fruit of its work. The Baptisms, Confirmations, and the financial support accrue to the new parish to which the people move.

The second point of observation concerns Transition Areas. Frequently urban parishes find themselves in the center of an area of rapid change. The old families that have been their mainstay are moving out, the young people are going elsewhere, a new social, cultural, or nationality group is moving in. The changed situation must be dealt with or the parish will die.

For instance, New York City is a magnet drawing 90% of the 38 to 39 thousand Puerto Ricans who emigrate from their Island every year. These thousands of immigrants — like the thousands of immigrants of other nationalities and faiths who came before them — face enormous difficulties in adjusting their lives to a new culture and to city life while speaking its language imperfectly, if at all.

They will be happily and ultimately assimilated, as were their immigrant fore-runners, into "Americanized" fellow members of Rotary and Union League, P.T.A. and Country Club. and — God willing — fellow members of Christ in the Church.

The immigration of the Puerto Ricans is a fairly new phenomenon in New York City. The exodus of the Negro from the South to the North — and especially to large Northern cities — has been going on for some time, accelerated during the labor-short war years. Approximately 16 to 18% of 150,000 Negroes who leave the South every year come to New York City.

With this continued immigration into the city, plus its higher birth-rates, it is estimated that by 1970 New York City will be 30% non-white and Puerto Rican.

Of course, no one at this time can say just where they will live, and which parishes will be most affected by the changes. However, indications will always be plain in particular areas long before any major concentration is built up, and parishes and clergy will have ample opportunity to plan for the reception of the newcomers—often with changed social action, and sometimes with revised liturgy.

The third point of observation concerns Age-Sex Imbalance. Turnover in communicants, changing neighborhoods, the personality of the clergy. and other factors often tend to make a parish preponderantly elderly or young, male or female, married or single. This is not necessarily fatal. But a parish needs to know its situation clearly, and the reasons for it. The clergy will then be more able to concentrate their efforts on the recruiting of new membership in areas and classifications where most needed for good health in growth.

The fourth point of observation is Community Change. In big cities superhighways, housing projects, etc., are built with astonishing rapidity and sometimes cause great changes in parish opportunities. Advance information about these projects is always available, and strategy to take advantage of the changes should be used by parishes well in advance of the accomplished fact.

The function of Social Research in our Diocese is to give parishes accurate information about their current conditions, on the assumption that when these parishes know the facts, and interprets them in the light of their particular needs, the Parish leadership will be better able to plan for the parish's future well being.

The City Parish in our modern and progressively more secularized urban culture is fighting against tremendous odds. This is particularly true in New York City. But no matter how tangled and disheartening a situation may appear, solutions can be found by getting the facts, objectively analyzing these facts, constantly studying and working, and — not the least — praying.

Surely God calls us to bring the City church into a more effective ministry. The City is the most challenging Mission to the Church in our day.

Trace Elements

And there, perhaps, we have one of the finest measures of character. A man without character may exert authority by the use of power; a man without character may attain mastery over others by device or chicanery; a man without character may command obedience by means of threat. But influence according to Webster, connotes the quiet, insensible and gradual exertion of power, arising from strength of intellect and force of character. In a person of influence the trace elements of character are strongly present and in proper balance.

We want to live, you and I, in a world where men are moved by these trace elements of character. But you and I have no means, other than the police power of the state, to enforce moral decency. So what?

So this: let us look inside ourselves. Salvation is never a mass job. You don't regenerate a mob. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. You and I can save the world only by saving ourselves.

If life means anything at all, it is wrapped up in the everlasting importance of the individual — plus his inescapable personal responsibility. We can not, nor have we the right, to pick up the trace elements of character and force them upon others. But we can ourselves be men and women of character — faithful, honest, fair, charitable; performing our duty simply and unpretentiously; and thus, step by step, doing our share for the good world which we fondly hope may yet be the world of tomorrow.

Ed. Note: Ralph Bradford is International Vice President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. For 13 years he was its chief staff executive, and has been lauded for "molding the chamber of commerce movement into fields of cultural and spiritual as well as physical advancement." He is widely in demand as a speaker, and is author of numerous magazine articles and books. Among the latter, the latest is "Heritage," a book-length poetic treatment of man's physical and spiritual legacies.

RECORD YEAR AT CITY MISSION CAMPS

ONE THOUSAND four hundred and fifteen boys and girls went to the Episcopal City Mission Society's camps this past season, the greatest number ever taken in the 55 years the Society has operated summer camps. 366 children, aged 5 to 8, were taken to the Creche in Englewood, N. J. 1,049 boys and girls, aged 9 to 15, went to Elko Lake Camps in Parksville, N. Y. Each child had at least two weeks at camp.

A camp staff of ninety persons cared for and guided these hundreds of children toward a new outlook on life. About 25% of this staff were young men and women who had learned their camping and developed their leadership abilities in the Society's camps.

Both Clarence Noyce, director of the boys' camp at Elko Lake, and Helen Locus, director of the girls' camp, are convinced that camps are not fulfilling their function if they simply give the boys and girls fresh air, good food and a good time. They believe that each child should receive the kind of help that will result in personality and character growth, and that leadership ability should be a natural development of the camping experience.

This year, 30 former campers, aged 15-16, had an opportunity to come back to camp for leadership training. Next year, those who did well will be given an opportunity to work as junior members of the staff.

Religion is an important factor in the personal growth which the camps seek to foster. The Reverend William E. Sprenger, director of the Society, celebrates the Service of the Holy Communion at each encampment and supervises the work of the camp chaplain. Morning Prayer and Evening Prayer with Sermon are held every Sunday. Counselors are encouraged to give religious as well as camping leadership to their groups and the chaplain is always available to each child, in addition to being a leader in other camp activities.

A little girl at The Creche, the Society's camp for 5 to 8 year-olds, says her prayers at her counselor's knee before going to bed.

Stimulating the desire for self-improvement is sometimes a problem with these children but the staff works cooperatively in treating each child as an individual with difficulties that are his own — and frequently with remarkable success.

One area, where marked improvement was noted, was in the swimming program. The staff felt that the children needed some added incentive to learn how to swim and recommended the purchase of some aluminum canoes, on the ground that the children would want to learn to swim so they could go out in the canoes.

The Board of Managers voted to try to raise the money for 2 "war canoes," each with a capacity of 10 children, and 6 fifteen-foot canoes. Several friends of the Society responded with gifts toward the "canoe fund" and the results with the children certainly justified the expenditure. Mr. William W. Kennedy, Chairman of the Camp Committee, is very grateful for the support he received for this project.

At the Creche — the Edgewater Creche and Rethmore Home — Mrs. Clarence Noyce, director of the camp, reported a very successful summer with the 5 to 8 year-olds. At the end of the regular camp season, the nur-

The G.F.S. raised $105 towards it's "Campership Fund".

ST. ANDREW'S, Richmond. The Rev. Bernard A. Hemsley, Rector and Dean of the Convocation reports that during the summer months the Supreme Court of the State approved of the transfer of property between the Church of St. Andrew's and the Staten Island Historical Society. The new property which adjoins the present parking area of the church will be used as a site for a new parish house. Plans for the building have been prepared and a campaign, under the leadership of Messrs. Howard Smith and John Peoples has been started to provide funds for same. The Church School has grown so rapidly in the past few years that larger facilities must be provided.

The first Fall meeting of the Clericus was held Sept. 14th at ST. STEPHEN'S, Tottenville. The Rev. Raymond Brock being the host, entertaining the group in the new undercroft built by the men of the church.

The Fall meeting of the Convocation will take the form of an Island-wide rally to be held at ST. JOHN'S on Sunday evening Oct. 18th, with Bishop Boynton as preacher.

ST. JOHN'S, Clifton. In order to teach the young people something of their future responsibilities the following were chosen for the Church School Vestry—David Hayes, Harold Baker, Edward Baker, Harold Schweiger, Arthur Schweiger and John O'Donnell.

The Church was completely restored and decorated during the summer and the Re-Opening commemorated at a service at 4 p.m. on Sunday, September 13th, more about it in the next issue.

The Dean's Column

SOME PEOPLE IN THE CHURCH felt that the defeat of Mr. J. B. Matthews marked the end of the "Communism in the Churches" matter. But it obviously didn't, as subsequent events have shown — and for two reasons:

> Those in whose interest it is to discredit the principal non-Roman communions have continued their advertisement of what was Mr. Matthews' position, e.g., the fundamentalist American Council of Churches and its Christian Beacon; and in a measure the Roman Catholic publication with the largest circulation: Our Sunday Visitor and The Register.
> The fact is that there have been — and are — some communists and fellow travelers (conscious and unconscious) among the clergy.

HENCE AS TO THIS ISSUE with which we will have to live for some time to come we are unable to utter a simple yea or nay. Silence would then seem to be the easiest "out"; but our consciences should not permit this, again for two reasons:

> Both the people who smear the churches as a whole as Communist-infiltrated and the people who deny the whole business are outspoken — and wrong.
> A great deal is at stake. The clergy are not a special class immune from investigation and prosecution. But the mission of the Church is of special importance — not only for its own sake but because its Gospel is in fact the best bulwark against Communism and, the spiritual vacuum which produces -isms. Thus the slander of the Church is an especial evil in our land.

WHAT THEN CAN WE SAY in this situation that is both true and constructive? Churchmen of intelligence and sound concern will differ as to what to say (and that too is a right worth protecting — and needing protection — these days). But there is offered a summary of an approach which may commend itself to some, and perhaps be at least suggestive to others:

1. WE SHOULD RECOGNIZE the fact and peril of Communist infiltration of American institutions and affirm the validity of Congressional investigations which may reasonably point to the strengthening of legislation on the subject.
2. WE SHOULD ENCOURAGE the indictment and trial of those whom the evidence indicates are genuinely guilty. (But we should remember that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has never turned up a genuine Communist among the clergy.)

3. WE SHOULD "CLEAN HOUSE" within the Churches. Communists and consistent fellow-travelers should not hold office in the Church or its institutions.
4. WE SHOULD CONTINUE TO PROTEST against the unChristian and unAmerican methods of Congressional committees, e.g., release, official or otherwise, of data about an individual's record until he has had an opportunity to rebut, complete or explain the facts; and sweeping generalizations which discredit groups and institutions. And we should openly defend those falsely accused.

5. WE SHOULD OPPOSE the practice of attributing guilt "by mutual object," and in so doing reassert the social mission of the Church, in both general and specific terms. A critique of the evils in society and active measures to redeem it should be so characteristic of the Church's life that no one should be able to confuse social concern with disloyalty.

6. BY PREACHING AND TEACHING we should (a) expose the bad theology and ethic of Communism, (b) show the extent to which it is a judgment upon our secularized culture and upon the visible Church, and (c) expound the relation of sound Christian doctrine and ethics to the maintenance and redemption of our free way of life.

SUCH AN AD HOC APPROACH to the problems and persons involved is of course emotionally less satisfying than the clean-cut positions of the "anti-Communists" and the "anti-anti-Communists." But it may be the special responsibility in our time of those whose ministry includes the task of "testing all spirits."

James A. Pike
Dean

Social Relations

RESEARCH, EDUCATION, ACTION,—for ten months of the year the work of the Department of Christian Social Relations revolves about these broad terms. The Executive Director, through his many board memberships on civic as well as Church-connected organizations gathers a constant supply of informative material on situations affecting human welfare, — housing, schools, race relations, international as well as national affairs; through the workshops and panel discussions which the Department organizes, as well as by means of talks to Church groups, efforts are made to spread knowledge of these situations to all constituents of the Diocese in the hope that they will join in intelligent action leading toward "the establishment of a Christian social order."

"Social relations" also carries the connotation of the more personal social services, and the Department is called upon frequently for such services or information leading to them. During the very active ten months these requests are handled, but necessarily sandwiched in with the Department's other activities. During the summer, however, with boards and executives on well-earned vacations, it was revealing and interesting to keep a record on the service calls that have come into the office.

It is beyond the scope of the Department of Christian Social Relations to give direct counselling service, but because of the many requests that reach us, an attempt is made to keep in the files and on the shelves information as to where people trained in specialized fields can be found. Closest at hand is Elizabeth Evans, Executive Director of the Episcopal Service to the Aged. Scarcely a day went by without a phone call or visit from or in behalf of an elderly person, most of them wanting information about places to live, but some of them just plain lonesome, needing to talk with someone who would help them think through their situations and work out next steps. With Miss Evans on vacation these people could for the most part be tided over with answers to general questions since, the initial contact once made, the problems rarely involved any immediate urgency. September promised to be a busy month indeed for the Service to the Aged, as all were either given appointments to see Miss Evans or urged to call her soon after her return.

Youth Consultation Service is another diocesan agency with trained social service personnel to whom the Department turns on occasion. Sometimes this question relay brings out the fact that the Church does not provide the requested facility. For example, when the father of a teen-ager and then the girl herself asked us to suggest a place where she could find supervised group summer activity in the city we called YCS. So far as they knew there was no such Church sponsored activity for the particular age group, but they directed the girl to an appropriate YWCA. YCS was able to act very positively on our next call, however. A woman telephoned to say she had a lot of good clothing that she wanted to give to a Church agency. No, she didn't want to give it to the local church for Korea. Didn't the Diocese have a home for unmarried mothers? This was a direct cue for our call to YCS who said they would be very happy to arrrange for a volunteer to go and pick up the clothes.

While the Diocese does not have specialized workers in every field of human welfare, its Department of Christian Social Relations makes an effort to know where facilities can be found. When a woman phoned about a advertisement (which she had lost and so wasn't sure whose it was) telling of the need for foster homes for children, we told her we thought she would find it had come from the Child Care Division of the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies, telephone, SPring 7-4800. And when an unusual emergency situation arose that needed the advice of a medical social worker, a hospital worker, who, strictly speaking, needed serve only the hospital patients, willingly responded to the request which had come as a call for help through the Church.

Last, but certainly not least, all around the town at this time of year, parents were making school plans for their children, and information particularly about elementary Church schools was eagerly sought. We are able to give the listing of such schools as they appear in the Episcopal Church Annual, and in one or two cases more specific material from the school catalogue. As with all the services, we welcome any direct information the organization or agency cares to supply to enable us to guide with more accuracy those who turn to the Department for assistance.

The Archdeacon

The Venerable George F. Brätt

During the past summer we have used several seminarians as full-time field workers. This practice, while common in other Districts and Dioceses, is relatively new here. The results have been gratifying to the Diocese and the experience afforded these able young men has proved valuable.

We have at all times received the warm support of the seminaries where much emphasis is laid on the value of practical experience. And diocesan clergy, those whose churches are in the vicinity and those in whose parishes the men are canonically resident have vigorously supported the work.

The seminarian, officially a licenced lay-reader, is appointed by the Bishop for a particular task. He may be assigned as a member of a team. If a team is needed, effort is made to select men from different seminaries for obvious reasons. At the conclusion of the summer a careful appraisal is made of the results and a detailed report is requested.

This year seminarians have been used in missions in rural areas, in city churches affected by population changes and in summer camps. So ambitious are these workers that it is refreshing to watch developments. For example, within the first two weeks of one man's tenure, nine children were presented to the Archdeacon and to a visiting priest for baptism. In another place a two man team organized and conducted a successful Daily Vacation Bible School, assisted at services and made some 5,000 survey calls within a nine block area all within a period of two months! To be sure less than half of the 5,000 were found at home. But accurate and interesting information was unearthed as follows: total calls made 5,619. The breakdown of those answering the door revealed Hebrew 772, Roman Catholic 602, Baptist 313, None 122, Episcopal 107, Methodist 101, Lutheran 40, Presbyterian 30, 7th Day Adv. 27, Orthodox 22, Pentecostal 21, Christian & Disciples 14, Jehova Witness 10, Miscellaneous 97. The total was 2,278.

Number of referrals to Pastor was 80.

This Parish, its program more closely geared to the needs of the community, will reach far beyond the number of lapsed Episcopalians and those "interested" in the Episcopal Church whose names and addresses have been turned over to the resident priest.

Possibly because the wider use of seminarians is still largely unknown in the Diocese some lay-people express concern when they learn that a seminarian will be "in charge" of their mission for the summer. But long before the end of the summer the last doubt has been dispelled and the curious have become loyal supporters. Several young men now ordained are exercising their ministries in churches where they served as field workers during Seminary years.

It is encouraging to note that increasing numbers of our students are offering themselves for work in city slum areas and for work leading to the revival of the city parish. This column has carried reports of our progress in earlier issues, but, though we have cause for rejoicing, the opportunities about us are almost limitless. To reap the full harvest we are ever aware that three things are necessary — well-trained and devoted men, the generous financial support of all our people and prayer for our success.

Dutchess Convocation

terials for the study are provided by the interested parishes, public utility companies, school boards, transportation companies and town boards.

Holy Baptism is publicly administered at ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, Beacon, on the fourth Sunday of each month. After the second lesson, the Vicar moves to the font at the west end of the Church, preceded by an acolyte bearing a lighted candle. After the actual administration, the candle is touched to the child's hand wih the words: "Receive the light of Christ". The candle used is marked by thirteen gold bands and is intended to be placed each year on the child's birthday cake until his Confirmation. The first child to be baptized in the presence of the congregation and to receive his candle was John David Parker, the son of the Junior Warden.

Deaconess Alice Reynolds, since April 15th of this year, in charge of the St. Clare's House, Upper Red Hook, died suddenly on July 28th. A solemn requiem was celebrated in ALL SAINT'S CHAPEL, Upper Red Hook on July 31st, with the Rev. John Q. Martin, Director-Chaplain of St. Clare's as celebrant. The Rev. J. Robert Orpen, curate of the Church of the Transfiguration, New York City, was Deacon, and the Rev. Charles Pickett, Curate of Christ Church in Poughkeepsie, was sub-deacon. The Rev. J. Benjamin Myers, retired, read the Burial Office.

Deaconess Reynolds had spent a life time in the missions of the church, and had served fourteen years in the district of Nevada, where her work made her widely known. At St. Clare's she had given notable leadership in the reorganization of the administration of the house. Fr. Martin announces that, effective September 15th, Deaconess Helen Hill, formerly of New Braumfels, Texas will assume the duties of Deaconess-in-charge.

The floor of ST. JAMES' CHURCH, Dover Plains, was refinished by the men of the church during the past summer. Mr. Gil Beck has done a beautiful job of refinishing the pulpit which will match the font recently redone by Herman Dischert. The Vicar, the Rev. Kenneth G. Drescher, reports that a concert given by the Grace Methodist Church choir of Newburgh for the benefit of the CHURCH OF THE REGENERATION, Pine Plains, proved to be one of the finest musical events ever held in the town of Pine Plains.

The parishioners of GRACE CHURCH, Millbrook, are turning their "talents" into "treasure" to meet a parish deficit. There is a "clearing house" for goods and service which offers painting, rope-splicing, general handiwork, an experienced baby-sitter, and homemade baked goods on order. Three couples sponsored a square dance for fifty paying guests. Ellie and Lee Davison picked and sold twenty dollars worth of strawberries, and there was a "talent table" at the August 6th portion supper.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH, Hyde Park, has contributed five thousand dollars to the Bishop's Offering designated for the work of the Department of Missions in the Convocation of Dutchess. In addition, an annual grant of one thousand dollars is being made to the Bishop to aid theological students in the Diocese with preference to postulants or candidates from this Convocation. Parking at the church, which has long been a problem, is now solved with the opening of a seventy-four car area to the south of the building.

At CHRIST CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, services of thanksgiving for the Korean Armistice were held on the Sunday following the truce. The Holy Communion was celebrated at all three morning services, together with a solemn Te Deum at the last service. A memorial service for the late Senator Taft was held on the day of the formal state funeral.

ST. PAUL'S AND TRINITY PARISH, Tivoli, profited by about six hundred dollars from a Fair and one of "Doc" Block's Beef Barbecues held last June.

The Rev. Octave C. Lafontant, Haitian priest "adopted" by ZION CHURCH, Wappingers Falls, is at present a guest of the parish staying at the Rectory. Fr. Lafontant's thirtieth birthday will be celebrated at an all-parish party on October 6th in the church undercroft. He and the Rector, the Rev. J. Jack Sharkey, will spend several days in New York City and Connecticut where Fr. Lafontant will visit Seabury House and the Glebe House in Woodbury, the birthplace of the American Episcopacy.

The St. George's Society, a high school and college age group at CHRIST CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, continued activities during most of the summer. Among the club events were a picnic supper, a hot-dog roast, square dancing, a swim party, and an evening at summer stock theater.

The corner stone for the new parish house at CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH, Rhinebeck, was laid in June and work is progressing. Mr. Donald Grant was chairman of the Fair Booth Committee which operated a booth at the Dutchess County Fair held last month at Rhinebeck. This is an annual project of the parish.

Memorials recently received by the parish in Rhinebeck include linens for the children's altar, a Junior Processional Cross given in memory of Katie Hoffmann by Mrs. Frank Burger, an altar missal, missal stand and processional torches given by Miss Marion Traver in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Traver.

by William E. Leidt

THE early fall lists of the major publishers present a number of books which are of particular interest to Episcopalians, especially in this Diocese. I note chiefly War, Peace, and the Christian Mind by James Thayer Addison (Greenwich, Seabury Press. $2.00); Beyond Anxiety by James A Pike, (New York, Scribners. $2.75); The Optional God by Stephen F. Bayne, Jr., (New York, Oxford. $2.45); The Story of Jesus by Theodore P. Ferris (New York, Oxford. $2.30); Your God is Too Small ($2.00) and Making Men Whole, ($1.50) both by J. B. Phillips (New York, Macmillan).

THAYER ADDISON'S War, Peace and the Christian Mind was completed just before his sudden death and is, says the Presiding Bishop in a Foreword, "his final gift to the Church." This gift added to the other writings of Addison's retirement years — The Completeness of Christ, The Episcopal Church in the United States 1789-1931, several significant papers on the Carolinian divines, and many tracts for the Forward Movement including two issues of Forward day by day that are yet to be published — give substance to Bishop Sherrill's judgment that "It may well be that his most enduring contributions to the Church will be his books." There were books, of course, before the retirement years and some of these must be listed in any review of his work: Our Expanding Church, the standard modern apologetic for the missionary cause; The Medieval Missionary, a unique volume in the literature of missions; and Christian Approach to the Moslem, a definitive work on the subject of Addison's major interest.

The present volume blazes a new trail among Addison's writings but it also is a typical Addison book: clear, incisive, objective yet never without the flavor of the author's own convictions. Subtitled "a review of recent thought," Addison has brought to this most controversial subject of peace and war a fine objectivity completely devoid of the emotionalism which so frequently obscures the issues.

The extent to which War, Peace, and the Christian Mind is a "review of recent thought" is admirably exhibited in the bibligraphy which with an adequate index and notes makes this a workable book. The grouping of the notes in a section at the end rather than as footnotes, however, seems to this reader to put an unnecessary obstacle in the path of the reader who wants to follow the sources of the quotations. But this was a publisher's decision and like the small page and small type does not give the book a dress entirely worthy of its message. "Wars," writes Addison, "will continue to be fought until the means of preventing them are pursued with greater energy and intelligence than are now evident. If our primary aim is to avoid personal participation in war, that can be accomplished, whenever the occasion arises, with comparative ease. Though it sometimes requires courage. . . . But if our primary aim is to abolish wars, we shall find ourselves engaged upon a long-range campaign which will last for generations and which calls for the highest statesmanship, the most steadfast patience, and the most unwavering faith."

THERE is another war with which the Christian is concerned, the war on personal insecurity about which the Dean of our New York Cathedral, the Very Rev. James A. Pike, writes in Beyond Anxiety, the Christian Answer to Fear, Frustration, Guilt, Inhibition, Indecision, Loneliness, and Despair (New York, Scribners. $2.75). Dean Pike, who is co-author with the Rev. W. Norman Pittenger of The Faith of the Church (Greenwich, Seabury Press. $2.75), has drawn upon his rich pastoral experiences to help the reader find a reorientation, a redirection of his life which may indeed carry him "beyond anxiety."

Before coming to the Cathedral, Dean Pike was chaplain of Columbia University. His predecessor in that post, a son of this Diocese, and now the Bishop of Olympia, is on the fall book lists with The Optional God (New York, Oxford. $2.45), of which we shall have more to say next month.

BEYOND ANXIETY

by James A. Pike
Dean of the Cathedral of
St. John the Divine, New York City

Ours has been called an Age of Anxiety — an era of nagging fears. Now Dean Pike, an outstanding Anglican clergyman, states his belief that while depth psychology can help us understand the nature of our security—our fear, frustration, guilt, inhibition, indecision, loneliness, despair — only religion can supply the answers and the healing. Rooted in his broad personal experience and counseling, this book provides a realistic, spiritual basis for personal and social fulfillment. It will help the reader to re-direct his life — to learn what the words Beyond Anxiety really mean!

THE GAME OF LIVING

by Floyd Van Keuren

Simply and informally written, this book will bring profound comfort to those who must face personal tragedy, or who are troubled and confused by the everyday irritations of living. Using a scientific approach and in modern terms, Dr. Van Keuren shows how we can make our lives richer and fuller, how we can meet problems and conquer them — instead of being conquered by them. Dr. Van Keuren, a retired Episcopal minister, was for many years director of the social service department of the Episcopal diocese of New York.

"I found it so interesting that I read it in its entirety at one sitting. It is a sound, convincing, amiable philosophy of life; and so many people today need just the attitude toward life which is here so graciously presented."

by her friends in memory of the late Grace Parker Newton. Another welcome gift from local businessmen who prefer to remain anonymous was recently made in the form of an air-conditioning unit for the rector's apartment. The electrical and carpentry work were also donated for the installation. The Rev. Harry Brooks Malcolm is the Rector.

ST. JAMES', Goshen, is 150 years old. This important event was duly celebrated September 20-27. The bishop preached, the choir sang, and receptions were enjoyed in the rectory. On the 27th all parishioners were invited to the Sunday school classes. The Goshen "Independent Republican" printed a complete history of the parish, with pictures dated 1840, 1877 and circa 1930. Mrs. Herbert F. O'Hare and Miss Elizabeth Sharts worked on this, the latter wrote the story. She is town historian. Cost of the church that was built of stone in 1853 was $13,500. From 1902-1911 the Rev. Dr. George W. Dumbell was rector, from 1924 until September 1st of this year the Rev. Edwin R. Smythe, under whose leadership liturgy and music and architecture archieved great splendor. The junior choirs that he has trained are famous in the area. On August 30th he celebrated the Holy Communion for the last time as rector, and now is rector emeritus.

William B. Churchill, now in college, leaves his church, ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River, in search of a sexton. A senior in high school will be hired, or any male adult who qualifies. Fifteen dollars was granted to delegates to the Peekskill conference, a yacht trip on the Hudson occured July 31st, 8 p.m. to midnight, a Brotherhood of St. Andrew chapter has started with 11 members, including the rector. The "Look" reprint, What is an Episcopalian, was mailed to all church people.

The following memorials have recently been presented to ST. FRANCIS EPISCOPAL CHURCH, Sloatsburg, Rev. T. Frederick Cooper, Vicar. A Lectern Bible (Oxford Edition bound in red leather) in memory of Alice Hance Bush. Presented by her son Harrison O. Bush, Parish Treasurer. A Brass Receiving (Alms) Basin in memory of John W. Rose, U.S. Army, inscribed "He died for his Country." Presented by Mrs. Steward Conklin. Two members of St. Francis Choir received Silver Choir Crosses commemorating twenty years of service in the Choir: Mrs. Ruby Maruch and Mrs. Evelyn Haight. Mrs. Harrison O. Bush, Organist, also received a cross for sixteen years of service at the organ and as Choir Leader.

He Leaves But Still Remains

WHEN Canon Green preached his farewell sermon at the Cathedral last month the Bishop paid him the following tribute: Bishop Donegan said, "I wish to express publicly in my own name as Bishop, and in behalf of the Dean and Chapter, our deep gratitude to Canon Green for his devoted ministry at the Cathedral during these past thirteen years he has served as Canon Precentor and Headmaster of the Choir School.

"The sincerity of Canon Green's preaching; the reverence and dignity with which he officiated at all services, and his distinct pastoral gifts, have been a constant inspiration. The present standing of the School and the musical excellence of the Choir is the result of Canon Green's wise leadership.

"His influence as a Missioner has reached far beyond the Cathedral Close. He will be greatly missed by us all but we rejoice in the honor that has come to him in his election as Dean of the Cathedral Church in Garden City.

"We extend to him our affectionate good wishes for the coming years in his enlarged sphere of service to the Church, and we shall earnestly pray for him always, 'His blessings that maketh rich and addeth no sorrow.' "

The One Immediate Task Is Money —Think What You Will

THE one immediate task before all our parishes and missions this autumn has to do with money.

It is the need for money for the work of your own parish for 1954. It is also the need for money for your diocesan budget for 1954. This budget underwrites in part, but not in full, our work in sixty-four missions and aided parishes within the diocese. It also supports the work of the Departments of the Diocesan Council and assists the affiliated agencies that are connected with the Diocese. Your diocesan budget also includes the quota assigned us for missionary work in our country and throughout the world by the National Church.

However, the emphasis we would stress is not so much the great need for money, which is so obvious, but the need for our people to give.

Giving is a spiritual necessity. The spiritual life is not complete without it. Sacrificial giving is a part of our discipleship. We are not mature Christians nor convinced Christians unless each one of us is making a sacrifice in order to give.

Kierkegaard in his book "Fear and Trembling" says of sceptics: "They would have us believe that objections against Christianity come from intellectual doubt, when they in fact come from insubordination, unwillingness to obey, rebellion against all authority. Therefore they have hitherto been beating the air against the objections, because they have fought intellectually with doubt, instead of ethically with rebellion—so it is not properly doubt but insubordination."

This fairly accurately describes the pattern of our dealing with the budgets of our parishes. Is it not true that we have often fought with doubt, indifference, lack of information and con-

U.T.O. - Dec. 1

NOVEMBER! Is there anyone in this great country of ours who can think of November without thinking of our national holiday proclaimed by our President as a day of Thanksgiving for all those blessings given to us and our country? Is there any woman of the Woman's Auxiliary who thinks of Thanksgiving without her thoughts turning to her little Blue Box?

It seems particularly fitting that in this November issue we should speak of our United Thank Offering and our Advent Service to be held in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on December 1, 1953. At that service of Holy Communion the Custodian of the United Thank Offering from each parish of our Diocese will present the Fall ingathering of that outward and visible sign of thankfulness given gladly by our women.

That, we feel, is what our thank offering is — the outward and visible sign of our great thanks given with prayers and joyful service for all those blessings given us; in thanksgiving for all God's gifts; for all that is beautiful in creation and in our lives; for God's strength in sorrow; for all life; for the means of grace and for the hope of glory.

This offering of our women not only trains women for church work, sends them to all parts of the United States and overseas to be directors of religious education, doctors, nurses, teachers and social service workers, builds new buildings and repairs old ones; but provides retiring allowances for those women missionaries who have given up their lives to do the work which we could only pray for them to do.

We hope that some day not only will every member of the Woman's Auxiliary own a little Blue Box in which to drop her visible offering as she murmurs her prayer of thankfulness, but that every woman of the Episcopal Church may enjoy the blessings which follow as night the day for those who joyfully share with all the children of God.

Mrs. Pim, Diocesan treasurer for

We Welcome H.M.S. "Superb" With A Fanfare

Bishop Donegan formally welcomed British officers and sailors of HMS Superb on September 27 at the Great Portals of the Cathedral amid a fanfare of the Cathedral's State Trumpets. The officers and men marched in procession down the center aisle of the nave and took their seats in the Crossing. Attending, coincidentally, was a group of members of the Anglican Young People's Association from Canada.

The One Immediate Task

viction, when all the while we should have been fighting with insubordination and rebellion, to say nothing of the sins of selfishness and human greed?

Doubt there may be, lack of conviction, lack of information, indifference, lukewarmness—yes, all of these. But primarily is it not gentle rebellion and unwillingness to obey—actual insubordination?

The needs of your parish, your diocese and your national church must be considered in terms of obligations to be met, as well as the privilege to support, against this background of the necessity to obey. To obey—because giving is a part of the spiritual life essential to worship as well as discipleship.

This is not an attempt to "spiritualize giving." No attempt could be more ridiculous, for giving is spiritual and is an integral part of the Christian life. To see it otherwise and to belittle the spiritual implications of our giving is, frankly, rebellion against the only authority the Christian knows, our Blessed Lord Himself, and further enunciates our unwillingness to obey our Blessed Lord's command. This should be known for what it is—insubordination.

The leveling off of our giving on the diocesan plane is a sure cause for alarm. We have not in four years appreciably increased our giving. The figures are as follows:

1951 — $611,203
1952 — $611,462

The anticipated giving based on pledges of the parishes and missions this year will be between $600,000 and $615,000.

These figures represent a downward trend, since each year the dollar has bought less. While the Bishop's offering has increased these totals, this year and last year, the money was not pledged. We as a diocese therefore need to face up to our own refusal to obey. Frankly and honestly we must face our own subtle and (we might add) self-excused rebellion. Extenuating circumstances there may be, perhaps, but they have to be examined in the light of our rebellion and our refusal to obey.

The curve of our giving will be turned upward as we recognize that giving is a part of our spiritual life and that what we do with our money is of spiritual significance. We are stewards of what we possess and we are accountable to God for that stewardship. When we say or sing "All things come of thee, O Lord, and of thine own have we given thee" we are giving utterance to an absolute truth, basic to the Christian life of praise and worship. Let it be said of us and of our diocese that we have measured up to our Blessed Lord's demand for sacrificial giving.

U. T. O. — Dec. 1

the United Thank Offering, has sent the following report:

The total for the Spring Ingathering, including interest, was $23,316.77 from 7,918 women.

The emphasis this triennium is to interest 50% more women in the United Thank Offering. At the end of the first year 38 groups have increased 50% or more, which is about 1/5th of the Diocese — a thrilling achievement!

For all these splendid results, I applaud the parish custodians who have diligently and prayerfully sought to increase not only the United Thank Offering, but also the knowledge and understanding of it among the women of their parishes.

The Bishop's Message

THE Clergy Conference at West Point was marked by a record attendance. This annual gathering of our clergy family at the beginning of another season serves to strengthen in us the spirit of devotion and love for the Church, of mutual interest and sympathetic understanding of our common tasks, and of true brotherhood and fellowship in Christ. The fine spirit throughout the Conference, the inspiration, the intellectual stimulus we all received, give cause to believe that the work of our Church will go forward this year with new vigor and new consecration.

AT the time this issue of the DIOCESAN BULLETIN reaches you the Every Member Canvass will be under way in your congregation. The purpose of the Every Member Canvass is to secure pledges for the support of the Church's work at home and beyond. Through this means the Church is enabled to minister to your community, and to the world.

I would impress upon you the personal significance of the Every Member Canvass and its vast importance. Our present work can be maintained and be made more effective only in so far as every baptized and confirmed member accepts a full share of the responsibility. The failure of anyone to respond to the Canvass appeal means injury to the Church and the loss of individual opportunity. Think of how the work of Christ would advance if everyone pledged generously. Many of you are doing this but ought not each one of us do so according to his ability?

Our religion as Christians means that we are in living relationship with Jesus Christ in the fellowship of His Church. If our religion is real, if we deeply care about our relationship with Our Lord, if we truly believe that the greatest power in the world is the gospel of Jesus Christ in action, then we shall want to have a part in the propagation of the good news of God that has been entrusted to us.

The Every Member Canvass is more than financial; it is an appeal for personal loyalty and for an acknowledgment of all that your religion means to you. Your pledge is a token of your love and devotion; it helps to sustain an effective ministry at home and through the missionary program overseas to bring the Way, the Truth and the Life to all kinds and conditions of people.

LET your pledge this year be a worthy expression of your allegiance to Christ and His Church, and proof of your gratitude for all those blessings God has given to you. "Freely ye have received; freely give."

May God be with us all, as we seek to serve Him more faithfully in the coming days.

Faithfully and affectionately your Bishop

CLERGY CONFERENCE: WEST POINT, SEPT. 29-30: "Our duties as ministers of God's Word and Sacraments" was the theme of the Bishop's address at the opening of the Clergy Conference at West Point. "The Church," he said, "can be a vital instrument of God only as we who are its leaders fulfill our obligations faithfully, conscientiously, and with sure dedication."

*Discussing the present day lack of knowledge of the essential facts of the Christian religion the Bishop emphasized the need of doctrinal and Biblical preaching, and systematic teaching of the Christian Faith. # The Parish Is The Focus Of Christian Education

UNDER the leadership of the Rev. John Heuss as Chairman, and the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore as Director, the Department of Christian Education is announcing the adoption of a FIVE YEAR ADVANCE programme as a marching order for the Department. The programme is extensive, reaching into every area of the broad field of Christian Education; it is also intensive, as it sets before the officers of the Department, and the five divisions which function under the Department, a challenge to greater purposeful effort in the years immediately ahead.

The programme sets out in detail steps which must be taken by members of the Department if the present interest and support for this work is to be justified. Among the new developments to be added to the objectives of the Department, the following are of primary importance: the re-establishment of the Convocation Teacher Institutes and the Adult Schools of Religion; the initiating of Curriculum Conferences to be conducted in the Convocations during May and June of 1954; the establishment of a "Director's Forum" which will tie together those in the Diocese who are serving paid (full time or part time) workers in Christian Education.

Subsequent issues of the BULLETIN will deal with the main lines of thinking which have brought about the establishment of this Advance programme. The basic, determining factor is the deep conviction held by all members of the Department that the focus of its work must rest upon the Church's work at the Parish level. It is for this reason that one item in the first year of the five year programme has been given priority over all others, viz., the establishment of a strong, informed relationship with the Rector and other clergy of every parish in the Diocese. To this end, the Department has instructed the Director to seek opportunity to meet and consult with every parish rector before May 1st, 1954. While primarily designed to establish a working relationship between the parish and the department, it is also hoped that these consultations at the parish level will provide the Department the basic information that the Department must have if it is to be able to give thorough consideration to further plans and objectives in Christian education in future years.

Mr. Wetmore is setting out upon this extensive task immediately, concentrating his attention first on the northern convocations of the Diocese. If necessary, three days a week will be devoted to this work in an attempt to provide the department with completed contacts and information within the year. It is the Director's hope that worthwhile consultations might be held in as many as four parishes a day, and to this end he is seeking appointments with the clergy in advance.

Another evidence of the Department's deep interest in the work at the Parish level is the attention which will be given to the Sunday opportunities made available to the Director. It is hoped that every possible Sunday in the year will be used for presenting before the congregations of the Diocese, the claims and needs of the educational work of the Church. It is the Director's hope that a much broader opportunity will be provided than that which is contained in an invitation to preach, and he is suggesting to the clergy of the Diocese that, where possible, a Religious Education Day should be planned, to include meetings with teachers and other leaders, parents, youth, and all others who are, or should be, involved in the educational work of the Parish.

As a further effort to be of utmost service to the Church at the Parish level the Department plans to set up, as opportunity permits, a library of reference material which will be available for use and study at the office of the Department at the Cathedral Close, or can be mailed out on application to clergy and lay leaders requesting its use. These reference materials will include standard works in the field of Christian education, special materials of use in the various age-level programmes of the Church's work, a curriculum reference section which will gather together the chief Church School materials suggested for use in the Church, and an enlarged supply of projected visual aids.

The clergy in the parishes are facing severe problems and handicaps, and in many instances are facing them alone, where their educational work is concerned. This important stress by the department is an effort to bring assistance to the parish out of a thorough understanding of what each parish needs and the resources it has available.

A Litany Desk, executed at the Joseph Noe Studios to match the existing appointments, has been dedicated, and Mr. Mackie's two sons, William and James, have given a red leather Prayer Book and Hymnal. The Cancer Dressing Unit, which meets weekly in the parish house, has contributed from 96 to 100 hours of work each month since the Spring and has been praised for the amount and quality of the work (thousands of pieces) by the New York Area Meeting. The program for this season includes the showing of films on the work of the Units and the treatment of the disease, for the benefit of the surrounding community.

On Saint Matthew's Day SAINT PETER'S, Westchester, observed the 260th anniversary of its setting apart as a parish. A District Conference for Officers of the Women's Auxiliary and all interested women of the Convocation was held on this same day at St. Peter's. The Diocesan Officers were the guests.

An estimated three thousand persons attended the Annual Picnic and Field Day held at Rye Beach.

This was followed by roundtable discussions of the various departments with all Diocesan officers present. The evening meeting at All Saints' on Oct. 26th, started with Evening Prayer, the Rev. Douglas M. Glasspool officiating. The speaker of the evening was the Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, Vicar of St. Augustine's Chapel.

A Prayer group meeting was held on Oct. 19th at St. Mary's under the leadership of Mrs. Douglas Glasspool.

ST. ALBAN'S, Eltingville. A Corporate Communion and breakfast was held on Sept. 13th for the entire parish, with excellent attendance. On Sept. 27th the Altar Guild Tea, with a musical evening and refreshments, took place. The Annual Revue, planned for Oct. 29th-31st, will be reported in the next issue.

ST. JOHN'S, Clifton. At 4 P.M. on Sept. 13th a most impressive service was held commemorating the complete refurnishing of the Church. Approximately 650 were present, including members of all Episcopal parishes on the Island and a number of Clergy of other denominations. Leaflets explaining the significance of the Symbols painted on the Shields of the Angels, in the Nave and over the main and other arches, were distributed. The plastering, painting and polychroming throughout was superb and done entirely by Mr. Jensen and his son. Bishop Boynton delivered an inspiring address stressing the Holy Communion as the focal point of the Life of the Church. During the service he congratulated the Rector, the Rev. Alexander A. Frier, on the accomplishment of the project on his 10th Anniversary, and all those whose untiring work and contributions had made the same possible. The Offertory was taken for the Missionary Work of the Church.

ST. MARY'S, Castleton. The Guild and W. A. opened their seasons with Corporate Communions on Sept. 27th and Oct. 2nd respectively. Release time school recommenced on Oct. 7th. On Sept. 13th the men held their 2nd annual Corporate Communion and breakfast with about 60 present of whom 53 stayed on for breakfast and the get-together.

The Dean's Column

Editor's Note:

As this issue went to press, the Dean was on the last leg of a tour of the English Cathedrals where he has been making a study of their services of worship, personnel organization, and program. He has also been investigating their methods of handling tourists, their publications, and their organizations of "Friends".

The Dean has visited and consulted with the members of the staff at the following Cathedral churches: Canterbury, York, St. Paul's (London), Christ Church (Oxford), Chichester, Salisbury, Winchester, Gloucester, Worcester, Hereford, Chester, Liverpool, Carlisle, Durham, Ripon, Lincoln, Ely, Peterborough, Norwich, Bury St. Edmonds, St. Alban's, Wells, and Exeter, with briefer stops at some of the parish cathedrals.

He preached at Canterbury Cathedral, York Minster, St. Paul's Cathedral, and Portsmouth Cathedral (at the latter's harvest festival), and at the American Pro-Cathedral, Paris.

Episcopal City Mission Society Helps To Bring Happiness To A Blind Family

A BLIND English couple, John Snell and his wife and two children, finally made it to Eugene, Oregon, and a $100 a week job as a musician, but not without an assist from Miss Alice Palmer, the Episcopal City Mission Society's social worker on Ellis Island.

Apparently, everything was taken care of when the couple left England —visas, credentials from the American consulate in England; plane fare furnished by relatives in Oregon; belongings sold and last minute business attended to over there. The family boarded the plane on September 22nd and arrived in New York the next day, when they expected to continue their trip to Oregon.

Then things went wrong. The little family was held on Ellis Island until they could show they would not become a public charge. The immigration authorities felt that the two $1,000 bonds, which were posted for Mr. and Mrs. Snell, were not sufficient. They based their decision in large part on an erroneous interpretation of certain financial aid which Mr. Snell had received while attending a school for the blind. The United States' authorities interpreted this to be welfare assistance. When the facts were all in, however, it was clearly demonstrated that Mr. Snell had always been self-supporting. The money he had received was more like returns from social security in this country.

The immediate result of this misunderstanding and consequent ruling by immigration authorities was that the relatives waited all night at the airport in Oregon. They couldn't get Ellis Island by telephone until the next morning. By that time Miss Palmer was already at work on the case and things were starting to go right again. She represented them at the hearing of the immigration board and even advanced the money ($25) for the appeal to Washington in order to get it filed by the following Monday. The relatives in Oregon promptly refunded the amount.

Mr. and Mrs. Snell and the children were released on Thursday, October 1st, and Miss Palmer brought them to the Episcopal City Mission Society offices at noon, to have lunch at Saint Barnabas House and to wait in comfortable surroundings until time to leave for the airport to take the six o'clock plane to join their grateful family and friends in Oregon.

THE ART TREASURES OF THE NEW YORK CATHEDRAL

THE ancient Hebrew prejudice against the portrayal of "anything that is in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or in the water under the earth" left a deep impress on the mind of the early church. The terrible battles which took place over the use of icons can be understood only in terms of the continuous eastern pressure against their use and an equal amount of pressure from the west demanding their use as media for the evangelization of picture-minded people. It is due to this struggle that the church found itself forced to develop a philosophy about art which could stand up against charges of idolatry from one side, and lack of interest in humanity from the other. It is not at all remarkable that there are no early portrayals of Christ; indeed it is rather to be wondered at that the church ever consented to them.

With this as a background it is easy to understand why ancient Christian art was so markedly austere. The frescoes and mosaics were intentionally "two-dimensional" in character; their object was to convey an otherworldly set of values and judgments on the historic doings and happenings of this world. The attenuated figures of saints and sinners gazed down from the walls to impress their lessons on the devout; the figures and scenes were put there both to instruct and to remind — never to exert an emotional appeal nor to ask pity for the heroes of God. The walls of the Chora in Istanbul and the dome of the ancient church at Daphin will offer proof that the Byzantine treatment of flat walls and domed ceilings has never been excelled. The calm majesty of the Christ's "reason endowed flock" could find no better setting.

Detail of nine-foot statue of St. Paul for the Southwest Portal of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. This, Angel's latest work for the Cathedral, is now being executed. The photograph, from the full-sized clay model, was taken by the sculptor in his Connecticut studio.

Small figures of Adam and Eve under the Nativity Group in the South Tower Portal of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

"Plate by courtesy of American Artist Magazine"

In the Christ before Pilate group in the Cathedral's North Tower Portal, John Angel portrays Pilate as a weak, vacillating personality intent upon ingratiating himself to the public rather than administering justice.

The architectural and engineering changes which came about in late Romanesque and early Gothic building translated the expression of religious art from fresco and mosaic to glass and stone. New disciplines were involved by these changes but the basic intention was the same. Deep protective porches and large areas of glass were still required to instruct and remind. The rules of good artistry, however, change very slightly through the ages, and the best of Romanesque and Gothic sculture and glazing shows figures as attenuated as any Byzantine icon, and they in turn conformed to the structures in which they were placed — conformed so thoroughly that they became very parts of the buildings themselves. The sculptured portals of Chartres are as completely part of that great Cathedral as the windows for which it is so famous.

On these pages are shown some of the rich sculpture which ornaments the portals of our own Cathedral Church. Those shown are all the work of John Angel. Mr. Angel is regarded as one of the best architectural sculptors in the world. By "architectural sculptor" we mean the extraordinary combination of skill in stylized portrayal and knowledge of functional architecture which ends up by producing a figure which fits completely into the broad pattern desired and at the same time instructs and reminds the observer that a particular building stands in its place for a particular reason. In this case the particular reason is the dealings of God with his people. The figures in each instance speak of the values and judgments God has placed on the actions of men, but taken collectively, as in the picture of The Martyrs' Portal, they also serve to give a sense of strength to the structure itself. This is authentic religious sculpture. Mr. Angel doesn't sign his work — he has no need to.

THE CHILDREN OF ST. PAUL'S MEET THE CHILDREN OF ST. JOHN'S

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the New York Cathedral there was Evensong and a concert of sacred music by the Choir of St. Paul's Cathedral, London. This is the first time in the history of the more than 800-year-old Choir to visit America. The Choir was composed of 30 boy Choristers, familiarly known as "The Children of St. Paul's," and 18 adult voices.

The Evensong and concert was by special arrangement just before the Choir started on a two-month concert tour of the United States and Canada. Their tour is in conjunction with the building of a Memorial Chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral honoring the 28,000 Americans killed during World War II while based in England.
The pictures tell the story of the Choir's first visit to America.

And there must be something very funny about medieval and modern history.

The Rev. Canon Edward N. West, Sacrist, and Edward K. Warren, Esq. were hosts at the buffet supper for the gentlemen of the Choir and Dr. John Dykes Bower, organist and director of St. Paul's Cathedral Choir.

Diocesan Department Of Christian Education Sets New Structure

THE Diocesan Department of Christian Education met for a full day session on Sept. 22nd, under the chairmanship of the Rev. John Heuss, D.D., and welcomed the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore to his new work as Director of the Department. Reports were presented by the Chairmen of the Divisions of Children's Work, Youth Work and Adult Education, indicating that the last year plans for the various divisions had been successfully carried out.

Action taken by the Department as a result of the co-ordination of the work of this department with the work of the College Work Division will have the result of adding a valued member to the Department in the person of Dr. Thomas Clark Pollock, Dean of Washington Square College, N. Y. U. Dr. Pollock, who has served for some time as Chairman of the College Work Commission, will add greatly to the deliberation of the whole work of this department.

The structure of the Department, as at present conceived, was completed by the establishment of a Division of Leadership Training under the chairmanship of the Rev. Jack Sharkey, Rector of Wappingers Falls. The following clergy who served as chairmen of Divisions last year will continue their work: The Rev. W. O. Budd, Division of Children's Work; the Rev. L. J. Winterbottom, Division of Youth Work; the Rev. R. E. Terwilliger, Division of Adult Education. The Rev. Frank Leeming will be continuing his valued work as Chairman of the Summer Conference Committee.

Of deep interest to the members of the Department was an enthusiastic report presented by the Rev. W. O. Budd on the Seabury-Western Group Dynamic Laboratory conducted recently by the National Council Department of Christian Education.

Never Before Displayed In This Country

FOR its Fall exhibition, from November 24th to January 9th, the Cooper Union Museum will show an extensive collection of Puerto Rican "Santos" (religious folk art), figures never before displayed in this country, and particularly appropriate for the Christmas Season.

For many centuries the carving of images in wood constituted the only artistic expression of religious folklore in Puerto Rico. Because the creative urge was primitive the carving was, and is still, done with coarse or improvised instruments, sometimes only with a simple knife. Thus the oldest preserved works of Puerto Rican "Santeros" (carvers) show great similarity to Spanish medieval wood carving.

The Cooper Union Museum, Cooper Square, will be happy to arrange tours for students, school children, and other visitors.

The City Is The Mission

II. Parish Mortality

THE most constant element in the life of the city parish is change. Adaptations of its program and life to its changing environment must be constantly made if the parish is to continue to live.

To illustrate from experience: of the 34 parishes in New York City south of 42nd Street about 1850, only 10 parishes are still carrying on at the same location. 3 more are in the same location under another name; 4 parishes moved to other places, 3 parishes have moved and changed names; and 14 parishes have closed their doors entirely.

In the years 1785 to the present the Diocesan records show that at least 220 parishes, missions, and chapels were in operation at some time in Manhattan (present number 53). Only 5 of these are still in operation after serving continuously for more than 100 years in their original location. All the remainder have been closed, moved, or merged. Several of these parishes have gone through these major emergencies as many as eight times.

Surely, "as it was in the beginning, it is now, and ever shall be" does not apply to parishes.

The community in which the parish is situated is going to undergo change, and the parish which survives must adapt as quickly as possible to its surroundings by changing its program and services to the people it should be serving.

Social research possesses techniques to help the parish find out the facts about itself while there is yet time to adapt to neighborhood changes. Thereby we may be able to stop some of the tremendous waste of resources shown in former days.

The Rev. Langford Baldwin, priest in charge of ST. MARTHA'S MISSION, White Plains, has arranged for the Rectors in neighboring churches to have them preach at St. Martha's at Morning Service during the year. This will enable him to be present occasionally at the Church School Services at his other Mission, St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, Ardsley. Schedule of preachers is as follows: Oct. 11—E. Walter Chater, All Saints, Harrison; Nov. 8 — Bradford W. Ketchum, St. John's, Pleasantville; Dec. 13 — George F. Kempsell, Jr., St. James the Less, Scarsdale; Jan. 10 — C. Ronald Garmey, St. Bartholomew's, White Plains; Feb. 14 — K. C. Morris, St. Stephen's, Armonk; Mar. 14 — Richard L. Harbour, St. Barnabas', Irvington; Apr. 4 — C. A regular part of the parish program at CHRIST CHURCH, Bronxville, is the Prayer Group. This group meets together for Intercessory Prayer every Tuesday at 9:30 A.M. There is no organization to this group, no dues, no business meetings. Any woman in the Parish may join with this group. The only qualification necessary is the desire to assist in the work of Intercessory Prayer.

The churches throughout the Convocation are making plans and getting ready for their annual Church Fairs and Bazaars. Some very interesting projects are being worked on. At TRINITY CHURCH, Ossining, which will hold its Harvest Festival in the middle of October, a suggestion that parishioners make a Bible Cake and type out the recipe to be sold along with the finished product has been offered. This suggestion was obtained from the recent issue of "The Little Chronicle of the American Greyfriars" which says that the cake is "quite toothsome, a variety of fruitcake." At ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, Yonkers, and at CHRIST CHURCH, Yonkers, they are busy getting out Fair Journals. Advertisements are secured from local business men, and the Journals provide an excellent source of income.

The Rev. Osborne Budd, ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, Tuckahoe, recently welcomed back to the Parish, Tom Vanderslice, a Seminarian who assists with the Sunday work. Mr. Vanderslice spent his summer doing church work in Porto Alegre-Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil.

The Suffragan

THERE are some who think that when the missionary effort of our Church is extended into communities — foreign, national, or Diocesan — where a particular area seems "over-churched," that we are wasting our time and other people's money.

Nonsense! We know, and you should know, that no town, or city, or community exists where the total pew capacity of the existing churches equals the total population. And even if that impossibility be possible; simply because secularism, yes, paganism, has made such inroads into the hearts and minds of people, the very best ratio one could find anywhere in the most Christian of communities would be at the minimum ten persons not in church to each one in church; and really a ratio of hundreds to one would be nearer correct.

There are others who think that we compound the Christian confusion, bad enough as it is, when the missionary effort of the Episcopal Church takes it into countries and communities where other Churches are already to be found.

It is a simple fact, however, that there are three fundamentally different expressions, or presentations, of Christianity today; Roman Catholicism, Evangelical Protestanism, and — for want of a better term — non-Roman Catholicism, or perhaps even better, Primitive (Early) Catholicism. The impact of Christianity so terribly needed in the broken and disillusioned world of today, both at home and abroad, and the total unity of the Body of Christ in the future, will not be aided by our oversimplification of the fundamental differences which honestly exist. For as pastry depends upon the three ingredients of lard, flour, and water — without any one of which it just wouldn't be pastry — so unity of the future will depend upon the synthesis of the three present-day manifestations of Christianity, without any one of which it just will not be the Church our Lord prayed might be one.

It must be granted that there is still a great deal of confusion due to the many tongues of divided Protestantism, which is hiding the essential value and contribution of Protestantism as such. But too often we forget that the same degree of confusion does not exist between divided Catholicism. There are really but two fundamentally differing expressions of this historic and apostolic manifestation of Christianity; Non-Roman Catholicism and Roman Catholicism. Both have a tremendous amount in common, although certain fundamental matters separate them. And for a true and comprehensive picture of Christianity today, both witnesses to Catholicism should exist, side by side, until under the leadership of God the Holy Spirit, the fuller Catholicism is made known.

That which we have called "Primitive or Non-Roman Catholicism" is itself composed of two great Catholic families: the world-wide Anglican Communion, of which of course we are a part, and the great Communion of Eastern Orthodoxy. Because of the very nature of these two families, which have practically everything that really matters in common, within which to a degree exists actual inter-communion, and between which there is not even a semblance of rivalry, one — the Anglican Communion — fits naturally into the so-called Western world, while the other — Orthodoxy — fits naturally into the so-called Eastern world. Anglicanism is to the Western mind the equivalent of Orthodoxy to the Eastern mind; and the Episcopal Church, as an integral part of the Anglican Communion, is the only witness to non-Roman Catholicism in our own country and its possessions, wherever other branches of Anglicanism and Orthodoxy are not found, and of course right here in our own Diocese. In other words, if the threefold nature of present-day Christianity is to be maintained, not only for contemporary effectiveness, but also for future unity, the Episcopal Church must accept the responsibility and privilege of continuing and extending itself wherever, for geographical and cultural reasons, it is called.

Dutchess Convocation

The donors of the new memorial are the firm of Eggers and Higgins of which Mrs. Samstag was a member.

An area conference for church officers and laymen, sponsored by the Department of Promotion, was held in CHRIST CHURCH, Red Hook, on September 24th, preceeded by a dinner. This was one of a series of conferences held in the Convocation in the fall and spring.

A Harvest Festival Service was held at ST. PAUL'S AND TRINITY, Tivoli, on the third Sunday in September. Donations of fruits, flowers, vegetables and home-baked bread were received and blessed at a specially planned service by the Rev. Lever Bates, the Rector. After the service the produce was delivered to local hospitals for the use of the patients.

Since the amalgamation of the two churches, they have been used alternately on a six-month basis. The Wardens and Vestry have just announced a new plan by which the Parish Halls and kitchen on the ground floor of Trinity Church Building will be open all year for social and Junior Sunday School use; while all services and the Senior Sunday School will be held at St. Paul's.

The Rev. Ralph Bonacker, rector of GRACE CHURCH, Millbrook, has received a letter of appreciation from the Commissioner of Dutchess County Welfare, thanking the parish for the gift of two television sets which have been installed in the men's and women's wings of the County Home and Infirmary.

Work is underway for a parish house at ST. THOMAS'S CHURCH, Amenia Union. Six large elms have been removed and ample parking space will be provided. A canvass for financial help, under the direction of Messrs. Meffert and Cross, is now going on to raise $2000. When finished the building will provide a community center for the town as well as a church center.

TRINITY CHURCH, Fishkill, ran an Auction and Fair in July for the purpose of raising funds to paint the outside of the 185-year-old church building. The affair cleared $1100, and a complete exterior refinishing job has just been completed. In preparation for the painting, termite damage was uncovered, and after extermination, extensive repairs to the sills and foundations were made.

The first definite step toward a proposed parish house was taken when a piece of land adjoining the church property was purchased this summer. Plans are being made for a building fund drive in March with construction in the late spring.

THE RAMAPO CONVOCATION

The Rev. Fessenden A. Nichols,

The Fall meeting of Convocation, at GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, began with Evening Prayer conducted by the Rev. Harold B. Thelin, rector; a meditation led by Bishop Boynton, followed by dinner and a panel on Evangelism. Members of the panel included the dean of Convocation, the Rev. Fessenden Nichols; secretary of Convocation, the Rev. G. W. Rubino; both of whom attended a conference on Evangelism in August; and the executive committee of Ramapo.

Hudson and Ramapo are combining forces to run a Christian Social relations conference at GRACE CHURCH, Middletown, in November.

The Rev. Charles Riley is assisting CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, and GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, in the Every Member Canvass. Kirby and Smith will organise the canvass at GRACE CHURCH, Middletown.

The Ven. George F. Bratt will preach at 11 a.m., November 8th, and the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore spends the whole day November 29th, in CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, on invitation of rector and vestry.

ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River, had a week of celebration of the laying of the cornerstone, which was dedicated, originally on October 13, 1877, and rededicated, Sunday, October 11, 1953. Parish motto: "Christ is our cornerstone, on Him alone we build".

ST. JAMES', Goshen, had a series of events in September, to observe the 150th year of its notable existence as a country church, in a community that started out as largely Scottish and Presbyterian. On the 23rd the choir sang evensong, an historical address was delivered by Percy V. D. Gott, former warden and vestry man, and a reception was held in the rectory. Vestrymen and their wives arranged the last-named. The beloved rector, Rev. Edwin R. Smythe, who served the parish from 1924 until September 1, 1953, was unable to be present.

Five lay readers assist the rector of chapter of the Brotherhood of St. An-

ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River; a drew has been started; a new sexton has been found; the women have established an evening branch of the Woman's Auxiliary.

CHRIST CHURCH, Warwick, has a new red velvet dossal, Eucharistic vestments, altar service book, chalice, and altar vases. The Warwick Board of Education, and teachers in the public school system, came to church September 20th, to dedicate themselves to Almighty God, for the coming school year. A community religious census will soon be conducted. In 1954 the parish will observe its centennial.

CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, is getting ready for the visit of the noted evangelist, E. Stanley Jones, in December; hopes to conduct a religious census, and after that do visitation evangelism, in 1954. They had a United Thank Offering rally for 40 persons, October 29th. The annual

Preserving New York's Landmarks for 104 Years

The churches, buildings and monuments which reflect New York's 300-year history do not withstand the rigors of time and weather without the aid of man.

And to many of these, such aid has come in the form of repair and maintenance by Nicholson & Galloway, Inc., specialists in roofing and waterproofing for 103 years.

The famous structures on which we have worked include the Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Tower, Grant's Tomb, the Stock Exchange, Wanamaker's, Trinity Church, the Pierpont Morgan Library, the Astor Hotel, Garden City Cathedral and St. Marks-In-The-Bouwerie.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

A FEW days ago in a radio talk, I took occasion to remind my listeners that the Prayer Book Offices of Instruction teach that it is my bounden duty to worship God every Sunday in his Church.

But what kind of a God do you worship? Is He essential to the complexities of modern life? Is He adequate to your needs? Or is He a carry-over from your childhood and so inconsequential that you leave Him out of your life entirely

J. B. Phillips — already familiar to readers of this magazine as the author of Letters to Young Churches and The Gospels translated into Modern English considers the kind of God that modern man needs in a stimulating little book Your God is Too Small (New York, Macmillan. $2.)

Mr. Phillips divides his book into two roughly equal parts. In the first part he discuses various concepts of God which are utterly inadequate for an intelligent adult in these mid-century years: God — the Resident Policeman; God — the Parental Hangover; God-in-a-Box; God — the Managing Director; God — the Pale Galilean; and a variety of others. And then in the second half he seeks to present an adequate God, a God big enough to "account for" life, big enough to "fit in with" the new scientific age, big enough to command the highest admiration and respect and willing co-operation. Such a God can only be found in God's own revelation of Himself as a human being — in Jesus Christ Himself.

The reader of Your God is Too Small will find two other small books of particular interest: Making Men Whole, also by J. B. Phillips (New York, Macmillan. $1.50) and The Optional God by the Rt. Rev. Stephen F. Bayne, Jr., (New York, Oxford. $2.45.)

Making Men Whole, originally a series of talks given at a summer conference, is concerned with a full life through Christianity and is a vigorous statement of the eternal truths which enable men to face this present life with courage, hope, and good humor. A few random quotations will show, I think, how in this book, Mr. Phillips again has approached his subject with freshness and in completely contemporary terms which can not fail to capture the reader's complete attention:

"This is God's world, and although we may bewildered by the speed at which the world is awakening before our eyes, we can be quite sure that there is no bewilderment in the mind of God. This is His world; and since He knows the end from the beginning we can at all times be confident that at any given moment in the world's hitsory there is, for those who will listen to His voice, a right way of meeting the complexities of the contemporary situation, even though that right way cannot in the nature of things achieve in a single generation the perfect will of God.

BISHOP Bayne is concerned, as are many of us, about the modern secular world which he defines as "a world organized as if it made no difference whether there was a God or not." His first chapter, from which the book takes its title is an expansion of his definition of modern secularism. Modern secularists do not deny God's existence but look upon Him as optional. Western culture condones and even commends belief in God, but the basic activities or modern democratic states are continued without Him. The religious issue, the question of the reality of God, is a side issue.

Four chapters discuss "optionalism" in four areas of American life: Politics, education, vocational, and personal. The last chapter, the Church and the Kingdom, is concerned with the unity, the wholeness, of all creation.

Appropriately Bishop Bayne has inscribed this book to two of his former teachers in the General Theological Seminary, Burton Scott Easton and Frank Gavin.

the Father Hughson who, as someone remarked, was 'mellowed by the love of God'; his gentleness, his understanding, his humble piety, as well as his realistic view of spiritual problems, are all here."

Mission Sale will be held Thursday, November 19th. This is one of the churches that concentrates on the missionary quota, in the autumn fund raising.

GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, featured an Italian street scene at the annual bazaar; an art exhibit was held, with beautiful old Japanese prints, a flower show, and numerous other events, for the 93rd anniversary bazaar committee. Twenty-one youth delegates and their advisors attended a two day council meeting, October 2-3, to lay plans for youth work throughout the diocese in 1953-1954. GRACE CHURCH was host; the Rev. L. J. Winterbottom ran the program. The American Guild of Organists meets each month in Nyack, and several of the members have signed up for a choirmasters' training course that is held every Wednesday evening in CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern. Frank Campbell-Watson is dean, Rev. Fessenden Nichols is chaplain, Mrs. Harold Peter Rednour is secretary.

ALL SAINTS', Valley Cottage, reports a successful family service, the whole parish assembling at the same hour on Sunday, to worship and study. ST. LUKE'S, Haverstraw, under the Rev. Douglas E. Wolfe, has a similar system.

St. John's - Tuckahoe - Takes Advantage Of A Rapidly Expanding Community

Our Social Research Surveys show the rise and fall of many parishes; the constant migration of more and more people into the suburban communities around New York City, giving motive to the ever-changing complexion of villages and towns. Twenty-nine years ago, when the writer began commuting on the Harlem Division of the New York Central into Westchester, Tuckahoe was merely a stop—practically a shed—on the line. But for twenty-nine years Tuckahoe has grown consistently—bursting its seams in housing, in civic, and in business accommodations—and in equal measure, spiritual and religious accommodations.

For more than 150 years the bell of St. John's has sounded the call to worship—first in 1798 to scattered Westchester farmers and now to thickly settled suburban folk. When it rang on St. Luke's Day, 1953, for the ground breaking of the new Parish House, it seemed to ring out forever the idea of St. John's as "that quaint little church on the hill." For on that day it rang in the beginning of a new era of St. John's usefulness to the community and to the Diocese.

The ground breaking ceremony, conducted by the rector, the Reverend Osborne Budd, represents the beginning of a $100,000 project of enlarging and adding to the Parish House. For St. John's membership has doubled since 1947. There are now twice as many children in the Sunday School as there were six years ago and the total budget of the church has increased by more than 250%.

Last spring the task of raising the necessary money looked like a difficult one and the committee cautiously set $20,000 as the immediate goal for a three day campaign. The result was $40,000, double the hoped-for amount. The Parish House will have a $60,000 mortgage which is the first time in many years that St. John's has had a red entry on its books.

The undertaking, which is expected to be completed sometime in the spring, marks the centennial of the founding of the parish. For while the beautiful church building was put up in 1798 as a chapel of St. John's, Getty Square,

W.A. President Tells Of Plans For The Coming Year

THE plans discussed at the June Conference of the Executive Board in Seabury House are now being put into action.

"Eleven District Officers Institutes were held in September and October covering all six Districts in the Diocese and including Evening Branches as well as the daytime groups. The officers of the Executive Board and the Chairmen of all Departments attended the meetings. They have proved valuable not only for the discussions and exchange of ideas but also, and perhaps more important, they afford an opportunity for personal contacts. The more we know members of other parishes the more we will realize that whether we come from a small rural parish or a large Metropolitan one, we are all working together for one cause,—the spread of the "Good News",—the extension of Christ's kingdom throughout the world.

"In all our round table discussions of every department, the greatest need was felt to be a better informed membership in all the branches. We need the knowledge of what the Auxiliary program is, a realization that there is a place in it for every woman no matter what her talents, and that we can accomplish little unless we work and plan together.

"We start our year with our second School of Worship at the Cathedral, taking as our theme "GOD—Creator, Redeemer, Sanctifier—as Revealed in Holy Scripture." We hope that this course will lead to the formation of study groups along similar lines in the Districts, for in our far flung Diocese it is not always possible for women to come to the Cathedral. This is especially true of the more remote districts, and we feel it is important that some way shall be found to bring to them what we are privileged to receive at the Cathedral.

"Our program for the regular monthly meetings at Synod Hall is completed. We hope to make these meetings not only a time to learn but

If Your Canvass Didn't Work

IT MAY BE that in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love but it is sure that in the fall your rector's thoughts turn heavily to finance. The fall of the year is the traditional time for trying to figure out what the next year's program is going to be and in far too many cases it is also the time of trying to make the program fit the money that is going to be available for that program, rather than raising the necessary money to support a specific program.

ABOUT THIS TIME church financing turns, often times rather frantically, to strawberry festivals, oyster suppers, beef stews, donkey parties, mock weddings, lawn fetes and if it were permissible, probably to bingo. Sometimes all this frantic merchandising does, after much labor, produce a balanced budget, but more often it produces the same old minimum required to get by on year after year.

ACTUALLY church financing does not, and should not, have to resort to such labors. It is the belief of the new director of the Department of Promotion that less merchandising and more spiritual responsibility is the Christian answer to that old, old question of: What to do about the parish budget.

THE ONLY really satisfactory manner to contact each member of the individual church community is to have trained lay men and women go out into the homes in the parish and put the proposition squarely up to the individual members of the church. "Do you want the church to remain an active influence in your community and if so to what extent are you willing to support your church so that influence will continue to exist?"

THE EVERY MEMBER CANVASS method of church fund raising will work in more diversified situations than any other established method. It does not have to be complicated to work. Actually a simple canvass will work easier than a complicated one as it will require less people and less executive ability to administer it.

EVERY CHURCH community has at least a hand full of men and women that are capable of making these canvass calls. If the average lay man or woman has been given the facts in an open meeting where all objections and questions can be worked out, there is absolutely no reason why these men and women cannot go out and talk individually with the rest of the parishioners and secure the funds that will be required to operate their church in their own community without methods that are too often nothing less than merchandising.

RESPONSIBLE CHURCH FINANCING is simply a matter of Christian responsibility. It is not a matter of gadgetry or questionable merchandising. Church financing will never be solved on anything less than the high level of the Christian's responsibility to his God, his church, his self, his family and his community.

IF YOUR CHURCH does not have an annual Every Member Canvass, why not talk to your Rector about it. Skilled help is available through our corp of Associate Field Officers. If you have any questions or problems relating to your EMC please feel free to direct them to your Department of Promotion, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York, N. Y.

We stand ready to serve you to the exact extent that you are willing to be served.

Christmas On Ellis Island

LITTLE PETER AND his mother had no idea that Christmas would find them on Ellis Island, but here they were. Back in England before they started, there was a great deal of jubilant expectation at the thought of being with Daddy in California at the time when Santa comes down the chimney, but instead of flying across the country, they had to wait for necessary documents. Not that it mattered much to Peter, for wasn't there a Big Tree, all lights and glistening festoons when he opened his sleepy eyes the morning after his arrival!

Then in the afternoon with other children — children from China, from Lebanon, from Austria and from Yugoslavia — he waited for the Party to begin. The Big Room was filled with many people, most of whom were seamen, who with all others on Ellis Island assembled to hear the Christmas story told in music and singing of carols. For many it was their first Christmas in America, for some, their last before leaving these shores, but for everyone, it was the day America opens her heart and hand to all, "telling it out among the nations that the Lord is King."

The program of instrumental music, solos, and dancing was applauded again and again, but the St. George Children's Band, with their leader, came in for the greatest applause. The sight of a small-size boy with a big brass drum also a time when we can visit with each other and exchange ideas and experiences. To that end, we have arranged to serve tea and coffee in the Undercroft after the meetings. You may bring a sandwich, or sandwiches will be available in a limited quantity. There will be a nominal charge for beverages and sandwiches. We are indebted to the Order of Deaconesses and the Girls' Friendly Society who are in charge of this service.

"Looking ahead to our meetings—in December comes the Ingathering of the United Thank Offering at a Service of Holy Communion in the Cathedral. At this Service Bishop Donegan will be the preacher. After a box lunch in the Undercroft, when we will entertain some of our Missionaries, we will have our regular meeting with the Rev. Harry G. Campbell, one of our Chaplains just returned from Korea, as our guest speaker.

"In January we plan to follow a short business meeting with the annual Educational Conference. Mr. G. Paul Musselman, Executive Director of the Department of Urban Church Work of the National Council will talk on his work. In the afternoon the new Diocesan Director of Christian Education, the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, will discuss with us the place the Woman's Auxiliary can take in the whole plan of education. Late in January we start the first Volunteer Leadership Training course. More details of that will be given later. We are limiting the numbers of members to this course as we wish to make it very definitely a study course, not a series of lectures.

"In February comes the meeting which is held in the evening in order that the women of the Evening Branches may attend. This meeting is held at St. Bartholomew's Community House. The Mission Supply Department is arranging this program and we look forward to hearing of our Missions at home and abroad.

"In March, Mrs. Theodore Wedel is to be our speaker on the general subject of Christian Social Relations.

"In April our out-of-town meeting is in Richmond,—and in May comes the second Ingathering of the United Thank Offering, the annual meeting and the election of officers.

"So this, very briefly, is the outline of the W.A. Diocesan meetings.

"The details of the work of each department will be given by the Diocesan and District officers, but I would like to say again that we hope this year we may learn to know each other better, to know more about the whole program of our Church, to care more about it, and to do more to carry it out. This can only be accomplished if we pray together, worship together, and serve together with dedication and understanding."

ArrestedDevelopment Places High Toll On Church's Work

THE November issue of the Diocesan Bulletin contained an announcement that the Department of Christian Education had agreed upon a Five Year Program of Advance and made some statement as to the thinking which has gone into the fashioning of that program.

It is now possible, a month later, to report that the Five Year Program has been well received wherever it has been described or discussed both among the clergy and among the laity. Wherever possible steps have been taken during the month to initiate items in the program which should receive first attention. This is especially true with regard to the effort on the part of the Director of the Department to hold consultations in every parish during the months between now and the first of May.

About twenty-two of these parish consultations have already been conducted and they cover about thirty-one of the congregations in the Diocese. The consultations have been arranged so as to cover the convocations of Hudson and Dutchess first. The Director is most grateful for the cooperation he is receiving from all clergy in the Diocese who have so far been contacted in the making of the necessary appointments.

While these consultations are a necessary part of the first year of the program and are in the way of preparation for all of the other work which the Department will do, it should be noted that the keystone of the Department's activity during the next five years will be the important work which it hopes to do in the realm of Adult Religious Education. Following the excellent lead being given by the National Department and by other Departments within the Anglican Communion, increasing stress is being based upon the necessity that the Church be much more concerned with the vast bulk of her people who have reached adult status but have not yet arrived at an adult understanding of those things which God wants them to know. From this point of view it is obviously true that the Church is suffering from an arrested spiritual development.

Arrested development is a tragedy in every form in which it occurs. There is the arrested physical development which results in the stunted growth of the dwarfed. There is the arrested mental development which means that there are so many folk living in perfect bodies but with an undeveloped mind. There is arrested emotional development which keeps people tied to their mother's apron strings, or in some other way prevents them from standing on their own feet as emotionally mature persons. There is arrested social development which takes its toll upon a high percentage of society. But by far the greatest extent of arrested development is found in the field of the spirit, and the great blight which now eats at the heart of the Church is the disease which results in the fact that there is such a high percentage of her people who are living in adult bodies, trying to solve adult problems, attempting to carry out adult responsibilities, when all they have is an adolescent concept of those great eternal truths which God would have them know.

This arrested development places a high toll upon the Church's work. It means that the Church must seek its leaders for the work it would do among growing Christians from among those who have failed to reach the maturity that enables them to carry out the responsibilities assigned to them. It means that most of the parents, grandparents, uncles and aunts who have such a deep effect upon the religious life of growing Christians find themselves inadequate for the grave responsibility of parenthood or rela-

The Bishop's Message

THERE was no room for them at the Inn." That was on the very first Christmas Eve. Is He being crowded out again today by all the frantic preparations for Christmas, and will He be crowded out on the day itself by our feasting and festivities? To be sure there is over the whole season of Christmas a subtle spirit of kindliness, of geniality and generosity, — the spirit of little children. But the secularization of the season would indicate that for the majority of men and women the story of the Nativity is only a lovely myth, a very beautiful legend.

The central fact of Christmastide is this: "Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God; . . . . . for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven."

God was, and is, in Jesus our Lord, acting for us men and for our salvation. We cannot save ourselves. Salvation is of God. This Babe born in a stable is called Jesus, for He came to save His people from their sins. The great truth is that God so loved the world that He gave his only-begotten Son that all who believe in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. By the grace of Jesus Christ we may win the victory over our sins, our failures, our mortality.

Those to whom Christmas is no more than a festive season, those who speak glibly of the Christmas spirit but do not receive Christ as their Saviour on His birthday are making merry without cause.

The true joy of Christmas comes only to those who make room in their lives for the Child of Bethlehem, praying Him to enter in, and cast out their sin. Let us receive Christ anew in our hearts, and open our lives to His. Then we may merit His blessing and Christmas this year may be for many of us, in a measure it has never been before, a very happy and a very holy day.

So — a joyful and blessed Christmas to you all!

Faithfully and affectionately your Bishop

Arrested Development

tionship because they themselves have not reached that stage of maturity that enables them to give the life-leadership demanded of them. This arrested spiritual development means that the Church is filled with a childishness which is continually crippling its work and results at the parish level in a self centeredness which is denial of true christianity. It is the arrested spiritual development within the people of the parishes which causes the situation so frequently found where there are so many people who need to be handled with kid gloves lest their over-sensitive feelings should be hurt. One of the primary objectives of the Department of Christian Education will be the establishment of such an intensified program of Adult Education on a two fold basis, that the parishes within the Diocese will be led to see that the whole task of Christian Education involves all the people of the parish and not merely the children. The Department's two fold plan calls for the reestablishment, where they were once established, of the Schools of Religion; and the years immediately ahead for the new establishment of such schools in various centers throughout the Diocese, so that the parishes may have the assistance of specially trained persons who will conduct the schools wherever they can be organized. The second branch of the adult educational work will be the intensified program of leadership training which the Department hopes it can see operating early in 1954 and continued with more intense planning and activity throughout the next few years. This intensified leadership training program calls for the re-establishment of the Convocational Teacher Institutes during the spring of 1954 and for the initiating of a program of Intensive Week-ends in cooperation with the National Department. It is hoped that within the next few years this Intensive Week-end Program will grow.

The Department is very conscious that all of these things depend for their success upon the cooperation that can be extended to the Department by the clergy and laity of the Diocese. This is particularly true where the initiation of a program of adult education at the parish level is concerned. The conducting of Schools of Religion on a Convocation or area basis will not be sufficiently extensive or sufficiently intensive to do the job that should be done at the parish level. These schools of religion cannot do more than deal with special problems or provide the special incentive that is needed for the stimulating of the work at the parish level. The Department realizes that if an adequate job in adult education is to be done, it must arise out of the conviction in the heart and mind of the rector of the parish, and from that conviction there must be seen a developing program which involves all of the present adult groups and leads eventually to the establishment of new groups where necessary in order to involve all the adult people in an ongoing learning situation.

The Churches And World Order

THE Fourth National Study Conference on the Churches and World order, held in Cleveland from October 27 to 30, brought together 400 official representatives from the 30 Communions represented in the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. The Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, leader of the Episcopal delegation, was chairman of the committee which produced the background paper on The Christian Faith and International Responsibility, and gave the opening address of the Conference.

The Conference was divided into four sections. The section on the United States and the United Nations produced findings that included a strong support of the UN, with an impressive list of its accomplishments. There was also a frank recognition of the weaknesses that have developed as a result of the "cold war," and a serious consideration of the possibility of amending the Charter of the UN at the 1955 session.

The section on the United States and Foreign Economic Policy stressed the world-wide repercussions that follow the slightest shifts in American prosperity or in American trade or fiscal policy. American economic power is so preponderant and its influence so universal that we have a moral obligation to consider the world-wide results of every economic measure. For instance "trade instead of aid" becomes an empty slogan if American tariff policy and import regulations make trade impossible.

The section on the United States and the Underveloped Areas stressed the peculiar contribution that the Churches have made and are making to the life of the underdeveloped countries. The section called for continued economic and technical aid, through the UN, through the U.S. government, and through the activities of private philanthropy and foundations. The effectiveness of such aid depends in large degree upon the personnel responsible for its administration. Our representatives overseas must have not only technical competence, but a spirit that recognizes the human dignity of the aided peoples and nations. Technical aid should be divorced from military and strategic considerations, and administered for the social and economic well-being of the entire world.

The section on the United States and Collective Security had by far the most controversial subject to discuss. The Friends, and certain other absolute pacifists, repudiated the whole idea of collective security through the use or threat of force. The majority believed that, given the fact of a sinful world, force was necessary to restrain the aggressor. The section urged continued support of the UN as a world agency for collective security; the further development of methods of negotiation, mediation, conciliation, arbitration and commission reports; continued effort to achieve world-wide disarmament under adequate safeguards; continued support of NATO and other defense pacts; and approval of the collective security action in Korea.

The last two items were the subject of extensive debate, both in the section and in the plenary session, and were finally approved by a vote of 149 to 69. The minority was given the privilege of attaching a statement of their position as a footnote to the published report.

One of the most interesting recommendations of this section was that the U.S. take the lead in creating a Consultative Assembly, composed of members of the legislative bodies of the NATO nations, to meet regularly to discuss problems of mutual interest and make recommendations to the Council of NATO. This was viewed as a first step in implementating the non-military political, social and economic aspects of NATO, thus strengthening the unity of the nations of the free world.

The Rev. Leland B. Henry, Executive Director of the Department of Christian Social Relations, attended the Conference as an official representative of the Episcopal Church. Mr. Henry was a member of the section on Collective Security, and served as chairman of the drafting committee of the section. It was on his motion that the section and the plenary session recommended the establishment of a Consultative Assembly for NATO. The Rev. M. Moran Weston, a member of the Diocesan Department, was also one of the official representatives of the Episcopal Church, as was Peter Day, Editor of The Living Church. Both Mr. Weston and Mr. Day took an active part in the deliberations of the section on Collective Security.

The Message of the Conference, a summary of the Message prepared by Bishop Dun, and the findings of each of the sections will be published by the National Council of Churches. It is hoped that these documents will be widely studied in the Church. Each of the first three Conferences made a distinct contribution to the development of American foreign policy. These conferences, held in 1942, 1944 and 1949 were chaired by John Foster Dulles, then head of the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches. The 1953 Conference was chaired by Mrs. Douglas Horton, chairman of the same Department of the National Council of the Churches of Christ.

Ellis Island

brought down the house. Then to the strains of the old but ever new carols, sung in many languages, the program ended.

But now the big time arrived, the distribution of gifts! Men, women, and children each received a bag of gifts. Of course the children's were the largest. Down on the floor sat little Peter and the first thing he pulled out was a red fire truck. He ran to his mother and cried, "Look Mummy, see! Santa did come down the Ellis Island chimney!" His mother had said in the morning, "Peter is worried because he sees no chimney on Ellis Island."

Peter's joy was the joy of the other children also. Little Helga squeezed her dolly as she devoured the candy she found in her bag, and a Chinese boy close by turned the leaves of a book which played a tune as he did so. Useful gifts for the men and women, as well as candy, fruit and cigarettes found their way into the bags. Some were in tears as the bags were given out, others held the bags closely, while others couldn't wait, but opened them as they went back to their rooms.

There is a deeper significance to this annual Christmas Party held on Ellis Island by the representatives of religious organizations. The lights, the music, the gifts are symbols of the longing of many of you to show that you do realize that many in this group are victims of world dislocation. From lands of oppression many have come to seek a haven here, to rejoin their relatives, to seek religious liberty, to live out their manhood and womanhood in God-fearing atmosphere. We bring to them the message of the Church, which is the true unity of all people, for the Church unites what we are in reality, "true Spiritual beings." This is the gift you bring to those who wait here at your doorstep — the gift of understanding and of sympathy and of "love for the brother you have not seen."

St. John's Tuckahoe

Yonkers, it was not until 1853 that it became a full-fledged parish.

The church's sesquicentennial year was marked, five years ago by the restoration of the church building to the way it looked when it was built in 1798. The parish had asked the Rev. Canon Edward N. West who is a member of the Diocesan Commission on Church Building, to propose some ideas upon how it might be done. Canon West pointed out the beauties of the church's exterior to the assembled parishioners and then detailed a list of suggested changes which was promptly accepted in its entirety and the parish immediately raised and pledged $20,000 to do the work. Today, the interior of St. John's is regarded as one of the most beautiful and authentic of Colonial churches.

The restoration year contained many special events to honor the sesquicentennial. A special week of celebration in October was launched by then Suffragan Bishop Horace W. B. Donegan. The Rev. Canon Bernard C. Newman, vicar of Trinity Church, was principal speaker at the sesquicentennial dinner in Bronxville. The church was rededicated the following Sunday by the Right Reverend Charles K. Gilbert, then Bishop of New York.

The restoration was the Rev. Osborne Budd's first major project as rector of St. John's Tuckahoe. Mr. Budd had come to the parish as its priest in 1946 after serving as chaplain for the Walkill State Prison for seven years. It was his first parish. He is now chairman of the Children's Work Division of the Department of Christian Education in the Diocese, and St. John's is cooperating with the Department of Christian Education of the National Council in preparation of the new curriculum.

The St. John's Church School setup has been widely accepted by other churches as a practical plan of religious education. It is entirely self-supporting and always goes far beyond other churches of its size in contributing to the missionary quota of the Diocese year after year. The children also are usually among the top ten in the Diocese in their attendance records.

Some measure of the financial independence of the Church School is due of the Turkeyhoe Players, a drama group which produces two recent Broadway plays a year. Mrs. Budd and several other members of the parish have had theatrical experience and a high standard of performance is maintained. The whole community flocks to see the productions

WE GENERALLY ASSUME in the American Church that the fewer people expected at a service the less concern there need be for the excellence of it. And in fact if very few come, we "drop" the service. For example, the daily office contemplated by the Prayer Book are not maintained in most parishes for the reason expressed as "nobody'd come."

IN A MEASURE this is a right attitude: our main energies should be focused on activities which will be of the most benefit to the most people. But in a measure this practicality misses an important aspect of worship. The aspect of worship it misses was vividly brought to my attention early this fall in my visit to the English cathedrals. On almost every weekday we were in England we attended Matins or Evensong at some cathedral. Sometimes there was a sizeable congregation (often more than we expected); sometimes not (often because the Cathedral was set in a small community with several active parish churches). But almost invariably the service was offered with great dignity and beauty, with the settings of the canticles and the anthem displaying that the choir had rehearsed them aiming at perfection. The mood before the service as the clergy and choir and vergers assembled for the procession was one we would associate with the beginning of a great festival.

WHAT IMPRESSED US was the sheer objectivity of the attitude toward worship. God was there — whoever else was or wasn't; and hence a worthy offering of praise was more than justified. The familiar response "The Lord's Name be praised" does not contain the qualification "—if enough people are there to make it worth the effort."

THIS EXPERIENCE MADE me feel all the more gratified that a year ago sung Matins was inaugurated here and that we sing the Eucharist on Holy Days — and I became more patient with the relatively small numbers at such choral services on weekday mornings. Also it became more evident than ever that we were right in putting in the rule a year ago that all members of the Chapter (the Dean, the Canons and the Bursar) were to be in their stalls at all daily offices and at the conventual sung Eucharist on Holy Days — unless ill or away from the Close.

BUT IT ALSO BECAME evident that the music at the weekday offices needs to be taken more seriously and more of a sense of glory should surround these services. We have taken one step in this direction by moving Evensong back to the Great Choir — but this time with the lay people sitting therein, also — as in the English cathedrals and at Washington, and with all the clergy present vesting.

SO WE HOPE at your Cathedral to represent the people of the Diocese more nobly in the daily round of praise. And while this is important whether many are there or not, we have plenty of room for more worshippers and hope that more people in our Diocese will from time to time plan their time in — or visits to — the city to include participation in one of the half-hour daily services and thus join us in praising God, in hearing His holy word and in interceding for His blessing on our parishes in rotation and for the needs of "all sorts and conditions of men." Morning Prayer is at 8:30 and Evensong at 5:30 every weekday, with choir every day but Monday. On Holy Days a choral Eucharist immediately follows Matins. (Sunday celebrations are at 7:30, with an additional service at 10 on Wednesday.) But even if you can never come, know that we are offering to God daily the full worship of the Prayer Book in your name — in the name of our Bishop and of all the clergy and lay people of the Diocese.

A New Chapel and a 90 Year Old Ministry Continued by City Missions Chaplains

On Friday, October 23rd, the cornerstone of a second Chapel of Our Saviour with attached Chaplain's residence was laid at Manhattan State Hospital, Ward's Island.

In 1913 the first edifice was built for the City Mission Altar Guild. This Guild, which was given title to the building, later became the New York Altar Guild.

The necessary location of one of the new hospital buildings now being erected included the site of the Chapel. An agreement was made between the New York Altar Guild and the State of New York whereby the State of New York was to build a new chapel and residence on another site, and upon completion of the building title to it was to be conveyed to the New York Altar Guild. For transactions incidental to the demolition of the old building and the creation of the new one, the New York Altar Guild appointed the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society as its agent.

The officiant at the service was the Rev. William E. Sprenger, Director of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, being delegated by Bishop Donegan to represent him. Assisting in the service were the Rev. H. Rushton Bell, Director of Chaplaincy for the City Mission Society, and the Rev. Wilford S. Crum, present Chaplain at Manhattan State Hospital, and a member of the City Mission staff.

The service started with a procession from the Recreation Building which during the building of the new chapel is being used for the public worship services.

Approximately 100 patients and all those who had any part in the service made up the procession during which the Litany of the Church was recited led by the Rev. H. Rushton Bell.

Upon arriving at the building site the Lesson (I Peter 2:1-10) was read by the Rev. Wilford S. Crum.

The "Record of the Founders" was then read by the Rev. H. Rushton Bell.

The Foundation Symbols were deposited in the cornerstone receptacle by four lay persons as follows: The Cross: Mrs. Cuthbert A. Simpson, Recording Secretary of the New York Altar Guild; The Holy Bible: Dr. John H. Travis, Senior Director of Manhattan State Hospital; The Book of Common Prayer: Mrs. William C. Dickey, past president of the Guild; The Record of the Founders: Mrs. Harold M. Lindstedt, Chairman of the Guild for the Chapel of our Saviour.

During the sealing of the receptacle selected verses of Psalm 118 were read antiphonly and led by Chaplain Crum.

After the receptacle was placed securely within the stone and the stone put in position, the "laying of the stone" was done by the Rev. William E. Sprenger and with the traditional striking of the stone three times with a trowel.

The service concluded with versicles, prayers and blessing.

Since 1864, when the institutions on Ward's Island were the Emigrant and Homeopathic Hospitals, the City Mission Society has maintained continuous chaplaincy service. From the inception of the New York State chaplaincy a member of its staff has held the official position of Protestant Chaplain.

Completion of the new edifice is anticipated in the spring of 1954 when the new Chapel of Our Saviour can be dedicated and Chaplain Crum and his family can make use of the adjoining residence.

which is one of the many ways that St. John's Parish House becomes a meeting ground for members of many different churches.

But the greatest cause for thankfulness at St. John's is the attendance at the services for worship. With the increase in membership from 178 in 1947 to 381 today, new services for worship have been added. The Family Service at 9:30 which coincides with the Church School hour always packs the church with fathers and mothers. There are usually as many men as women at this service as at 11 o'clock.

In line with this spiritual development of the parish is the prayer group which has met regularly once a week for two years. This was organized by the Woman's Auxiliary which has very active day and evening branches at St. John's

To accommodate the growth of all church activities, the parish decided upon the $100,000 enlargement of the Parish which is now underway.

The bell of St. John's rings out over the hills. This generation is answering its call to Christ. The other builders of the church who sleep in its peaceful old graveyard rest quietly.

Bishop's Dinner For Laymen, Bronxville Tuesday, Dec. 8

In the Convocation of Westchester there has been definite expression that it would be advantageous for the laymen of the Convocation to meet their Bishop informally and to hear "around the dinner table" his hopes and objectives for the Diocese. It would also be worthwhile for Episcopal laymen of Westchester to know each other and determine what might be done to secure a Conference Center for the Diocese; further the spiritual life of their parishes and communities, etc.

Dinner will be served at the Hotel Gramatan at 7 o'clock. After dinner Bishop Donegan will be the only speaker. There will be no details of organization; the meeting will not deal with finances.

This can be an exceedingly worthwhile Advent meeting for the men of the Church with their Diocesan. Send reservations ($5.00) to Edward G. O'Brien, Station Plaza, White Plains, N. Y. — WH 9-0110.

THE MANHATTAN CONVOCATION

The Rev. James Morgan
The Rev. John H. Edwards
The Manhattan Correspondents

The Convocation of Manhattan met with almost 200 clerical and lay delegates and guests on October 28th at SAINT PHILIP'S CHURCH, West 134th Street. More than half of the parishes and missions of the Convocation were represented at the dinner and the service of Evensong. The Bishops were present as was the Lord Bishop of Bermuda, the Right Reverend John Jagoe. Edwin Yowell, Director of the Department of Promotion, was introduced to the group and the Reverend J. S. Wetmore, Director of the Department of Christian Education, spoke. The Bishop spoke briefly about the needs for an annual Every-Member Canvass and the work of civic righteousness in the City. The Rev. Roger Blanchard, Executive Secretary, Division of College Work of the National Council, preached at Evensong.

The new Chantry of SAINT GEORGE'S CHURCH, Stuyvesant Square, was officially dedicated on All Saints' Day. Amidst much that is new, the five stained glass windows illustrating the hymn 'For all the Saints' represent a bond with the past. These windows, recently restored, were in the original Saint George's Mortuary Chapel on the same site. And for a first among the Churches, the new Chantry is completely air-conditioned!

On Sunday, November 22 at 4:00 P.M., the Centre Symphony presented a program of orchestral music, including a symphony by Dvorak and two concertos by Handel at SAINT MICHAEL'S CHURCH, Amsterdam Avenue. Peter Fyfe, organist of Saint Michael's, was the organ soloist. And on Thursday, December 17th at 8:45 P.M., the Cantata Singers will give an all Bach program of Sacred Music at Saint Michael's.

Sunday School classes have been re-organized at SAINT PAUL'S CHAPEL, Columbia University, for the children of the neighborhood. For several years, Sunday School classes were held at the Cathedral, but this year that program was dropped. Thus the new program at Saint Paul's fills a real need of the neighborhood.

The Rev. John Heuss, D.D., Rector of TRINITY CHURCH, Wall Street, has been appointed Chairman of the National Committee for expenses of delegates to the 1954 Pan-Anglican Congress. Many of the foreign delegates of this congress, to be held August 4 to 11, 1954, in Minneapolis, will be from very poor sections of the world and from countries where there are restrictions on the amount of money which can be taken outside their boundaries.

Each Sunday morning since the beginning of October, Trinity Church has had a happy family Eucharist, a sung celebration of the Holy Communion, followed by breakfast in the Parish Hall, and Sunday School classes for kindergarten, boys, girls and adults.

Historic SAINT PAUL'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Fulton Street, observed the 187th anniversary of its opening service and dedication at the 11:00 A.M. service on November 1, the Sunday nearest to the actual anniversary date, October 31. The Rev. Robert C. Hunsicker, the Vicar, preached the anniversary sermon and was the celebrant at the Holy Communion. Mozart's Mass in C was sung, with choir and organ. Also in Trinity Parish on November 1, SAINT AUGUSTINE'S CHAPEL, Henry Street, held special services marking the 125th anniversary of the consecration of the church building it now occupies. This church building was originally All Saints' Church, consecrated in 1828.

On October 4, G. Darlington Richards, F.A.G.O., retired after 40 years as organist of SAINT JAMES CHURCH, Madison Avenue. A reception was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Richards following the 11:00 service that morning. Donald L. Coats, formerly organist of Saint Paul's Cathedral, Los Angeles, succeeds Mr. Richards.

Joseph James, George Hill and Ruby Greene all from SAINT PHILIP'S CHURCH, West 134th Street, are in the cast of "Porgy and Bess," and Maxwell Granville, from the same parish, is in the new Broadway play, "Take a Giant Step." The Woman's Auxiliary in this parish is selling very beautiful plates with an attractive center that pictures the exterior of the church. Whatever money is received will go into the missionary treasury of the Auxiliary.

The program for children at SAINT BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, Park Avenue, now includes expert care for infants, under a nurse's supervision, on Sundays from 9:20 to 12:20, enabling parents to leave little children during either of the Church services. This is in addition to the Church School at 9:30 and at 11:00.

The annual bazaar at the CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST, Fifth Avenue, is always an outstanding event. This year to celebrate the 85th Anniversary of this Parish, the bazaar was bigger and better than ever. One unusual feature is the entertainment for children. This is usually held on 90th Street which is closed for the time.

The Theatre Group of SAINT JOHN'S CHURCH-IN-THE-VILLAGE, Waverly Place, has an active program. On October 15th and 16th, they presented Saroyan's "Hello Out There" and Stuart Walker's "Six Who Pass."

The people at SAINT MARK'S CHURCH-IN-THE-BOUWERIE, Tenth Street, during the past summer lost the services of their sexton, organist, and treasurer. However, they are going forward with the work of repairing the Parish House.

Work is going forward on the organ at SAINT STEPHEN'S CHURCH, West 69th Street. There is a need for modernizing it and some of its parts will have to be replaced.

During the summer the Choir Room of the CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY, York Avenue, was painted and redecorated. At the same time, new cupboards to hold the Church School supplies were built by Mr. Barheine.

The Church Mouse, writing in the "Parish Messenger" of the CHURCH OF THE RESURRECTION, East 74 Street, reports that "there are two kinds of people in our churches — pillars and caterpillars. The pillars hold up the Church, while the caterpillars simply go in and out."

The Servants of Christ the King held their 15th Anniversary Rally for young people on October 25th at the CHURCH OF SAINT MARY THE VIRGIN, West 46th Street. There was a program of speeches and worship during the afternoon and evening.

The Lecture Committee of the LIBRARY OF SAINT BEDE, 157 East 72nd Street, has announced that the Rev. J. V. Langmead Casserley, D. Litt., Professor of Dogmatic Theology at the General Theological Seminary, will deliver the 1954 Saint Bede Lectures on three Monday evenings in January at 8:30 in the Guild Hall of SAINT THOMAS CHURCH, Fifth Avenue. The general topic of the lectures will be "The Art of Christian Thinking." The Library of Saint Bede is a subscription library in which are to be found valuable collections of books on all aspects of the life and work of the Church.

Nine days of prayer were held at SAINT LUKE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, Hudson Street, in preparation for the Patronal Festival on October 18.

On October 28 a Choral Evensong was held in memory of Dr. T. Tertius Noble, for over 30 years organist of SAINT THOMAS CHURCH, Fifth Avenue, Dr. Noble died in May.

Assisting at the service were Paul Calloway, organist of the Washington Cathedral; Grover Oberle, organist of Emmanuel Church, Boston; Searle Wright, organist at Columbia University; and the Rev. Howard, Rector of Saint John's Church, Brooklyn—all pupils of Dr. Noble.

THE WESTCHESTER CONVOCATION

The Rev. C. Kenneth Ackerman
The Westchester Correspondent

On Sunday, October 11th, the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, instituted The Reverend George French Kempsell, Jr., S. T. B., as Rector of the CHURCH OF SAINT JAMES THE LESS, Scarsdale, N. Y. The past year Father Kempsell served as Assistant Minister. Before coming to this parish he served as Vicar of St. Luke's Church, Katonah, New York.

The Rev. William Gillette Weinhauer was recently appointed to be Assistant to the Rector and Director of Christian Education, at the Church of Saint James the Less. Father Weinhauer formerly served as Curate at the Church of the Resurrection, Richmond Hill, Long Island before coming to Scarsdale.

The Rev. Raymond Alfred Peterson, Jr., was also appointed as the Assistant to the Rev. George F. Kempsell, Jr., at St. James the Less. Father Peterson served his Diaconate at Holy Trinity Church, Collingswood, New Jersey.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, White Plains, N. Y., has recently added the Reverend John Grant Morden, as a part time Assistant to the staff. Mr. Morden is on leave from the Canadian Church, and is working toward his Doctor's Degree at Union Theological Seminary.

A Fall Retreat for the Laymen of CHRIST CHURCH, Bronxville, N. Y., was held on October 16th, 17th and 18th, at Holy Cross Monastery, West Park.

The following children received awards at CHRIST CHURCH, Yonkers, N. Y., for perfect attendance at church during the Summer months; Barbara Adler, Mae Adler, Edna Gerloff, Mary Lyn Gerloff, Andrea Hall, Janet Hall, Alfred Iles III, Ruth Iles, Richard Lawton, Robert Ritchie, Pamela Sutcliffe, John Swierz.

Plans for Church Fairs are very much in the news these days. On Thursday and Friday, November 12th and 13th, a Harvest Festival was held at TRINITY CHURCH, Mount Vernon, N. Y. Mrs. Frank Peeso was chairman and Mr. George Merz, co-chairman.

CHRIST CHURCH, Tarrytown, N. Y., held its Annual Bazaar on Saturday, November 21st. Mr. William Lotocki, was the general chairman. To encourage attendance, merchandise tickets valued at $1.20 were sold for $1.00 per book for several weeks in advance of the Bazaar.

TRINITY CHURCH, Ossining, N. Y., held their 85th Anniversary Harvest Fair, October 13th, 14th and 15th, and used very successfully a plan by which tickets of admission were sold. These tickets were in books of ten, valued at 10¢ per ticket and gave the holder an opportunity to win a door prize.

The Rev. Arnold Fenton, Rector of ST. THOMAS' CHURCH, Mamaroneck, N. Y., announces the appointment of two new Lay Readers; Gene Rayburn and Jim Coy. The newly appointed Lay Readers are well known personalities on the radio, and are heard daily over the National Broadcasting System.

During the Summer and early Fall, a number of improvements were made to the Church Parish House and apartment building, of St. Thomas' Church, amounting to $6,000.00.

grams are occupying the attention of many congregations in the Convocation. ALL SAINT'S CHURCH, Harrison, has recently undertaken a project to improve their Parish Hall facilities. They have secured the services of Kirby-Smith Associates, for this project.

SAINT PAUL'S CHURCH, Yonkers, is in the midst of a rehabilitation program, which will repair the church tower at a cost of approximately $16,000. Additional work including rewiring and redecorating the Chancel is also being carried out.

While observing its Centennial Year in 1952, the CHURCH OF ST. BARNABAS, Irvington, undertook to mark the one hundredth anniversary of the first building in the present church by adding a new wing to the parish house. Work on the new building began last June. It will provide new class rooms for the Church School, which has grown to more than twice the size it was only a few years ago. Classes have been meeting wherever there was an unused corner—from the sacristy to the kitchen.

Early in 1952, plans were drawn for the new building, and the Centennial Fund Committee went into the parish to raise money in order that the new wing might be finished without mortgage and free of debt. Named the Van Keuren Wing, in honor of the Rector Emeritus, the Rev. Floyd Van Keuren, D. D., the new building has nine class rooms, a large kindergarten room, an addition to the parish house auditorium, and a corridor connecting parish house, Van Keuren wing, and the church.

Basically, the new wing is a children's building, planned to provide a pleasant, uncomplicated atmosphere in which children may receive the full impact of the ideas of God, Jesus Christ, and the Holy Spirit. The structure is not an imposing edifice. Long, low lines blend quietly with the architecture of the surrounding buildings. Liberal use of glass in window and wall treatment give views of the parish gardens overlooking the Hudson River.

The parish house has also been altered to provide additional class rooms and administrative offices. The Rev. Richard L. Harbour, rector, has announced that dedication of the new wing will take place late in November.

THE DUTCHESS CONVOCATION

The Rev. W. Lever Bates

A new record was made at the fall meeting of the Dutchess Convocation, held at CHRIST CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, on Friday, October 16th, when clergy and lay delegates reported in from all but one of the Parishes and Missions in the Convocation. The speakers of the evening were Bishop Donegan, Mr. Edward Yowell, Exc. Director Department of Promotion, and the Rev. Stuart Wetmore, Diocesan Director of Religious Education.

CHRIST CHURCH, Poughkeepsie, continues to be the focus of much activity in the Convocation. In addition to the fall meeting of the Convocation delegates, each Monday evening during October was given over to the 13th Annual Dutchess School of Religion. This year the largest number of registrants yet, attended one or more of the series of four lectures on "The English Reformation," given by the Rev. Professor Powel Mills Dawley of the General Theological Seminary. At the end of the series, the Rev. J. Jack Sharkey, Convocation Director of Religious Education, asked for written suggestions for future years, especially for perferred dates, both months and days of the week. He will welcome written suggestions from anyone who is interested.

CHRIST CHURCH itself is facing a major repair and replacement program. Members of the Parish have been informed that a minimum of $12,292.00 is required for this program, and a campaign to raise the necessary funds is being started at once.

The Rev. William J. Clague was formally introduced to his new congregation in HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, Pawling, at a service in the Church on Friday evening, October 2nd. The new vicar and his congregation heard the Ven. George Bratt, Archdeacon, and the Rev. Robert E. Terwilliger, Dean of Dutchess Convocation, who spoke on the difficulties facing a priest moving into a new Parish. A reception was held in the Parish House after the service.

A Pall, given by Mrs. Hershell E. Gibbs in memory of her husband who died five years ago, was dedicated at the morning service of GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH, Millbrook, on September 27th. The beautifully embroidered Pall was the work of Mrs. Gibbs and the members of a class led by Mrs. Daryl Parshall.

The renovation of ST. JAMES' CHURCH, Hyde Park, is virtually complete after months of work. The Parish is now turning to plans for a new Parish House, and preliminary discussions have shown a preference for its erection at the Church site itself, rather than in the village of Hyde Park.

The new Parish House of the CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH, Rhinebeck, is being pushed to completion, and it is expected that its dedication will be possible when Bishop Donegan pays his visitation to the Parish on November 29th. This Parish House represents a major effort by the Parish over many years, and will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000 when finished.

At the CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH, Rhinebeck, there has also been a fine new addition in the form of a Side Chapel. This was dedicated at a service of Evensong on September 25th, by the Rector, the Rev. Richard A. Cartmell. Among the gifts to the Side Chapel were: Screen, Altar Rail and Credence Table in memory of Julia Ruge Samstag, the Altar, in memory of Edith Traver, the Missal and Stand, in memory of Raymond and Ada Traver, the Vases in memory of Mrs. Henrietta Kemble, the Linens, in memory of Evelyn L. Lent. Miss Marion Traver gave the platform for the Altar. The Chapel will be used for early Celebrations of Holy Communion.

The CHURCH OF THE HOLY COMMUNION, Lake Mahopac, reports a Church School growing out of the accommodations available to it.

A similar report comes from the CHAPEL OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Granite Springs, where a September Church School enrollment of 30 increased in October to 45. The new Vicar, the Rev. Kenneth G. Drescher, is also organizing an Acolytes' Guild

After twelve years of alternating every six months between two Church buildings, the Wardens and Vestry of ST. PAUL'S AND TRINITY PARISH, Tivoli, late in September recommended to the Rector that an experimental plan be started by which all Church services will be held in ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, and that the ground floor Parish rooms of the TRINITY CHURCH building be used for parish and some Church School activities. This plan is now in operation. It was made advisable by the need for major repairs in the upstairs Church rooms at TRINITY CHURCH, which can now be put to one side. At the end of one year, the matter of continuing the new plan, or otherwise, will be again considered.

THE CHAPEL OF THE HOLY INNOCENTS, at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, is experiencing a marked revival of interest among students of the college, with services of Evensong on Sunday evenings, to

All Churchmen, women and their friends are being invited to attend a Quiet Afternoon in preparation for Christmas, sponsored by the Devotional Life Department of the Richmond District W.A. to be held at ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Stapleton, on Sunday, December 20 from 2:30 to 5:30 P.M. Miss Estelle C. Carver of New Haven, and a great teacher and woman of prayer, will be the leader. Don't miss this opportunity!

CHRIST CHURCH, New Brighton. With Mr. Roland Sloan and Mrs. Thomas Chisholm as co-chairmen another annual Bazaar and Fair was held on November 5 and 6. Great thanks is due to all those who so ably arranged for and took care of the various booths, thereby making the affair another grand success, including two excellent dinners.

The Boy Scout Troop is active under Mr. William Follit as Chairman with James Gilfillan as scoutmaster, assisted by Bill Hawks and Bob Wilson.

The choir's thanks to Messrs. Joseph Clark, John Evans, R. Kimmerer, John Pinckey and John Bainbridge, who worked on Saturdays during the summer to refinish the room's ceiling and to install modern lighting.

The Church School started with fine attendance, with Mr. Raymond B. Stock as superintendent and 16 teachers and Mrs. W. Roy Gillam in charge of the nursery group.

ST. MARY'S, Castleton. The men put on a clambake greatly enjoyed by those present with Bob McCullough and George Morren as chief chefs.

New macadam driveways were laid and paid out of proceeds from the Fair of last June.

ST. JOHN'S, Kingston, has been and still is making many needed improvements in the church and parish house. A new mastic tile floor was recently laid in the parish house, the work being done by members of the congregation. After nothing had been done in the rectory for ten years one of the vestrymen volunteered to paint and redecorate most of the ground floor, while another vestryman paid for the paint. The hot water tank in the parish house was both inadequate and worn out, so the evening branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, with the help of one of the vestrymen, installed an instantaneous hot water heater as well as the necessary new plumbing. The replacement of the church window sills is being done by another group of St. John's men. During the summer the entire roof and spouting were put in good condition and painted with the generous help of another member. As a memorial the pipe organ is being completely rebuilt and modernized. It is already in use and will be entirely finished before Christmas. A most unusual feature of the organ is the portable console.

As we go to press the Hudson Convocation is looking forward to a panel discussion meeting with Ramapo to be held in GRACE CHURCH, Middletown, on the subject of Christian Social Relations.

On November 22 our youth director is also planning to hold a youth rally in ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH, Newburgh.

The CONVOCATION OF THE BRONX convened for its semi-annual meeting at the CHURCH OF THE HOLY NATIVITY, Bainbridge Avenue and 204th Street, on Tuesday evening the 27th of October at 8 o'clock. The Bishop of the Diocese presided at Choral Evensong, the Officiant was the Rev. Charles J. Buck, Rector of the Church of the Holy Nativity, and the Lector, the Rev. L. J. Lang, Dean of the Convocation. Short addresses were made by Mr. E. J. Yowell, the new Diocesan Director of the Department of Promotion, and the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, the new Diocesan Director of the Department of Christian Education. The main speaker of the evening was the Bishop of the Diocese who proposed tithing as the only sound and Christian method of Church financing and also urged the assuming of Christian responsibility with regard to the coming elections. Refreshments were served in the undercroft after the service.

SAINT JAMES' CHURCH, Fordham, held a gift and reception day on Thursday the 29th of October in celebration of its 100th Anniversary. Following religious services throughout the day, a Parish Reception was held beginning at 8 o'clock in the evening. Honoured guests on the occasion were the Rev. Arthur V. Litchfield, Rector of Saint James', and Mrs. Litchfield; the Right Reverend Charles K. Gilbert, retired Bishop of New York; the Rev. L. J. Lang, Dean of the Convocation of the Bronx; and the Rev. George Mair. A 100th Anniversary cake with eleven candles was cut by Bishop Gilbert. The eleventh candle, representing the Church's next 100 years, was lighted by Mrs. Marian Trimmer, who has been a member of Saint James' Church for a longer period of time than anyone else on record.

The Bishop of the Diocese blessed and dedicated the completed rectory, offices of administration and parish hall, at SAINT PETER'S, WESTCHESTER, on Sunday morning, October 25. This marks the realization of a plan outlined two years ago, to consolidate widely scattered parish buildings into one unit. The new building is attached to the east end of the church, the roof line coming just below the sanctuary windows. The basement level consists of one large assembly room, convertible by means of modern-fold doors, into three rooms, with provision for a future sexton's apartment. On the ground floor are the offices of the clergy and secretary, and a waiting room, connecting the sacristy on the south and the chapel on the north, and an apartment for assistant clergy. The rectory is on the second floor, leading to a tiled roof, and penthouse laundry. The unused basement of the church is now an undercroft, making provision in the whole basement for four hundred people. The total cost has been about $120,000 and has been accomplished without any debt.

The Rector, Choirmaster and People of CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale, are to be congratulated upon their attempt to restore Sunday Choral Evensong in the parish Church. Several requests for such a service have been made from time to time to the Rector, the Rev. Gerald V. Barry, and the Choirmaster, Mr. James S. Valentine, Jr., responded favorably to the idea. "We shall make the experiment hopefully," says the Rev. Barry. The first Choral Evensong was held on Sunday, October 25 at 8:15 with the Venerable George F. Bratt, Archdeacon of New York, as preacher. Following the service a "Get-acquainted Hour" was held in the Parish House. A fine turnout has been reported.

On Sunday, October 18, the Rev. Hugh H. Henry and the people of SAINT LUKES, Williamsbridge, celebrated their Patronal Festival and the Second Anniversary of the Consecration of their Church.

CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale, was the scene of the Fall Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, District of the Bronx, held on Monday evening October 19 at 8:15. The speaker was the Right Reverend C. Alfred Voegeli, S.T.D., Missionary Bishop of Haiti, who gave an account of the work in his diocese.

SAINT MARGARET'S CHURCH, East 156th Street, has recently scheduled its service in Spanish at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning instead of in the evening. Father Steele

In our work one hesitates to speak of success as he does of seeming failure.

We must assume, and indeed we have every right to expect, that everyone connected with the work of the Church will at all times do his utmost to "bring in the Kingdom." Long-established churches in some rural areas where there is little growth in population have to contend with what might be called a "plateau" experience, where the losses are balanced by the gains. When such congregations experience an upward trend, when there is an escape from the rut of self-satisfaction, when attendances increase with corresponding increases in financial support, then one hears the word success applied — then, too, there is something to report which the whole Church wants to hear.

Several places are feeling the upward surge at present, and I should like briefly to tell you of two such churches.

The Church of the Holy Communion, Lake Mahopac has always been a Mission. Statistics show that over the past 30 years there has been little change.

The Annual Clergy Conferences were held in Mahopac some 20 years ago, but while this united front may have encouraged the faithful few, the village people seemed unimpressed. As the years passed the discouragements were such that there seemed little reason for the continuation of the work.

Then, about 2 years ago, there were definite indications that a corner had been turned. The Church School overflowed from the Church into the living room, dining room and office in the Vicarage. Since then the growth has been steady and last summer we literally stopped the traffic on Sunday mornings. The average attendance at services is now five times what it was a few years ago.

Then there is the case of St. Paul's, Lewisboro. A year ago, when the Diocese received a request for guidance and assistance, the outlook was dark indeed! A seminarian was engaged to help us obtain the clearest picture possible of the parish and the area it served. The Rev. Hugh Morton of Katonah was asked to give pastoral oversight and the Archdeacon met with the congregation to enlist their cooperation. Six months later we knew enough to more than justify our faith. Average Sunday attendance had increased from 14 to 40, and on Easter Day we reached a new high when 154 somehow crowded into the Church. Since then the monthly report shows growth and yet more growth.

These are but two "success" stories. There are others equally spectacular, and I shall tell you of them from time to time confident you will want to share our joy.

The Friendly Girls

THE Girls' Friendly Society is the girls' weekday group sponsored by the Episcopal Church. Actually, it is the oldest girls organization in the United States having celebrated its 75th birthday last year. It has been active in this diocese for the past 70 years. Both nationally and diocesanwise it is an assisted agency of the Department of Christian Education and a cooperating agency of the Woman's Auxiliary. It is financed by the funds raised by the girls during National G.F.S. Week (November 1-7), by the contributions of interested parties, and by a small income on investments. The organization no longer receives any support from the Diocesan treasury.

Miss Jean Pflomm of the Church of the Holy Nativity, Bronx is Diocesan President. Under her direction a Board of Directors meets at least three times a year to adopt the plans and set the policies of the organization. The Society is very pleased to announce that Mr. Philip Nordeck, Master of Religious Studies at the Cathedral Choir School, has accepted the position of Chaplain on our Board of Directors. There is no executive staff, but the part-time Office Secretary, Mrs. George Diering of St. Peter's Church, Bronx, and the full-time Field Consultant, Miss Thelma E. Caruso of St. Alban's Church, Staten Island, both paid workers, manage the details connected with branch and diocesan activities. This is the only diocese which provides for a G.F.S. Field Worker. It was felt that a personal contact with the clergy, leaders and members is vital in bettering the G.F.S. program. To confirm this point: the Field Consultant joined the staff in November of last year. By the following June, 6 new branches had been organized and were running effectively.

The programs for the year are set by the national office and materials for each program are sent to each branch periodically throughout the year. The Field Consultant helps the branches in effecting these programs by arranging personal conferences with the leaders, acting as a source for additional materials, visiting each branch at least twice a year and organizing diocesan rallies, retreats and conferences.

At the last count, membership totalled approximately 500 girls. There are 17 Junior Branches (7-14 years of age) and 9 Senior Branches (14-21 years of age.) Of these, 9 branches are in Manhattan, 10 in the Bronx, 3 on Staten Island, 1 in Westchester and the balance in the upper part of the diocese. There are also 9 organized sponsor groups.

G.F.S. attempts to clarify a question which may be in the readers minds, as it seems to be in the minds of some clergy, regarding the age of the G.F.S. membership. When young members reach the age of 21, they are then to be considered part of the women's work of the church, namely, the Woman's Auxiliary. If the older members wish to continue meeting they are invited to do so as a sponsor group in an alumnae capacity. Actually, Juniors make up the greater percentage of the membership. The Seniors require a co-ed situation in which to be happy. Unless they have grown up in a G.F.S. branch, it is difficult to interest them in organizing as teen-agers. Rather, the Juniors are taken where they are found and led on to become the Seniors of tomorrow.

G.F.S. has a four phase program of worship, service, creative activities, and recreation. Each branch meeting is either opened or closed with prayers, the singing of a hymn or two, sometimes silent prayer, the reading of the Collect for the Day and prayers from the Calendar of Prayer for Missions. In each branch, there are periodic corporate celebrations of the Holy Communion and once a year an Admission Service for new members is held in the parish church. Each member is required at least to memorize the G.F.S. Prayer before being admitted as a member. A retreat is being planned for the leaders and alumnae and another for the teenagers, sometime in the Spring. G.F.S. members serve the church in many ways. In the parish the girls have formed Junior Choirs, mailed the parish bulletin, kept the prayer books and hymnals in repair, served at parish suppers, conducted booths at parish bazaars and assisted in many other tasks. Even the small ones play their part in the parish family.

Each year the Juniors meet at the Cathedral for a Spring Rally. This past season, approximately 150 girls met for an "African Safari", the culminating point following a 2 months study of their annual Mission Object, that being the church's work in Liberia. After a service in St. James' Chapel, conducted by the Rev. Donald S. Cheetham, Rector of St. Alban's Church, S. I. during which the girls presented their mission offerings, they dressed in their self-made African costumes; sat on the floor of Synod House for a box luncheon and were served cokes and cookies made of products grown in Africa. These had been prepared by the girls at their branch meetings. The girls had expressed a desire to meet a "real, live missionary" so Mrs. Seth Edwards, wife of the Principal of Cuttington College who happened to be studying in New York that season, was chosen to be "it." The girls played African games and sang African songs. They learned a bit of the Frank Laubach method of teaching reading to the illiterate and then as a final activity, each branch presented an original rhythm dance based on authentic Liberian drum beats, to

Preserving New York's Landmarks for 104 Years

The churches, buildings and monuments which reflect New York's 300-year history do not withstand the rigors of time and weather without the aid of man.

And to many of these, such aid has come in the form of repair and maintenance by Nicholson & Galloway, Inc., specialists in roofing and waterproofing for 103 years.

The famous structures on which we have worked include the Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Tower, Grant's Tomb, the Stock Exchange, Wanamaker's, Trinity Church, the Pierpont Morgan Library, the Astor Hotel, Garden City Cathedral and St. Marks-In-The-Bouwerie.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

FOR a quarter century, until his return a few years ago to his beloved Virginia, there walked in this Diocese a man who, first as rector of Grace Church and later as professor in the Union Theological Seminary, did much to help men and women, young people, girls and boys, and little children "in such wise hear" the holy Scriptures that those writings took on meaning and significance for their lives.

Walter Russell Bowie wrote many of his books during the Grace Church years, and as I reread those books today, they re-create the gentle though sturdy winsomeness that is so characteristic of those who know Jesus. In his foreword to The Story of the Bible (Nashville. Abingdon-Cokesbury, 1934. $2.95) Dr. Bowie writes:

"What I have tried to do is to tell the Bible story in such a way that mature and intelligent people will feel its fascination and yet at the same time reproduce its incomparable pictures of human life in language simple enough for every child to follow and to grasp . . . Not everything which is included in the Bible is included in this book . . . (It) is not a paraphrase of the Bible, but it is the story of the Bible . . . It is an effort to present in its high vividness the mighty pageant of the life which moves through the Bible from its earliest to its latest days; the pageant of the soul of man in its ascending quest for God . . . The one thing which makes a story of the Bible true is that the long procession of its human figures should seem to culminate in 'the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ' ".

The Story of the Bible is no commonplace popularization; rather, it combines the flavor of the Bible itself with the understanding of the competent scholar. Dr. Bowie was one of the distinguished group who prepared the new Revised Standard Version of the Bible.

These same qualities — biblical flavor, impeccable scholarship, together with reasonable simplicity dominated by a warm love of subject, are characteristic of Dr. Bowie's other Bible books of which I would mention especially The Story of Jesus for Young People (New York. Scribner's, 1937. $2.50), The Bible Story for Boys and Girls I Old Testament ($3.50) II New Testament ($2.50) (Nashville. Abingdon-Cokesbury, 1951).

These books are all well designed and printed with good illustrations, both in black and white and color. Among the illustrators are Robert Lawson and C. B. Falls. The latter illustrated a slim little book which I long have treasured: When Jesus was Born, the Story of Christmas for Little Children retold by Walter Russell Bowie. The edition before me was set by hand in Goudy Antique by Arthur W. Rushmore at the Golden Hind Press in Madison, N. J., and published by Harper Bros. in 1928. My copy, signed by both Mr. Rushmore and Dr. Bowie, for many years figured in our family Christmas Customs.

When the children were very young, it always was our practice on Christmas Eve to gather after dinner and read a Christmas story followed by the Christmas Gospel itself, often using the version in The Christ Child illustrated by Maud and Miska Petersham (New York. Doubleday).

FAMILIES which follow similar Christmas customs always are on the lookout for suitable Christmas stories for the first part of the ceremony. Such a new book has just reached me: The Littlest Christmas Tree by Flora Strousse, illustrated by Donald E. Cooke (New York. Morehouse Gorham, 1953. $1.25). This is a slim 24-page book which can easily be read aloud in a very few minutes. When I first read it, it seemed to me to have something of the flavor of the more traditional Christmas legends.

THE reading of Dr. Bowie's books inevitably will lead the reader to the Bible itself, and such reading will be more understanding and the richer for the preparation given by Dr. Bowie. At this stage a good companion volume to the Bible would be The Holy Scriptures by Robert C. Dentan (Greenwich. Seabury Press, $2.50). Any of these books including the Bible itself would make wonderful gifts at Christmas. And "grant that we may read . . . and inwardly digest holy Scriptures".

God in society — optional or essential?

The Optional God

By

STEPHEN F. BAYNE, Jr.
Bishop of Olympia

Modern secularism is here defined as a state neither denying God nor taking Him into serious account. The result is a society of the Optional God, condoning and commending a faith that it ignores in its own organization.

Bishop Bayne discusses and analyzes this "optionalism" in four different areas of American life: political, educational, vocational and personal. The conclusion is a positive statement of the unity of all creation and the continuity of the Gospel with it.

The Friendly Girls

the accompaniment of their home-made rattles and drums. Certainly each child went home with a better understanding and greater sympathy for the mission work in Liberia.

The Seniors had requested a "Charm School" for their annual meeting. The beauty editors of Charm Magazine were invited as speakers. Calvary Church, New York City offered its parish hall for the meeting and served a delicious turkey luncheon. 90 girls registered to attend. That day it rained. 17 girls appeared. Such is the unpredictable teen-age female.

G.F.S. is very happy to have received so much recognition and support by the Woman's Auxiliary. Realizing that G.F.S. girls represent the future W.A., in several parishes the G.F.S. receives its financial backing from the W.A. In the diocesan organization, they now have representation on the W.A. Board and the W.A. in turn has the same on the G.F.S. Board.

This year, several W.A. branches provided scholarships for girls to attend camp. This year there will be launched a new program of service whereby the girls take on some of the work of the Supply Department of the W.A. G.F.S. leaders made their first appearance as a body at the W.A. Diocesan Meeting on October 27, 1953 when they acted as hostesses. The untiring work of G.F.S. leaders in preparing and conducting weekly meetings for anywhere from 10 to 30 little girls is one phase of women's work in the church which often goes unnoticed and with little thanks.

In addition to a 9 months parish program, there is conducted an 8 week summer camp at Tuxedo, N. Y. A full camp program is carried on under the leadership of a trained camp director, a chaplain, and a staff of young women. This past season Mr. Philip Nordeck was full-time resident chaplain, and had the assistance of neighboring priests for a weekly celebration of the Holy Communion. This past season, the camp which accommodates 75 girls for every two week period, was only half filled. This startling fact calls for a strict re-evaluation of the G.F.S. public relations program, particularly along lines of developing clergy and parish interest. Then, too, it may be that rates will have to be adjusted so that more girls will be able to attend. A work camp of teen-age boys and girls to lend us a hand in getting the camp site in order during their Easter holidays from school, is in the process of organization.

In February, the girls will take the lead in conducting a World Day of Prayer similar to that held by the Protestant women of all countries. This activity grew out of the efforts made by the members of St. Alban's Church, S. I. when two years ago they invited all of the community children to this service. 200 children including Girls and Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Brownies, Camp Fire Girls and other youth groups had their first experience in community worship. Needless to say, their eyes, as well as those of some adults, were opened in delighted amazement.

For G.F.S. leaders, there will be a weekend retreat in the Spring and a 3 day Leadership Training Conference late in the Summer.

All this and many more details make up the busy program of the G.F.S. in this diocese. It is hoped it will continue to grow in numbers and service as the months roll by. In the past week alone, 4 parishes have requested assistance in starting a branch. Surely this is good work. To it, leaders, members and alumnae give of themselves freely in this manner, to help in the spread of God's kingdom.

It Can Be Done!

As a typical example of what can be done when the clergy, solidly backed by the Vestry or Board of Advisors, puts on a really effective Every Member Canvass, is the result achieved by the Rev. Mr. William Clague, of Christ Church, Patterson, and Holy Trinity, Pawling, New York.

Mr. Clague, who was ordained a deacon in May of 1953, reported to his two assigned churches in July of that year. By the end of his first six weeks he had been able to correct and bring up to date the church records of Christ Church, Patterson. This is an absolute pre-requisite for any Every Member Canvass. He then called the Department of Promotion and asked for help in properly training and informing his selected canvassers of the problems they would face as they went out to seek the support of the church community. At this training session both the budget and typical questions that the canvassers would probably be asked were discussed. This was an open meeting with everyone given ample opportunity to express themselves.

On the Sunday following this meeting, which was designated "Loyalty Sunday," the canvass for the Patterson church was held. By the middle of October Mr. Clague was able to report that they had not only secured the amount they had set as their goal, but that they had almost doubled their previous budget.

In addition to this handsome achievement they had over-subscribed their missionary quota by over one hundred dollars.

Just to prove that this wonderful

Those Who Serve

MANY LADIES in the churches of this Diocese do not realize how much enjoyment and satisfaction they can have by serving on one or more of the numerous volunteer committees that further the helpful work of the Youth Consultation Service", Mrs. Samuel J. Slate, Volunteer Chairman, told us in an interview last week in her office at YCS central headquarters at 27 West Twenty-fifth Street, Manhattan.

"Although our own professional staff of social workers handle the principal care of our young clients," she said, "we have ten regular volunteer committees made up of ladies from many different parishes and without whose help we would not be able to effectively administer and increase the number of cases referred to us."

Some volunteers like working on committees that bring them in contact with other people where they may make new friends and acquaintances and broaden their horizons while others only wish to handle jobs for which they are especially qualified, by themselves. Each one finds stimulating and rewarding activity in giving part of her time towards serving the less fortunate who are sent to this Episcopal charity from perhaps your own parish, or school, or from private or public organizations.

Mrs. Slate said, "One of our very important committees is the Stuyvesant Square Thrift Shop where volunteers help solicit rummage and serve in a sales capacity on Tuesdays under the direction of Mrs. Roland F. Elliman. Their work brings several thousands of dollars toward our budget each year. The Membership and Appeals Committee, besides soliciting funds by mail and phone, concerns itself with the vital task of contacting local par-

The Bishop's Message

THERE is something solemn and inspiring about the beginning of another year. It gives us a fresh start. It brings us another opportunity. It offers us a new page on which we may write the record as we will. Whether Nineteen Hundred and Fifty-Four is to be just another year for us, or whether it is to be a period of spiritual progress and advancement depends in some measure on ourselves. For it is we who give character to the passing years, not they that determine us. The challenges, the joys, the strife and anguish — this is the raw stuff out of which life is made. What makes the year significant is not these experiences of life in themselves but the spirit in which we meet them. If we face these outward events with faith in God then selflessness and service to our fellow men will come naturally and whatever the year brings can be made meaningful, and the days ahead will be a time of spiritual enrichment. But much will depend upon the trust that we place in God, and on the constancy of prayer for that will keep our hope alive.

The only faith sufficient for whatever the future holds in store for us is complete trust in God. If we put our hope and confidence in Him, and never cease to pray, we shall find that God will give us strength and courage to meet bravely and calmly the issues of each day, and by His grace overcome the difficulties and be victorious. The prophet Isaiah declared that "they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint." May we trust in God and wait upon this new year and strive to do His will, and what we cannot do ourselves commit in faith to Him. The sure source of strength, steadfastness, and endurance is faith in God and dedication to the doing of His will. May each one of us say in his heart the words suggested by Dean Matthews, "It all depends on me, and I depend on God."

The beginning of another year calls to remembrance Louise Haskin's striking poem:

"I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year:
'Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown.'
And he replied:
'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God.
That shall be to you better than a light and safer than a known way.'"

G.F.S. Marks Its 70th Anniversary.

On Saturday, December 5, over 500 members of the Girls' Friendly Society gathered in the Cathedral Church for a Service of Thanksgiving at which Evensong was sung by the Cathedral Choir. This service marked the founding of the G.F.S. in the Diocese of New York. Mr. Philip Nordeck, Chaplain of the G.F.S. and Master of Religious Studies at the Choir School, read the First Lesson and the Rev. Edward C. Russell, Rector of St. Ann's Church, Morrisania, read the Second Lesson. Clergy of the parishes where the G.F.S. is currently active participated in the procession; the Rev. Donald S. Cheetham acting as crucifier. The Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., S.T.D., Bishop of N. Y., conducted the service and gave the address. The Bishop emphasized the worship and service phases of the G.S.F. program, enumerating the missionary projects of the organization and commending the members on their work in the promotion of better international relations. The Bishop also traced the development of the organization from its inception in England, under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Townsend, to the first branch in the United States at St. Ann's Church, Lowell, Mass. and then to 1883 when the first branch was established in this Diocese at St. Ann's Church, Morrisania. Finally, Bishop Donegan encouraged the participation of the girls by having Paula Abel, Junior Member of St. Luke's Church, Convent Ave., recite the G.F.S. motto —"Bear Ye One Another's Burdens"— from the chancel steps and by inviting delegates from two new branches, St. Martin's, Manhattan, and St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie, Manhattan, to receive their charters from the pulpit.

The Bishop delivers two new G.F.S. Charters in the Pulpit. One to (l) Marilyn Biro, St. Marks-in-the-Bouwerie, senior branch; one to (r) Oona Draggan, St. Martin's, junior branch.

Two by two, the girls brought up the offering.

After the service, some 200 alumnae adjourned to the Cathedral House for tea, at which the following members of the Diocesan G.F.S. Board poured: Miss Dorothy Cramer, All Angels, Manhattan; Miss Doris Dymock, Epiphany, Manhattan; Miss Hazel Kirchmann, St. Stephen's, Woodlawn; Mrs. Gilbert Hughes, Ascension, Manhattan; Mrs. H. J. Wilkins, Jr., St. George's, Newburgh. Arrangements for the tea were made by Mrs. Nicholas Tatasciore of Flushing, L. I., former member of St. Anne's, Staten Island G.F.S. Branch, and assisted by Mrs. George Diering, St. Peter's, Westchester, and Miss Ruth Dehn, Holy Nativity, Bronx.

While the alumnae attended the tea, 250 junior and teen-age members enjoyed a birthday party in the Undercroft of Synod Hall. As the young presidents of each parish branch looked on, Bishop Donegan cut the birthday cake. The group then sang the traditional, "Happy Birthday Song" and launched into a lively program of games, songs and dances under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fox of Arlington, Va. After the final dance, the "Bunny Hop", the girls went to the refreshment counter where cake, ice cream and punch were served. Mrs. Alberta Draggan, St. Martin's, Manhattan; Mrs. Hilda Walker, St. Luke's, Convent Ave; Deaconess Lydia Ramsay, St. Mark's, Manhattan, and Miss Elsie Mead acted as hostesses.

The plans for the anniversary celebration had been made by Miss Jean Pflomm, Diocesan President; Mrs. George Diering, Diocesan Treasurer, and Miss Thelma Caruso, Field Consultant.

The paper festoons, the streamers and the balloons have all been taken down and put away. The 70th birthday party is over. Now we are looking forward to the 75th anniversary in 1958 with a fervent prayer for growth in membership, service to the church and expansion of God's kingdom through our work and worship.

Church School Curriculum Conferences

THE present Rector of Trinity Church, New York, the Rev. John Heuss, D.D., now Chairman of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education, is reported to have said (while he was serving as Director of the Department of Christian Education of the National Council) that if the devil had attempted to create confusion regarding the curriculum of the Sunday School he couldn't have done a more successful job than has been done by the Episcopal Church! The results of the confusion are everywhere evident, and it is particularly rampant among the Superintendents and Teachers in the Sunday Schools.

A New Training Course For Leaders Of Woman's Auxiliary

THE middle of January will see the beginning of a training course for leaders of the Woman's Auxiliary. Originating at last June's Diocesan Conference, the course is planned to meet requests made there. It will give opportunity for new parish officers and others to learn more about the Church and its work, the Woman's Auxiliary and its work, and their own duties. The responsibility of the parishes and the Woman's Auxiliary for the General Church program, the meaning of familiar terms such as "quota", the scope of the Departments of the Auxiliary, as well as practical skills in conducting meetings, and making a speech, were included in the instructions to the planning committee.

Appointed last June by the Diocesan Board, the committee in charge consists of Mmes. Francis Sydney Bancroft, George W. Barrett, Ogden E. Bowman, Arthur J. Simpson, Robert A. West and William E. Leidt, Chairman. The Committee has been fortunate in securing top leaders of the Church to give the course which will be held on five successive Mondays beginning January 18. Among those who have agreed to teach are the Rev. Canon C. Rankin Barnes, D.D., Secretary of the National Council; Mr. James E. Whitney, Assistant Treasurer of the National Council; Mrs. Arthur M. Sherman, Executive Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary; Mr. Theodor Oxholm, Assistant Treasurer, Diocese of New York; the Rev. John T. Mason, Vicar of the Church of St. Edward the Martyr; Miss Maude Cutler, Associate Director of Windham House; officers of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese as follows: Mrs. Arthur J. Simpson, President; Mrs. John H. Michaeli, Treasurer; Mrs. Harold E. Pim, United Thank Offering Treasurer; Mrs. Walker DeWaters, Christian Social Relations; Mrs. Peter Oliver, Devotional Life; Mrs. James B. Godwin, Education; Mrs. George W. Barrett, Missions Promotion; Mrs. Valentine W. Gerrish, Supply; and others to be announced.

Each session will either meet at, or visit a place significant for the program of the day which will begin at 10:30 and close at 2:30. The group will visit the Church Missions House, Diocesan House, Windham House, and the Church of St. Edward the Martyr.

The first Leadership Training Course will be limited in membership to twenty-five women chosen from all parts of the Diocese. It is hoped that each member will be able to help in spreading the knowledge and skill which she has acquired so that the work of the Auxiliary and the Church may go forward with enthusiasm and intelligence.

Intensive Week-ends

ONE of the most important tasks now facing the Department of Christian Education in the Diocese is the task of interpreting to both the clergy and laity the full extent of the scope involved in the Church's educational task. Where the clergy are concerned, this is being attempted in the Parish Consultations being conducted by the Director of the Department in every Parish and Mission this year; this is also the chief topic of any address that is given when the clergy are gathered together.

Where the present leaders of the Parish are concerned, and particularly Sunday School teachers, the task is a much slower one, being attempted now through teacher meetings being conducted in every possible parish where such meetings can be arranged. This process is slow because of the comparatively few evenings which can be made available for such meetings. As the Leadership Training Division begins to develop its plans, this task of interpretation to teachers will be one of its primary concerns.

But over and above the clergy and the present leaders in the Parishes, there is still the large bulk of membership of the Church which needs to be reached with a deeper understanding of the Church's teaching task. Primarily this work can be done in Parishes when opportunity is given to preach to the Sunday morning congregation, but, again, this opportunity is limited. This over-all interpretation can only be done by creating a concerned, representative group of "key people" in as many parishes as possible and trusting them to carry on this interpretation among their fellow parishioners.

To this end the Department is promoting "Intensive Week-end Conferences" in co-operation with the Department of Christian Education of the National Council. These conferences intend to bring together, from Friday afternoon until Sunday afternoon, five key people from four or five parishes to involve them in a living experience of the purpose and responsibility of their Parish. Information is now going to clergy as to the nature and purpose of Intensive Week-end Conferences with a request that those parishes which are interested in participating should indicate their interest.

Two Intensive Week-ends are scheduled for the spring of 1954, more will be arranged if there is sufficient interest shown by the clergy and the parishes. Both conferences will be held at Wainwright House, Rye, N .Y. and will be conducted by leadership made available to the Department by the National Council. The first conference will open on March 5th and continue into the afternoon of March 7th. The second will open on April 2nd and close on April 4th. Clergy and laity who might be interested in participating in these conferences are asked to indicate their interest to the Director.

Each conference will be preceded by the meeting of the Rectors of those parishes whose laity are to be involved; each conference will be followed by special meetings in the parishes to assist these lay leaders in implementing the insights they received at the conference. The recent National Coun cil publication, "A Parish Workshop in Christian Education" will be a chief instrument in the meetings which follow the Intensive Week-ends, as will the newest book in the Church's Teaching Series, "The Christian Gospel and the Parish Church" by Kean. (Seabury Press).

$114 came from the Estate of Mrs. Cranston, widow of the Rev. George E. The Rev. Sydney R. Olorenshaw, on leave of absence, for medical treatment, from his parish in Chicago, is acting as assistant to the Rector for a few months.

A Pin Oak tree has been planted in the grounds, in memory of Richard Charles Clover by his parents, Mr. & Mrs. Oran L. Clover.

Curriculum Conference

The Diocesan Director, having recently come from Canada where more than ninety percent of the Parishes all use the same curriculum, sees the present confusion as an important challenge which the Diocesan Department must face.

To assist the clergy, superintendents and teachers to see their way through the present chaos, the Department is planning to conduct CURRICULUM CONFERENCES in each Convocation during May and June 1954. These conferences, if supported by the Diocese this year, will continue as a part of the Department's plan as long as there is need.

The conferences will take place either on Saturday or Sunday in each Convocation, and dates have already been suggested for the approval of each Dean of Convocation. It is hoped that the next issue of the BULLETIN will contain the announcement of the specific dates and places for each of the conferences. The purpose of the conferences will be twofold: to display the various types and items of curriculum material which are suggested by the major publishing houses and departments which are making material available, and to suggest to clergy and lay leaders a standard by which these matrials should be evaluated.

Special promotion literature on these conferences will be prepared for broadcast through the Diocese in February, and every possible means will be used to make these conferences of practical value to the parishes.

SAINT ANDREW'S, Clason Point, where the Rev. Albert G. R. Mason is Vicar, had its second Episcopal visit of the current year on the 4th of October when the Suffragan Bishop administered the Sacramental Rite of Holy Confirmation to a class of nine. High point of the day was the solemn blessing of several recently acquired memorials and gifts including a pair of beautiful mahogany Pavement Lights; and Aumbry and Sanctuary Lamp given in honor of the Vicar on the occasion of his Ordination to the Priesthood; a new bell; and a set of festival altar linens. The exterior of the Church building has recently been resurfaced and the remodeling of the belfry is now in progress. On the First Sunday in Advent, being the Sunday nearest to Saint Andrew's Day, the Patronal Festival was celebrated with Choral Eucharist at 8 o'clock followed by a parish breakfast. Father Mason includes in his regular weekly schedule a mid-week Eucharist at 9:30 on Thursdays followed by a Service of Healing and administration of the Sacrament of Holy Unction.

The Episcopal Men of the Bronx held their annual Evensong at SAINT record was not an isolated instance where time and circumstances combined to make what is sometimes called "a lucky break," Mr. Clague and his Holy Trinity, Pawling, congregation turned right around and in November did the very same thing! They almost doubled their previous year's budget!

In this canvass, too, the Department of Promotion helped with proper canvass training techniques.

The success which Mr. Clague and both his congregations have enjoyed is exceptional only in that they have both wholeheartedly accepted the idea that the churches' financial problems can best be solved by sending out trained laymen and trained laywomen who are capable of fully explaining their local church problems to those communicants whose responsibility it is to see that they are solved.

The EMC, practically without exception, will either solve or materially improve any church financial difficulty. The EMC is the most flexible method of church fund raising now widely used.

All churches of this Diocese are urged to carefully consider the EMC as a possible means to help themselves solve their own financial problems.

It is a flat fact that if the churches' several financial problems are put to the men and women of the individual congregations in a reasonable and understandable manner they will always respond to the best of the individual ability.

Proper church financing is more a matter of Christian responsibility than anything else. Once this message is properly put before the individual members of the congregations through the EMC the people will never fail their church or their Christian responsibilities.

The church needs its people. The people need their church. These two factors will never be separated.

AT THE 9:30 SERVICE one Sunday this fall, in the course of reading the Bishops' Pastoral Letter, just as I reached the phrase "the faith of our fathers," from a chapel on the opposite side of the ambulatory came the words of the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers." This inspiring coincidence occurred because there were two parallel choral Eucharists going on. The reason for this unusual procedure was that the Church School of the Heavenly Rest, along with two clergy from the parish, were making their annual visitation to the Cathedral. It took the form of a corporate Communion, followed by a pilgrimage from St. James' Chapel, where the service was held, to St. Hubert's Bay at the west end of the nave, where I was privileged to explain to our visitors the medallions and cusps in the "sports" window.

THIS VISITATION from a parish represents a fine symbol of what should be the relationship of all our people in the Diocese and the Cathedral. All of you have two churches — first and foremost, your parish church for which you have direct responsibility; and your Cathedral church, for which others are responsible — for the benefit of all the people of our Diocese.

NOT ONE CENT of financial support comes to the Cathedral from the Diocese or from any of the parishes; but to maintain our witness and program at the mother church we do rely on your prayers and your interest. And we are much heartened when a parish group comes here to pray or to learn. Many of the parishes provide one tea a year after Evensong and those coming to provide this hospitality worship with us at Evensong preceding the tea. But we would be glad of any other opportunities to link the life of the Cathedral to the life of the parishes. We would be more than happy to cooperate with any plan that may occur to any of our clergy or their people. An annual visitation and pilgrimage by a church school or a tour of the Cathedral by a young people's group, or individual visits — are all welcome. If you will let us know in advance of your intention to come we will help arrange as rewarding an event as we can. We would always like to have some service of worship connected with a visitation, and where possible we would like to provide some simple form of hospitality in Cathedral House.

THERE ARE SO MANY beautiful and inspiring things in the Cathedral that we would prefer to focus such visits on a particular bay or chapel, approached by way of a pilgrimage. However, where a substantial portion of the group have never seen the Cathedral before, we are very glad to arrange over-all tours. In either case, we believe that such a plan can bring educational and spiritual benefit to the participants and a greater sense of fellowship between you and us.

STAINED GLASS AND CARVED STONE were an important method of visual education in the Middle Ages, when very few could read. But even today, with almost universal literacy in this country, it is still true that "a beautiful picture is worth a thousand words." There is no greater resource for visual education as to the things of the spirit—and indeed as to the principal worthwhile achievements of men of high purpose in every field of endeavor — than those to be found in our Cathedral Church. We are eager to have these rich artistic treasures speak to the people of our time to provide vivid images for their minds and to stir their souls and thus heighten their response to the judgment and grace of God in their lives.

BUT THE CATHEDRAL CHURCH is not limited, in its possible influence to the faithful. Should any of you be seeking to bring some one outside of the Church into the Church (and all of you should be) one of the most effective things that you can do, in most cases, would be to bring them to the Cathedral Church for a tour, that they may see the majesty and glory of our holy religion set forth in a way which will increase their sensitivity to religion. Glass and stone can be doors to things of the spirit. They can speak in bold terms of the continuity and integrity of the Great Tradition, which is the Christian heritage of our common life. We know it for a fact that over the years many a person has come to Christian conviction and commitment through the experience of coming into this holy place. Many more could have this experience if the people in our parishes — clergy and lay evangelists as well — would utilize this resource for conditioning the minds and the hearts of seekers to take the step by which God may add them to the blessed company of all faithful people.

May God bless you all in your endeavors for Him throughout the New Year!

Good, hard work by the men of the parish restored water to the Rectory of the CHURCH OF THE HOLY COMMUNION, Lake Mahopac, when their water line failed. A back-breaking week saw a new trench dug across church property, and the Vicar's family was able to return to the Rectory with only a short absence. A special offering at the Thanksgiving Day Eucharist helped to defray the cost of that part of the work the members of the parish were unable to do by themselves.

A new white Chasuble, stole and Maniple, on which the work was done by Mrs. Norman Beimgraben, was presented to the Reverend Kenneth Drescher, Vicar of the CHAPEL OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Granite Springs, at a reception given by the ladies of the chapel on Sunday, November 22nd.

The manner in which the Reverend Jack Sharkey, of ZION CHURCH, Wappinger Falls, headlined a Vestry meeting which voted to install new heat in the Undercroft, to redecorate the kitchen and bath-rooms in the Rectory, and to accept a proposed budget $3,000 greater than for 1953, is indicative of a just and proper pride. The headline read: "What the Vestry did in an hour and a half's meeting"!!!

"Clerical help of all kinds right in our Central Office on Twenty-Fifth Street is always needed," Mrs. Slate continued, "and every type of work is done from typing, filing, writing of notices, mailings, to library cataloging and care. Our House Committee has charge of keeping the offices attractive, sometimes acting as hostesses, and caring for the Chapel and alter linens.

"Periodic, yet nevertheless urgently needed, help is provided by the committees on Shopping Service, Motor Corps and the 'Emergency Closet'. At certain times during the year, especially Christmas and birthdays, shopping service volunteers select and wrap a few small gifts helpful in patient therapy. Our Motor Corps is made up of car owners whose names are listed for occasional call to transport patients to clinics or to collect rummage for the Thrift Shop. Members of the Emergency Closet Committee collect and maintain complete wardrobes for the girls who at times may suddenly descend on us without even enough personal things to last over night", explained Mrs. Slate. In addition to the emergency closet, kept through the generosity of many women in our parishes, we have on hand always a good supply of beautifully made baby clothes from which we make layettes for any unmarried mothers who need them.

With the addition of committees on Benefits, Case Work Aids, and Publicity that completes the Youth Consultation Volunteer Organization, everyone can see the wide variety of talents, time, and effort available for volunteers. If you can give a little time, with interesting associations and work while doing so, phone CHelsea 2-2993 or call in person and ask for Mrs. Slate, Volunteer Chairman, or Miss Emily Anne Black, Case Work Consultant.

THEOLOGICAL Education is of vital importance to the Church, for nothing is more significant than the quality of the clergy. It is they who, through administration of the sacraments, teaching, preaching, and pastoral ministration, touch the lives of the men, women, boys and girls who make up our congregations. Therefore the training of the theological students, the clergy of tomorrow, must be of deep concern to every one.

The Third Sunday after the Epiphany, the Sunday nearest to the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul, January 24, 1954, has been designated as Theological Education Sunday. On that day offerings will be taken for the support of our Theological Seminaries. This great cause is commended to the generous and intelligent support of all our Church people.

IN the difficult years following the the American Revolution, the most discouraging period of its history, the Episcopal Church learned the hard lesson that its very life, to say nothing of its growth, would depend on a continuous supply of well trained and devoted clergy. To make certain that this need was met, the General Convention of 1817, under the leadership of Bishop White resolved:

> "That it is expedient to establish, for the better education of the candidates for Holy Orders in this Church, a General Theological Seminary, which may have the united support of the whole Church in these United States, and be under the superintendence and control of the General Convention".

The resolution further provided, "that this Seminary be located in the city of New York".

Out of this action of General Convention was born the General Theological Seminary — the first and still the only official Seminary of the whole Church. Classes were begun in 1819 in the buildings of Trinity Church, New York. Since 1825 the Seminary has occupied its own buildings in Chelsea Square, on a site given by Clement Clarke Moore, who was Professor of Hebrew and Greek, and famous as the author of The Night Before Christmas.

Today the dignified gothic buildings, and the grass, flowers, and trees of the Seminary grounds form one of the most attractive spots in lower Manhatan. The money to erect the buildings and to operate the Seminary has been supplied over the past century and a quarter by individuals or interested groups. The Seminary has never received financial aid from the funds of the general Church. As costs of maintaining and operating the Seminary continue to rise, it is vital that church people give increased support to the work of training the clergy who will one day serve in their parishes.

In recent years, the General Seminary, like the other Seminaries of the Church, has been in large measure dependent on the income from Theological Education Sunday, when congregations make their gifts for strengthening the work of the Seminaries. At present, approximately 3,000 of the Church's 8,000 parishes and missions participate in this special offering. It is urgent that the number be increased. In 1952, General received from this source $55,345 — a sum that was indispensable for maintaining standards and balancing the budget.

It costs the Seminary $1700 a year to provide for a student's maintenance and tuition. Of this amount the student himself pays approximately a third; while another third is supplied by income from endowment. For the rest, the Seminary must rely on yearly grants from several societies and foundations and on the support of laity throughout the Church. Gifts to endowment and generous offerings on Theological Education Sunday are essential if the Seminary is to meet the great responsibility entrusted to it.

Since its establishment, the General Seminary has always been, as its title and the terms of its foundation imply, a seminary general to the whole Church. Its dean and faculty are chosen by Trustees appointed by General Convention. Its students, some 220 in number, represent more than fifty dioceses of the Church, and its graduates are at work in every section of the country and in the foreign field. At General men of all schools of churchmanship work together in mutual fellowship and understanding.

The words which Bishop Hobart wrote in 1817, the year of the Seminary's founding, are no less true today: "Without a ministry, the Church cannot exist, and destitute of a learned as well as a pious ministry, she cannot flourish".

A Memorial Organ Fund has been inaugurated to modernize and enlarge the present organ, to include a new console.

Minimum gifts to be considered as memorials are $200.00.

A home supper was served. HOLY CROSS, Kingston, held a Bazaar and Turkey Supper on Dec. 9, while TRINITY CHURCH, Saugerties, sponsored a Cafeteria Supper and Bazaar on Dec. 3.

On December 8 at a regular meeting of the Department of Christian Social Relations of the Council of the Diocese, of which the Rev. Special emphasis was voiced in the discussion because of Senator McCarthy's call to the public to telegraph President Eisenhower asking the President to change our foreign policy. In support of The Bishop's approved stand on foreign policy, the Department of Christian Social Relations, in furtherance of this position, sent the following telegram to President Eisenhower:

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION

On Holy Innocents Day, December 28th, we remembered before God, in the context of the celebration of Christ's infancy, those countless other infants who innocently lost their lives because they were alive when He was born. These were not martyrs, as St. Stephen was; for martyrdom contains a voluntary laying down of one's life. These were little holy innocent ones who suddenly had their lives snatched away from them just because they happened to be around.

Would that this ancient historic event were the only instance of such tragedy, but innocent children have lost their lives down through the ages. We should always remember them in our prayers; prayers of apology to all the little ones who, from Herod's time to now, have been robbed of their only chance to live because sinful men have not yet learned to live together in peace and harmony.

There is, at the same time, another host of little holy innocent ones who through the ages and today, though they have not died as the result of evil actions of selfish men, have had to suffer and then live. These, in a sense, are the more to be pitied. Amongst this host should be numbered the children of broken homes to whom the term father or mother is often a mockery; children in our own homes who have on countless occasions suffered innocently because we were selfish; children who have lost faith in adulthood because of the way adults act on occasion. These are the more to be remembered, for they have suffered and still are suffering, and must live, probably to suffer again.

Let us resolve that throughout the new year we shall be extremely careful not to permit our selfishness to cause a little innocent one to suffer, by remembering the words of the same Jesus whose birthday we have so recently celebrated: "Whosoever shall cause one of these little ones that believe on me to stumble, it were better for him if a great millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea."

CHRIST CHURCH, Tarrytown, N. Y. had a very busy day on Sunday, November 29th. The day began with the Annual Advent Corporate Communion, sponsored by the Associate Vestry. The guest speaker at the Breakfast, which followed, was The Very Reverend James A. Pike, J.S.D., Dean of the Cathedral. At 8:00 p.m. in the evening, Bishop Donegan formally dedicated two additions to the furnishing of the Church, the new Sunday School Hall which was completed this summer and a new stained glass Baptistry Window which was given by Mrs. James L. Field and Mrs. William Brackett, in memory of their father and mother, Mr. & Mrs. Frank V. Millard and their sister, Mrs. Florence Cheesman.

TRINITY CHURCH, Mount Vernon, N. Y. is to be congratulated on their new monthly news bulletin, "Trinity Tidings". It is a ten page booklet and it improves with every issue.

CHRIST CHURCH, Bronxville, on Sunday, November 29th combined its Annual Advent Corporate Communion for men with its Every Member Canvass.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, White Plains, has inaugurated a program for beautifying their Church grounds, which were badly torn up with the erection of the new Parish Hall. They have begun with a Children's Garden and are now putting in other plantings. Acknowledgements were recently made in their Kalendar to Mrs. Albert Boutier, Mrs. Randall Bergmann, Miss Mary Gilmore, Mrs. Wallace Selleck and Mrs. Doris Whipple for generous gifts toward these projects.

The Rector, the Vestry and the men of CHRIST CHURCH, Yonkers, have been busy painting the ceilings, walls and trim of their Guild Hall. They plan to continue later in the kitchen and dining room of the Parish Hall.

The improvement program at SAINT JOHN'S CHURCH, Yonkers, is progressing nicely. The Rector, the Rev. Lemuel J. Winterbottom, recently announced that the Sanctuary has been enlarged and a permanent long Communion Rail installed.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH, Port Chester, has just completed a most successful Fair. The Rector, The Rev. Louis Howell, reports that a grand total of $3,004.00 was realized on the project. He stated that a great deal of the credit for this goes to the chairmen, Jerry Barton and Howard Vernay.

The City Is The Mission

III. Shifting Parishes

OUR parish is looking for a new location to move to. Our people have moved out of the neighborhood and we want to move the Church where it will be nearer to us." A few years ago this comment by clergy and lay leaders was all too common. And parishes did die or try to follow their congregations because their kind of people moved away.

Nowadays, thank God, the comment is seldom heard and fewer churches try the vain effort to follow their congregations as they move out from the inner city. The question more often heard now is "How can St. ————'s minister effectively to the diverse people who now live around us?"

Sometimes, a parish should die and give its remaining resources to establish a new work, or merge with a nearby parish to aid an existing work: in areas that are overchurched already and especially when there are too many Episcopal churches in the area.

But this is a last resort — not to be done unless there is very little chance to "be the church" in a neighborhood.

The neighborhood parish with the great proportion of its people living within one-half to one mile of the church (less in heavily populated sections) has the best possibility of being the strongest, most active, and has the best chance of survival. But if it is truly to be a neighborhood parish it must reflect in its membership the pattern of the population of the area. No religious club composed of middle and upper-class persons of English ancestry can be a neighborhood parish in modern urban America. The neighborhood parish must minister to both sexes and all age groups and every economic class as they are found in its own community. It must forsee, or observe quickly the population changes in its own area and adapt its program to meet them if it is to continue to be effective. Sometimes necessary program changes are delayed until too late because of clergy, vestry, or lay opposition; or because it is so busy in ministering to its own group now, that it cannot adapt to new conditions. Then later the parish finds that community change has passed by the church. The new residents go elsewhere, if at all, the old parishioners who live near are fewer in number, and the ones who have moved away come back only occasionally or go to other churches.

The parish situated in an area where one or two year residence is common must develop methods to get in touch with incoming persons more quickly; must do an intensive job of cultivating their interest, train them in the knowledge of our faith; and if possible bring them to Baptism, Confirmation, and the Holy Communion. They will move away but they will be replaced by others with whom the parish can start all over again. Ministering to a parade is difficult and not very rewarding to the individual parish, but the work is vital to the Episcopal Church.

The parish situated in an area into which persons of different economic, racial, or cultural groups are moving must make intensive efforts to attract these people. The parish must change with the neighborhood if it is to survive or at the least remain a healthy active parish.

Rather simple techniques exist to measure the extent to which any particular parish reflects the character of the neighborhood, and just where more intensive effort might be placed for more effective work.

THE MANHATTAN CONVOCATION

The Rev. James Morgan
The Rev. John H. Edwards
The Manhattan Correspondents

Cuthbert Petersen did not suspect anything until after the Choral Evensong was over at THE CHAPEL OF SAINT CORNELIUS THE CENTURION, Trinity Parish, Governors Island. For 24 years Mr. Petersen has served on Sundays as Verger of the Chapel, making the trip from his home in Englewood, New Jersey to do this service for the Church. During some of that time, while he lived in the neighborhood, he served as a Lay reader at SAINT JUDE'S CHAPEL, Saint Michael's Parish, West 99th Street. And his friends from Saint Jude's, the Choir of the Chapel and the Vicar, the Rev. Floarda Howard, were present to sing the Service on Governors Island on November 15th.

Cuthbert Petersen.

The Chapel was filled with members of the two congregations and afterwards there was a buffet supper for Mr. Petersen's friends. At that time, Chaplain Harry Campbell, who was among the prime movers of the entire program, presented Mr. Petersen with a gold Celtic cross as a token of the love and esteem in which he is held by all who know him. Deeply touched with all the affection and kindness around him, Mr. Petersen could only say that his motto had always been the verse from the Psalm: "I had rather be a doorkeeper in the House of the Lord than to dwell in the tents of the ungodly." The entire program was a worthy tribute for one whose life has been spent so willingly in the service of the Church.

Walter Koons, Vestryman of ALL ANGELS' CHURCH, addressed the people of the CHURCH OF SAINT MATTHEW AND SAINT TIMOTHY before the start of their annual Canvass . . . The Chapel Altar at the CHURCH OF THE RESURRECTION now will be equipped with a Tabernacle, the gift of Mrs. Charles Kapps in memory of her mother, Emilie Lindemann Ells . . . The young people of SAINT CHRISTOPHER'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, by means of their Sunday evening offerings have sent a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary to the Casa de San Miguel in Ponce, Puerto Rico and a pair of crystal cruets to Saint Augustine's Mission in Dallas, Texas . . . This is the time of year for Bazaars and Sales and many of the Parishes have had them — SAINT JOHN'S-IN-THE-VILLAGE, SAINT THOMAS CHAPEL, SAINT BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, SAINT GEORGE'S CHURCH and THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY, Inwood, among others . . . SAINT MARY'S, Manhattanville, celebrates its 130th Anniversary this year and looks forward with confidence to many more years of service . . . SAINT GEORGE'S CHURCH, again this year, will be host to a group of children from the Children's Center. There will be toys and games for the young guests provided for them by the members of the congregation . . . SAINT BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH recently dedicated a renovated organ with a special service of choral and organ music . . . ALL ANGELS' CHURCH makes a list of suggested giving for the use of the members of the Every Member Canvass teams. The list should shame most of us with what we manage to scrape together for the Church . . . THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY COMMUNION reports that on a recently held Hobby Show more than $150.00 in profit was realized . . . The series of lectures which the Rev. Dr. J. V. Langmead Casserley has been giving at SAINT JAMES CHURCH were so well received that an additional "extra" lecture had to be given to fill the demand . . . GRACE CHURCH, which is undergoing extensive repairs, has been chosen by a joint committee of the Municipal Art Society and the Society of Architectural Historians as one of seven structures in Manhattan which ought to be preserved at all costs . . . SAINT PAUL'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, celebrated the 187th Anniversary of its Dedication in October. At the principal service the anthem was "Jehovah Reigns" by William Tuckey, who was the first organist of the Chapel. It is believed that this anthem may have been sung at the first service at Saint Paul's Chapel on October 30th, 1766 . . . HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, Inwood, having done so well with one basketball team last year, this year has both Junior and Intermediate league teams . . . TRINITY CHURCH, Wall Street, continuing the dialogue sermons which were held in the Cathedral during the summer, planned for the Sundays in Advent to revive this old custom of the Christian Church.

Bard College Appoints Acting Chaplain

The Rev. W. Lever Bates, Rector of St. Paul's, Tivoli, has been appointed acting chaplain at Bard College for the Fall term. Formerly an officer in the Royal Navy and enrolled as a student at Bard College, Mr. Bates was ordained to the Episcopal ministry in 1951. As Chaplain his duties include the Sunday Evensong Services at the Bard College Chapel, mid-week Communion Services, student counseling and the sponsorship of the Canterbury Club and other Religious groups on the campus. President James H. Case, Jr. and a choir of 16 students have assisted the Chaplain in the Sunday Evensong Services. Special preachers including the Rev. Robert E. Terwilliger and the Rev. Edward N. West, of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, are planned during the course of the term. Chaplain Bates plans to continue his practice, as a student in Bard College, of having informal conversations with students in the College Coffee Shop.

Ship Models at Seaman's Church Institute

A wide range of ship models has been added recently to the collection of the Marine Museum of the Seamen's Church Institute of New York.

One of the most interesting models is among a group of eleven donated by Dr. Cornelius Horace Traeger. It is a Norwegian Koona-Sealer (or woman's boat) made entirely of sealskin, including the tiny, authentically costumed crew of five and a small, grey dog. Traditionally, four women work the oars and do the actual hunting;

The churches, buildings and monuments which reflect New York's 300-year history do not withstand the rigors of time and weather without the aid of man.

And to many of these, such aid has come in the form of repair and maintenance by Nicholson & Galloway, Inc., specialists in roofing and waterproofing for 103 years.

The famous structures on which we have worked include the Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Tower, Grant's Tomb, the Stock Exchange, Wanamaker's, Trinity Church, the Pierpont Morgan Library, the Astor Hotel, Garden City Cathedral and St. Marks-In-The-Bouwerie.

Bronx Convocation

MARGARET'S CHURCH, 156th Street, on the 8th of November. The details for the event were arranged by Ted Decker, Acting Chairman of the Laymen's Committee of the Bronx. The Rev. David B. Weden of Saint Margaret's officiated. The preacher was the Rev. R. A. Isaac, Rector of SAINT STEPHEN'S, Woodlawn, and Chaplain to the men's group. Refreshments were served in the Parish House after the service. The Eighth Annual Vestrymen's Dinner, sponsored by The Episcopal Men of the Bronx was held at Mayer's Parkway Restaurant on 233rd Street on the 2nd of December. The Venerable George F. Bratt, Archdeacon of New York, was the principal speaker. The Suffragan Bishop and the Rev. L. J. A. Lang, Dean of the Convocation of the Bronx, were among the honored guests. Over 100 men attended.

SAINT JAMES' CHURCH, Fordham, concluded their Centennial Octave on All Saints' Day. The Bishop of the Diocese celebrated the Holy Communion and dedicated the pledges and gifts which the faithful people of the parish had raised for the purpose of enlarging the Parish House. In the parish leaflet for All Saints' Day it was reported that pledges and gifts to the 100th Anniversary Parish House Fund amounted to $41,217.62.

THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY NATIVITY, 204th Street, held its Annual Parish Fair on the 12th and 13th of November. Miss Ruth Sager and Mr. Richard Marssdorf were Co-Chairmen. The Rev. Charles Buck, Rector, reports that the net proceeds were in excess of $2,200. November is a month of anniversaries for Holy Nativity. On the 25th the parish celebrated the 53rd anniversary of its founding with services at 7 and 10 o'clock, and on the 30th Father Buck celebrated the 9th Anniversary of his Ordination to the Sacred Priesthood.

CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale, held its Annual Bazaar (officially known as "Christ Church Harvest Festival") on Friday and Saturday the 20th and the 21st of November and apparently broke all previous records. Father Gerald V. Barry writing in the Christ Church Bulletin says, "More people worked at it, and more items were provided than ever before." The net profit was $4500, and many persons will be happy to note that there were no wheels, lotteries, "chances," or loaded dice!

The Rev. Roger Geffen, newly instituted Rector of the CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Wakefield, reports that the Every Member Canvass, the first that the parish has had in some years, has been most successful. The number of pledges obtained has been doubled, and the amount of money pledged this year is four times the amount pledged in any previous year. The parish has been acquiring some new vestments. Before the Midnight Eucharist on Christmas Eve, Father Geffen blessed a beautiful set of White Eucharistic Vestments recently obtained. The vestments were made by Jijnappel in 's Hertogenbosch (Bois le Duc).

On Saturday, November 14, the Congregation of ST. PETER'S, Westchester, gave a surprise party to Father Lang, in celebration of the 10th anniversary of his Rectorship of the Parish. The party took the form of a testimonial dinner, served by a caterer, in order that the whole parish might be guests for the occasion and not workers. It was followed by a dance fully participated in from those of "teen-age" to those in their eighties.

On behalf of the members of the Parish, the Senior Warden, G. Harry Belmont, presented Father Lang with a hand illuminated parchment scroll, with the following citation: "The People of St. Peter's Church, in the Village of Westchester, New York, on the occasion of the Tenth Anniversary of the Rectorship of the Reverend Leslie John Alden Lang, desire to express their deep and sincere appreciation of his Ministry among them. He has presented the Faith with persuasion; he has exalted the Worship of Almighty God in His Church; he has been zealous for the spiritual and material Welfare of this Parish and its People. They would on this occasion record their gratitude, their deep affection and the assurance of their Prayers and Good Wishes for the years that are to come." After the reading of the scroll, Mr. Douglas Davis, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, presented on behalf of the people a combination radio-television-record player, and a purse of money. Father Lang had served St. Peter's as an assistant Priest previous to his return as Rector, in 1943.

Father Thomas Brown, who is greatly missed at Saint Peter's, writes that he is settled in his work in Nassau. The Church, 100 years old, is most beautifully situated on top of a hill, overlooking the sea. His congregation has a few white people, but is predominately colored. The Parochial School is well attended. Address: Saint Ann's Rectory, Bahamas, B.W.I., Box 963.

by William E. Leidt

THE women of this Diocese, in connection with their School of Worship, recently participated in an historic event — The Liturgy for the Celebration of the Holy Eucharist and the Administration of Holy Communion as proposed by the Standing Liturgical Commission. This proposed revision was used at a single service in the Cathedral with the special and express permission of the Bishop. It was a sung Eucharist (A proposed spoken Eucharist used in the Cathedral Liturgical Forum on December 9th).

This may have been an historic event only because it was one of the earliest uses of a proposed new form of The Liturgy. Churchmen in middle life and older, today remember the great interest which accompanied the adoption of the present Prayer Book. They remember, too, the long years of labor which went into the task. Bayard H. Jones, professor of Church History and Liturgics at Sewanee, and vice chairman of the Liturgical Commission, in his Preface to Prayer Book Studies IV The Eucharistic Liturgy (New York. Church Pension Fund) writes:

"Accordingly, The General Convention of 1949 signalized the Fourth Centennial Year of the First Book of Common Prayer in English by authorizing the Liturgical Commission to publish its findings, in the form of a series of Prayer Book Studies.

"It must be emphasized that the liturgical forms presented to these Studies are not — and under our Constitution, cannot be — sanctioned for public use. They are submitted for free discussion. . . ."

But whatever the form of The Liturgy or any other public corporate worship the primary consideration is: Does it lead people — individual souls — men and women, boys and girls, youths and maidens — to God; does it help them better to fulfill their bounden duty, and service "to worship God in His Church?" The Liturgy exists solely to lead men to God and unless it does, has no worth — is not wor(th)ship.

Man's worship often is enriched by his knowledge and understanding of the forms used: whence did they come, why did they develop in the way they did, what doctrine is implied by the particular language used. The answers to these and a host of other questions add interest and understanding and insight to the individual's worship — but nothing to its essential character. Liturgists are often torn between the antiquarian and the student whose interest is said to be the "man in the pew". The former is concerned that present forms have a rich flavor of what was done by the Earliest Christians and goes back in an unbroken line; the latter discards all this and wants The Liturgy to be as fresh and colloquial as the morning paper. But the Liturgist who remembers the individual, you and me, for whom the worship is intended, finds a happy compromise in retaining relevant riches of tradition modified by the demands of contemporary life. The extent to which our present worship forms achieve the goal makes a fascinating study.

And it is an enterprise for which there is much easily available material. Prayer Book Studies IV The Eucharistic Liturgy is but one of a series of pamphlets issued by the Church Pension Fund for the Liturgical Commission. The others are:

I Baptism and Confirmation; II The Liturgical Lectionary; III The Order for the Ministration of the Sick; V The Litany

A reading of these pamphlets will lead to other material, and I would mention here these titles:

The Worship of the Church by Massey H. Shepherd, Jr. (Greenwich, Seabury Press. $2.50)

The Oxford American Prayer Book Commentary by Massey H. Shepherd, Jr. (New York, Oxford. $10)

Who Wrote the New Prayers in the Prayer Book by James A. Muller (Philadelphia, Church Historical Society)

The American Prayer Book by Edward L. Parsons and Bayard H. Jones (New York, Scribner's)

ONE more book needs mention, and then I'm done. Floyd van Keuren, for may years a priest of this Diocese but now retired, is the author of The Game of Living: a personal philosophy for our times (New York, Scribner. $2.50). Many, attracted to this book by its intriguing chapter titles — You, the Chief Player, The Cussedness of Inanimate Things, How It All Works, etc. — will stay with it for its sound down-to-earth common sense and practicality derived from Mr. van Keuren's rich pastoral experience which includes direction of a family case work agency and the diocesan commission on social service.

We acknowledge receipt of the following books:

Do You Want Inward Power? by John Heuss (Greenwich, Seabury Press. $2.25)

Man's Need and God's Action by Reuel L. Howe (Greenwich, Seabury Press. $2.50)

the fifth steers. When a seal is spotted, the dog leaps overboard and worries it onto an ice floe. Then the women debark and, with clubs, speedily dispatch the animal. This system lacks finesse, but seems practical, since shooting or spearing the seal would damage the pelt. According to Museum Curator Dick Greyble, it is the only model of its kind in the United States.

In sharp contrast to the rough-hewn Koona-Sealer is the slick perfection of the Ichang, a Chinese junk. On loan from J. B. Loucks, it represents one of the ten distinctive junk types, being one of those that sailed the upper Yangtze River, above the port of Ichang. Measuring a little over four feet in length and made entirely of bamboo, the intricate carving of its cabin follows a style popular with the rich Mandarin class. The model is fitted for sailing or for poling in the rapids.

A mystery ship is the seven foot, full rigged model of the Columbus Antwerpen, donated along with the Flying Cloud by W. R. Borden. Restoration work on her was the biggest job to date for Chris Svendsen, a veteran of years under sail, who has done invaluable work in the refitting of some of the damaged models acquired by the Museum. Chris cut the frayed rigging and removed her three masts, in order to repair and paint her deck. The masts were reset and the rigging completely replaced. The entire project was done in a small, roped off section in the Museum proper, so that visitors could watch the work in progress. Many and varied were the helpful hints and critical observations generously offered Chris by this new species of sidewalk superintendent. The Columbus Antwerpen is now fresh and new looking, but little is known about her aside from the fact that she is a Belgian frigate.

Since its opening on Maritime Sunday, May 24th, with a collection of 50 models, the Museum has been host to nearly 5,000 visitors. Its rapidly expanding collection now numbers 70 exhibits. Dick Greyble, Curator, expects that the size and range of the Museum's displays will continue to increase, with a number of new entries to be added in the near future.

The Marine Museum, which is located on the second floor of the Seamen's Church Institute of New York, the largest shore home in the world for merchant seamen of all faiths and nationalities, is open to the public 11 A.M. — 6 P.M. daily.

The Rosendale Workshop

A Successful Experiment in Christian Living and Work.

ONE Monday evening in August, five young people, three clergymen and their wives and one little boy sat down to their first supper together as members of a Christian family, in a bleak and run-down Parish Hall which was to be their home for twleve days of work, fellowship and prayer at All Saints' Church, Rosendale, New York. The Rosendale Workcamp, frankly an experimental project in living the Christian life and being useful to the Church, was jointly headed by the Rev. Robert C. W. Ward, Rector of St. John's Church, Cornwall, and the Rev. David T. P. Bradley, Rector of Christ Church, Yonkers. The Workcamp began on August 17, and closed on August 29. In that time the "group", as it came to be known, painted the outside trim and belfry of the little Episcopal Church of All Saints, put a set of back steps on the Parish Hall and started to cover some of the bare wood on that hall with a first coat of paint. A piece of work which the Priest-in-Charge in the area, the Rev. Charles H. Brieant, of Stone Ridge, N. Y., estimated would have cost some hundreds of dollars if done professionally. In addition to this primary work the young people and staff cooked their own meals, kept a stiff schedule of prayer and study, and visited the area to understand its life and the problems of the hard-pressed clergyman who serves the Episcopal Church there.

Tom Pike, Mrs. Bradley, and Ruth Cross have words on the Parish Hall porch.

The Reverend Robert Ward administers Holy Communion.

The Reverend David Bradley painting the Belfrey. Two girls on the ladder.

The young people of the group, Frederick Fox of Poughkeepsie, Joan Grady of Yonkers, Ruth Grass of Montgomery, Arthur Moore of Rye, and Thomas Pike of Hastings-on-Hudson, had found themselves drawn by the prospect of adventure in this group experiment, and paid for the privilege to attend — as did all the staff. The project did cost money — for food, insurance, movies and swimming in a nearby resort pool — but at the surprisingly low rate of less than $1.75 a day per person. So much assistance came from interested people in the Diocese of New York that a large portion of the original fee will be returned to both participants and donors.

The five young people of the project surprised themselves and the staff with the willingness they showed in setting to work and working hard; in arising at 5:45 a. m. for a daily Holy Communion; and in their proficiency and pride in conducting the services of Evening Prayer and Compline by themselves. The group also had to live patiently with privations that beset them all — the one lavatory, the communal sink, uncomfortable chairs and cots, close living quarters in their respective areas, and cold nights. The boys set tables, helped with the dishes and performed the daily chores involved in keeping the hall clean. The girls helped with the meals, served as an Alter Guild and also scraped, caulked, cleaned, painted (and cleaned brushes) along with the rest of the group. The clergy wives helped form the home atmosphere and planned excellent meals which kept everyone's morale high.

There was an astonishing degree of co-operation and goodwill during the whole period. For instance, the project had no "problems" arising out of the personalities of whose who came together; and inside of five days the Workcamp was a family unit in which, as one member put it, "we found we could trust one another." It was agreed, early in the life of the Workcamp, that the true end of the project would not be achieved merely by the completion of a work quota but rather the establishment of a true Christian family life. Such, under God, was achieved.

"The Laymen of The Church Can Do Something....."

Excerpts of the address given by The Right Reverend The Bishop of New York, at the Sixty-Seventh Annual dinner of the Church Club of New York at the Hotel Plaza, Wednesday, January 27, 1954 at 8:00 p.m.

"I am convinced that when a Bishop is given an opportunity to address a large gathering of leading laymen of his Diocese, he should address himself to matters about which the laymen of the Church can do something. Last year I spoke with you frankly about the deplorable political situation in the City, as a result of which crime and vice, slum running and general civic deterioration was going on virtually unchecked. I shall doubtless address myself to such themes again, for it is important that those of us who speak for the Church be very watchful as to whether righteousness is expressing itself in the public life of our communities.

"But at present we are watching with hopefulness the leadership being given by Mayor Wagner, and I feel it is right we should give him and his associates the benefit of our trust as he seeks to remedy these evils, until it should appear that this trust is in any way not jusitfied.

"But this year I want to talk about one fundamental aspect of the relationship of the Church to the community without which no amount of political housecleaning or administrative re-arrangement will serve to give us civic health, namely, the way in which the Church must get inside the life of the individuals and families who make up our city to elevate their purposes, to redeem them from sin and failure and to weld them together in bonds of the spirit.

Titus 3:5

SINCE 1766, Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, has been a witness to Anglican faith and practice in the heart of the Hudson Valley. The large and prospering city of Poughkeepsie, with its highly skilled technical industry, its rapidly growing population, its educational life focussed in Vassar College, has passed through many phases of development. Once it was the capital of the state, later a whaling port, a half-century ago, one of the main transportation centers of the country. In its first days, it was a small Dutch town and much of its early quality still remains.

One of the blessings, and problems, of Christ Church is its tremendous property. The parish possesses an entire city block. Rising dramatically at one corner is the great tower of its French Gothic structure. The church itself will hold some 700 persons. To this is added the parish house of twenty-four rooms including an auditorium, a small gymnasium, and school rooms for religious education. Attached to the church by a cloister is an Edwardian fourteen room mansion which was built as the rectory. These structures represent the days when the parish drew its constituents

"It would appear at first glance that all we need is more religion and the more religion we have the better the city will be. But in fact the matter is not that simple. For as the Church advances its program and develops its organization, meanwhile the community which it seeks to serve and redeem, undergoes constant alteration, and never has that been more true of our city than today. The fact is that the nature of the city and its make-up is radically changing and one does not need to be a sociologist to see it.

"The most obvious factor in a shifting scene is the widespread influx of American citizens from Puerto Rico who come here for educational, economic and health opportunities. An evidence of my interest and concern for this group is the fact that I am leaving for Puerto Rico tomorrow to make a study of missions in the island and to see the work of our Church there firsthand.

"I think that when people whose forebears had other origins complain about the influx of the Puerto Ricans they are shortsighted indeed about the history of this city. There were those of Anglo-Saxon and Dutch stock who felt much the same way about the great influx of Irish during the last century. The first Irish who came here were at a severe economic disadvantage; they lacked educational opportunities, and thus presented a supposed threat not unlike that which the arrival of the Puerto Ricans poses today. The same is true of the influx of Italians, Germans, and others. And yet the sons and grandsons of these latter groups have risen to positions of prominence, politically and culturely, and have made great contributions to the life of our great city.

"It is not for us to bemoan the rapidly changing character of the city of which this one rather conspicuous illustration reminds us. Our task as churchmen is to consider how adequately the Church is adapting itself to meet the challenges of the changed situation. This is a problem for all the churches, but it is one for our Church

BUILDERS FOR CHRIST

"BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" is the official designation of the Special Campaign for Capital Funds ordered by the General Convention of the Episcopal Church. The campaign is now under way and will culminate in a nation-wide Every Member Canvass next May.

At the meeting of General Convention in 1952 the following resolution was adopted: "That this General Convention authorize and direct the National Council to inaugurate and promote during the coming triennium a single campaign to meet the urgent capital requirements of the Church, and that the National Council determine and include the amount required for approved projects and direct the raising and expenditure of these funds."

The success or failure of the "Builders for Christ" Campaign will depend almost entirely on the spirit of cooperation with which every Rector and every congregation enters into the plans. The Diocesan Department of Promotion stands ready to give all possible assistance in order that every member of the Church may have full knowledge of the purpose of the campaign. As our people become well informed of the needs and come to recognize the urgent necessity for this undertaking I am sure they will respond generously.

After considering all the needs, the National Council has set an objective of $4,150,000 to be raised for urgently needed major repairs, equipment and new buildings for our Church institutions overseas and at home.

Two million dollars of the total figure will be designated for buildings on the properties of our eleven Church Divinity Schools; $1,225,000 for Overseas churches; and $800,000 for construction of churches and schools within the United States, particularly in emergency areas of rapid growth. Of the latter sum, $500,000 is to be allocated to the American Church Institute for Negroes for the building of Negro schools in the south. The balance of the amount will be required for promotion and campaign expenditures.

The National Council under mandate of General Convention has undertaken this task, and as loyal members of the Church we must assume our full responsibility and do our best to bring the campaign to a successful conclusion.

The objective will be achieved only as our people fully understand the reason for this endeavor. In order that everyone may have real knowledge as to why this campaign is necessary the clergy are asked to use the educational material prepared by National Council and to present the needs of our Divinity Schools from January 15th to February 15th; the requirements for Overseas, February 15th to March 15th; the needs at home, from March 15th to April 15th.

It will take the combined efforts of every parish, and mission, and every organization, to reach the goal. May God give us a ready will to work together with zeal and determination to provide the funds desperately needed by the Episcopal Church in its work throughout the world.

especially, for two reasons: one a disadvantage and the other an advantage.

"The disadvantage in this: people tend to think — even our own people — that the Episcopal Church is intended to minister to a special group: those of Anglo-Saxon stock who have better than average means and education. In regard to this apparent disadvantage, I would emphasize that this understanding of the Episcopal Church is simply not true.

"It is true, of course, that due to historical circumstances we have had in the past a heavily Anglo-Saxon constituency, and that, also due to historical circumstances, (namely the good luck that Anglo-Saxon families got here first and have had longer to make a go of it), the average of means and education among our people generally has been higher than in other churches. But this is merely a local fact.

"Our Church is part of a world-wide Communion which has its worship in a hundred languages, whose members belong to every economic level and from the very poorest and untutored to the richest and cultured, and in this country in more recent decades persons of every background are found in all our parishes. For this we are glad.

"No part of Christ's Church has any permanent mission if its ministry is to one particular group or class. So today neither in intent or in actuality is our Church the church of a people of particular origin or color or class. Where there are people of any kind to be ministered to there is where our Church belongs.

"But this doesn't mean the type of program, the type of approach, the type of ministry that is adequate to one historic situation or one group is adequate to another group in another historic situation. The age-old message which our Church holds before men for their enlightenment and their healing must necessarily be presented in a way in which it will most effectively reach those of our particular time in the particular places in which we are set. This is a challenge to us to hold no illusions, to hold no past practices beyond criticism. It is a challenge to put the practical advance of the Gospel ahead of sentiment. It is even a challenge to sacrifice much that is time-honored to the greater purpose of the advance of the Gospel for the salvation of men.

"I say that it is a challenge to all churches and especially to the Episcopal Church.

"First, because we are a world-wide communion, not an American sect. In recent decades the consciousness of American Episcopalians that they are part of world-wide Anglicanism has been much heightened. This fact will be dramatically demonstrated by the meeting of the Anglican Congress to take place in Minneapolis in August which will be attended by bishops, clergy and laity from all over the world.

"Second, we are able to minister to a wide variety of persons because we are an inclusive church. We are thoroughly Catholic — that is to say we have a historic continuity with the Church of the Apostles. We are Protestant in the best sense of that word: we encourage a critical, free spirit in those to whom we minister; we seek to encourage a direct relationship between man and God and a free relationship between man and man which is in accord with our democratic society which has attracted many people here from so many quarters of the globe.

Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, second speaker at the Church Club Dinner, discussed the work of chaplains in the armed forces, and said that the churches and the military services had a common interest in defeating communism.

JUVENILE DELIQUENCY

"In many areas the Episcopal Church in this city is responding in wonderful fashion to the problems of juvenile delinquency. One major cause is the insecurity and uncertainty of life that many young people feel today. This is aggravated, of course, where there is a breakdown of family support and understanding, where opportunities for participation in wholesome social activities are lacking, where bad housing and inadequate police supervision invite all sorts of vandalism and petty crime.

"It is gratifying to say that our churches are very realistic about this problem. I can tell you any number of stories about thrilling advances the Church had made against this problem in many places. In Harlem, for example, where the housing situation has been particularly bad, we have the wonderful example of our own St. Philip's Church, where under Father Bishop's consecrated leadership a large program of recreational and educational opportunities has been developed. It is also true of the work being done on the East Side of New York by St. Augustine's and St. Christopher's Chapels of Trinity Parish; these churches are centers of community and of understanding fellowship in the midst of serious neighborhood situations, full of tensions

Christian Social Relations and 15 Episcopal Social Agencies

"... set the love of God, and His mercy, and forgiveness at the center of all that is done."

ON Tuesday, January 12th, The Bishop of New York and the Department of Social Relations of The Diocese, sponsored a dinner for 15 Welfare and Social Relations Agencies of the Diocese, at the Ambassador Hotel, New York City. The Social Agencies participating were Episcopal Service to the Aged, Gallaudet Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf Mutes, Greer School, Home for Old Men and Aged Couples, House of the Holy Comforter, New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, St. Barnabas Hospital, St. Luke's Home for Aged Women, St. Luke's Hospital, St. Mary's-in-the-Field, Seamen's Church Institute of New York, Sister Catharine's Home, Inc., Society for the Relief of the Destitute Blind, Trinity Chapel Home, and Youth Consultation Service.

The chairman of the meeting was the Reverend John A. Bell, Chairman of the Department of Christian Social Relations for the Diocese. The Invocation was given by the Reverend Almon R. Pepper, D.D., and the Reverend Leland B. Henry, Executive Director of the Department of Christian Social Relations for the Diocese, introduced the speakers.

Mrs. Cynthia Wedel, of Washington, D.C. member of the National Department of Christian Social Relations spoke on "Health and Welfare Needs of The Nation, And the Place of The Church Agency". In a masterly talk she emphasized, among others, several outstanding points: "Two tendencies seem sometimes to obscure the Church's concern for social betterment. One, oddly enough, is the missionary program of the Church . . . to many Church people 'missions' has taken a narrow meaning, and is limited to a concern for someone in a foreign land. Earnest efforts are being made to educate the people of the Church to an understanding of the fact that the missionary work of the Church includes our concern for the slum dweller, the factory worker, the college student, the resident of a new suburban community, those who live half a block from the Church, as well as those who live half a world away. The other tendency which hampers the social welfare work of the Church from the Hudson River aristocracy. Their carriages came up the drive to the portecochere and deposited top-hatted gentlemen and elegant ladies who were in a position to maintain the church generously.

But—the Edwardians, in the way of all flesh, have departed. No more their sleek horses and carriages. Their children have married and followed their husbands into alien lands. The swift ebb and flow of populations, subtle changes in economic status, rising taxes, shrinking incomes have taken their toll as in other communities. And Christ Church Parish changed with all this. Now one block of the property faces a semi-depressed area, and the church is surrounded by a sort of medical center occupying the great houses of Academy Street. One by one, the residences are being converted into apartments for industrial workers. Few parishes have a greater problem of maintenance, but also few are better equipped to take care of the needs of such a community. It requires some $39,000 a year to support the program and the buildings of this parish. At the present time, a drive for a Restoration Fund to renovate the property has been successfully completed and the work has begun. In personnel the parish has a staff of ten paid persons including the two clergy.

The Poughkeepsie community is now experiencing a new revolution. This has come about because of the appearance of new industrial plants, particularly the International Business Machines Corporation, bringing many thousands of new and technically gifted people to the city and suburban areas. At Christ Church, this has augmented the steady growth in membership and giving. It is especially revealed in the 9:15 service on Sunday morning which is largely made up of young parents, and a large Sunday evening Supper Club. These new folk have brought to the parish experience of the Church in other places throughout the country and are giving a vigorous leadership and a youthful cast to the congregation.

The parish maintains not only a large Church School, but also a strong teen-agers group called the St. George's Society, a day Nursery School, and a program for education of adults. Every week The Courier, a parish paper goes out containing announcements of coming events and an article on some aspects of our religion.

An important responsibility of the rector is the chaplaincy to Episcopal students at Vassar College by appointment of the Bishop. He is assisted by a full time College Worker, Miss Jane Bollwinkel, who is supported by the National Church. There are about 500 Episcopal students at the college. Every Friday on the campus there is a meeting of the newly organized Canterbury Club. Either Dr. Terwilliger or a guest leads a discussion of some aspect of Christian belief. Besides, this, there are four to six weeks seminars. This year two of them will be on Christian marriage and the Christian interpretation of History. On Wednesdays at 7:10 there is a celebration of the Holy Communion on the campus.

The main emphasis of Christ Church Parish is worship. Every Sunday morning there are four services. At least two of these are celebrations of the Eucharist. The daily offices of Morning and Evening Prayer are said in church on week-days. There is a growing sacramental life in this place, accompanied by a conviction of the importance of the preaching of the Word of God. One of the primary emphases of its parochial life is "The sanctification of time", using the Christian year as a way of life. A strict keeping of Advent and Lent, a splendid observance of the great Festivals — all of these things are interpreted, not as spectacles, but as the corporate way of faith for a Christian community.

Christ Church has always been a preaching church. The Friday nights in Lent have been the occasion for bringing many of the leaders of our communion to its pulpit. The Bishops of St. David's, Southwell, San Joaquin, as well as the Bishops of our own Diocese, Canon Richardson of Durham, Canon Hood of Oxford, the Deans of Hartford, New York, and Berkeley Divinity School — these and many others have helped to maintain the ministry of the word in recent months.

Last year the parish undertook an ecumenical venture. The Rev. Rolf Lyshoi, a priest of the Church of Sweden, was an honorary assistant. This helped to extend the perspective of the parish beyond the borders of our own communion.

What would the Rev. Samuel Seabury have thought when he rode up to Dutchess County in 1766 to survey the prospects for the Church of England, should he now see the fruit of his labors? As a result of that ride an application for aid was sent to England to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts. The appeal was granted and a "glebe" was purchased for the support of the first rector in 1766. King George III chartered the parish in 1773 as "The Rector and Inhabitants of Poughkeepsie in communion with the Church of England". During the Revolution, the Tory rector, Dr. Beardsley, upon the order of the Council of Safety, was exiled. A relic of those days still stands on Main Street — a little Georgian building of mellowed brick known to all as the Glebe House. Most Poughkeepsians, including parishioners, do not realize that it is the first rectory of the parish.

Christ Church is fortunate in having an excellent history written by Miss Helen Reynolds in which one can read the story of its life including such delightful bits, as the tale of the Vestry receiving a slave in payment of a debt and selling him to a man from whom he ran away. There is also the story of Bishop Philander Chase who had a stormy rectorship from 1799 to 1805. In order to supplement his stipend, he taught school. This school prospered and he erected an addition. When he resigned as principal, he put his addition on wheels and trundled it away. The eighth rector was Homer Wheaton, a friend of John Henry Newman and profoundly influenced by the Oxford Movement. Dr. Samuel Buell is reputed to have introduced the first colored stoles in this Diocese outside New York City. In the rector's study at the church are several thousand volumes belonging to Archdeacon Zeigenfuss, one of the most scholarly of the clergy of the parish. He maintained a remarkable interest in the new sciences of biology and psychology and Biblical Criticism in the days when approval of these things was not considered seemly in the Church. The Rev. Alexander Griswold Cummins for forty-six years played a colorful part in the life of the Diocese. He was the great exponent of Low-Churchmanship who edited the well-known and vividly written monthly Chronicle for which he was famed throughout the Church. What many people do not know is how well he was loved as a pastor, how strongly he influenced the local community. His successor was our Dean of New York. It was due to his bold and dynamic leadership that during his brief rectorate, Christ Church became the vital center of Christianity which it now is. The work which he started in the parish and at the college formed a basic pattern upon which a sound and useful program could be developed. Dr. Terwilliger is the fifteenth rector of the church. He is thirty-six years old, and this is his fifth year in the parish. Immediately before coming to Poughkeepsie, he was a Fellow and Tutor at General Theological Seminary, and assistant at the Church of the Heavenly Rest. For the past two years he has also been Dean of Dutchess Convocation.

The story of Christ Church is a story of Christian missions. The parish was founded by the concern and gifts of the Church abroad. After one hundred eighty-eight years of life it now faces its greatest opportunity. Will you not pray that Christ Church will fulfill it?

CHURCH OF THE HOLY INNOCENTS, Highland Falls. At the Advent Annual Parish Election, the following gentlemen were unanimously elected: Charles W. Erichsen, Church Warden; Daniel H. Herman and George Hostel, Vestrymen.

Much repair work has been done on the Rectory and Church buildings, during the past months, at considerable cost, and by labor freely given by men of the Vestry. The rectory repairs have been done by and under the supervision of Mr. Charles Erichsen; the new roof over the rear vestibule of the Church by and under the careful supervision of Mr. August Getz and Mr. Daniel Herman. Other repairs have been made by Major Theodore Rathke and Capt. George Ferrell. One of the outstanding works of repair and restoration, on the interior walls of the Church and vestibule, was done as a free-will offering of labor and materials by Mr. John Di Lorenzo, a Newburgh building contractor. Mr. Di Lorenzo's most friendly gesture was a great financial saving to the parish.

Approximately thirty women and men of the parish made a pilgrimage, with the Rector to St. Helena's Con-

Joyful Service

In her message to the members of the Woman's Auxiliary, printed in the November FORECAST, Mrs. Simpson included a line from a prayer of St. Francis — "For it is in giving that we receive." Perhaps it was that thought which brought so many members of the Auxiliary, from large parishes and small, from far and near, to the Seamen's Church Institute Christmas Room to help wrap the 42,000 small gifts and pack them in over 6000 boxes for the seamen at sea, in hospitals and at the Institute at Christmas time.

They found there not only service but fellowship, which brought them again and again during that busy season, to work hard and long in that room blessed by the message on its walls — "May the Spirit of the Christ Child go in every box."

For those of us who had the opportunity to give the boxes to the men in one of the large hospitals, the meaning of — "It is in giving that we receive" was fully realized. When a gift was handed to a young French boy who could only stammer his thanks in French, his face lighted with joy as some one wished him a Joyeux Noel and spoke to him in his beloved tongue; when in the long ward one of the men, with his gifts already opened and spread on his bed, practically hugged his copy of the "Information Please Almanac" and said it would keep him happy for many a day; when one man, too ill to talk, just patted the box in its gay Christmas wrappings and whispered, "It is good to be remembered by my home," one knew indeed that it was the giver who was receiving far more than had been given.

But the final accolade was the parting words of an elderly man, who held our hand in his and said, "I shall treasure this always. I am being retired next week and going home to Georgia, but in all my years at sea the Seamen's Church Institute has always reached me with its gifts at Christmas and now has come to me in the hospital. God bless you in this service to others."

On March 2, 1594 the Woman's Auxiliary will hold its monthly Diocesan Meeting at Synod Hall, Cathedral Heights at 10:30 A.M. The speaker will be Mrs. Cynthia Wedel. Do not miss hearing her.

New Treasurer

Bishop Donegan announced January 15th that the Standing Committee of the Diocese has elected Mr. Theodor Oxholm of Esopus, New York and this City, as Treasurer of the Diocese. Mr. Oxholm succeeds Mr. R. H. Mansfield who has served as Treasurer for thirteen years. Bishop Donegan stated that Mr. Mansfield, who is associated with the Rockefeller interests, in presenting his resignation, recommended the election of a successor who would devote full time to the work.

Mr. Oxholm has been Assistant Treasurer of the Diocese for twelve years, serving as business executive for the Diocese and the Executive Council. He is also Treasurer of the Synod of the Second Province of the Episcopal Church, comprising all of the Dioceses of New York State and New Jersey.

Before his service with the Diocese, Mr. Oxholm was engaged for ten years in the management of fruit farms in Ulster County, New York, and prior to that for eight years in the export and import business in this City.

We Make Progress

The Bishop of the Diocese announced that the people of the parishes and missions had contributed $632,000 in 1953 for the missionary work of the Church. He stated that this was $22,000 more than had been contributed in 1952 and was the largest amount ever raised for this purpose in the Diocese in one year. The Cathedral and 220 parishes and missions contributed.

Ninety-five parishes and missions fully reached or oversubscribed their assigned quotas. They were as follows:

The Convocation of Richmond was the only Convocation to contribute its full share. Seven of the eleven congregations in that Borough paid their full quotas and six of these so far oversubscribed their goals that the total of the Convocation exceeded the area quota.

Of the total amount contributed 59% was devoted to the work of the National Council and 41% for missionary work in the Diocese itself. The Council of the Diocese which is responsible for Church extension, Christian Education, Christian Social Relations, promotion and finance, received $195,954 and the City Mission Society, the Episcopal Service to the Aged, the Seamen's Church Institute and the Youth Consultation Service shared $57,800.

The Dean's Column

As a member of the Program Committee of the forthcoming Anglican Congress in Minneapolis this August, I thought I would use this month's column to share with our Diocese the results of our planning.

THE problem was not how to locate adequate speakers for the high themes selected. It was how to select from among the many outstanding Churchmen from all over the world who could give a distinguished presentation. A qualitative selection would have been difficult enough; but the securing of a wide geographical spread and a balance as to churchmanship made the task more complicated. If the completed program commends itself to the Anglican Communion, as we trust it will, it is due to the patient leadership and preparation for meetings on the part of its chairman, the Right Rev. Thomas N. Carruthers, Bishop of South Carolina, and the cooperation of the representatives of the various Provinces who provided suggestions and evaluations.

THE topics were hammered out by the committee before the matter of the speakers were considered. Among the many concerns to which the Congress might appropriately address itself a very few main topics were selected in order to provide adequate opportunity for discussion — a major improvement over the 1908 Congress which was heavy-laden with themes.

THE topics are:

I. OUR VOCATION

Our Place in History
Our Theological Position
Structure of the Anglican Communion
Our Place in Christendom
Our Relation to Other Communions

II. OUR WORSHIP

The Nature of Worship
The Development of the Prayer Books
Liturgical Freedom and Responsibility
Liturgical Trends and Criteria for Future Development

III. OUR MESSAGE:

Salvation for All Men and Redemption of the World thru Jesus Christ

The Individual
Home
Education, Work, Science, Race
State
National Movements, International Relations

IV. OUR WORK

The Missionary Task
  Sharing of Resources and Leadership Within Our Communion
Organization and Methods (In Different Parts of the Church)
Rural Work
Urban Work, Social Service, Christian Education, Evangelism
The Role of the Laity

ALL of this is embraced within a general theme title: The Call of God and the Mission of the Anglican Communion, which will be introduced at the opening service by the presiding Bishop and the Archbishop of Canterbury and summed up in the sermon of the closing service by the Archbishop of Dublin. For each topic a half a day will be allowed for addresses, a half a day for group discussion and a half a day for report of group arising out of the subject-matter as and consideration of such resolutions entire day will be left for summary findings to the whole attendance. An may be proposed.

FOR the first topic, Our Vocation, there will be three speakers: the Rt. Rev. and Rt. Hon. J. W. C. Wand, D.D., Bishop of London, who will discuss our place in history and theological position; the Most Rev. Philip Carrington, Litt. D., S.T.D., Archbishop of Quebec, who will speak on the structure of the Anglican Communion; and the Rev. Prof. James P. Hickinbotham of the University College, Gold Coast, Africa, who will cover our place in Christendom and our relation to other communions.

TWO speakers will cover the second main topic, Our Worship. The Rev. Massey H. Shepherd, Jr., PhD., Professor of Church History, Episcopal Theological School, on the development of the Prayer Books; and the Rt. Rev. Colin Dunlop, Dean of Lincoln, on liturgical trends and criteria for future development.

THE third topic, Our Message, will be divided between three churchmen; the Rt. Rev. John S. Moyes, D.D., Bishop of Armidale, on salvation of the individual; the Rt. Rev. Richard A. Reeves, Bishop of Johannesburg, on home-life, education, work, science and race; and Dr. Kathleen Bliss of the Diocese of Rochester (England) on the state, national movements and international relations.

OUR WORK, (the fourth topic) will also be treated by three speakers: the Rt. Rev. Bravid W. Harris, D.D., Bishop of Liberia, on the missionary task and the sharing of resources and leadership within our communion; the Rt. Rev. Leslie S. Hunter, D.C.L., D.D., Bishop of Sheffield, on organization and methods, with attention to urban and rural work, social service, Christian education and evangelism; and a layman yet to be decided on, who will discuss the role of the laity.

ON every morning of the Congress Holy Communion will be celebrated according to a different rite within the Anglican Communion. On the first evening (August 5) there will be a reception, and on two other evenings (August 10 and 12) there will be garden parties. There will be dinner for the bishops attending on August 9. One of the highlights of the entire congress will be the missionary mass meeting on the evening of Sunday, August 8th. The Sunday morning will be reserved for attendance by the delegates at services in the various churches of the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. Saturday afternoon (August 7) will be kept free for a pilgrimage to Cathedral of Our Merciful Saviour in Faribault, where is located the first American church built for cathedral purposes.

THIS well-balanced program of study, worship and fellowship should do much to strengthen ties within our part of the Holy Catholic Church and to deepen our appreciation of the Anglican Communion. From this should arise a greater sense of unity within the Communion and a more zealous desire to extend its influence and support its mission for the salvation of men.

vent during the early Fall and were most graciously received and entertained at Tea by the Sisters; after which, they attended Vespers and the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the Convent Chapel.

The Advent Corporate Communion for men and boys was the most largely attended of any such Service for men and boys, during the long rectorship of Mr. Drew. Following the Service, a breakfast was served in the parish house by Mrs. Clara Browne, Mrs. Clara Johnston, Mrs. Bertha Nikola, Mrs. Madge Herman, Mrs. Florence Hall, Mrs. Helen Banks, and Mrs. Martha Hicks.

St. Mary's Guild have just completed another very useful and constructive year under the very capable leadership of their President, Mrs. Bertha Nikola. During the year, many needed interior decorations and accessories have been made and acquired in the Parish House. Also great interest has been taken in the missionary work at ST. MARY THE VIRGIN and ST. MICHAEL and ALL ANGELS in Sagada, P. I. Merchandise and clothing of considerable value has been sent during the past year. These Missions are a particular charge being assumed by the Guild as their missionary endeavor. The incoming officers for the year 1954 are Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes, President, Mrs. Clara Browne, Vice President, Mrs. Marjorie Douglas, Secretary, and Mrs. Clara Schofield, Treasurer.

A fire, believed to have been started from a chimney spark, damaged a two-story brick dormitory at the Convent of ST. ANNE, Kingston, recently. The blaze was discovered by one of the Sisters, who was ill and whose room faces the building where the fire was. Fifteen persons were in the basement of the dormitory at the time, where seven girls were rehearsing for a Christmas play, when the fire was discovered. The blaze damaged the roof and attic and caused other damage throughout the building by smoke and water.

The Convocation joins with the parish of ST. JOHN'S, Kingston, in extending to the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, Dean of the Convocation of the Hudson, and Rector of ST. JOHN'S, Kingston, felicitations on the 25th anniversary of his Ordination to the Priesthood. Dean Shellenberger was ordained Priest on December 19, 1928 and celebrated his first Eucharist on Christmas Eve of that year.

We Aim At The Wrong Target

SOME of those who have the courage to look realistically at the Church's teaching work in recent years will perhaps agree in the statement that the Church has been aiming at the wrong target . . . and in a great many instances even that target has been missed. And that picture reminds us that the Greek word generally used in the New Testament for "sin" can be literally translated as "I miss the mark"!

This wrong direction in the Church's Sunday Schools; it has, in many cases, been more evident in confirmation instruction. Most of the materials which are now marketed for Christian Education fall into this trap, and a very high percentage of the teachers have, by the tradition they have received, been misled as to what their job really is.

In brief, we have been content to aim at an "Intellectual result", and feel that in achieving it we have done all that we have to do. We have spent great effort in "giving people the right answers"; we have been content that our job has been complete when they could "fill in the blanks". They have been given full marks on the Ten Commandments when we had brought them to the stage where they could "say" them, or write them down without leaving out too many commas!

But let us be realistic. Let us look about us in the community where, on the average, less than thirty percent of the people even bother to worship God on Sunday, (and let us not ask too many questions of that thirty percent!). These people, at least most of them, HAVE the right answers; they can say the creed and they can at least tell you what the commandments are "against". The tragedy is that these "right answers" make so little difference to them. The "intellectual result" often serves often as an "inoculation against" real life response.

"Intellectual result" is the wrong target, and almost any Church School teacher who has the temerity to ask next Sunday what the lesson was about last Sunday will become rather pessimistic as to how successful she has been even at hitting that!

Present day confirmation instruction is afflicted with the same blight, partly because the clergy are conscious of the experience that in confirmation classes they usually have their people for the last time in a formally organized, on-going learning situation. They therefore fall into the temptation of cramming in all the information they think these people will ever need for a proper understanding of the Church and all that the Church says. And as a result confirmation instruction is a tight-packed curriculum experience which usually crowds out any element of decision. This development has been particularly striking in the last two decades, and it is especially interesting to note that it is just in that period that we have begun to experience this "post confirmation leakage" from Church membership which is so frequently the problem worried about when clergy get together to discuss their problems.

If an "intellectual result" is the wrong target, what is the right one? Perhaps the words "life response" can carry the burden of what we have in mind as we try to vision the effect the eternal truths should be having on Christians. We need to have people who can say the Apostles Creed, but we have only done part of what we should do when that has been achieved. The Apostles Creed only becomes what the Church needs it to be when people are making their day by day decisions in the light of it.

ON CHRISTMAS EVE, the boys and faculty — with a few invited close guests, including the Bishop and his mother — had their Christmas dinner.

Prologue to the dinner was the ceremony of Bringing in The Boar's Head and singing the carol especially written for the occasion — after which the Headmaster gave an appropriate seasonal Grace.

The contrast, then, is between intellectual result and life response. See the difference between these two where the Love of God is concerned. By many and interesting ways we can bring children to the "intellectual result" of the love of God. We can have them colour pictures which illustrate that love; we can ask them to write the words "God is Love" a hundred times on beautifully decorated scrolls. We can put it into hymns, into filmstrips, and into work books. And the child can do all these, and see and hear all these, and still not know what it feels like that God loves him.

What are the ways by which we give to children the experiences which enable them to arrive at a "life understanding" of the glorious fact that God loves them? This is the great search of those who are now taking seriously the task of Christian Education in the Church. This, in some minds, is the reason why there is such a demand not for more curriculum materials but for a different kind of curriculum material.

But it is a sobering thought, which we hope to examine further in articles in THE BULLETIN, that the more you look into this deeper task which the Church should be doing the more clearly you see that curriculum materials are not the chief answer at all. For life response is given primarily to life, and it is the Church School teacher who becomes the key and important determiner of what the Church School session will achieve.

Sin is "missing the mark". I wonder what we should call it when we aim at the wrong target?

Department of Promotion Plans

THE Department of Promotion has announced plans to canvass the individual parishes and missions of the diocese as another step in better understanding not only the financial problems of the churches of this diocese but to secure from these churches any suggestions or recommendations they may care to make as to how they have successfully met their local financial needs.

It is felt that too long we have ignored the success stories of those parishes and missions who year after year succeed where others fail. The director of the Department of Promotion feels that many of the methods now being quietly used by the several congregations of this diocese, could and should, rightly, be made available to all who will use them.

This canvass will start right after the first of the year and will go, church-by-church, from the lowest tip of Staten Island to the very top of the diocese. It is estimated that the canvass will take about three months to complete.

As one of the results of this comprehensive study of the individual needs of all the churches the Department of Promotion will then be able to formulate its plans and actions for the fall of 1954 Every Member Canvass season.

It is interesting to note that the standard EMC still produces very pleasing 'success stories' by those who accept it as a workable means of financing their local church's efforts.

The Rev. Roger Geffen, Rector of the Church of the Good Shepperd, in the Bronx, reported that the EMC this fall, which was the first his church had put on in some years, was quite successful. He reported that the number of pledges obtained had been doubled and the amount of money pledged this year was four times the amount pledged in any previous year.

The Rev. Fenimore Cooper, Rector of St. Mary's Church, Tuxedo Park, reported that since his church had never had a regular Every Member Canvass, they held a Parish Meeting at which time the people of St. Mary's went on record of being in favor of putting on a real thorough canvass. At press time the results were not in completely but the rector said he had enough information to report that the canvass was a complete success.

The Rev. C. Kenneth Ackerman, Christ Church, Tarrytown, reported that the standard EMC put on in his church produced more money in the fall of 1953 than it had at any previous time. It is interesting to note that Christ Church has been using the EMC method of fund raising for some years. Each year the canvass has been more successful than the one the previous year.

If each church would put on the best canvass it could each year and benefit from the mistakes, as well as the successes, this diocese would soon find itself in the position for the first time in its history to pay its complete missionary quota to the National Council.

The Diocese of New York is the largest, richest diocese in the United States and it has never paid its full National Council Missionary quota!

It is one of our Bishop's fondest ambitions, as he has said on many occasions, to be able to pay this National Council Missionary quota in full.

It is expected that the church-by-church canvass that the Department of Promotion started in January will largely implement our Bishop's desire to pay the quota assigned to us by the National Church in that it will bring to light many of the successful methods now being used by individual churches, so that all churches may benefit from the individual EMC success stories within our diocese.

The Archdeacon

Do you know the Rev. George R. Hiatt, Rector of ST. JOHN'S, Ellenville? Should you say "No" I wouldn't be surprised. Yet he has spent all but one of his 35 years in the priesthood in the Diocese of New York. Those who do know him are a privileged few who remember him as one of God's holy and humble men.

It is with some misgiving that one presumes to write of another's life. But there are times when, in the experience of an Archdeacon, a life seems the most important matter he can report.

Anyone, of course, can read Mr. Hiatt's brief biography in Stowe's Clerical Directory. It tells of a young priest who four years following his ordination became Rector of one of our leading Parishes in the City of New York. Five years later, after a happy and eventful ministry, he offered himself to his Bishop for mission work in the Diocese and was sent to Ellenville. That was in 1928.

Ellenville is a lovely village in the Catskills, the center of a resort area. It is an unforgettable experience as one for the first time surmounts the ridge near Craigsmoor on the Shamgunt Trail. The view is breath-taking and far in the distance, snuggled in the deep valley below, is Ellenville. On a clear day one can see the imposing tower of ST. JOHN'S.

Even in 1928, this area was experiencing the travail of change, change which was felt most by the Christian congregations. Old residents were moving out and of those who came to take their place few were Christians. No amount of devoted pastoral work could stem the tide and, though he has never said so, it must have been discouraging to the new missionary.

Whatever his feeling, George Hiatt soon won the love and respect of his people and indeed of the whole village. He ministered to every man according to his need and made known by word and example the power and joy of the Christian gospel.

On the 3rd of May last year the congregation and village paid tribute to him on his 25th anniversary as Rector of ST. JOHN'S. What was said of him that Sunday both by the Archdeacon and by a young man from the Parish now in Holy Orders was good but perhaps the finest tribute was offered by one not a member of the Parish who said, "Just to meet him makes you feel better."

We are blessed in the Diocese of New York because there are others like him. But the beloved Mr. Hiatt will soon reach the age of retirement and I just wanted you to know of him. Next Spring plan a trip to Ellenville and attend the eleven o'clock service at ST. JOHN'S. You will find it a soul-satisfying experience. And you will long remember the hearty welcome given you by the Rector.

Christian Social Relations Conference—Feb. 7th

On Sunday, February 7th, from 4:30 to 9:00 P.M. there will be a Conference on Christian Social Relations at St. Bartholomew's Church, White Plains, sponsored by the Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese of New York.

The Chairman of the Conference will be the Reverend E. Walter Chater. Registrations will begin at 4:30; there will be a service of Evening Prayer, The Reverend C. R. Garmey, Rector, St. Bartholomews, officiating; the Reverend John A. Bell, Chairman, Department of Christian Social Relations, Diocese of New York, will speak at 5:30 P.M. on "Why Do We Have A Department Of Christian Social Relations and What Does It Do", followed by brief statements by discussion group leaders at 6:15 P.M.

Supper will be served at 6:45 P.M., and at 7:30 P.M. the Conference will divide itself into three interest groups:

The 1st., Group: "The Church In The Suburbs" led by the Reverend Samuel W. Blizzard, Th.M., Ph.D., Visiting Professor of Social Science, Union Theological Seminary.

The 2nd., Group: "The Church and The Social Agencies" led by Mr. Roland B. Guild, Area Director, Department of Social Welfare of The State of New York.

The 3rd., Group: "The Church and American Responsibility to The World Community", led by the Reverend Leland B. Henry, Executive Director, Department of Christian Social Relations, Diocese of New York.

At 8:30 the Conference will meet in Plenary Session, under the chairmanship of Mr. Bell, to hear reports from each group and for general discussion. Adjournment at 9:30 P.M.

We Hear From Our Missionary

You will remember that in the June issue of the BULLETIN we told you how Miss Lucienne G. Sanchez formerly in the Department of Promotion, was going to Kailahun, Sierra Leone, West Africa, to be a lay worker in the Holy Cross Mission. In a recent letter she writes as follows:

"As we say in Africa, 'Isa, ca, ca, ca! I understand the more ca ca's one adds the more thankful one is supposed to be. It was so good of you to mail the Bulletin and it was so good to read of home. We do get the Living Church and Forth but there's nothing like reading of the news in your own Diocese. Many thanks again.

"The thing that impressed me most, upon my arrival, was the size of St. Mary's Church. The Church is situated in the center of town and is a lovely sight to behold as you walk toward it. I learned recently that all the materials used to build the Church were carried in by Mission laborers and they did all of the building. This past Sunday, the Bishop came to ordain Brother Sydney Atkinson to the priesthood and also to confirm some 83 persons. The Church was filled with Bolahun residents and visitors from nearby towns. The short time I have been here I have become aware of the excellent job the Fathers are doing and it is most pleasing and comforting to actually see the Church at work here. The Sisters of the Holy Name are doing wonders with the children. They run St. Agnes grammar school for boys and girls. The school has boarding and day students. I have yet to go out on trek with one of the Sisters but I certainly am looking forward to it. They visit the nearby towns and hold what they call God palavar. This is usually attended by persons who are not yet baptized or those who are, but are not yet ready for confirmation. It is interesting to note how these people are taught about our Lord and I shall be able to say more about it after I have been here longer.

"this is the kind of house the natives live in."

"I am remembering you and your work in my prayers and shall be looking forward to hearing from you. 'Til then,"

Sincerely,
Lucienne

Grace Church Structure Goes Through Successful Restoration

THE cornerstone of Grace Church was laid 110 years ago this past Fall, when Tenth Street and Broadway was an area of farm lands and suburban homes. The Church has been cited by many authorities as one of the best examples of the flamboyant Gothic style of architecture, and named by the Municipal Art Society, and the New York Chapter of The Society of Architectural Historians as one of the twenty buildings that should be saved at all costs.

But the city's climate and smoky air gradually took their toll of the white marble blocks of the walls and tower. They had become pitted and in places were soft and crumbling because of the eroding effects of the weather and chemicals in the air. The tower and spire were in need of repointing, also one of the pinnacles had tumbled down.

Alarmed by the deterioration, the Reverend Doctor Louis W. Pitt, Rector of the Church, and Vestry commissioned William Crawford, Inc., specialists in church construction (builders of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine) to do the work of restoring the structure.

First, 34 stories of scaffolding were built, and then carefully and precisely stone that was too rotted was replaced by durable Indiana limestone; new dowels of copper and bronze were installed where iron ones tying the stones together had rusted away. Replacement of faulty stones included the complete rebuilding of the flying buttresses at the base of the spire, the pinnacles, and the archway above the main entrance on Broadway, new stone tracery in the belfry loft openings and replacement of the open rail main roof parapets, together with new cross on the spire and new crosses on the north and south transept gable walls.

Today the safety of the fabric of Grace Church is assured. Its Gothic pinnacles and parapets, its spire and walls are no longer in danger of crumbling and crashing down.

Christmas may now seem somewhat removed from our attention, but surely the unique display at SAINT MARTIN'S CHURCH, 230 Lenox Avenue, needs some comment.

Almost eight thousand Christmas pilgrims have visited the Christmas Ship in the Lady Chapel of that Parish.

Based on the theme of the traditional Carol, "I Saw Three Ships," there was depicted the Holy Family setting sail in a bronze sailing vessel. The model ship, brought from Denmark by the Rector, the Reverend Dr. John H. Johnson, represented the Church. Around the 'sea,' was a garden planted with white and yellow chrysanthemums and other flowers. In a little pool lined with New Hampshire moss were three fish. These represented the Holy Communion. There was a dove of peace and angels to serve as reminders of those who announced our Lord's Birth. The rocks on the shore came from many parts of Europe and the United States. A pink azalea shrub, symbolical of the Tree of Life, was decorated with tiny silver bells.

The Christmas Ship and Garden were designed by a parishioner of St. Martin's, Gordon Langley Hall, assisted by Mrs. Delores Jones, Miss Catherine B. Ascherl and Cyril H. Robinson.

SAINT MICHAEL'S CHURCH, Amsterdam Avenue, held a most successful Parish Fair this year, under the chairmanship of Mr. Albert Klein and Mr. James Daly. The entire proceeds will go to Missions. A significant part of the project was the cooperation of the people of SAINT JUDE'S CHAPEL, West 99th Street, both in the preparation of the food and in a number of the booths. Saint Jude's Chapel, which has served the colored people of the community for over forty years, has been condemned to make place for the Manhattantown Project. Members of the Chapel who remain in the community will attend Saint Michael's Church. The organ there has been completely renovated, as has the entire heating plant. This Fall, double window glass was installed on the nine clerestory windows above Amsterdam Avenue.

The churches, buildings and monuments which reflect New York's 300-year history do not withstand the rigors of time and weather without the aid of man.

And to many of these, such aid has come in the form of repair and maintenance by Nicholson & Galloway, Inc., specialists in roofing and waterproofing for 103 years.

The famous structures on which we have worked include the Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Tower, Grant's Tomb, the Stock Exchange, Wanamaker's, Trinity Church, the Pierpont Morgan Library, the Astor Hotel, Garden City Cathedral and St. Marks-In-The-Bouwerie.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

THE Rev. James W. Kennedy, rector of Christ Church, Lexington, Ky., and secretary of our Church's Commission on Ecumenical Relations has written a little book, really a good sized pamphlet, which discusses in layman's fashion, topic by topic, the subjects that the Evanston Assembly will consider. A careful reading of this book entitled Evanston Notebook (75 cents) will give an introduction to these topics. Not only was this book written by a man well-known in the Diocese, but its cover was designed by a New York Churchwoman, Jessie G. Willing, a vice-president of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary.

Among the topics which Evanston faces, the most basic is the nature of the Church. In recent discussions of this subject, Christian leaders of the younger Churches — in India, China, Japan — have frequently brought fresh insights and understanding.

A HALF-DOZEN years ago there began in India a new experiment in Christian unity, the Church of South India; a unique experiment in that it included the Episcopal Church of that area. From one of the bishops of that Church has now come a provocative and scholarly book, The Household of God by Lesslie Newbigin, Bishop of Madura and Ramnad (New York, Friendship Press. $2.75). A recent selection of the Religious Book Club, The Household of God is concerned with the nature of the Church, with questions that men today are asking: "Is there in truth a family of God on earth to which I can belong, a place where all men can truly be at home? If so, where is it to be found — And how comes it that those who claim to be spokesmen of that one holy fellowship are themselves at war with one another as to the fundamentals of its nature." Bishop Newbigin considers that there is no more urgent theological task than to try to give plain and credible answers. This he assays in The Household of God.

Bishop Newbigin, born and educated in England, studied at Cambridge and Westminister College. Ordained in the Church of Scotland, he served in the Madras Mission before his consecration in the Church of South India. Two years ago he recounted the beginnings of that experiment in a small book That All May Be One: A South India Diary, the Story of an Experiment in Christian Unity (New York, Association Press. 1948. $1.50). This book was preceded by another that should be noted at this time, The Reunion of the Church: A Defense of the South India Scheme (New York, Harpers, 1948. $3).

AS this is written a copy of the Bishop of New York's Book for 1954 Roadblocks to Faith: the Believer Answers the Skeptic by James A. Pike and John McG. Krumm (New York, Morehouse. $2.25) has come to hand. This book together with a few others for Lenten reading will be discussed in this column next month.

studies under the guidance of the Rev. Benson Fisher, with the idea of doing social research for the entire Convocation in 1954.

The Clericus met at CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, to hear a paper on 25 years experience in the sacred ministry by the Rev. Fenimore E. Cooper, Rector of ST. MARY'S, Tuxedo.

ST. JOHN'S IN THE WILDERNESS is renovated outside, and in; a Hammond organ is on order; electric power is promised, a new furnace will be installed.

Large delegations always arrive at Convocation meetings with the Rev. C. F. Stent, Rector of TRINITY, Garnerville, who reports the following about his parish: 15 boys serve at the altar, 80 children of Sunday School age recently came to a party, the whole area has been surveyed, 300 families have been visited, great things are going on in redecorating the various buildings, running fairs, dances and social events. There is a Bible Class, E.Y.P.F. and adult organizations. Mrs. Inez Roberts runs the choir. Ten girls do altar duty. Quite a parish!

ST. JOHN THE DIVINE, Tomkins Cove, has an oaken alms box, the gift of Mrs. Herbert J. Skinner, in memory of her husband, who served as treasurer of the church for 25 years.

ST. JOHNS, New City, invited the Rev. John S. Kikawada to deliver a lecture to the Ladies' Guild on his orphanage in Osaka, Japan. Mr. Kikawada is a student at Union Theological Seminary, a student of sociology and a research worker at Herriman Farm School, Monsey, N. Y.

A joint meeting with a neighboring church in the Diocese of Newark was held recently with the president of the Osaka Orphanage as speaker.

The New City area is being combed by the United Lutheran Church, this winter, for prospective members.

The Rev. Ernest Churchill says this of Christmas: "The spirit of Christ, which is the spirit of Christmas, must be kept central; otherwise selfishness bickering and unhappiness will prevail." Real Christmas cards are in demand which truly proclaim the birth of Jesus. Works of charity are being supported. "These are indications of spiritual progress."

At ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River, a pageant was presented Dec. 20th, gifts were brought for children of Rockland State Hospital, of which the Rector is chaplain, as well as Advent boxes for Episcopal City Mission: A stained glass window was dedicated in memory of Roma Leighland, Dec. 13th.

William Johnson, director of E.Y.P.F. at Pearl River, united with the Presbyterians to present a forum Dec. 6th using a sound film, "You and Your Parents". Buzz groups, supper and Evening Prayer were conducted by the youth who came from Lutheran and Methodist churches. Next plan is to be led by the Lutheran pastor: another united youth rally.

NOVO DIVEEVO, The Russian Orthodox Convent at Spring Valley, received food and other presents from CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, and from ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River, in December. Both of these churches give news stories of successes of their young people in parish publications, as do several other churches in the Ramapo Convocation. The Rev. Herbert Barrall, Rector of GRACE CHURCH, Middletown, lays stress on youth work. The Rev. Harold Thelin, Rector of GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, has corporate communions for college people; the Rev. Harry Brooks Malcolm, who has the only non-Roman Church in Greenwood Lake, has a large congregation of young people.

Maurice Zolotow's tract, "How To Stay Alive on the Highway" is being circulated in Ramapo. It can be had gratis from Just Rite, Chicago 14, Illinois. 2061 N. Southport Avenue.

The Rev. Harold Thelin, Rector of GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, presented the Rev. Stephen S. W. Collins for Ordination to the priesthood on Dec. 20th. The Ordinand was a member of the Nyack community and parish. Sixty men and boys attended Communion, and breakfast, the first Sunday in Advent. William Hess of Yonkers spoke on "The Impact of Our Faith upon Business Life".

25 choristers had a party Dec. 5th. The choir boys went carolling at Christmas. 250 children are enrolled in the Sunday School. The Rev. Charles Riley increased the pledges by 20% after interviewing all the people. The bazaar netted $2,000, all of which will be used on repairing the Rectory. Robert Helker is the new sexton.

An article in the Nyack Messenger of GRACE CHURCH urges all the old timers to welcome strangers that appear in church, as they usually crave friendship. Our Episcopal Churches ought to shine in this direction.

Nyack needs an assistant to the Rector, as the work grows apace. They entertained Convocation recently. 100 delegates were on hand.

CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, has a director of youth activities; Alan Peter Maynard, a middler at General Theological Seminary, who ran a successful rally, which was enjoyed by 75 high school and college people, on Dec. 20th.

ST. JAMES'S, Goshen, had special reason for observing Loyalty Sunday on December 6 with the news that the Rev. Douglass M. Glasspool has accepted the call of the Vestry and would become pastor of the 150-year-old church and successor to the Rev. E. R. Smythe who retired in September. He will assume his new duties sometime after the end of February.

The new Goshen pastor is presently at St. Simon's Church, Concord, Staten Island. He is a graduate of Philadelphia Seminary and is 27 years old. His wife attended Windham House, a religious training institute. They will occupy the newly-refurnished Rectory on S. Church Street, becoming the beneficiaries of the voluntary services of the Parish men and women, who through Operation Spruce-Up, painted and decorated the home.

Announcement of the new rector's acceptance of the call was made at a special meeting of the Vestry by Senior Warden Harold Strong. Since the former rector's retirement, the parish has been served by supply ministers. It is expected that the Rev. Benjamin Myers will serve as supply minister until the new rector comes.

It was also reported that William Tears was re-elected a warden for a 2-year period and Dr. E. W. Young a vestryman for a 3-year term at the annual St. James's parish meeting. Mr. William Mezger was elected to a 3-year term as vestryman in place of Herman Strack, who retired.

Christian Social Relations

. . . (is) the temptation — yielded to by many a local parish, and even by denominations — to make the Church — as an organization — an end in itself. Unless we Church people are constantly on our guard, we find ourselves so engrossed in our own aggrandizement that we have no time, energy, or money to devote to 'Our Father's Business' ".

Bishop Donegan, in his address, said: "Church welfare organizations serve not from a vague, sentimental humanism, but because of the imperative placed upon them by the example of the teaching of the Saviour of Mankind.

"What the Church institutions and services do in meeting every variety of human need, which the ordinary social service agencies are not prepared to do, is to set the love of God, and His mercy, and forgiveness at the center of all that is done.

"Our Church organizations express this by the loving concern with which the workers minister to people in all sorts of needy situations interpreting all that is done as the outreaching love of God working through dedicated and skilled personnel.

"There has never been a time when it was so important for the Church to demonstrate its concern for welfare of needy people. It is only as the Church through church-related social agencies, effectively meets human need that the ominous trend toward a secular society can be reversed. The first half of this century has shown itself as being concerned with gadgets and material things. We must devote the second half of the century to enhancing the physical, social moral, and spiritual well-being of our people."

and misunderstanding. The same thing can be said of the Church of St. Edward the Martyr in East 109th Street, ministering to a densely populated Puerto Rican area, to mention a few conspicuous examples. We have a full-time priest, the Reverend Drury L. Patchell working with juvenile transgressors who come before the courts.

"What the Church does which the ordinary social service agency is not prepared to do in these situations is to set the great love of God and His mercy and forgiveness at the center of all that is done.

"The youth activities of the church go right to the heart of juvenile delinquency in a way that the social agencies, important as they are, can never do.

"This is no occasion to talk of ways and means, but here is the right time and place to reaffirm our directions, to widen our visions of what the Church can be in changing community. I commend the work of any Christian group that is seeking to meet the needs of contemporary society in this city and throughout the land, but I believe that God has blessed our Church richly with the soundest of all heritages, with the widest variety of appeals to people of all types, and hence He had laid upon us a greater responsibility to give imaginative and aggressive expression to the heritage which has been bequeathed us.

"Naturally, I am concerned that those of us responsible for the life of the Church in this place visualize the problem and the opportunity in the quite specific and realistic terms which the present situation in the City of York and the resources of the Church therein present to us. But this Diocese cannot in meeting these tasks function as an isolated unit. We are part of a larger church which has a similar range of challenges throughout our land, therefore, before closing I want to lay before you a claim that has been laid upon us by our National Church and on which we have pledged ourselves through our General Convention and National Council to discharge faithfully and promptly to meet the urgent needs of the mission of Christ which our Church is seeking to fulfill in this land.

"BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" CAMPAIGN

"At the meeting of General Convention in 1952 the following resolution was adopted: 'That this General Convention authorize and direct the National Council to inaugurate and promote during the coming triennium a single campaign to meet the urgent capital requirements of the Church, and that the National Council determine and include the amount required for approved projects and direct the raising and expenditure of these funds.'

"After considering all the needs, the National Council has set an objective of $4,510,000 to be raised by next May for urgently needed major repairs, equipment and new buildings for our Church institutions overseas and at home.

"The goal of the Diocese of New York is $600,000.00; of this amount $379,000.00 will go for capital needs of the National Church; $21,000 will go for the social agencies of the Diocese who have previously benefited by the Bishop's Offering; and the remaining $200,000 for the establishment of a rotating capital fund to meet the pressing needs for buildings, rectories, etc., in our Diocese.

"I am happy to announce that Mr. Charles M. Walton, Jr., of the firm of Willkie, Owen, Farr, Gallagher and Walton, 15 Broad Street, New York City, and Senior Warden of St. John's Church, Larchmont, member of the Board of Trustees of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, has consented to be Diocesan Chairman and Director of the Special Gifts Committee.

"The success of the campaign will depend almost entirely upon the spirit of cooperation with which every Rector and every congregation enters into the plans.

"May God give us a ready will to work together with zeal and determination to provide the funds desperately needed by the Episcopal Church in its work throughout the world."

Appointed General Chairman of Diocesan "Builders for Christ" Campaign

BISHOP Donegan announced at The Church Club Dinner, January 27th, that Mr. Charles M. Walton, Jr., had consented to be General Diocesan Chairman and Director of Special Gifts Committees, of the "Builders For Christ" Campaign.

Mr. Walton is a member of the law firm of Wilkie, Owen, Farr, Gallagher, and Walton, 15 Broad Street, New York City; Senior Warden of St. John's Church, Larchmont; member of the Standing Committee of The Diocese; member of the Church Pension Fund Committee of The Diocese; member of the Committee on Diocesan Finances; member of the Board of Trustees of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society.

At a "Builders For Christ" Campaign planning meeting on February 9th Mr. Walton said: "This is the first capital funds campaign Episcopalians in this Diocese have ever tried to go

IN PREPARATION of our great "Builders for Christ" campaign we told, in our January issue, of the needs of our Seminaries. Approximately half of the $4,150,000 which will be raised nationally in the "Builders for Christ" campaign will go to the Seminaries. Your rector can tell you exactly why the Seminaries need this money — and specifically how each one will use their share.

The "Builders for Christ" campaign concerns itself with necessary repairs and expansion beyond the regular budget in three areas of the Church's work at home and abroad. The first of these areas — the Seminaries — we covered in January. The second area, "Builders for Christ-Overseas" is concerned also in the brick and mortar that are necessary tools for the building of Christ's Kingdom.

More than one quarter of the "Builders for Christ" goal is allotted to strategic areas overseas. Not all the needs of the Church overseas will be met, only those which are the most vitally important for the continuation and advance of the Church's Mission today. These include a building program for the Japanese Church, the completion of the Philippine recon-

The Task At Hand

THE Department of Promotion is hard at work building plans for the coming "Builders for Christ" campaign, which is to be held the week of May 2nd.

This campaign was authorized at the General Convention of 1952 and is to raise $4,150,000. for urgent capital needs of the church at home and overseas.

The amount assigned to the Diocese of New York is $379,000. This will be divided among the churches of the Diocese on the basis of 68% of either their missionary quota or the amount that was actually paid, whichever is less. This is done so that no church will be unfairly taxed for their generosity in over paying their missionary quota and also so that the individual amounts alloted each church will be based more nearly on actual ability to pay.

This is a serious and important undertaking but well within the capabilities of the people of this Diocese to meet. The National Council has asked that every church in this Diocese have an Every Member Canvass starting the week of May 2nd.

In addition to the $379,000. that must be raised for capital needs for the National Church an additional $21,000. is being raised for the social agencies that are ordinarily aided by a Bishops Appeal or other fund raising activities during the course of a church year. This is being done as there will be no other solicitation for funds in the Diocese this year.

Prior to each church putting on an Every Member Canvass on May 2nd the Department of Promotion is putting on a Special Givers Drive under the direction of Mr. Charles M. Walton, Jr., the Senior Warden of St. John's, Larchmont.

The funds raised by this Special Givers Drive will go toward a $200,000. Diocesan Capital Revolving Fund. The Diocese of New York continues to be faced with both responsibilities and opportunities for continuing and expanding the work of the Lord within the boundries of this Diocese but is continually handicap-

The Bishop's Message

THIS issue of the "Bulletin" comes to you as we stand together on the threshold of Lent. The great purpose of these forty days before Easter is to make us more sincere in our religion, to renew our life in God, and to deepen our discipleship to Our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

WE hear talk about the weakness of the Church and the ineffectiveness of organized religion. But the weakness is not in the Church, it is in those who belong to the Church, and whom the Church is trying to help. The Church is Christ's Own Body but her life here on earth can rise no higher than that of those who are her members. Let us not charge the Church with failure which is due to our own lack of reality in our religion. The real need today is more godly living among all of us, clergy as well as laity. A Christ-like life is Christianity's last and unanswerable argument. Each one of us can bear this witness if we will.

WHAT can we do this Lent to make our religion more real and more worthwhile; what are the steps which will lead us along the way of holiness? We can give much more time and thought to our own personal prayers. Most of us lose some of the vitality and joy of our religion by allowing our devotions to become dull, formal exercises. We shall know nothing of the adventure of daily prayer if we are content to use only old familiar words. Our prayers should grow and change with our spiritual development. Because a prayer was well suited for our use at fifteen, it does not follow that it is well suited to our needs at fifty. I would suggest a manual of devotions appropriate to your own requirements to use with the Book of Common Prayer. Speak to your Heavenly Father in your daily devotions of your own problems, your joys and your sorrows, your blessings and your deep needs. And be ever ready to listen for the word of guidance that He is ready to give to you. Be simple and sincere in your praying remembering that those who turn to Him in humility and faith shall not be disappointed.

DURING this Lent of 1954, let us be more frequent and regular in attendance at Church. As Christians it is our duty to worship God every Sunday in His Church. Worship if it is to be beneficial must be systematic and orderly. Once every Sunday is not too often to draw near to God, along with other members of the Christian family, humbly to acknowledge our sins before Him, to render thanks for the great benefits we have received at His hands, to set forth His most worthy praise, to hear His most Holy word and to ask those things which are requisite and necessary as well for the body as the soul.

WE MAY well consider this Lent whether we ought not to receive the Sacrament of Holy Communion more often. Perhaps we should make more careful preparation before we go to the Altar to receive "the bread that cometh down from Heaven." Many of us are uncertain in our observance of this great duty for, as Dr. Garbett has pointed out, "the Holy Communion is looked upon by many as a special service apart from ordinary life. There is some truth in this for it is a special service instituted by Our Lord Himself, and in it He gives Himself in a special way to His people. But to the early Christians it was the service which above all others was associated with daily life, and struction program, and increased facilities for St. Just's School, St. Just, Puerto Rico.

THE CHURCH IN JAPAN

THE POSITION of Japan today is strategic, politically, geographically, and spiritually. Japan is the last stronghold in Asia against a materialistic atheism which has engulfed the Asian continent to the north and west. As the Japanese restore their country from the effects of war, they are experiencing democracy for the first time. They look to the United States as an example of democracy, and they are receptive as never before to Christianity, the spiritual basis of democracy. Yet less than one per cent of Japan's eighty-four millions are Christian. Schools are the Church's greatest contact with non-Christian Japanese.

The old religions of Japan, the traditional Shintoism and Buddhism, have lost their power. For many Japanese there is a spiritual void which can be filled only by Christianity. The spiritual gap cannot be filled, however, the people cannot turn to the Church unless the Sei Ko Kwai (The Church in Japan) has the means of reaching all parts of Japan.

At the war's end, the Sei Ko Kwai faced the tremendous task of rebuilding almost one-third of its churches which had been destroyed. Today the reconstruction is almost complete. The Sei Ko Kwai, however, has only a little more than two hundred parishes and missions, which in a country the size of Japan, is far too few "Builders for Christ" will provide the necesary funds for the construction of one large church in each of seven Japanese dioceses. One church is small compared with the number that are needed, but when we remember that the poverty-stricken Japanese are matching our gifts dollar for dollar, we realize that each of these seven churches will provide incentive for the Japanese to build many more. Each new church means that hundreds more Japanese people may come together in the sight of God, in unity and strength with the spirit of God.

In addition to seven dioceses, seven Japanese educational institutions, the backbone of any nation's future, will be aided by "Builders for Christ." It is especially important that the youth of Japan grow up to be spiritually strong in the face of the threat of a materialistic ideology which is in direct conflict with the Christian religions and the spirit of democracy.

The Sei Ko Kwai, as an independent Church of the Anglican Communion, is self-supporting, but it needs our help in order to bring Christianity to the millions of unchurched Japanese, to train the future leaders of their Church, and to educate Japan's youth to hold a prominent place in tomorrow's Christian world. The needs today are particularly urgent because of Japan's strategic position and because the Japanese are now more receptive to Christianity than they ever have been or will be ever again.

THE PHILIPPINES

Our Church has faced a similar postwar problem of reconstruction in the Philippines. Church property, especially in the environs of Manila, suffered considerable damage. Today the scattered congregations are reunited, and most of the reconstruction has been accomplished.

To round out our reconstruction program, a cathedral and diocesan center will be built in Manila on the same property as the newly constructed St. Andrew's Theological Seminary and the future St. Luke's Hospital. Your gift to "Builders for Christ" will help complete the cathedral building fund.

In the Philippines, as in Japan, the people welcome Christianity wherever we are able to send our steadily increasing clergy and lay readers. Today our work is concentrated in the two largest islands, Luzon and Mindanao. With the reconstruction program brought to completion, it will be possible for the Missionary District of the Philippines to extend its program throughout the islands which hold a key position in the Pacific, second only to Japan.

ST. JUST'S SCHOOL, PUERTO RICO

A THIRD vitally important overseas need which will be helped by "Builders for Christ" is St. Just's School, St. Just, Puerto Rico. This school provides an excellent education for about forty-five boys. Their combined tuition is not enough to cover faculty salaries or maintenance costs.

A long waiting list proves there is no problem of enrollment, and the faculty could take care of three times as many students. The problem is space. If St. Just's could build additional facilities, it would be possible to enroll 125 boys without increased operating costs. The additional tuition would permit self-suport, and the school, now operating at a deficit, no longer would be a drain on our church resources.

It is evident that a church school which maintains high standards of education sets an example causing other schools in the same area to raise their standards. For this reason, our responsibility to St. Just's increases in importance. The extent that St. Just's succeeds in giving its sudents every possible advantage is the extent of its influence throughout Puerto Rico.

THESE needs, the parochial and institutional building program for Japan, the diocesan center in the Philippines, and the dormitory and classroom space for St. Just's School are the most pressing needs overseas today. "Builders for Christ" must help while the opportunity is real.

When you make your pledge to "Builders for Christ", you will be taking part in a good investment. Because building with bricks and stones and timber is a means of building spiritual strength, your share in "Builders for Christ" is a share in the future of your Church.

out for. Considering the valid needs for the money, and in comparison with what other denominations are doing, it seems to me the grand total we are asked to raise in this Diocese — $600,000 — is a very modest sum, one that everybody should go all out to share in. But it will take the consecrated efforts of the Clergy, Wardens and Vestrymen, the Canvassers, and the generosity of all our parishes and missions to raise what we need as our obligation to the National Church, and for our own Diocesan activities."

THE WESTCHESTER CONVOCATION

On Wednesday evenings during Advent, a series of addresses was given by the clergy of St. JAMES THE LESS, Scarsdale, on the following subjects: "The Position of the Bible in the Anglican Tradition"— The Reverend Raymond A. Peterson, Jr. "Anglicanism — its unique history"— The Reverend William G. Weinhauer. "The Divine Action"— The Rector.

Recently news came to ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Yonkers, concerning their former Rector, The Reverend Wilbur S. Caswell, retired. Mr. Caswell is now living in Patterson, California. In recognition of services rendered to the Diocese of San Joaquin, Mr. Caswell was made honorary Canon of the Cathedral.

CHRIST CHURCH, Tarrytown, is sponsoring a series of Lenten Lectures this year on Wednesday evenings. The Rev. Canon Edward N. West, D. Th., Sacrist, the Cathedral Church, is the lecturer and his theme is "The Religion we Pray."

The Church School of St. JOHN'S, Tuckahoe, has arranged a series of exchange greetings with the children of St. Mary's Church, Great Bircham, in England. Individual boys and girls in the two schools correspond with one another.

The new film produced at ST. PETER'S SCHOOL FOR BOYS, Peekskill, called "The King's Men" is proving very popular. Showings have been given recently at Williamsport, Penna., Ossining, N.Y. Clinton, Conn., Schenectady, N. Y., and Richmond, Va. During the month of January, several bookings were made in California. The film is available to all parishes.

A beautiful sixteen piece Nativity Set was made by the High School Released Time class, of ALL SAINT'S CHURCH, Harrison. It was on exhibition in the Church during the Epiphany Season.

ZION CHURCH, Dobbs Ferry, is preparing a new Children's Chapel in the Parish Hall. The men of the Church are doing the work and the Rector, The Reverend Charles Karsten hopes soon to have it fully equipped and ready for use.

THE CHURCH OF ST. MARY THE VIRGIN, Chappaqua, recently sponsored a Quiet Afternoon for men of the parish. The Rev. Canon Edward N. West, D. Th., Sacrist, the Cathedral Church, was the conductor. A box supper followed.

THE CHURCH OF ST. BARNABAS, Irvington, was visited by Bishop Donegan on Sunday, January 17th. At the eleven o'clock Service, the Bishop confirmed a large class of candidates. Afterward he dedicated a new wing to the Parish Hall, which is to be known as the Van Keuren Wing, in honor of the former Rector, The Reverend Dr. Floyd Van Keuren. A room was also dedicated to Howard B. Morris, a former warden of the Church.

On Sunday afternoon, January 24th, Bishop Donegan formally dedicated a new Parish Hall at the CHURCH OF JOSEPH OF ARAMATHEA, Elmsford. This is a gray stone building which matches perfectly the architecture of the Church and will care for the needs of the expanding parish, through which they were united more closely to their Lord, and to one another."

FURTHERMORE, as this Lent begins let us look carefully into our lives to see where we have fallen short of the Christian standard. If we do this with a prayer for enlightenment we shall learn the meaning of true repentance and we shall want to make definite confession of our sins to God and to have the joy and blessing of making a new beginning.

LENT promises discovery. If we faithfully seek to follow Christ throughout the days beginning on Ash Wednesday and ending on Easter we shall grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and our religion will take on a glad, positive, courageous quality and others will find in us a spirit they cherish.

THE Bishop of New York Book for Lent 1954 is "Roadblocks to Faith", published by Morehouse-Gorham. This book by the Very Reverend Dr. James A. Pike, Dean of the New York Cathedral and the Reverend Dr. John McGill Krumm, Chaplain of Columbia University, offers a unique opportunity to listen to an exciting conver-

..... Do The Children

A MAN, let's call him The Inquirer, stood in the Saint Barnabas House Memorial Chapel. He had just completed a tour of the new building and seen with real appreciation the work being done with the children. He had noted the plaque at the altar, stating that the sanctuary appointments were given by the National Church Club for Women.

The Weekly Episcopal City Mission Society Staff Service in the Memorial Chapel at Saint Barnabas House.

Scene from the Nativity Pageant presented by the children in the Saint Barnabas House Memorial Chapel.

Now he was reading the plaque at the rear of the Chapel which says: "This Chapel is Given by the Children of William Richmond Peters and Helen Heiser Peters to Perpetuate and Extend to Others the Spirit of Happiness and Love of God which Characterized Their Home."

The Inquirer turned, surveyed the Chapel again. His eyes moved on from the silver wall cross over the altar to the starlike lights in the ceiling, then down again over the candlesticks, vases and rich brocade altar frontal. "It's a beautiful Chapel," He said, "and it looks as though it were designed with children in mind. Tell me, do the children use the Chapel much?"

The question startled the Rev. H. Rushton Bell. Somehow, he had never thought of its not being used by the boys and girls sheltered by St. Barnabas House.

"Let me tell you," he said, "a little about the opportunities for religious expression in Saint Barnabas House. As you know, children of many faiths come here and, in the eyes of God, a child is a child. He is not a Presbyterian, a Methodist, or even an Episcopalian and, when a child is in need of love and shelter, he is welcomed here in the name of the One who said, 'Suffer the little children to come unto me.'

"We want only to make each child feel that he is in a place where a God of love is near to him. Perhaps you can measure our success by an incident which happened recently. A little girl, who had been here only a day or two, sidled up to her teacher and asked, 'Are you God?' You can understand something of what lay behind that question, I know."

The Inquirer nodded, and Mr. Bell went on, "Each boy or girl who comes here is welcomed by the Chaplain before a day has passed. If the child knows no children's prayers, he soon learns one as he sees other boys and girls saying theirs, before goodnights are said to group-mothers. Grace is sung before meals. Religious faith is encouraged by the staff.

"But, to get to your question about the Chapel being used, it was designed with children in mind and its quiet charm does have a good effect on them. Every Sunday morning they share in either Morning Prayer, adapted to their age level, or the Service of the Holy Communion. They have a vested choir and, while its membership changes frequently in a shelter for temporary care, the youngsters really love to sing and their singing is a worshipful contribution to the services."

The Inquirer was listening intently and now he interrupted to ask, "You said a moment ago that religious faith is encouraged by the staff. How do they do that?"

"By their own attitudes first of all, but in addition they have frequent simplified devotions and singing with the children in the children's quarters. Does that answer your question?"

"Yes, I think so." The Inquirer said.

We went back to talking about the Chapel. "We cooperate in the public school released time program and the children come to the Chapel for religious instruction by the Chaplain. The children are here, too, for choir practice and believe me they love to wear their vestments and march in the processionals and recessionals.

"Last Christmas the children conducted a brief devotional service and presented a Nativity pageant in which all the school-age children had a part. It was one of the finest and most moving children's pageants I have ever seen — and I have seen a lot of them.

"Then, there is a service every Monday noon for the administrative staff of the Episcopal City Mission Society and the Saint Barnabas House staff. Each of the Society's Chaplains takes his turn conducting the service. The Service of the Holy Communion is celebrated for the staff on the major festivals of the Church year, and, during the octave of All Saints Day, those in whose memory gifts have been made and whose names are inscribed in our Book of Loving Remembrance, are prayed for specifically.

"The Society's Chaplains meet regularly to consider their work in hospitals and prisons and a fifteen minute devotional service is always conducted in the Chapel by one of their number. You see the Chapel does get used."

The Inquirer smiled, said, "Thank you. I am impressed and will be glad to tell others."

Alcoholics Anonymous at Seaman's Church Institute

Dr. Raymond S. Hall, Director of the Seaman's Church Institute of New York, announced January 19, the opening of a special club-room adjoining the new third-floor offices of the Institute's Alcoholics Assistance Bureau. The large, newly furnished room was described by Dr. Hall as an important addition to the Bureau's facilities for aiding alcoholic seamen. It will serve as a refuge and haven for men who are in the "difficult period" of early sobriety. Managed by the men themselves, the room will provide the complete change of atmosphere essential to regaining self esteem, and it will serve as a laboratory for the practice of group therapy techniques.

The Institute pioneered in coping with alcoholism on the waterfront in 1945 when its Department of Special Services developed the first therapy program among the seamen's agencies. Staffed by two experienced counselors, themselves recovered alcoholics and one a former seaman, the Institute's Alcoholics Assistance Bureau has subsequently been widely recognized for its realistic and effective approach to the problem.

The Bureau's experience indicates that alcoholism has no greater prevalence among seamen than among comparable shoreside groups, but that recovery is sometimes more difficult for seamen, whose occupation separates them most of the time from the family and friends who would normally be able to help them. Thus an alcoholic seaman often flounders alone on the waterfront streets, creating a public spectacle and giving a black eye to his profession. It is possibly this situation which gave rise to the song asking, "What shall we do with the drunken sailor?" In the song, however, no practical solution is offered.

An important part of the Institute Bureau's work is that of referring seamen to the shoreside facilities for treating alcoholism. Dr. Hall describes as "excellent" the cooperation accorded the Bureau by the various agencies, civic and otherwise, of New York City. Frequent referrals are made to the U.S. Public Health hospitals, Bellevue, the New York City Department of Welfare and the local chapters of Alcoholics Anonymous. This last, being a nationwide organization functioning in the other principal seaports, provides a contact particularly helpful to the "migratory" seaman, giving continuity to his efforts to control an alcohol problem.

In describing the work of the Alcoholics Assistance Bureau at the Institute the counselors stress the point that it does not constitute a "crusade" against drink. The Bureau has long since discovered the limited appeal reason has for the alcoholic. He will not quit to save his job, nor to please his old mother; but he will try to stop when he finally admits to himself that he has absolutely no control over alcohol and that it will surely take his life or his sanity if he doesn't leave it alone. In other words, the intention to quit must come from the man himself when he fully realizes the danger of his situation. It has been the Bureau's experience that any attempt to "rescue" men or force their own salvation on them simply collapses into a program of meal tickets and "free flops."

However, the meeting of immediate personal needs is an important early part of the Bureau's method of operation. Every assistance is given the man who is earnestly trying to help himself. If he needs medical attention he gets it from the Institute's clinic, or if his condition is serious, he may be hospitalized for several days and given sedation as he passes through the violent period of "rams" or delirium tremens. Less severe cases often "sweat it out" in private rooms at the Institute provided by the Bureau.

Once the seaman has showered, shaved and picked up clean gear from the Institute's Slop Chest he is given room and board until he has "steadied down" enough to take a job ashore while his seaman's papers, usually lost, are put in order and he finds a berth on a ship. Every affort is made to get the man moving under his own power again as soon as possible, for not until he does can he respect himself — which he must do before he will act in his own best interests.

The new clubroom provides the proper psychological surroundings for the recovering alcoholic who has not gained enough momentum to be able to maintain an independent course. He absorbs the spirit of others who have the same problem and are working for sobriety. The full range of literature on alcoholism is available to him and from it he can obtain valuable insights into his behavior. Counsel from the Bureau's advisors gets him past the small problems that might otherwise make him "dash for a bottle." Special meetings are held at the clubroom two evenings a week and mutual problems are discussed. At one of these meetings the men usually hear a speaker from the "outside," someone who has been through the labyrinth of drink and who can pass on useful information.

In the clubroom the seaman is temporarily shielded from temptation and disturbances and is given time for introspection, time to conceive of a life without alcohol.

Recognizing that alcoholism is often related to deep emotional problems, the Bureau makes no estimate of the number for whom sobriety is the threshold to a full and useful life.

"After a man ships out we can make no promises about what's going to happen to him," comments Dr. Hall. "All we know is that we've helped him to another chance. With our resources here at the Institute we can plant the seeds of the greater values, but whether or not they take root depends on many things; it takes years to know the whole story. The Alcoholics Assistance Bureau here at the Institute has learned to take its satisfaction in small doses, figuring that a man is better sober part of the time than not at all."

WE do not need more material development; we need more spiritual development. We do not need more intellectual power; we need more moral power. We do not need more knowledge; we need more character. We do not need more government; we need more culture. We do not need more law; we need more religion.

New Canon Theologian

THE election of the Rev. Howard A. Johnson, Visiting Fellow of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, England, as Canon Theologian of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, was announced on January 26th by the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., S.T.D., Bishop of New York. The Cathedral Trustees elected Mr. Johnson, who was formerly Associate Professor of Theology at the University of the South, on the nomination of The Bishop.

The new canonry was established by a statute adopted at a meeting of the Trustees in December. Under the direction of the Dean, the Very Rev. James A. Pike, J.S.D., D.D., the new Canon will head the educational program of the Cathedral, and a considerable portion of his time will be devoted to theological scholarship.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles and of Virginia Theological Seminary, and received the degree of Master of Sacred Theology summa cum laude from Union Theological Seminary. He has also done graduate study at Princeton University and from 1946 to 1948 studied philosophy and theology at the University of Copenhagen, where he was the first American to be admitted as a candidate for the doctorate. His dissertation is in the field of the writings of Sren Kierkegaard. He has served

The Dean's Column

THERE HAS BEEN SO MUCH emphasis in the pages of The BULLETIN on the educational program of the Cathedral, such as our forums for graduate students, faculty, clergy and experts in specialized fields, I want to write this month about the day-to-day ministry and service of your Cathedral to "all sorts and conditions of men."

ONE WOULD NOT THINK that the individual would count for much in so big a place. Yet I doubt if there are many churches in which more persons are met as individuals in the course of a week. Initial contact is made from our direction in four principal ways:

1. After services: After the 11 a.m. service on Sunday, for example, you will see six clergy at various points in the nave visiting with strangers and often we have been there 'till as late as 1 o'clock. In other words, the process is not simply one of a cordial pumping of hands at the door. Sometimes the visitor simply wishes to express enthusiasm about his visit to the Cathedral; sometimes he brings greetings from his home rector; sometimes he wants to ask about the service or sermon, or about the Episcopal Church; sometimes he wants to know where the Episcopal church nearest to his home is; sometimes he indicates a problem or need or interest in coming into the Church — in which cases an appointment is made; sometimes he just wants to talk — which is also an important human need to respond to.

2. The Sunday afternoon teas: The teas provided by our various parishes through the Woman's Auxiliary provide a more extended opportunity for all of the above as well as for exercising one of the Christian virtues emphasized over and over again in the New Testament: hospitality. The make-up of our guests is as broad as the make-up of our congregations: every race, many national origins, every economic level.

3. The tours: An average of forty times a week tours are provided for groups ranging from two or three to a hundred by our seminarians or the verger, and afterwards many individuals linger to talk. In what this often leads to, the tours are closely related to.

4. The seminarian program: Every afternoon two seminarians are on duty. One takes tours, the other is a "free-wheeler" available to approach individuals who come into the Cathedral, to extend a welcome, to answer questions, to counsel, to comfort, to pray with people.

AS I INDICATED, these are ways of initial contact. From these contacts and by direct request by phone or letter, come the scores of pastoral conferences. Each of our clergy, whatever his particular administrative duties may be, engages in this work. Sometimes what is required is careful referral: to a parish priest, to a hospital chaplain, to one of our church's social agencies or some other agency, to the psychotherapist on our staff; sometimes there is financial need in emergencies which can be met in no other way than by direct help; sometimes patient counsel or extended instruction or guidance in reading is called for.

THE RESULTS? Since ours is, in the nature of the case, a "ships passing in the night" ministry, we do not — as often as do parish priests — have the satisfaction of knowing the results. But often we do: a conversion consummated by baptism or confirmation, a man's vocation to the priesthood settled, a decision to come from another ministry into our own, the loyalty of an Episcopalian to his Church maintained in a "mixed marriage" situation, families reconciled.

When God brings such blessings through us it makes up some (but not entirely, I assure you) for what in the nature of things is denied us: the relation between the minister and a definite part of the family of God, which is the burden — and joy — of the parish priest: than which there is no more rewarding ministry in Christ's Church.

parishes in Southern California and in Washington, D.C., during which latter assignment he served as a lecturer on the faculty of the Virginia Theological Seminary.

In the summer of 1952, on the invitation of Japanese educators, Mr. Johnson lectured on Kierkegaard to 22 Japanese universities, colleges and seminaries (Christian, Shinto, Buddhist and secular). His lectures have just been published in book form in Japanese.

St. Augustine's College, where Mr. Johnson has been serving this year under appointment of the Archbishops of Canterbury and York and the Bishop of London, is the central college of the Anglican Communion.

The Canon-elect will begin his duties on September 15 and will be installed in the Cathedral at a service on Sunday, October 3rd, at Evensong. The Rev. Canon Theodore Wedel, Warden of the College of Preachers, Washington, D.C., will preach the Installation Sermon.

Manhattan's second oldest Parish — CHRIST CHURCH — recently has set about improving the existing fabric of the Church on West 71st Street, to be able to serve more adequately the rapidly changing life on the West Side of Manhattan. Since the announcement last year at the time of the 160th Anniversary of the Parish of a wide-scale modernization program, the Rector, the Reverend William H. Pickford, reports that a new automatic heating system has been installed. The Choir Room and Sacristy have been completely remodelled with cork floors, new lighting and a repainting job. The Reception Room, Assembly Room, and Kitchen are being done over and were opened and blessed by Bishop Boynton on February 14th when he visited the Parish for Confirmation. The Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, under the direction of Miss Gwen Williamson, were hostesses at that time.

There is also, recently organized, a Fellowship Time after the 11:00 o'clock service every Third Sunday of the month. The Woman's Auxiliary is also in charge of this affair. The next step in modernization will be a new lighting system for the Church itself whose beauty is now somewhat obscured by an outmoded system. No Major repairs have been undertaken by CHRIST CHURCH since the building was badly damaged by a fire almost thirty years ago. With the added emphasis on fellowship in new and modern buildings, CHRIST CHURCH is attempting to meet the changes in a very shifting neighborhood.

THE RAMAPO CONVOCATION

The Rev. Fessenden A. Nichols

"In the autumn of 1879 the spiritual, moral and temporal needs of the basket makers and others among the Ramapo Hills back of Haverstraw Village were forcibly represented to me. After much correspondence, I learned that a missionary, a lady from the Isle of Guersney, England, Mrs. A. B. Carey – appointed by Bishop Potter (Rt. Rev. Horatio Potter) was working among these people, and living with one of the families in that region.

"It therefore seemed to me that if a piece of ground, properly located, could be found and secured, upon which a building of logs could be placed as a missionary station, combining Chapel and living rooms for the missionary, that much good might be done."

So wrote Mrs. Margaret E. Zimmerman of New York City, and thus was founded ST. JOHN'S-IN-THE-WILDERNESS, St. John's. Difficulty was met in securing logs. It was finally decided to build the Church, etc., of hornblend, which was found on the property. Mrs. Zimmerman donated all this as a memorial to her late husband, John Edward Zimmerman. The bequest also included a sum of money, which has served as an endowment, to help support ST. JOHN'S ever since.

This mission was known as the Church of "St. John the Evangelist." The building is a creation of beauty and grace, with handsome, stained glass windows and good furnishings.

In 1910 the plan for a great State Park was debated. This caused perturbation in ST. JOHN'S. To Mrs. Zimmerman was conveyed the information that "the existence of a few scattered houses, or even villages, within the general territory, to be set aside for a park will not interfere with the plan." It was indicated that ST. JOHN'S MISSION would not be injured.

The final result was that very few homes were left in the vicinity, and so ST. JOHN'S stands in the midst of this vast and wonderful State Park, surrounded by camp sites, lakes and forest.

The mission is appropiately named today ST. JOHN'S-IN-THE-WILDERNESS. It continues to serve many people, largely through pastoral and devotional services. The school, and the secular activities, are no longer needed.

Thirty years ago some hikers wandered into the church on Palm Sunday. Spiritually refreshed they said, "Why not do this every year?" And thus began the famous "hikers' service" on Palm Sunday, to which 300 hikers are attracted, year after year, from ten outing clubs in and around the City of New York.

After Evening Prayer is ended, every one goes into the Old Barn for coffee and cake—quite wonderful, too, the pride and joy of those who prepare it.

Dances, social affairs, parties are held in this amazing Old Barn, which is well known throughout this part of the world for good times, under church auspices.

In 1953 a window was dedicated to the memory of the Rev. Walter F. Hoffman, for most of his ministry, Vicar of this missionary region. This year a Hammond Organ will be dedicated to his memory.

The interior of the Church had become extremely neglected and shabby. The past summer this has been rehabilitated and restored. Much of the work was given by devoted men and women of ST. JOHN'S. There is an Advisory Board of ten men who meet regularly. There is a Parish Guild of twenty-five women. During the past two years the Sunday School has grown to about twenty-five. On a very stormy Sunday (and most of the congregation have to drive many miles, and up one of the most difficult and steep hills in the country) recently there was a congregation of twenty-seven for the afternoon service. Once a month sees a good turnout for "Family Service" with a celebration of the Holy Communion: parents, Sunday School pupils and congregation. For the past two years ST. JOHN'S has overpaid her Missionary quota. She pays all her expenses, with the exception of the Vicar's stipend, which comes from the Zimmerman Fund.

This spring it is hoped to rehabilitate the rooms adjacent to, and connected with, the Church. This renovation will supply heat for the whole building. The present heating, with stoves, is utterly inadequate. New lighting is promised, a modern system of electricity, longed for and now imminent. The cemetery is efficiently managed.

Bishop Boynton preached at both the 9:30 and the 11 o'clock services and presided at the latter as well.

The Men of SAINT JAMES', Fordham, held their Annual Dinner in the Parish Hall on Monday evening the 18th of January at 7:30. Mr. Frank Vilas of the Consolidated Edison Company was the guest speaker. Mr. John A. Woolf is President of the MEN OF SAINT JAMES'.

The Suffragan

"If Thou Be The Son of God . . ."

THE most supreme of the three temptations our Lord endured in the wilderness was that in which the devil said, "If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down (from the pinnacle of the Temple): for it is written, He shall give his angels charge concerning thee: and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone".

Our Lord appears here to be tempted to doubt the very call to Messiahship itself. One can almost hear the debate going on in his mind — If I am the Messiah, then nothing can possibly happen to me, according to the psalmist. If I am not, then I am about to embark on a false ministry which can only have tragic consequences for all. Why not put my vocation to the test?

The answer came quickly and unequivocally. "Thou shalt not tempt (or better, put to the test) the Lord thy God." In other words, the knowledge of our Lord's vocation was not to be determined by "signs" or "portents". Reason and conscience had led him to be certain that he was the Son of God; he would do nothing to repudiate them as God's sufficient means of revelation.

We are constantly tempted to put our vocations and decisions to the test by asking of God a special sign. Our response to this type of temptation should be the same as our Lord's, "Thou shalt not test the Lord thy God".

God gives us reason and conscience and the guidance of His Holy Spirit. By these we are to determine our vocations and actions even as Christ did in the wilderness.

porate Communion of the Men and Boys of the Church was held on Washington's Birthday. This year this event took place at the CHURCH OF THE HOLY NATIVITY at 9 o'clock. The Celebrant was the Suffragan Bishop. The Men of SAINT JAMES, Fordham, sponsored some of the younger boys of their parish for this affair and suggested that other parishes do the same. The idea was well received. Breakfast was served about 10:15.

The Annual Parish Meeting at CHRIST CHURCH, Riverdale, began with a good dinner on Tuesday evening the 12th of January. After the dinner Dr. Elliott presented Billings Wilson with a Resolution adopted by the Vestry in appreciation of his leadership and help in the many years he had served as Vestryman and Warden, stating that his wise counsel would be missed. In his reply, Mr. Wilson said that the many things accomplished were due to the example of the Rector, the Reverend Gerald V. Barry, who, "with one head, two hands and two feet, had knit the Parish together and had been, in all things, an excellent Priest." The following men were nominated and later unanimously elected: Warden, Dr. Walter S. Root; Vestrymen, Dr. Stanley N. Bysshe, Mr. Norman R. Heywood, Mr. John H. Jones, Mr. Charles A. Petty, and Mr. Frederic B. Stimson. The speaker on the occasion was Mr. Charles A. Capron.

The WOMAN'S AUXILIARY OF THE BRONX is sponsoring a Quiet Evening on Monday the 15th of February at the CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Matilda Avenue and 238th Street. Father Adams of the Order of the Holy Cross will be the Conductor. The First Meditation will be at 6 o'clock followed by Supper at 6:30. There is no charge for Supper but reservations should be made with Mrs. Bennett at FAirbanks 4-2935 before the 12th of February.

The Episcopal Basketball League of the Bronx Convocation opened the season with a Corporate Communion and breakfast at SAINT PETER'S CHURCH, Westchester, on January 9th. The Rev. Leslie Lang was the celebrant, assisted by the Rev. James Edwards of ST. JAMES', Fordham. In charge of the affair was an interparochial committee, under the chairmanship of William Buchanan, of ST. JAMES'. The special speaker was Nick Aramondi, local sportswriter, noted athlete and coach, and Sports Editor of the Parkchester-Bronx Press Review. Mr. Aramondi assured the League of his continued support by way of publicity. Ted Decker, on behalf of the Men's Committee of the Convocation, conveyed the good wishes of the men and assured the League of continued financial support. Stephen Ray, Chairman of the League, said that it was hoped to have at least eight teams in the League, and two divisions, one for those of 12 to 15 years, and another for those of 15 to 19 years of age. At the end of the regular season a play-off series will be held, with a final game to decide the championship.

The advisor and chairman of the League is Stephen Ray, a vestryman of St. Peter's and teacher in the New York City Public schools. The officers are: Secretary, William Buchanan of ST. JAMES'; Treasurer, James Harris of ST. PAUL'S; Executive Members, Leonard Puckering of SAINT PAULS; Clem Fullerton of ST. JAMES'; Harold Russell of ST. MARGARET'S; and Justin Van Walters of ST. ANN'S.

The Christmas Festival at the CHURCH OF THE HOLY INNOCENTS, Highland Falls, was ushered in with a Midnight Eucharist, beginning at 11:15 on Christmas Eve, and a record attendance of devout worshippers heard the parish choir of twenty-six young people sing the "Missa Brevis in Honor of St. Ambrose", under the direction of Miss Mary Drew, Organist. The Altar and Sanctuary were beautiful with red poinsettia bouquets and plants given as memorials to the faithful departed of our parochial family. Mr. Frank C. Conero, Sr. was responsible for the floral arrangements.

The special Christmas offering was the largest, by far, of any placed upon the Altar during the pastorate of Mr. Drew extending over the past twenty-seven years. This is not only true of the Christmas offering, but it is also true of the Sunday offerings for current expense and for missions. During the past six years, since the parish has lost through death, the large donations and contributions of the former wealthy members, the people of the local congregation have increased their giving almost 300%. Communions made each Sunday have increased in the same ratio.

The Sunday School held its Christmas Service in the Church, Sunday afternoon, January 3rd. There was a very good attendance of children, parents and friends, notwithstanding the inclement weather. After the short

W.A. Christian Social Relations

ONE of man's most elemental needs is the need to serve. In today's interdependent world, we must know our world, our nation and our community in order to serve intelligently and effectively.

It has been said that the Episcopal Church has always done the best things in the worst times. Certainly we are living in difficult times. This has been called the age of Gadgets, the Mechanized Age, the Atomic Age. It is an age of unrest, uncertainty, fear. The world is in a real predicament and this is reflected in our nation, our Diocese and our communities. America was founded by people with deep religious conviction and yet there is more divorce, more broken homes, more crime in this country than in any other country in the world. Disregarding the usual lawbreaking and crime, consider the fact that more than one million children in the U.S.A. were arrested last year, not for minor crimes, but for very serious crimes. This is a startling challenge to the Christian Church and to all that it teaches. It is a challenge to each one of us, to our sincerity and integrity as Christians. We must behave differently because we are Christians. We have human rights, we also have grave responsibilities. We must understand what it really means to live in an interdependent world. There has never been a time when there was greater need for wise courageous leadership from Church women. They must be steadfast and unconfused.

The task of the W.A. Department of Christian Social Relations is to provide information and guidance for Diocesan and parish programs of service and of community study and action. The W.A. Diocesan program of Christian Social Relations is divided into five departments:

1. Health and Welfare Services
2. Community Relations
3. Interdenominational Cooperation
4. National Areas
5. World Areas

Studying these five headings and the several subdivisions under each one it is apparent that nothing that affects human life lies beyond the concern of the Church. The Church as a Corporate Body cannot enter into all these activities, but the members of that Body, acting individually can do something about them. There is no question about the desire of our women to serve. But we must be alert and well informed. Information and action go hand in hand. The block to the effectiveness of our W.A. Christian Social Relations program has been in the lack of Christian Social Relations parish branch chairmen, through whom the Diocesan Committee can channel information and programs of action. Without these parish branch Christian Social Relations chairmen we can do little or nothing. As each new parish branch chairmen has been appointed our usefulness has increased and our results in the community have spread. We need a Christian Social Relations chairman in every parish in the Diocese.

The challenge of the ages is before the Christians of today! Each one of us can and must accept that challenge and act to further the Improvement of Man's Relationships with Man. Believing in the Fatherhood of God, we must work for the Brotherhood of Man. We must use our influence as Christian women on the Boards and Committees of our Community Organizations. We must support our Diocesan Agencies and Institutions, the United Nations, the United Church Women: refuse to be silent and passive — speak and act. The Age of Miracles is now!

April Meeting

THE April Diocesan meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be the "out of town" meeting of the year. This year it will be held in the District of Richmond, at Christ Church Parish House, 76 Franklin Ave., New Brighton, Staten Island, at 10:30 A.M. The speaker will be The Rev. William A. Clebsch of the Virginia Theological Seminary. His topic will be "The Why of the Church's Mission".

Service during which the rector made a brief address to the children, all gathered in the parish choir room where ice cream, candy and gifts of prayer books and religious medals were distributed by Mrs. Clara Browne, teacher-in-charge, assisted by Mrs. Bertha Nikola, Mrs. Martha Hicks and Mrs. Florence Hall.

The annual meeting of ST. PETER'S PARISH, which includes ST. JOHN'S at High Falls, was held at ST. PETER'S CHURCH in Stone Ridge on Monday evening January 11, 1954.

Hubert Smith of High Falls who has been a vestryman or warden of the Parish for twenty-six years was unanimously elected warden emeritus. Mr. Smith has been Superintendent of the Sunday School for 26½ years, a licensed Lay Reader for many years and was Treasurer of the Hudson Convocation for eleven years.

ST. JOHN'S Kingston. In spite of the stormy weather the annual meeting was largely attended. Harry Kaprailian was elected Warden and Herman Gunter, Herman Schroder, Robert Cousins and Matthias Richardson to serve on the Vestry. The newly elected officers were formally instituted at the 8:00 o'clock Eucharist on the Sunday following their election.

Mr. Richard Davis, A.G.O., has taken over the duties of organist and choirmaster at ST. JOHN'S. The Church School of this parish is to be commended for taking a large share of the cost of redecorating the Parish House recently. They paid for the foundation masonite in the laying of the new floor and helped in the tedious work of nailing it down. The Guild of the Christ Child is to be formed in this parish under the direction of Mrs. Bert Bishop. Next big project is the repair of the stained glass windows in the Church.

How do you score in young people's work? It's hard to know, but the young people of Dutchess Convocation have taken a lead from their contemporaries in Westchester and found it pays. Until recently there was little teen age activity in the northern part of the Diocese. A variety of excuses were fostered but results have shown that given a reason for gathering, young people will do so and have a good time.

Toward the end of last year representatives from all the parishes of Dutchess met at CHRIST CHURCH, Poughkeepsie. Together they discussed the organization of a rally for November. Geography seemed to demand two separate groups, one south of Pokip and another north of the city. To date the northern group has met once while the southern half has met twice and has three more gatherings scheduled. ST. MARY'S CHURCH, Cold Spring, entertained at a supper and square dance. The Feast of Lights was celebrated at ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, Beacon. A Hatian program and a swimming party as well as Youth Sunday are still on the agenda. Fun is not the only motive, however. Such gatherings provide a ready means for filtering material and plans down to the lower levels from the Diocesan Youth Council.

In and about the Convocation we hear that ZION CHURCH, Wappingers Falls, has acquired a set of solid mahogany creche figures from Haiti through the generosity of Willis L. M. Reese. They are the first to be done for Church purposes by an Hatian artist . . . Evening Prayer is sung one evening a month at GRACE CHURCH, Millbrook, with a "Fellowship Hour" following . . . An active youth group has recently been formed at Lake Mahopac and Granite Springs . . . Construction on the new church has begun at Granite Springs . . . sation on the Christian religion as it is related to science, to other religions, to ethics, and to the problem of evil.

I WOULD also recommend for your Lenten reading, "Think on These Things", the Harper book for Lent by the Reverend Dr. John Ellis Large, Rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest. Those who are seeking to deepen their spiritual lives will find in Dr. Large's book a novel presentation with the freshness of an unusual and effective approach to the meaning of Christian living.

ANOTHER book by one of our clergy which should be included in your Lenten reading is "Do You Want Inward Power?" by the Reverend Dr. John Heuss, published by Seabury Press. This is a book of sermons which will lead to an understanding of the essentials of the Christian faith, and be a stimulus to further knowledge and study.

Praying God's blessing upon you all, I am

Faithfully your Bishop

ped by lack of funds to operate in an efficient and business-like manner.

Many times the church could save considerable sums of money if it just had available funds to go into growing communities and purchase land or other property for future churches before that property becomes so expensive that the price alone makes it impossible for the church to establish itself in those self-same communities.

The Diocese through its Board of Missions in it's contacts with the aided parishes and missions under it's direction has many needs that require the use of capital funds which regular missionary giving does not cover.

It is hoped that this Special Givers Drive, which will take place prior to the regular drive on May 2nd, will be able to raise the necessary $200,000. which will be spent wholly within the limits of the Diocese.

Your Clergy, Wardens, Vestrymen and a large group of active and interested laity have been informed and are working on the program at this time.

The Bishop urges all those church people that go to make up our Diocese to rally behind this worthy cause. Our need is great but it is not greater than our ability to meet it.

Archdeacon Brätt Celebrates 25th Anniversary

THE Venerable George F. Brätt, Archdeacon of the Diocese of New York was the Celebrant at Holy Communion at 8:30 A.M. in the Oratory of Diocesan House, 110th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, on his Twenty-fifth Anniversary in the priesthood, February 10th.

Archdeacon Brätt was ordained to the priesthood by the late Right Reverend Fredrick Howden, Bishop of the Missionary District of New Mexico and Southwest Texas, at St. Matthew's Church, Worcester, Massachusetts.

The staff of Diocesan House joined the Archdeacon in his Celebration, and at breakfast in the Undercroft of Synod House afterward.

A Forum for Directors of Religious Education

We are indebted to Alfred Burlingame, New York Correspondent for Episcopal Church News, for the the following.

A FLEXIBLE "five-year plan" for improving and coordinating Christian education in the Diocese of New York is showing progress in its first year.

Worked out by the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, director of the dioceson Department of Christian Education, the plan was explained by him to 30 members of an experimental "Director's Forum" Feb. 1, at the New York Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Those attending were parish directors of religious education and others with special interest in the field.

The forum itself is part of the plan, and by electing to make it a continuing feature in the diocesan program, its members provided a sounding board for the diocesan department a year ahead of schedule. Mr. Wetmore hadn't counted on its formation until "Year Two." Members will meet periodically to keep the department in touch with the thinking and needs of Christian education in the diocese and allow the department to interpret developments in its program and in Christian education in general.

Mr. Wetmore, a tall, bespectacled Canadian who was appointed to the post last year by Bishop Donegan, outlined some details of his plan's first two years and explained that the last three years will be given to intensifying the previous work and making necessary program adjustments.

At the end of five years, it is estimated, the department should be operating with maximum effectiveness, and Christian education in the diocese should be on a level with the best in the Church.

What is being done in the first year?

- setting up of the department's five divisions — children's youth, college, leadership training, and adult education — each with its own chairman, regulations, and five-year plan.
- visits by the director to each parish and mission in the diocese for conference with clergy and religious education leaders.
- establishing a diocesan reference library on Christian education, with books, curriculum materials, and visual-aid samples.
- two parish life conferences (intensive weekend conferences attended by four or five parishioners from each of half a dozen different parishes), in cooperation with the National Council's Leadership Training Division.
- re-establishment of convocation teachers' institutes and the New York School of Religion.
- conducting convocation curriculum conferences in May and June.
- continuing such successful features of the diocesan program as the annual presentation service, summer conferences, Cathedral Youth Day, and the Cathedral Workshop.
- increasing promotion of Christian education through diocesan Department of Promotion, parish pulpit, and direct correspondence.

In the second year, besides continuing these activities, Mr. Wetmore plans to establish a religious education conference center for year-round leadership training, to seek agreement on standards for parish day schools, and to increase promotion of such schools.

Evaluation of the first half of the program will take place in the third year.

With the Rt. Rev. Charles F. Boynton, Suffragan Bishop, presiding, members at the first "Director's Forum" heard not only diocesan plans but a report on progress by the National Council's Curriculum Development Division, with the Division's director, the Rev. Charles W. Sydnor Jr., and the former director of the National Department of Christian Education, the Rev. John Heuss, rector of Trinity Parish, New York, presenting details.

Mr. Sydnor emphasized that leadership training and curriculum development must be considered equally important, if the Church is to make full use of the materials being developed by his division.

"If we are going to have teachers to do this job," he said, "they have to be aware of the redemptive fellowship of which they are members... We want church school teachers first of all because they are committed Christians."

Dr. Heuss termed the new curriculum "a call for the Church to take its sacramental, spiritual life seriously."

"It's unrealistic to think that we are going to enlist the cooperation of all parents," he advised. "That would be ideal. In many circumstances there will be very little cooperation. That places on the fellowship of the parish the demand that it bear even more of the burden of the job. There must be within the parish a reality of religious life that is so deep that as the need comes out of this (the church school) class, it bears upon (the pupil) in an educating way.

"I am not worried so much about enlisting aid and cooperation of parents but the spiritual condition of most of our parishes — where they are concerned with bake sales and fairs... What is the real task of the parish?"

Mr. Sydnor reported that the National Department was keeping up to schedule on its nine-year program of the new curriculum development, with the first courses to be published in 1955. He added that the first helps for teacher training will be received by diocesan departments this spring.

The forum included a question-and-answer panel in which Bishop Boynton was moderator and Mr. Wetmore and Mr. Sydnor were joined by Miss Evelyn Spickard and the Rev. Richard Harbour as panel members. Miss Spickard is director of religious education at Chapel of the Intercession, New York. Mr. Harbour, rector of St. Barnabas' Church, Irvington, N. Y., is chairman of the diocesan leadership training division.

The Prioress at St. Helena Writes....

A NUMBER of people have inquired about the schedule of retreats at the Convent of St. Helena. Now that we are settled, and have acquired enough furniture to equip the guest house adequately if not completely, we are glad to welcome individuals or groups at any time. We can accomodate thirteen people, five in single rooms and eight in double rooms.

"We have not planned a series of retreats, as that is being done elsewhere in this area, but we do hope to have one three day retreat and one shorter retreat for our Associates and any others who would like to come sometime in the Spring. Dates for these will be announced later, and if any of you have suggestions as to what would be the best time we will be glad to hear from you.

"Other retreats will be planned as the need arises, and in this we ask your help. If there is a group in your parish or community which would be interested in making a retreat, please write to us, and we will help you plan it. If you or others you know would like to come to a group retreat but there are not enough of you to plan your own, let us know and we will see what arrangements can be made. If you would like to make a private retreat, that can be arranged at almost any time.

"We have sometimes been asked about married people making retreats together. Our guest house is so arranged that four couples could use it, and we would be glad to help you plan such a retreat. Another possibility would be for the women to make a retreat here while the men made theirs at Holy Cross.

"We are most anxious to have our Convent and guest house used in whatever way will be most helpful to you, so please let us hear from you."

Faithfully yours in our Lord

The City Is The Mission

IV.

MANY of our people who live in the pleasant suburbs surrounding New York City have moved out from the inner city to find sunshine and trees, good schools and playground space, and all that goes with suburban life. The parishes they left behind in the city must still struggle after their old parishioners' departure to preach the Gospel to those people who move into the old neighborhood in their places.

Some of these old city parishes seem strong even today, others have come on hard times and are limping along on skeleton budgets. In either case it is now abundantly clear that the city parish must continually study its situation and life periodically, studying and evaluating the job it is doing and asking itself pointed questions. A continuing parish evaluation committee composed of leading members of the parish organizations should be at work in every congregation. Their job is to answer such questions as "In what kind of neighborhood is our church located? What are the needs of this community? How can this parish attempt to meet one or more of these needs? How effective is the work our parish is doing? Are we meeting our community's needs in our parish organizations? If not, why not? If so, how effectively? What can this parish do to make its work more pertinent to the needs of neighborhood people, and do it more effectively?"

This is no job for the Rector to do alone although of course he is concerned with it. In most parishes the Vestry might be expected to keep these questions in mind. But, alas, in many these elected representatives of the congregation are almost solely concerned with the raising and spending of money, and the many details of church housekeeping. This is a job for each member, and especially those who are in positions of leadership, to give earnest and prayerful consideration.

Preserving New York's Landmarks for 104 Years

The churches, buildings and monuments which reflect New York's 300-year history do not withstand the rigors of time and weather without the aid of man.

And to many of these, such aid has come in the form of repair and maintenance by Nicholson & Galloway, Inc., specialists in roofing and waterproofing for 103 years.

The famous structures on which we have worked include the Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Tower, Grant's Tomb, the Stock Exchange, Wanamaker's, Trinity Church, the Pierpont Morgan Library, the Astor Hotel, Garden City Cathedral and St. Marks-In-The-Bouwerie.

The City is the Mission

Too often our parishes have histories that somewhat resemble the noise of a siren. They build up rather quickly to the peak of activity, go along comparatively well for a period, and then coast downhill on accumulated momentum. In like manner many grand old parishes have continued for years on the memories of past glories — still ministering to a faithful few after the bulk of its congregation have moved away, while new multitudes of the unchurched move in all around without the church doing anything to bring them within its doors.

And for those parishes who are now going strong, who think they do not have to re-evaluate the work their parish is doing — in a city like New York where neighborhood change moves with swift and certain steps — it may be later than you think!

It is the function of the Social Research Committee of the Department of Missions, and its Executive Secretary, to give aid to parishes in making this evaluation of their work. Like the recommended annual medical checkup for men, the Parish Evaluation will often reveal possible future sources of difficulty as well as locations of present weakness. Thus armed with self-knowledge the leaders of the parish can better plan their programs to take advantage of present opportunities, to correct present weakness, as well as avoiding future difficulties.

Dr. Nolde To Speak at Incarnation

On Tuesday, March 16th, at 8 p.m. Dr. O. Frederick Nolde will speak on "The Voice Of The Church In World Affairs" at The Church of The Incarnation, 209 Madison Avenue.

He is also the Dean of the Graduate School of the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

He is the Commission's official representative at the meetings of the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. He has had real responsibility in this regard concerning matters to do with human rights, religious liberty, refugees and displaced persons, and all matters concerning peace and justice throughout the world.

He travels widely both in Europe and the Far East.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

THE four books which this month pass "in review" have several points in common. Physically they are comfortable books. In page size and bulk they are all easy to hold; in typography they are all above average: the types used are of a good size, well-spaced, and pleasingly placed on the page — all characteristics which invite reading. The publishers have done their job well.

The six authors (all priests of this Church, four in this Diocese) of these four books have done their job well, too. Each is a readable, straightforward presentation that will make its perusal during this Lent a special joy.

And so we come to the books themselves:

Roadblocks to Faith: The Believer Answers the Skeptic by James A. Pike and John McG. Krumm (New York, Morehouse-Gorham. $2.25)

What is the Priesthood? by John V. Butler and W. Norman Pittenger (New York, Morehouse-Gorham. $3.00)

Think on These Things by John Ellis Large (New York, Harpers. $1.75)

The Miracle of the Cross: The Story of the Centurion by Robert R. Brown (Westwood, Revell. $1.50)

THE recent observance of Theological Education Sunday (January 24) and the current emphasis of the Builders for Christ program in the Church's theological seminaries gives a peculiar timeliness and importance to the Butler-Pittenger book, What is the Priesthood? Superficially this may seem only a career book to help young men on the threshold of life to consider Holy Orders as a vocation. And this book makes an important contribution in that respect, but it has a wider mission and importance. It can interpret to the laity of this Church, to men and women alike, the nature of the priesthood, what does it require of the men who embrace it, what are the duties that it imposes, what is the nature of the task. As this book gives to the laity a better and deeper understanding of the priesthood, it will renew in the older men already in that Order an appreciation of the co-operative nature of their vocation and a stimulus to their further thinking on the place of Holy Order in Christ's Church.

The authors have had a wide experience in the Church. Professor Pittenger, recently named first Charles Lewis Gough Professor of Apologetics in the General Theological Seminary, New York, is a fluent popular writer. Among a long list of books bearing his name is The Faith of the Church (Seabury $2.50). Last year he also wrote for Look Magazine an article on the Episcopal Church which in reprint form achieved a distribution in excess of 200,000 copies. John V. Butler, rector of Trinity Church, Princeton, N. J., is also a member of the Church's National Council. To these two authors must be added the name of the contributor of the Foreword, the Rt. Rev. Stephen F. Bayne, Jr., now Bishop of Olympia, but a priest in this Diocese as chaplain of Columbia University.

TWO men who followed Bishop Bayne as chaplains at Columbia, James A. Pike, now our Cathedral Dean, and John McG. Krumm, the present chaplain, have collaborated in the volume designated as the Bishop of New York's Book, Roadblocks to Faith.

This book is really a transcript of a series of dialogue addresses which Dean

Pike and Chaplain Krumm gave at the Cathedral last summer to congregations of the college community. As Bishop Donegan writes in his Foreword, "The sermons are designed primarily for more mature minds." And then he concludes the Foreward: "This book will be found an excellent discipline for the mind in thinking through your religious belief, so that, in the words of the Epistle of I Peter 3:15, you may be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with gentleness and reverence."

THE rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Manhattan, is the author of the volume marked The Harper Book for Lent and entitled Think on These Things. Recognizing that Lent is often a time for special devotional reading, this volume presents a series of essays based on the New Testament proclamation God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life.

I have just turned the last page of this book. It ends with a prayer. The last few lines read: "Please help me so live, that I may become an increasingly uncluttered channel of Your grace. To this end, may I think Your own thoughts after You, and speak Your own Word. I love You and I love these people, among whom I've been called. That's that, God. Amen."

If you want to be able to pray this prayer, the reading and pondering of Think on These Things may help.

THE last book in this quartet of Lenten reading, The Miracle of the Cross by the rector of historic St. Paul's Church, Richmond, Va., the Rev. Robert R. Brown, is a brief meditation based on our Lord's Seven Last Words and has a Foreword by the former Presiding Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker. Mr. Brown is known beyond his own diocese, having been a member of the Church's National Council and having been an editor of The Southern Churchman during the period when its successor, Episcopal Churchnews, was being created.

This column or any book review column is read for a variety of reasons. Publishers look at it to discover which of their own titles have been included and with what approval. Authors may read it with similar objectives. Others may read it as an exercise to avoid the reading of books. Others consult it as a guide for reading. And for those who read, I hope the books will carry a message — bring new knowledge, clarify a troublesome idea, deepen understanding and, together, add to the reader's inner joy and radiance.

Appointed Head of Protestant Chaplaincy at Bellevue

THE appointment of the Rev. Armen D. Jorjorian as the head of the Protestant Chaplaincy and Clinical Pastoral Training Programs at Bellevue Hospital, was announced recently by the Rev. William E. Sprenger, director of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society.

Chaplain Jorjorian earned his B.D. (cum laude) in 1946 at Seabury Western Theological Seminary and has taken graduate work at Columbia University, in the philosophy of religion, toward a Ph.D. He has been on the staff of the Society for seven years, as the Senior Chaplain at the City Penitentiary of New York at Rikers Island, which for the past two years has been a clinical training center.

The Episcopal City Mission Society has supported a program of religious ministry at Bellevue Hospital since 1831. At present, four full-time Chaplains are responsible for ministering to the total Protestant population of the 2,900 bed Hospital.

In addition to directing the ministry to patients, Chaplain Jorjorian will supervise the Clinical Pastoral Training Program which is maintained at the Hospital, by the Society in cooperation with the Council for Clinical Training.

St. Luke's Hospital Church Committee

THE Church Committee of St. Luke's Hospital held its first meeting of the year on January 8, in the Chinese Lounge of the Nurses' Residence. It was also the first meeting presided over by its new chairman, Mrs. Joseph S. Minnis.

This committee, which was founded in 1914 to assist the work of the hospital's Social Service Department, is composed of one representative from each parish. It was originated by Miss Amy Cleaver. She was a supervisor on the nursing staff when the Rev. George F. Clover, D.D., then Pastor and Superintendent at St. Luke's, asked her to set up a department of social service, at a time when medical social service was practically unheard of. She then interested a group of women in helping to support this work and they were called the Social Service Executive Committee. Miss Cleaver also felt that the churches of the city would naturally be interested in this type of assistance to patients and spoke before groups in the various churches. From interest in her talks the Church Committee developed and it has continued to help in the support of this work ever since. Last year the Committee contributed $6,000 for social service work in the hospital.

The Church Committee has maintained its name but it is now one of the standing committees of the St. Luke's Hospital Auxiliary, the chairman of which is Mrs. Wheadon M. Grant.

At the January 8th meeting, Miss Margaret Rouillion, Director of Social Service, who was the principal speaker, said that the personnel of her department last year had 25,428 interviews in the interest of patients, who included 2,093 cases under active care. These talks were with patients, their families, doctors, social agencies, etc.

As a sidelight on other activities related to helping patients, Miss Rouillion also painted a lively picture of the appreciation shown by hospital patients for the generous Christmas gifts which had been received from the churches and other institutions and friends in New York City. She told of sending 81 children to summer camps and of 90 tickets distributed for the "Floating Hospital." She suggested that there was no age limit to sickness nor ever any lack in variety of problems presented by patients.

Committee members evinced such interest that Mrs. Minnis suggested that speakers from the Hospital Staff might be asked to appear before groups in the various parishes represented on the committee.

The Church Committee is at present composed of the following representatives: ALL ANGELS, Miss Mildred Coster; CALVARY CHURCH, Miss Rebecca Fitzgerald; CHRIST CHURCH, Miss Edythe S. Clark; CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY, Miss Constance Rulison; CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Mrs. Dayton Bennett; GRACE CHURCH, Mrs. John E. Spence; GRACE CHURCH, City Island, Mrs. Richard A. ## Legislation of Importance to You

THE Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese requests your favorable consideration of the following bills:

1. To create a commission to study the marriage laws of the State.
2. To create a temporary commission to study the problem of racial discrimination in housing.
3. To provide an indeterminate sentence for sex offenders against children.
4. To provide funds for experimental schools for the children of migrant workers.
5. To extend the age of "youthful offenders" from 19 to 21.
6. To prohibit racial discrimination in housing accommodations receiving publicly insured financing.
7. To give the State Commission against Discrimination jurisdiction to enforce existing laws against discrimination in publicly assisted housing.

We urge defeat of bills legalizing "Bingo" or other games of chance for charitable purposes.

We are concerned over the form of the proposal to restrict psychiatric and psychological therapy to members of the medical profession. We approve the intention of preventing quackery, but we fear lest the measure be drawn in such a way as to restrict unduly the pastoral counselling of the clergy.

Why not write your Assemblymen and State Senators on these measures.

Big Mass Meeting at Cathedral April 28th

As a "kick-off" of the actual field work of the BUILDERS FOR CHRIST Campaign, which begins on May 2nd, a special service will be held at the Cathedral on Wednesday April 28th at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Truly the service is planned as a gigantic Mass Meeting at which every parish in the Diocese can show its strength and interest in the campaign. The field workers, the Special Gifts workers, as well as laymen's organizations, expect to be present along with parishioners—and the Clergy have been asked to walk vested in the procession.

Bishop Donegan will be the preacher, and John Nicholas Brown will be the guest speaker.

This will be a service of inspiration as well as information. Episcopalians should not fail in this very vital task of knowing of, and providing for, the needs of our Church and its Seminaries; our Church abroad in Japan, the Philippines, and in Puterto Rico; and our Church at Home in rehabilitating the schools of the American Church Institute for Negroes, and the building of new churches and missions in rapidly expanding communities all over the country. Especially should we take into account the needs of the Diocesan Revolving Fund to assist Churches and Missions here at our front gate to meet the needs of their communities.

The Church At Home

In the past several months we have outlined the use to which your contributions to the BUILDERS FOR CHRIST Campaign will be put, namely: 1. to aid in rehabilitating old, and building badly needed new facilities in our Seminaries; 2. to aid in rebuilding our churches and schools in Japan, the Philippines, and in Puerto Rico.

Urgent building needs of the Episcopal Church within the United States will be the focus of attention throughout April, as the BUILDERS FOR CHRIST Campaign swings into its third month of educational information. The Campaign for pledges and gifts begins on May 2nd.

The $4,150,000 drive will, among other things, enable the American Church Institute for Negroes to undertake long-delayed repairs and rebuilding in five of its seven schools in the South through a $500,000 allocation, and also make possible the exten-

The First Sunday After Easter—The Four Colleges Sunday at the Cathedral

Sunday, April 25th, has been designated by the National Council of Churches as National Christian College Day—a day to focus attention on the importance of "Christian colleges for a free America".

That day, the First Sunday After Easter, will be Four Colleges Sunday at the Cathedral. The four Colleges —Hobart at Geneva, N. Y.; Trinity at Hartford, Conn.; Kenyon at Gambier, Ohio; and Sewanee at Sewanee, Tenn., —participating in the Cathedral service of Morning Prayer and Holy Communion, will ask the interest and prayers of all Episcopalians. All four have a common denominator in their dedication to the principles of Christian liberal education in the tradition of the Episcopal Church.

From their combined 17,000 college alumni in the past 100 or more years the Episcopal Church has received 14 percent of its clergy and 25 percent of its bishops, plus countless lay-readers.

All four of the presidents of the colleges will participate in the joint service—President Alan Willard Brown of Hobart, President Gordon Keith Chalmers of Kenyon, Vice-Chancellor and president Edward McCrady of Sewanee, and Trinity's President Albert C. Jacobs will deliver the address. Schola Cantorum, the 70-voice mixed choir of Hobart and William Smith Colleges (the latter for women), directed by Professor Lindsay Lafford, will have an important role in the Four Colleges service at the Cathedral. Mr. Lafford will also be the or-

The Bishop's Message

EASTER brings us face to face with what is for Christians the supreme event in history — the challenging fact of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. Every Christian believes that on Easter Day something happened more significant, more miraculous than the invention of a few loyal followers which they persuaded their companions, and eventually the whole Church, to accept as the foundation of their Gospel. The Lord is risen is a fact — however one may prefer to explain it. At Easter we are concerned with the mightiest act of God, and not something that is either a symbol or a human idea. It is a fact; it has happened. Jesus Christ is risen from the dead. It is no wonder that on Easter Day Christians feel something of the faith of the Disciples which transformed their lives and gave them power to transform the world. This great day of light and life renews and strengthens our faith that God's purpose for us is joy, not sorrow; light, not darkness; victory, not defeat.

The Church expects every confirmed member to receive Holy Communion at Easter; and the reason is clear — "the third day He rose again from the dead." Will you begin now to prepare yourself for your Easter communion, and come to the altar on the great Festival with thanksgiving to God for His assurance of forgiveness and eternal life secured for all who believe in the mystery of Good Friday and the victory of Easter Day?

"BUILDERS for Christ", the current campaign of the Episcopal Church for capital needs overseas and at home, is now under way in our Diocese. The clergy and lay readers are preaching sermons explaining the specific needs that will be met by the campaign. Literature has been sent to all parishioners giving further information so that when the National canvass takes place on May 2nd, our people will understand the reason why and the urgency of this appeal.

The Special Gifts Committee, under the leadership of Mr. Charles M. Walton, Jr., is working to obtain the large gifts that are essential for the success of this endeavor.

We shall not be able to raise the $600,000 which is our Diocesan objective unless our people give generously. Just to make a token offering will not do. Each of us must give adequately, and many of us must make special gifts if New York is to reach its goal.

The Church is confronted with a great challenge — to make Christ known, and to give practical evidence of our faith. May each one of us give of himself and of his means to the utmost.

ON Wednesday evening, April 28th, there will be a great "Builders for Christ" mass meeting at the Cathedral. The details of the service will be announced in your local church. Plan to be present yourself, and make this service known. In the meanwhile, pray for "Builders for Christ", and when the appeal is presented to you give as generously as you are able.

May you have a Blessed Easter.

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

W. A. Christian Education In Action

"CHRIST Calls to Mission and Unity" is the Auxiliary Program emphasis. It comes to us from the National Executive Board of the Woman's Auxiliary, working with the National Council of Churches. As we go forward in our mission we shall move nearer to one another.

We belive that there is unity in our various departments, Devotional Life, Mission Promotion, Personnel, Christian Social Relations, and Christian Education. As church women we are looked to for advice; we do know there is a loving God. Moreover, the whole magnificent tradition of Christian experience down the ages is available to us: We know where and how to learn of Him and His way. Underlying and permeating all the activities of the women is education which is essential not only to a well rounded program, but to the very growth of Christian character.

The difference between an active Church woman and an inactive one is largely a matter of education. An active churchwoman must know the full program of the Church. We must teach that love comes to those who love. If we seek to love rather than to be loved we receive love freely.

Christian Education is like playing the piano. We can have the best teacher in the world, but if we do not practice we will never know how to play for our enjoyment and more particularly for others. Meetings, plans, and conferences are right, but the trouble with education is that so little of it is education in action.

Our Home Mission study subject for 1954 is Spanish-speaking Americans, with emphasis on "The Church's Mission in Urban and Industrial Areas."

There we have it. Christ Calls in the temple, in the homes, in the neighborhoods, in our very hearts. There are 450,000 first and second generation Spanish-speaking Americans in our community. Let us all hear this Call and put Christian Zeal into practice by action through research, study, work and prayer.

At the Metropolitan Missions Training Institute held last year at the Broadway Tabernacle on June 1st, Dr. Scotford spoke on his book "Within These Borders." It is one of the books recommended for study on Spanish-speaking Americans.

Our Overseas Mission study subject for 1954 is "The Life and Task of the Church Around the World." Emphasis has been placed on the work of our Church in Haiti.

The Haiti Republic has just celebrated its sesquicentennial. The Episcopal Church came to Haiti from the United States in 1861. It is now under the leadership of their second missionary bishop, the Rt. Rev. C. Alfred Voegeli.

One of the complaints brought to us has been that our women are not interested in foreign Missions. We all know that speed has reduced mileage, and Dr. Ranson in his book "That the World May Know", stated "The earth has become a single neighborhood before we have learned the art of becoming neighbors."

We are a channel for the full program of the Church.

The National Council provides material but the program must come from the Parish up. Without a program there is bound to be a great deal of wasted effort and understanding of the goal which is necessary.

A program of Christian Education should aim to inform and arouse in every woman an active interest — secure participation in all activities, offer means of strengthening spiritual life, foster fellowship, gain new active members. Such a program will lead groups from self absorption, parish or community interest into fellowship with world life. Fellowship does not mean a cup of tea and cake. Fellowship means being "in communion with," and since the church is concerned with the things of the spirit it must be that kind of communion.

Dr. Glora Wysner, secretary of the International Missionary Council in association with The World Council of Churches, spoke on The Ecumenical Movement, at the June Conference.

"The lesson that we are taught in this world-wide movement is, Christ is not divided. 'As the Father sent me even so send I you.' In this obedience we will find the way to deep unity and understanding. True ecumenicity is rooted in the life of the church as it is now — we believe God is drawing people together. It is not the final answer to problems of disunity, but enables us to find a contradiction in our messages and the barriers to unity. One of the means for growth in Christian Education is to attend your Parish, District, and Diocesan meetings regularly. When ready to go forth in true obedience, seeking unity, we shall learn more fully the larger purpose of God for his Church, and exemplify by our witness the meaning of one body, and one spirit and the Hope of our Calling."

The Diocesan Revolving Fund

THE Diocese of New York needs capital funds to help provide places of worship for new congregations in rapidly growing areas of the Diocese. Nearly every other diocese in the Church faces the same problem and is taking steps to meet it. This situation is the result of steady growth in population and the migrations of people from one area to another. These migrations are in progress for two principal reasons. Industry is decentralizing and moving out of the big cities and people with children are moving out of New York City to seek better homes.

In this Diocese the most significant areas of population growth and change are in the Westchester, Dutchess and Ramapo Convocations. The Hudson Convocation is expected soon to follow a similar pattern. In Westchester small homes on the outskirts of municipalities or between them and apartment houses within them are being built at an astonishing rate. This has resulted in the growth of existing parishes and missions but there are large numbers of people who do not have a neighborhood Church.

A partial solution is the construction of larger parish house facilities

Diocesan Convention May 11

THE 173rd CONVENTION of the DIOCESE OF NEW YORK will be held on Tuesday, May 11, 1954, in the Synod Hall, Cathedral Close, 110th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.

Following a celebration of the Holy Communion in the Cathedral at 8:15 A.M. and breakfast in the Undercroft of the Synod House, the business sessions of the Convention will open at 10:00 A.M.

The Convention is the legislative body of the Diocese consisting of all canonically qualified clergymen together with three lay delegates from each parish, in union with the Convention, and one lay delegate from each aided parish and organized mission.

This year, in addition to the regular elections of members and delegates to The Standing Committee, The Provincial Synod, The Council of the Diocese and The Trustees of the Cathedral, one clergyman and one layman will be elected as delegates and one clergyman and one layman as Provisional Delegates to the Anglican Congress, to be held on August 4th to the 13th at Minneapolis, Minnesota.

The Church at Home

sion of church facilities in emergency areas through a $300,000 allocation. These constitute needs which have developed over a prolonged period of time, and which can be postponed only at the cost of neglecting a part of the Church's work.

One of the principal ways the Episcopal Church has shown its concern for the Negro in the South has been through the American Church Institute for Negroes, founded in 1906 out of a conviction that education was the place to start. The first schools to be supported by the American Church Institute for Negroes were elementary schools, but as educational standards throughout the South progressed, they were either relinquished or converted into secondary schools and Colleges.

Today the American Church Institute for Negroes supports seven educational institutions, each providing a different but essential kind of training. One is a school for nurses, for instance; another a trade school; and another a liberal arts college preparing young people to be teachers, doctors, priests. They are necessary bulwarks for the Church's work among Negroes throughout the South.

These schools are now struggling to maintain their work in the face of rising costs and badly deteriorated plants. What funds would ordinarily have gone into building repair these past years have had to be used for raising the totally inadequate teachers' salaries. The $500,000 item in the BUILDERS FOR CHRIST goal is but a fraction of the money actually needed for building repairs, but it will at least meet the most urgent requirements.

The $300,000 designated for other needs of the Church at home again represents but a fraction of the requests for aid that have been received from dioceses throughout the country. Typical of the needs is for Churches in such rapidly-growing areas as Los Alamos, the Grand Coulee Dam, and the suburbs of large industrial cities like Detroit. While houses, schools, and stores have gone up rapidly, church building has too often lagged far behind through lack of ready funds. Other pressing needs are for extended work among minority groups, such as Puerto Ricans and migrant workers.

The BUILDERS FOR CHRIST Campaign is for the Mission of the Church. And missionary work consists not only in sharing with others our personal relationship with God as we know Him through Christ, but sharing also our material wealth—small or large. Missionary work, therefore, is the task of the whole Church and is being carried on in our missions at home as well as abroad, in our parishes, in our dioceses, in our Church institutions.

The $800,000 allocated to The Church At Home from the BUILDERS FOR CHRIST funds will go to "missions". Perhaps to a new mission in a rapidly-growing community. Maybe to an old mission in a small community, or work with Indians on a reservation, or migrants, or under-privileged people in a hospital or in a school. Where help is needed, there would we share. There do we share.

But the distribution of these funds always works through existing Church organizations. Funds are sent to a bishop for work among migrants, to a bishop to help missions with their clergy salary and travel, to the trustees of a school or the trustees of a hospital. And for the protection of the Church no grant is ever made except at the request of both the local bishop and the local group needing the assistance. The strength of the Church is the people and they are the ones from whom the support comes and who have the ongoing responsibility. Make your pledge to BUILDERS FOR CHRIST now!

A Correction

THIS statement is made to clarify an article in the March issue of the BULLETIN.

The total goal of the Diocese in the BUILDERS FOR CHRIST Campaign is $600,000. The first $21,000 will go to those agencies heretofore benefitting from the "Bishop's Offering"; the next $379,000 to the National Council; and the final $200,000 to establish the Diocesan Revolving Fund.

All gifts, including special gifts, will be credited toward all three phases of the Campaign.

Diocesan Revolving Fund

by existing parishes and increases in their clergy staffs. Many parishes are taking such steps without outside aid.

But the greater number of people now moving into the fringe areas of towns and villages cannot be brought into the full life of existing parishes and missions

The plan of the Council of the Diocese is to encourage parishes to establish parochial missions in these nearby rapidly growing areas. In most cases they will have a nucleus of their own people in the area to form the beginnings of the new congregation.

Few parishes, however, can afford to advance the necessary funds to erect a building removed from their own center. Likewise most people in these new communities cannot contribute large sums at one time. They can, however, give adequately over a period of years to amortize the cost. Any of these new congregations should be self-supporting within a few years.

The Diocesan Revolving Fund of $200,000 will enable the Diocese to loan money without interest to start new work. As this money is repaid funds will be available for other new work. The Fund will enable the Church to move with its people and to minister to the unchurched.

Only two new congregations have been organized in the Diocese in more than twenty years. Up to now this seeming absence of an aggressive program of evangelization could be explained by the fact that we had a good distribution of churches in centers of population. This fact, however, does not pertain today.

The Diocesan Revolving Fund, when it becomes an actuality, will help to meet the changing situation.

Westchester Leaders Chosen

MR. EDWARD GEIST, of St. John's Church, Tuckahoe, has been appointed General Chairman, and Mr. George D. Harris, of St. James the Less, Scarsdale, Special Gifts Chairman for the BUILDERS FOR CHRIST Campaign in the Westchester Convocation.

The Home Must Work With Us

IN the past 20 years there has been a great body of opinion and practice in the Church which declared that, if the Church is going to accomplish what it wishes to do the Church must see itself as an island set in the midst of an indifferent sea and "going alone".

More recently the thinking has become much more realistic, and there is a greater willingness to see that we will not be able to achieve any lasting result in what the Church attempts unless we have the home working with us. This has resulted in an increasing tendency to blame the home for the Church's failure, and the Church is too often "bawling out" parents — without taking any steps to instruct parents as to what the Church would like them to do.

But the thinking has to be guided to a much more realistic position than that. The early years of the Church School movement saw the Church School session underlining on Sunday what was learned in the home during the week. When we stop to remember that the home is having an influence on the religious life of children long before any other influence reaches them (except for the sacrament of Baptism), and when we realize how strong the impact of parent attitude is in children of all ages, we can see no other realistic position than one which acknowledges the home as the basic determiner of personality.

Increasingly we must see the Church School, and other Church programmes, as being supplementary to what is already going on in the home.

Now we come to the real problem: the home has not the spiritual maturity to enable it to be as constructive as the Church needs the home to be. Up to now our answer has been that the Sunday School will try to do what the home cannot or will not do. But the future of Christian Education lies in working for the establishment of that kind of a parish programme which keeps people growing into an ever more mature experience of the Church and the truth the Church demonstrates. In so doing the parents, grand parents, uncles, aunts, older brothers and sisters (all of whom are teaching by the things they see people do or fail to do) are prepared by the Church to teach a better understanding of the Gospel.

Because this basic place of the home is so important the Diocesan Department of Christian Education, following the lead of the National Department, is doing everything it can do to encourage the establishment of parent classes. These classes will be an important feature in those parishes which begin to use the new National Council courses when they start to appear in the autumn of 1955. It will be the intention of these parent classes to lead parents into a mature experience of the Gospel, which experience will parallel what the Church School class is providing for the children.

Parishes are urged now to begin this development (if they have not already done so) by the establishment of at least one group for all parents, looking forward to the time when the special work can be done to parallel the work in each Church School class.

New Material Available

THE Diocesan Department of Christian Education has recently sent information to the clergy of the Diocese indicating that most valuable and interesting new material is available for their use. Three recently developed Audio-Visual Kits have been procured, published by the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of the Churches of Christ. They are: The Leadership Education Audio Visual Kit (LEAV); the Family Life Audio Visual Kit (FLAV); and the Youth Audio Visual Kit (YAV).

These kits contain film strips and 33⅓ rpm recordings, together with Leaders Guides as to how these materials should be used. Clergy or laity interested in making use of these materials may do so, without charge, by making arrangements with the Diocesan Department.

Bishop Invests 14 Choir Boys

At Evensong, 4:00, on Sunday, March 21, fourteen Choristers were admitted to the Choir of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine by Bishop Donegan.

The Choristers, who, in the tradition of the Choir, have been serving an apprenticeship, were presented by Dean Pike.

At the ceremony, which took place at the steps of the Great Choir, each Chorister promised to be attentive and reverent, and to conduct himself in all things as becometh those who are in the House of God; to exercise the spirit of brotherly love towards all those who are associated with him in this service of praise; to be obedient to those to whom the direction of this Choir has been given. After which the Choristers put on surplices, and each in turn came and knelt before The Bishop, who gave every boy a Psalter saying: "See that what thou singest with thy mouth, thou believe in thy heart, and show forth by thy works."

As is the tradition, the sermon at this service was preached by the Headmaster of the Choir School, Canon Betts. The boys invested in this simple yet moving ceremony were:

Martin S. Banyard — 47 Poplar Place, Glen Cove, Long Island, N. Y.; Fred J. Black—29 Pine Place, Warrington, Florida; David W. Budding — 510 Wilmot Avenue, Bridgeport, Connecticut; Charles G. Haacker—49 Perry Street, New York, New York; Charles D. Hixon—721½ Mass. Street, Lawrence, Kansas; Bruce E. Mele—Fayson Lakes, Butler, New Jersey; James A. ## The New Canon Pastor

THE election of the Reverend John W. Pyle as Canon Pastor of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine was announced February 24th by Bishop Donegan. The Cathedral trustees elected Mr. Pyle on the nomination of The Bishop. The post was last held by the late Reverend Dr. Thomas A. Sparks.

The Canon-elect will begin his duties on September 15 and will be installed by The Bishop on Sunday, October 4.

Under the direction of Dean Pike—Canon Pyle will be in charge of the pastoral work of the Cathedral, and he will minister, in the name of the Episcopal Church, to students at Columbia University. He will continue in charge of the forums for graduate students and faculty which have been maintained in the Cathedral for the past two years.

The Reverend Mr. Pyle was born in Los Angeles, California in 1914. He was educated in the public schools of Glendale and in the Glendale Junior College; University of California, Los Angeles Division; and the University Extension Division.

He received the A.B. in 1936 from the University of California at Berkeley in history and English literature; the M.A. in 1938 in history from the University of California Graduate School; the B.D. in 1941 from the Church Divinity School of the Pacific; and entered into graduate study at Union Theological Seminary, New York City, in 1946. He is a candidate for the Ph.D. in Philosophy of Religion under the Joint Committee of Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University Graduate Faculties since October 1949.

Canon-elect Pyle was Vicar of St. Timothy's Episcopal Church, Compton, California, 1941-42; Chaplain, Active Duty, U. S. Naval Reserve, January 1943-January 1946; Rector, Trinity Episcopal Church, Orange, California, April 1947-July 1949; Assistant in Charge of Adult Education and Youth Program, Church of the Holy Trinity, New York City, October 1949-October 1951.

1951-52 Chaplain to Episcopal students and Associate Director of the University Christian Association, New York University, Washington Square. In those two years he was also fellow and tutor at General Theological Seminary, New York City.

Beginning 1952 he became Chaplain for College Work of the Diocese of New York, as well as continuing as Chaplain of Episcopal students at New York University and as Associate Director of the University Christian Association.

Canon-elect Pyle was ordained a Deacon in July 1941 and elevated to the Priesthood in July 1942 by the late Right Reverend W. Bertrand Stevens, Bishop of Los Angeles. He was married in June 1945 to Cynthia Herron Hughes and has two children.

Canterbury Clubs Annual Conference

THE Canterbury Commission of the Diocese of New York will hold its Annual Conference on April 23-24 for students from all the Canterbury Clubs in the Diocese. The meeting will take place in the Cathedral House on the Cathedral Close.

The speaker for this year's Conference will be the Reverend Arthur Lee Kinsolving, Rector, Saint James' Church, New York. Dr. Kinsolving will address the group on Friday evening and Saturday morning, speaking on the topic, "A College Student's Personal Religion."

The Conference begins with dinner Friday evening and will continue through Evensong Saturday afternoon. Following the Friday evening lecture there will be a Service of Preparation for the Saturday morning Corporate Communion conducted by the Reverend John W. Pyle, Chaplain for College Work.

Students expected to attend will represent 12 different colleges from Staten Island to Poughkeepsie.

The purpose of this Annual Conference is to coordinate the work of the various and often far-flung Canterbury groups to discuss mutual problems and concerns such as the relationship of individual groups to the National Canterbury Association and to other denominational groups. While the Commission cannot in any way make binding decisions for the participating Associations, it can guide the thinking and suggest new methods of approach on various problems for the local groups.

This year for the first time it is hoped that members of the Long Island Canterbury Commission will join with the New York group in an attempt to strengthen the interdiocesan work of two organizations. As the first step in this direction several members of the neighboring Commissions met in a luncheon meeting on February 20th to lay the groundwork for future cooperation. The Long Island Canterbury Commission is under the direction of the Reverend John W. Davis.

A Christian Social Relations Job For You

THE Rev. Leland B. Henry, Executive Director of the Department of Christian Social Relations, was the leader of the Episcopal delegation of ten, appointed by the National Council to represent the Episcopal Church at the Churchman's Washington seminar, February 23-26. Three hundred official delegates of major communions met under the auspices of the National Council of the Churches of Christ. Conferences were arranged with various Federal agencies, including the State Department, the Housing and Home Finance Agency, the Foreign Operations Administration, the U.S. Information Agency and the Department of Labor.

A session with the Senate Committee on Juvenile Delinquency (Senator Robert C. Hendrickson, N. J.) indicated an area where the local parish and the individual Churchman can take action. There is definite evidence that one of the contributing causes of juvenile delinquency is the corner news stand or drug store, with the stock of "comics." The committee is studying legislation, but the establishment of a legal censorship involves obvious dangers. In the meantime, a positive approach is possible on the part of parents and church groups. Strong representation can be made to the purveyors of comics that glorify violence and sex. This is admittedly difficult in midtown New York, but in the neighborhood stores in residential neighborhoods of the city, and especially in towns and villages, store owners may be responsive to the public opinion of the community, if that opinion is adequately presented. Here is a case where the Christian citizen has opportunity for personal action, apart from and in addition to anything that may be done by government.

The Dean's Column

THE ANNOUNCEMENT IN TWO SUCCESSIVE MONTHS of the election of Canons at the Cathedral has caused us to be asked more frequently what a canon is — and does. So this seems an appropriate time to summarize the functions of our Canons Residentiary.

CANONS ARE SO CALLED BECAUSE they are a body of clerical brethren bound together by rule, principally the obligation to share cooperatively in the offices of Morning and Evening Prayer which are sung daily in a Cathedral Church and in the conventual Eucharist on Sundays and Holy Days. They are not related to the Dean as curates or assistant ministers are to a rector; rather they constitute with the Dean a body called "The Dean and Chapter" through which they have joint responsibility with the Dean for the services, programs and maintenance of the Cathedral. (In addition there is one lay member of the Chapter — the Bursar). While the Bishop does not attend chapter meetings, he has a right to do so on any occasion and in any case receives the minutes and may within five days exercise a veto on decisions reached. Another check is that no changes in the usages in the Cathedral services may be made without joint consent of the Bishop and the Dean.

IN ADDITION TO HIS "CAPITULAR" (or joint) responsibilities and assisting or representing the Bishop or the Dean from time to time, each Canon heads a particular branch of the Cathedral's life and work.

The Canon Sacrist is in charge of all that pertains to the services (except the music and the scheduling of preachers): everything from the vestments, altar plate, frontals and altar linens to the ordering of processions and the drafting of special services come within his ambit. Under him function the verger, the servers and the cleaners, as well as the seminarians who talk with visitors and conduct tours. The Canon Sacrist serves the larger Church as a consultant on services, ornaments and church decor. He is a member of the Joint Commission on Church Architecture and Allied Arts. And because of his special knowledge of the Orthodox Churches, he serves as consultant to the Joint Commission on Assistance to the Eastern Churches.

The Canon Precentor gets his title from his traditional right (usually delegated to a chorister) to "precent" — that is, start — the psalms and canticles. As this suggests, he is in charge of the music of the Cathedral, in collaboration with the Master of the Choristers. Usually, as at present, he has served as headmaster of the Choir School. In addition the present Canon Precentor is the director of the community relations, representing the Cathedral in civic organizations and projects, such as serving as co-chairman of the City Wide Slums Prevention Committee. The Canon Precentor, because of his special training in architecture, often serves as a consultant on church design and is a member of the Joint Commission on Architecture and the Allied Arts, and is architectural consultant for the American Church Building Fund Commission, and a member of the National Council of Churches Department of Worship and the Arts.

The Canon Theologian (the first incumbent of which Canonry will take office in September) will take over from the Dean's Office the direction of the educational program of the Cathedral — in the fulfillment of the challenge in its constitution that a Cathedral be "a center of intellectual light and leading in the spirit of Jesus Christ". This portfolio embraces the annual School of Worship (in which 350 women enrolled last Fall), the Liturgical Forum for Clergy, the Psychological Counselling Forum, and the Summer Forum for School Teachers on Religion in Education, as well as new forums and lecture series now in contemplation. He will also devote some of his time to theological scholarship and writing.

The Canon Pastor (whose next incumbent will also take office in September) is not a pastor in the sense that a parish priest is, since we are not a parish; nor does his title imply that the rest of us will not continue to do pastoral counselling discussed in last month's column. But he will have more time reserved for meeting the needs of individuals who seek help here and in addition will be in charge of the ministry of the Church, in the name of the Cathedral, to students and faculty at Columbia University. Closely allied to this work is his direction of the weekly forum for graduate students and other young adults at Cathedral House. He will also serve as Chaplain to the two nearby old folks' homes. In his department will serve the Cathedral's present psychological counsellor.

Perhaps enough has been said to suggest that the Canons are busy.

Solution to Church Financing

THE basic problem of modern church financing will never be solved until the church is able to increase the area of its support. In the olden days the basic income of the typical church usually came from those wealthy churchmen and churchwomen who could afford large gifts. Since those who could not afford large gifts were largely ignored, we have inherited what might be called the tradition of not supporting our church.

Modern economic facts of life have made the drastic change in the philosophy of church financing we are now witnessing not only expedient but an absolute necessity.

More and more individual churches are coming to realize that whether their basic income is derived from those few wealthy communicants still remaining, or the wealth that these wealthy few have left in times past in the form of endowments, their modern operating costs are making it progressively more and more difficult to make their financial resources cover the area of their spiritual responsibilities.

More and more of those responsible for the administration of church funds have come to realize they must turn to the individual members of the church who do not enjoy more than average incomes. Otherwise their job will be to a greater and greater extent administering to a smaller and smaller circle of people in need of the blessings that the church has to offer.

It is said that the time to organize and train a Fire Department is before the fire . . . not while the house is burning down. A truly far sighted administrator tries to anticipate not only what is going to happen next year or in the immediate future but what is going to happen over a period of quite a few years in the future. By giving thought to the problems that the church will surely face in the years to come, and making sound judgments based on the available facts, those in responsible positions can prepare for future contentions.

Ask yourself this question: Based on your own knowledge of your local church, just how is that individual church going to support itself in five years? . . . in ten years? Ask yourself just what is the basic source of your church's income and if that source of income will continue to adequately underwrite the program that you feel your church must have if it is to continue to be an influence for good in your life and in the life of your community.

If you have endowments, will they continue to be adequate for the program you feel the church should offer? Perhaps you have no endowments but realize a sizable proportion of your church income from the wealthy few. Just what will replace these large gifts when those now making them are no longer available?

The answer, in case you have not guessed, is a carefully planned and executed Every Member Canvass.

If your church is one of those few who have no immediate unsolved financial problems this suggestion is directed at you with equal intent as it is directed to those several parishes within the Diocese that are already encountering difficulty in meeting their current operating obligations.

The Lord never intended that His Church be either maintained by, or for, the wealthy few of any community. The Church is maintained for the benefit and blessing of all the people and it was never intended that it be supported by other than all the people.

The only proper and acceptable basis for the support of the Church is Christian responsibility.

The very best way that the individual people can be contacted and both their duty and their opportunity be explained is through the personal visitation system of the basic Every Member Canvass.

1954 Summer Conferences

THE Diocesan Department of Christian Education has already sent to the clergy posters announcing the 1954 Summer Conferences. These will be held again this year at St. Peter's School, Peekskill, and have been planned by a committee of the Department under the Chairmanship of the Rev. Frank Leeming, Headmaster of St. Peter's.

These conferences will be held as follows:

June 27th — July 3rd: for children between the ages of 7 and 13.

July 4th — July 10th: for young people 14 — 18 yrs.

July 11th — July 17th: for children 7 — 13 yrs.

The theme of each conference will be "O Lord, Open Thou Our Lips", and each day will be spent on one of the five types of prayer. Each conference will point forward to a Pageant of the Prayer Book which will take place on each of the Friday evenings and will tie together the various studies and experiences which have been followed during the week.

The registration fee this year, including the cost of room and meals, will be $18.00 per person. Registration forms will be in the hands of the clergy by April 15th and the clergy are urged to act quickly in having these returned. Sunday Schools, Church Vestries, W. A. and other adult groups are encouraged to provide scholarships for children of their parish, and the individual men and women of the Church might well consider becoming responsible for sending one or more children of the parish to one of these conferences.

Those interested in attending the conferences, and any interested in providing assistance so that others might attend, are invited to get in touch with their rector immediately or to contact the Diocesan Department of Christian Education.

Bishop Donegan Has Quiet Day With Westchester Laymen

MORE than 200 Episcopal laymen of the County of Westchester met for a Quiet Day at the Church of St. James the Less, Scarsdale, on Saturday, March 27.

The Quiet Day, which was conducted by Bishop Donegan, gave opportunity for men to be away from the usual routine of life and to be with the Lord; to listen to Him and to think upon His Holy Word; under the guidance of The Bishop.

The day began with Holy Communion with Bishop Donegan as the Celebrant. At 10:15 there was breakfast. At 11:00 there was the first meditation followed by Noon-Day Prayers at 12 Noon. At 12:15 there was a second meditation followed by lunch at 1:15. At 2:00 there was the third meditation and at 3:00 Evening Prayer and closing. Quiet was observed the whole day from 9 A.M. to 3:30 P.M.

Plans for a definite Episcopal laymen's organization were first initiated at a dinner at the Gramatan Hotel in Bronxville on December 8th. There, 300 laymen assembled for dinner and to hear Bishop Donegan outline the need for the potential activities of laymen's work. Obviously, the first purpose of the laymen's organization is to deepen the spiritual life of the men through a continuous emphasis on Holy Sacraments, prayer, and study of the Holy Scriptures. Closely related to this is the extension of the impact of Christianity in our time through personal evangelism and the establishment of new churches. The extension of personal evangelism can be carried forward by each man practicing the tenets of Christianity within his own business or profession and not only within the confines of his own church. Next, a laymen's organization can help provide the proper financial support for the kind of program the Church should have and to enlist laymen's special skills and talents in Christ's service.

Following this meeting on December 8th there have been several others. And the Episcopal laymen of Westchester County have been stimulated to accept the responsibilities listed above and to assume additional ones. Namely, to assist rectors in calling upon parishioners; to advise the rectors of any new-comers in their communities and of those who are ill; to visit the shut-ins and the invalids; and to express the thought and work of the Episcopal Church in their communities not only individually, but as an organization.

At a meeting on February 27 some 32 parishes of the Convocation of Westchester had representatives at the laymen's meeting. It is hoped that as time goes along more and more of the men in all the parishes of Westchester will join themselves to the movement.

Exhibition of Contemporary Religious Painting and Sculpture

INCLUDING among its paintings and sculptures, George Rouault's "Le Christ Espagnol," the second annual exhibition of contemporary religious art to be held in the Parish House of the Church of the Ascension, 12 West 11 Street, will open Sunday, April 25, 1954.

The exhibition, which gained wide notice and comment last year, was conceived by clergy and laity of the parish as a fitting endeavor for a church located in New York City, the center of the art world, and particularly appropriate for a church serving the art-conscious Greenwich Village community.

So far as is known, this exhibit, and last year's, represent the only attempts in this city to show within a parish church contemporary professional works of art having an ecclesiastical nature.

Works to be displayed are being chosen by a committee of the Fellowship Forum of the Church of the Ascension, the sponsoring parish group, which has been touring galleries, museums and studios making selections.

In addition to the Rouault, the show to date will display the works of Andre Gerard, Louisa Jenkins, Samuel Adler, Reuben Rubin, Robert Vickrey, William Pachner, John Shayn, Zoltan Sepesky, Roloff Beny, Clara Fasano, Carl Schmitz, Oronzio Maldarelli, Moissaye Marans.

Church Army Dinner

THE Church Army Annual Dinner will be held at St. Bartholomew's Parish House, 109 East 50th Street, New York City, on May 3rd at 6:30 P.M. Mr. William Eckroth with our mission in Detroit, Michigan will speak, also Capt. William Paddock, stationed in the Scioto Valley, Ohio atomic area of trailer villages.

The Church Army is a cooperating agency of the Episcopal Church which devotes its whole efforts to training and directing militant laity who give their full time to witness and missions of the church.

All Episcopalians are cordially invited to attend the dinner. Reservations should be made, by calling Church Army, CHelsea 3-4959, 27 West 25th Street, at $2.50 per plate.

Curriculum Conferences

THE January issue of The Bulletin announced that the Diocesan Department of Christian Education would be conducting a Curriculum Conference in each Convocation during May and June in an effort to assist the clergy and lay leaders of the Parishes in planning the work of their Church School.

These conferences are now scheduled as follows:

Saturday, May 1st at Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, for the Convocation of Dutchess.

Sunday, May 9th at St. Andrew's Church, Staten Island, for the Convocation of Richmond.

Saturday, May 15th at St. Andrew's Church, Walden, for the Convocation of Hudson.

Saturday, June 5th at St. Paul's Church, the Bronx, for the Convocation of the Bronx.

Saturday, June 12th at the Chapel of the Intercession (Manhattan), for the Convocation of the Manhattan.

Sunday, June 13th at St. James the Less, Scarsdale, for the Convocation of Westchester.

Saturday, June 26th at Christ Church, Suffern, for the Convocation of Ramapo.

Each conference will begin at 3:00 P.M. and conclude at 9:30 P.M. An evening meal will be served by the host parish to those who have reserved tickets in advance.

Book displays will be on hand from the Department's Resource Library and a limited supply of books will be available for purchase.

Programme pamphlets for these conferences are already in the hand of the clergy. Those wishing further information, or wishing to register for one of the conferences, should contact their Rector or the Diocesan Department of Christian Education.

A. G. O.

THE American Guild of Organists, with 14,000 members and Chapters or Branches in every State, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska and the Canal Zone (235 in all), will hold its 22nd Annual (6th Biennial) National Convention in Minneapolis-St. Paul, July 12-16, 1954.

The national membership of this association of church musicians consists of both organists and choral directors, and represents all religious bodies. It was chartered in 1896 by the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York for the purpose of raising standards of organ and choral music.

The A.G.O. believes that the office of music in Christian Worship is a Sacred Oblation before the Most High.

A. G. O.

The A.G.O. believes that they who are set as Choir Masters and as Organists in the House of God ought themselves to be persons of devout conduct, teaching the ways of earnestness to the Choirs committed to their charge.

The A.G.O. believes that the unity of purpose and fellowship of life between Ministers and Choirs should be everywhere established and maintained.

The A.G.O. believes that at all times and in all places it is meet, right, and our bounden duty to work and to pray for the advancement of Christian Worship in the holy gifts of strength and nobleness; to the end that the Church may be purged of her blemishes, that the minds of men may be instructed, that the honor of God's House may be guarded in our time and in the time to come.

Therefore, the A.G.O. members give themselves with reverence and humility to these endeavors, offering up their works and their persons in the Name of Him, without Whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy.

The practical results of the work of this organization are many. Primarily, the marked improvement in standards of organ playing and choral work in the Church service, also in recital playing. Model services are presented in many parts of the country; festival services are performed by combined choirs sometimes with orchestra; recitals are given by resident organists and visiting virtuosos, including many foreign artists. Lectures, round-table discussions, and social meetings are arranged by Chapter committees. All these activities contribute to the improvement of ideals and musical taste, not only of those participating in them but among the general public as well. National Biennial Conventions alternating with Regional Conventions assemble large numbers of church musicians together for mutual benefit.

A number of representative clergymen, educators and musicians who have aided in the advancement of the work of the Guild have been designated as Honorary Members. Their work has been of great value because one of the most important aims is a better understanding between clergy, laity, organists and choir masters — an element which is highly essential in the achievement of a worshipful, artistic religious service. When a clergyman has a deep realization of the value of music in the service as a means of worship in which all the people can participate, and the church musician has a sincere religious attitude, the outcome is most happy.

The A.G.O. has considerable influence in connection with the standardization of organ consoles. Builders are willing to confer with Guild committees and carry out practical suggestions which result in many improvements. Architects are cooperating in making suitable provision for placing organs and choirs, and much attention is being given to acoustics.

Competitions under the auspices of the Guild result in the creation of new anthems, hymn-tunes and organ compositions.

The influence of the American Guild of Organists has increased steadily during the fifty-seven years of its existence. More and more value is placed upon the certificates held by those who have passed the examinations. Churches and clergymen are made increasingly aware of the fact that men and women who hold Guild Certificates measure up to a definitely high standard.

The members of the Guild are contributing much to the morale of the nation. The value of music in our national life is being recognized as never before. The broad plans of the Guild, as here outlined, anticipate the even greater opportupities which are opening before us and present a real challenge to all.

creative dramatics, making up and acting out short plays and pantomines.

The Saturday morning group endeavours to put into practice the instruction received at Released Time and Sunday School periods, so that the teaching of the Church may become an integral part of their daily life. They learn to work and play as a Christian group, as well as individuals, thus co-ordinating the teachings of the Church with daily Christian living.

The Reverend Charles Howard Graf, Rector, and the Reverend Hugh F. Cuthbertson, Assistant, make the point that the reason for this program is that it is not enough to get children together and do things with them, nor is it enough to get them together and talk to them. It is what results from these relationships which is im-

My last column dealt with the life of one of our outstanding pastors working in the Mission field of the Diocese. This leads quite naturally to an appraisal, or better, an understanding of the work of our missionaries as a whole.

First let us bury forever some misunderstandings about him. Because he is called Vicar and not Rector (the latter title is usually reserved for those specifically called to that office by a self-supporting Parish) he must not be thought of as belonging to a peculiar group of ministers. Essentially he differs not at all from the Rector of a large city parish. His educational background is the same, his priestly authority is the same, and at Conventions his vote is just as important as the vote of any qualified voter. He can be, and often is, the chosen candidate for the highest office the Church can offer — that of Bishop.

It has been said with great conviction that a successful missionary usually makes an outstanding Parish priest. The reasons behind this are obvious. Because he has fewer people in his flock he lives closer to them. He knows what it means to be "all things to all men that he might save some". His weekday example is the extension of his Sunday preaching; his life is an open book. Because the communicant strength is small he must strive to keep a peaceful and harmonious feeling prevalent in both Church and Community. Loving his people, he seeks to win their confidence and weld diverse personalities into one happy family in Christ.

It would be most unfair to judge the effectiveness of his work by statistics. At best, numbers of official acts are small but percentage-wise they might seem very high. With his city brother he wants nothing more than that the harvest be plenteous — more conversions, more baptisms, more confirmations — and yes, more marriages.

City parishes are forever testifying to the excellence of the training a communicant receives in a Mission. The Vicar is the principal instructor and every learning Christian has ready access to him. Communicants must be willing to accept responsibility that wherever they go they are both ready and qualified to accept positions of leadership.

This is but a brief and inadequate picture of a valiant group of God's men. To know them is to love and respect them. They are worthy indeed!

portant. If they can receive redemptive experience, in that they can find Christian love and acceptance, this is indeed unique.

The Rev. Mr. Cuthbertson has direct supervision of the project with the Misses Gladys Quist and Harriet Morin as Principals. The teachers include some women of the Parish as well as the Misses Judy Witt, Betty Hovencamp, Pearle Galatas and Mary Bigelow, students at Windham House, the Episcopal Training School for women churchworkers.

Refinishing the walls of ST. JOHN'S, Kingston, has been completed. Mr. Thomas A. Horton was responsible for having this work done and the parish is deeply grateful to him. This is the first time the walls have been cleaned since the Caen stone was put in at the rebuilding of ST. JOHN'S in 1926.

The Rev. Herald C. Swezy, Vicar of ST. GREGORY'S CHAPEL, Woodstock, has appointed a committee to arrange a meeting at which plans for the erection of a permanent Chapel will be discussed. The new building is to replace the present Chapel on Mrs. Frederica Milne's estate, which is proving inadequate in size for the growing Parish. Mrs. Milne, who loaned her corn crib to serve as the present Chapel, has now generously donated the land in memory of her son, Taylor Milne, for a larger and permanent structure. The present building has been offered for Sunday School use.

Mrs. William Stifler is Chairman of the committee, which includes Mrs. Fennell Franckling, Mrs. William K. Gregory and Mrs. Donald Jackson. Plans have been discussed for a dinner-meeting of parishioners to be held after Easter.

The Rev. A. H. Plummer, of Kingston, is taking the services in the Mission of STONE RIDGE until a new appointment is made. The Rev. Charles H. Briant has accepted work in the Diocese of Michigan.

THE RAMAPO CONVOCATION

The Rev. Fessenden A. Nichols

ST. JOHN'S, New City, was the scene of a corporate communion and breakfast, for the Men of Ramapo, February 22nd. The Venerable George F. Brätt was celebrant, the Rev. G. A. Zeltner, host, and Mr Eugene Curry of ST. STEPHEN'S, Armonk, speaker. The Rev. H. B. Thelin was in charge. Attendance, one hundred.

The Ramapo Clericus was invited to see Walkill Prison, March 15th, as guests of the Warden and the Chaplain. The latter, the Rev. Thomas F. Cooper, Vicar of ST. FRANCIS' MISSION, Sloatsburg, recently had his work described in "Episcopal Churchnews". Walkill is an unusually progressive correctional institution.

ST. JAMES, Goshen, welcomed its new Rector, the Rev. D. M. Glasspool, on February 14th. He and Mrs. Glasspool plan to move from Staten Island to Orange County, April 1st. Mrs. Glasspool is a native New Yorker, a graduate of Bryn Mawr, and a former resident at Windham House, Episcopal Training School in New York. From 1947 to 1952 she served at St. Martin's Chestnut Hill, Pennsylvania as director of religious education.

Goshen Church people are redecorating the rectory; they are saying "THANK YOU" to the Rev. Benjamin Myers, of Fishkill, who has preached and officiated since September, when the Rev. E. R. Smythe resigned. The women observed the World Day of Prayer at the Episcopal church; the men conducted an Every Member Canvass, with help from Ed Yowell, Diocesan Director of Promotion, and Frank W. Conklin of GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, lay preacher.

ST. MARK'S, Fort Montgomery, has a newly dedicated altar cross, a memorial to Olive Cronk Clark who died December 7, 1952. Aaron, Donald and Elvera Clark gave the cross.

CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, invited the men to hear three lectures on the Christian Faith, by the Rev. Frank C. Leeming, Headmaster of St. Peter's School, Peekskill. Subjects, "Marxism versus the Christian Creed"; "Materialism, Belief in Life After Death"; "Seeing Through to God". The vestrymen did some personal evangelism in the pre-Lenten period, to stimulate interest in the lectures.

Mrs. Claude Pickens, of China, gave a program at GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, on January 26th on work with Moslems, amongst whom she grew up in Egypt. The parish is raising $3,000 to place a clock and some chimes in the tower, a dream of past rectors soon to be realized.

All the churches in Rockland County were alerted to the showing of the motion picture "MARTIN LUTHER". The Dean of Ramapo assisted the movie men in distributing 2,000 announcements. Great crowds came to the show; everyone was impressed.

Several rectors in the Ramapo are advising their parishioners to buy the various publications of our Church and to take the DIOCESAN BULLETIN. They all worked on raising funds for theological education and now are organizing for the "Builders for Christ" campaign.

Larger facilities are envisioned at ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River; 25 children are in a junior choir which sang at a Feast of Lights, 21 adults are in the senior choir, the altar guild has 13 members and they have bought new vestments for the Rector.

THE CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Greenwood Lake, has purchased a Wurlitzer organ. The vestry gave their Rector a 21 inch television set, marking his 10th year in the parish. A steeple is being erected for a fine old bell which used to call the people to church at the Chapel on the island, which was destroyed by fire last summer. A large iron cross will surmount the bell. Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Martella recently gave a prayer desk for the sanctuary; Mr. and Mrs. Max Schuster gave a purple cope.

Marilyn Barr, director of music at GRACE CHURCH, Middleton, gave an organ recital February 25th in St. Bartholomew's, New York City; plans to marry a Presbyterian minister in June; studies at Union Seminary.

The Dean of the Convocation preached this Lent in GRACE CHURCH, Middletown, and ST. MARY'S, Tuxedo.

New York State Thruway continues to cause disturbances in Tuxedo, Suffern and elsewhere as golf courses disappear, homes are uprooted, factories move in, and social changes come fast.

The Rector and Congregation of ZION CHURCH, Dobbs Ferry, are hard at work with a Pence Bank Campaign, the proceeds of which are to be used for rebuilding the church organ. The total taken in to date is $1,200 but an additional $550 is needed before the work can begin.

On April 20th, the parishioners of ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, Yonkers will tender a reception to their Rector, the Reverend Lemuel Winterbottom, to celebrate his tenth year in the priesthood and his fifth year as Rector of ST. JOHN'S.

Headmaster Frank Leeming and the Choir from ST. PETER'S SCHOOL, Peekskill, have been very busy lately visiting the churches in the Convocation and singing the Service of Holy Communion. On January 17th, they visited ST. PETER'S CHURCH, Peekskill; on Friday, February 14th, CHRIST CHURCH, Tarrytown; and during the same period ST. MARK'S CHURCH, Mt. Kisco.

Another Rector who has been doing active work in the Convocation is the Reverend James Jack Sharkey of ZION CHURCH, Wappinger Falls. He is presenting an illustrated lecture on Haiti. On January 31st he addressed the members of the Youth Organizations of the neighboring churches at ST. ANDREW'S, Yonkers. On February 24th he presented his lecture at CHRIST CHURCH, Tarrytown, to the Woman's Auxiliary (Evening Branch) of the Hudson River area.

The organist of ST. MARK'S CHURCH, Mt. Kisco, Mr. Edgar Hilliar, has inaugurated the practice of introducing a new hymn to the congregation each Sunday at the 11 A. M. service during the next several months. ST. MARK'S is sponsoring also a series of four concerts during the coming months which are open to the public. At 8 P. M. on Sunday Evening, February 21st, Eldon Hasse, Organist, First Methodist Church, New Haven, Connecticut; at 8:30 P. M. on Monday evening, March 22nd, Albert Fuller, Harpsichordist, Yale School of Music; at 8 P. M., Sunday evening, May 2nd, Orchestra and Organ Program with Edgar Hilliar at the organ and G. Huntington Byles, Conductor.

CHRIST CHURCH, Pelham Manor, following a practice of many years standing, will sponsor a series of six Lenten Lectures. The lecturer this year will be the Reverend Dr. Dawley, Professor of Ecclesiastical History at the General Theological Seminary.

The Reverend W. E. Ridgeway, Rector of ST. PETER'S CHURCH, Peekskill, underwent a tonsillectomy on Monday, February 8th. During his sojourn in the hospital, the Reverend Frank Leeming, Archdeacon Brätt and the Reverend J. L. Whitcomb, Chaplain of St. Mary's School, carried on for him in the parish.

The Senior Young People of CHRIST CHURCH, Yonkers, are hard at work on a Minstrel Show to be presented on April 30th. The proceeds are to be used for the building fund program of the Church.

The Reverend Louis Havell, Rector of ST. PETER'S CHURCH, Port Chester, announces the gift to the new Chapel of a Dossal Curtain. This was given by Mr. Lee Austin in memory of his mother and aunt.

On Sunday, February 7th, the Reverend Ronald Garmey, Rector of ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, White Plains, dedicated the Guernsey Jewett Memorial Window. The window is a beautiful addition to the fabric of the Church. It is given in memory of Mr. & Mrs. Jewett by their children, Read, Henry and Elizabeth.

On February 22, George Washington's Birthday, TRINITY CHURCH, Ossining, held their annual Corporate Communion for men and boys. Celebrant at the service was the Very Reverend Dr. James A. Pike. Dean Pike was also the speaker at the breakfast. A second speaker at the breakfast was Mr. Norman Heywood, President of the New York Assembly of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York, Hudson and Harlem Divisions, conducted a "School of Worship" program at ALL SAINTS CHURCH, Briarcliff, on Wednesday, February 17. The program began at 10 A.M. with a Celebration of the Holy Communion. At 11 A.M. there was a talk by the Reverend Gerald Gifford of ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, New York City, which was followed by a discussion period.

The Reverend John A Bell, Chairman of the Department of Christian Social Relations, was the speaker. Over one hundred representatives from the parishes of the Convocation gathered in the Church for the service of Evening Prayer at 5:00. A delicious supper followed, served by the men of ST. Blizzard, Professor of Social Science, Union Theological Seminary. "The Church and the Social Agencies", Mr. Roland B. Guild, Area Director, Department of Social Welfare of the State of New York. "The Church and American Responsibility to the World Community" the Reverend Leland B. Henry, Executive Director, Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese. He is the Westchester Convocation Council representative on the Board of Christian Social Relations.

A Quiet Day was conducted on Tuesday, March 9th, at ST. JOHN'S CHURCH-WILMOT, New Rochelle, by the Reverend Grieg Taber. The day started with a Celebration of the Holy Communion at 9:30. This is the third Quiet Day for the members of ST. JOHN'S and they invite members of neighboring parishes to share them.

On February 25th the Rt. Rev. James P. DeWolfe, Bishop of Long Island, conducted a Quiet Day at ST. JAMES THE LESS, Scarsdale.

The churches, buildings and monuments which reflect New York's 300-year history do not withstand the rigors of time and weather without the aid of man.

And to many of these, such aid has come in the form of repair and maintenance by Nicholson & Galloway, Inc., specialists in roofing and waterproofing for 103 years.

The famous structures on which we have worked include the Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Tower, Grant's Tomb, the Stock Exchange, Wanamaker's, Trinity Church, the Pierpont Morgan Library, the Astor Hotel, Garden City Cathedral and St. Marks-In-The-Bouwerie.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

THE Anglican Congress, scheduled to meet during August in Minneapolis, will bring to these shores some of the most distinguished leaders in the Anglican Communion. Second only to the Archbishop of Canterbury is Cyril Garbett, the aging Archbishop of York, generally recognized as the spokesman on political subjects for the Church of England.

Of Dr. Garbett, a discriminating analyst in Britain says:

"It is given to few men in public life steadily to increase their visible stature and to broaden their claims on the attention of men of goodwill everywhere after they have entered the eighth decade of their lives. The Archbishop of York is one of them. His realistic approach to every problem inspires confidence in his wisdom and a readiness to accept his judgment in the grave issues of the day."

This is the author of the book which this month we pass in review, In An Age of Revolution (New York, Oxford, $4.50).

The amazing scope of this book is clearly indicated in the Archbishop's own Introduction in which he says in part:

"This book has been written in the conviction that mankind is now in the midst of one of the greatest crises in history. It is due to three causes: the rejection of Christian faith and morals, an uncompromising attack on Western civilization, and the violent social and economic upheavals both in the West and the East. The gravity of the crisis has been intensified by the invention of atomic and other deadly weapons which, used in war, would destroy a great part of the civilized world. Civilized man stands today in dire danger, for he is on the verge of a precipice over which he may plunge into ruin from which there might be no recovery . . .

"The first part of the book therefore gives some account of the revolution of the last seventy years, and of the effect it has had both on faith and morals. The second part describes and criticizes some of the alternatives which have gained man's allegiance and which have served for a time as substitutes for Christianity: humanism, the search for wealth, democracy, the State and Communism have been in their different ways the false gods which claimed the loyalty which should be given to God alone. In the last part the Christian answer to the crisis is outlined with some account of the manner in which the Church is adapting its methods of work to changed conditions, and its application of Christian principles to two of the most urgent of problems — man's daily work and peace."

Each of the three parts of this book are notable. Nowhere else have I read in 80 short pages so penetrating a survey of the past seventy years as the review with which Dr. Garbett begins his book. True, many of his examples of change are drawn from English sources, but American readers will have no difficulty in substituting their American counterparts. And Christians all over the world have been appalled by the revival within recent decades "of cruelty".

There is much in Part Two, Substitutes for Christianity, that is tempting to quote, but one will have to suffice:

"The Christian cannot regard as sufficient preparations to resist aggressive Communism by armed force. More than this is required, for Communism will never be defeated decisively by force alone. The Church must call for the removal of the poverty and destitution which have made millions turn to Communism as the only alternative to intolerable evils; and it must oppose a false ideology, the outcome of materialism and inspired by hate, with the Gospel of truth, justice and freedom. Instead of a world-wide State established by force and maintained by violence, the Church must offer a universal visible fellowship united in love."

This year Christians remember that sixteen hundred years ago there was born in Tagaste the future author of De Civitate Dei, The City of God. And in his Epilogue, Dr. Garbett turns to St. Augustine's description of two cities — one built by love of self to the contempt of God, the other by contempt of self to the love of God. "The Church," concludes the Archbisop, "must continue day by day to build up and enlarge the city of God; but in its hands it must hold its weapons ready for any emergency which may suddenly arise."

We acknowledge receipt of the following:

Seeking After Perfection, by The Reverend William L. Phillips (Holy Cross Press, Cloth $1.50, Paper $1.00).

"THANK YOU, FATHER, for having written such a splendid book. It is simple, direct, sincere, absolutely sound, and just what I needed to help me 'get started' afresh. I'll use it through Lent, and for years to come."

We have not previously taken the opportunity through this means to welcome the Reverend Robert J. Orpen, Jr. as the new Vicar of ST. GEORGE'S, Williamsbridge. He arrived there in November and has been hard at work from the first moment. He has inaugurated a Family Service at 10 A.M. with a nursery for the very small members in the Parish Hall at the same hour. The 11 o'clock service has been eliminated. All of the Church School children attend the service and only the kindergarten class leaves after the first part of the service. Really an ideal hour and an ideal arrangement. The number attending the first service under this new plan was double the average at-

St. Bede's Library

ST. BEDE'S Library of religious books was founded in 1937 by a group of Episcopalians to provide a place for study and conference, and to make available to others the best obtainable books on the Christian religion, especially books hard to come by or out of print. All of the books are related to Christianity and to the Christian Church.

The Library of St. Bede now has a collection of more than 4500 volumes. A consistent attempt has been made to secure authoritative books covering the main developments of Christianity in history, doctrine, tradition, and experience; also contemporaneous publications. The majority of these books may be taken out on loan. Books in the reference section may be consulted in the library rooms.

Anyone who is interested is invited to use St. Bede's Library. Those who wish to take books on loan are asked to become members. Lecture courses and informal conferences are given during the winter months.

Presentation Service May 22nd

THE CATHEDRAL CLOSE will take on the appearance of a very lively flower garden on Saturday, May 22nd, when thousands of children will assemble from all over the Diocese to make a formal presentation of the Missionary Offerings gathered throughout the year, and through the Lenten Season particularly.

Plans are afoot to make use of visual displays much more than in previous years. The outdoor pulpit in the Cathedral Close will proclaim the Church's work in foreign lands. At four points in the Cathedral displays will be set up representative of the Church's work in four of its overseas and home missionary areas.

The service will be built around a colorful procession of Diocesan dignitaries and representatives of missionary areas, who will move among the children to inspect the missionary displays while the work in the represented areas is briefly described to the children. A representative from each Church School will then join the procession and move to the High Altar for the presentation of their gifts. The service will conclude with the awarding of banners to the Church Schools which have attained the highest standards in Church School attendance and missionary offering.

We Shall Build On!

We shall build on!
On through the cynics scorning.
On through the coward's warning.
On through the cheat's suborning.

We shall build on!
Firm on the Rock of Ages,
City of saints and sages.
Laugh while the tempest rages,

Christ though my hands be bleeding,
Fierce though my flesh be pleading,
Still let me see Thee leading,
Let me build on!

Till through death's cruel dealing,
Brain wrecked and reason reeling,
I hear Love's trumpets pealing,
And I pass on.

Schools of Worship: Parish to Province

THE Cathedral School of Worship with its illumination of the Church's teaching through an effective coordination of worship, instruction, fellowship and discussion has been adapted to Parish, Convocation and to Province with striking results.

Originally planned for the women of the Diocese of New York, a Parish adaptation at St. Mark's, Mt. Kisco, will include men. Such parish "Schools" are the not-too-long term goal of the original School of Worship planners, The Very Reverend James A Pike and Mrs. Lawrence Rose, Provincial Devotional Life Chairman, who guided the destinies of the idea during its first two years.

Approximately 350 women took part in the School of Worship at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on four Monday mornings in November of 1952 and 1953. It was jointly sponsored by the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral and by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese. "The Worship of the Church" was used as text the first year and "The Holy Scriptures" was required reading the second. "Chapters in Church History" is the theme for next November.

A School of Worship program usually begins with a service for worship which is followed by a lecture by an authority on a given subject. After a short but indispensable period of coffee and fellowship, discussion groups of from 10 to 15 people are formed under the leadership of trained lay women. A clergyman is attached to

Cathedral Guild Has Annual Meeting

THE Annual Meeting, followed by tea, of the Cathedral Guild, was held on April 22, 1954 at Cathedral House. Many parishes were represented by delegates who brought contributions. $500 was given to the Bishop of the Diocese toward the Building Fund of the Cathedral, and $1500 for music at the Cathedral during the summer months. Vestments, flowers, and many other gifts had been presented to the Cathedral by the Guild in the past year. The Bishop of the Diocese and the Dean of the Cathedral made addresses.

This Guild provides and cares for the linen and flowers for the Altars, as well as vestments for the Clergy and Choir. It is hoped that each parish, through its members, will help to support this work which is necessary for the carrying on of the services at the Cathedral.

The anual dues are $1.00; Associate Membership, $5.00; and Life Membership, $10.00. Checks may be sent to Miss Emie S. Day, Treasurer, c/o City Bank Farmers Trust Company, 22 William Street, New York 15, N. Y.

Retreat Provided

THE Society of the Companions of the Holy Cross is providing a Retreat for Churchwomen at its Retreat House, Adelynrood, South Byfield, Massachusetts, July 12-15.

This is the Retreat for the Wives of Clergy, Church Workers, and Altar Guild members. The term "Church Worker" includes both professional and all such as Woman's Auxiliary members. There will be special emphasis on the opportunities, as well as possible solutions of problems, of each of these groups. We believe that the shared experience of such a retreat will be real stimulus to the spiritual awareness of those who attend.

The retreat will be conducted by the Rev. D. W. Tildesley, former Chaplain-Administrator of Parkview

The Bishop's Message

THE "Builders for Christ" Campaign needs no argument. It makes its own appeal. We are all pledged to pray and work for this endeavor.

Funds are required for new dormitories, libraries, classrooms and faculty residences at our eleven seminaries; for churches, chapels and parish houses in Japan; for new buildings, dormitories, and recreational facilities at our five Negro educational institutions in the South; for the completion of the reconstruction of buildings destroyed in Manila in World War II; for adequate accommodations at St. Just's School, Puerto Rico, to make the school self-supporting; and for advance work at home.

The total goal for our Diocese is $600,000. Of this amount $379,000, representing our Diocesan share, will go to National Council; $21,000 will be designated to the four social agencies that previously have been aided by a special appeal; and $200,000 will go to establish a Diocesan Capital Revolving Fund which will enable us to meet opportunities for extending our ministry in new areas and rapidly growing communities of our Diocese.

THERE are many indications that our Diocese will do its full part in this important undertaking. Mr. Charles M. Walton, Jr., General Chairman, and his co-workers, are hard at work in several of the Convocations. Bishop Boynton and I are doing all that we can, and all over the Diocese the clergy are realizing the responsibility which rests on them for leadership in their own congregations.

Wherever the clergy are leading in this Campaign the people are following.

THE first progress report of the Campaign will be made at the Diocesan Convention on May 11th. I trust that the report will show that every congregation throughout the length and breadth of our Diocese is making, proportionately to its ability, a worthy contribution for this great purpose. This is our common task, responsibility and opportunity. Your gift and mine to "Builders for Christ" will enable our Church throughout the world and in the Diocese of New York to move forward with power.

Faithfully your Bishop

Horace W. B. Donegan

Cathedral Community Club Service To The Aged

DURING the four years of the operation of the Episcopal Service to the Aged of the Diocese of New York, the Service has been concerned largely with the counselling of older people and placing them in proper homes. Through both parochial and community contacts, however, there has grown an awareness of the need for a place in the neighborhood of the New York Cathedral where older men and women may go to enjoy recreation, hobbies, or just the companionship of other people.

Through the generous cooperation of the Dean and the Cathedral Chapter, space in the Cathedral Undercroft has been made available for this additional service. On Monday, April 26, at 4:30 p.m. Miss Elizabeth Evans, the Executive Director of the Episcopal Service to the Aged, the representatives of the social agencies in the neighborhood, the clergy in the neighborhood, and the Woman's Auxiliary met in order that they might explain the new program before it is opened. The representatives of the clergy and the social agencies include not only those of the Episcopal Church but of any denominations within the Cathedral neighborhood.

Bishop Donegan and Dean Pike spoke.

This new Cathedral Community Club for older people will be purely non-sectarian in operation. From 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. on Mondays, beginning May 24, the Undercroft in the New York Cathedral at 112th Street and Amsterdam Avenue will be open. There will be games, hobbies, refreshments, magazines, etc., and the rooms will be available every Monday from then on. It is hoped that the use of the rooms will grow into a daily service as has happened in other community centers.

The first day center in New York was the William Hodson Community Center. It was started ten years ago by the Department of Public Welfare largely so that recipients of Old Age Assistance would have a place to go during the day. The Center now has a membership of over 900 with an average daily attendance of about 250. During the past ten years more than 60 additional centers have been established within the five Boroughs. 13 of them are under the direct supervision of the Department of Welfare, others are sponsored by settlement houses, churches, neighborhood associations, etc. Some are open only a few hours a week. Others maintain full time programs. Individual programs vary, of course, but the most successful centers include opportunities for recreational handcrafts, field trips, games and discussion groups.

There have been a number of significant results from these day centers. One is a marked drop in clinic attendance. Many hospitals have reported that old people who formerly crowded the clinics ostensibly with vague, psychosomatic complaints but in reality simply because the clinic offered a kind of companionship, have found relationships at the day centers so satisfactory that they no longer need to be ill. Only a very small percentage of people attending day centers regularly have had to enter mental hospitals. Many people have become surer of themselves and of their potential contribution to family life through attendance at day centers and thus have been able to strengthen relationships. This is particularly evident

Friendly Girls

(See Photos →

THE Girls' Friendly Society proudly announces an increase of over 100 percent in missionary giving this year. The offering which was raised by the parish branches toward the purchase of a station wagon for the disabled children at St. Vincent's School, Haiti and presented at the Annual Mission Object Rally on the Cathedral close, Saturday, April 24th.

Following a box luncheon in the Undercroft of Synod Hall an afternoon program was presented including Haitian games and songs, an original play, "St. Vincent's School" by the children of St. Mark's Church—in-the-Bouwerie, Manhattan and a talk by Madamoiselle Solanges Dominque, a native of Haiti who is currently studying at Columbia University. Donning wide brimmed straw hats gaily trimmed in everything from green onions and radishes to huge, paper poppies, the girls concluded the program in a frantic Conga line to the accompaniment of latest Conga records.

The group, numbering over 200 girls and their leaders, then changed their straw bonnets for GFS caps and walked to St. James' Chapel. Evening Prayer was there read by the GFS Chaplain, the Rev. J. Philip Nordeck who also presented charters to two new branches, St. Mark's Junior Branch, Chelsea and St. Stephen's Senior Branch, Bronx. An address in the form of a story of the twins, "Give" and "It shall be given unto you," was given by the Rev. E. Otis Charles, priest-in-charge of St. Mark's, Chelsea. Representatives from 25 branches then came forward to present their offerings to be blessed. The girls had been working during the past season both to learn more about this missionary work in Haiti as well as to raise their offering. Some had saved their pennies all during Lent, others held various parish activities including a tea, concert, covered dish supper, dance, food sale, "Haiti Nite" or sold cookies, candies, flowers and slightly used comic books or had a tag day or special offering. One outstanding con-when an older person learns a new skill which is admired by relatives. An interesting by-product of these centers is that they have not only partially satisfied the need for companionship, but in addition have encouraged people to take the initiative in furthering human relationships. For instance, an old lady who had for years lived very much to herself was so stimulated by her own success as a member of the Refreshment Committee of one of the large centers, that she began to encourage friends of long ago to come to her home for a weekend meal.

Although the 60-odd day centers are scattered over the five Boroughs there is nothing in this area between the middle west side and Washington Heights with the exception of the center operated by the National Council of Jewish Women at 110th Street and Broadway. This program caters largely to refugees and German is spoken almost entirely. In the immediate neighborhood of the Cathedral between 110th and 116th Streets from Amsterdam Avenue to Riverside Drive, there are a great many rooming houses occupied by unattached older men and women, many of whom have nowhere to go during the day.

In spite of the need, experience has shown that these day centers are slow to get under way. We hope to make a good start during May and June and if possible continue contact with the people during the summer so that in the fall we can re-open without significant loss in membership.

The St. George's Service

THE bagpipes came skirling down the Nave of the Cathedral at 4 o'clock Evening Prayer and Sermon on Sunday, April 25th, because it was the annual St. George Day Church Service.

Some 43 organizations met at 106th Street between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, proceeded up Broadway to 112th Street and turned east on 112th Street and marched into the Cathedral with their bands and banners. The Yonker's Kiltie Band led the procession, the Drum and Fife Corps led the Loyal Orange Lodge Ladies Institution, and the Salvation Army Band brought up the rear of the procession. They all marched into the Cathedral with their banners, up to the steps of the Great Choir. The Color Guard of the associations was seated in the Presbytery, and the Clergy Chaplains of the associations were seated in the Great Choir.

The First and Second Lessons were read by F. B. A. Rundall, Esq., C.N.G., O.B.E, H.B.M. Consul General at New York. And he read also messages to and from H.M. The Queen, and H.E. the British Ambassador.

Bishop Donegan gave the Greeting, and the sermon was preached by the Reverend Canon Edward N. West, D.D., Litt.D., Sacrist of the Cathedral.

The offering at the service was designated for the Westminster Abbey Fund.

After the Doxolgy there was the Color Guard Salute, the Last Post was blown, and the National Anthems of, first, the United States and then, Great Britain were sung. There was a prayer for St. George's Day, followed by the Bishop's Blessing.

Too Long on a "Wobbly Crutch"

THE CHURCH in its teaching work has leaned far too long on the "very wobbly crutch" of curriculum materials. This has been particularly evident in the work of the Sunday School, but is a marked tendency in the whole educational picture.

One of the chief results of this overdependence on the "purchaseable" features of Christian education has been the development of a tradition which sees the teacher become "a textbook-wired-for-sound." As publishers have become more and more obliging in presenting "canned material" at a price, the teacher has become depersonalized and his own religious experience counts for nothing.

This is one of the concerns which will receive attention in the Convocation Curriculum Conferences being conducted by the Diocesan Department of Christian Education during May and June. Promotion material covering all the conferences was sent to the clergy in April, with the request that all who work with the Sunday School be urged to attend either the conference in their own Convocation or a more convenient one in a nearby Convocation.

The Church needs a definite and well defined curriculum in its whole educational program, but it needs to do this defining in terms of carefully stated objectives or lesson aims. These aims should be the decisive factor in deciding what curriculum should be used and should become binding on the teachers.

The chief factors in deciding what should actually be spoken are the stated objective for the occasion, the life situation of the learners and the realized religious experience of the teachers. Only one of these can be dealt with directly by an impersonal text book.

Those who undertake a teaching responsibility in the Church need a great deal of help, but the help that serves the cause best is that which points to a wide range of available resource material, gives careful suggestion as to how one's spiritual resources speak to the situation, and suggests ways by which the day by day experience of the children present open doors to the teachers.

But the more "canned" the curriculum becomes, the more "wobbly" is the "crutch."

On March 25th Bishop Boynton addressed a large group of the Clergy and vestrymen of the Convocation Churches, explaining very clearly and urgently all points in connection with the forthcoming drive for "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" and Diocesan needs. The Rev. Andrew C. Long is Convocation chairman for this campaign.

ST. ALBAN'S, Eltingville, under their "pay as we go" plan are now working towards a new kitchen, having already provided a new organ and roof — more power to them!

ST. ANDREW'S, Richmondtown, have so far obtained pledges of $69,000 towards their goal of $100,000 for the building of a new parish house, needed in particular to house their large and increasing Sunday School, at present with an average attendance of over 300.

CHRIST CHURCH, New Brighton. A Bible Study Group was a special feature conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Andrew C. Long, on Monday evenings through Lent, subject Corinthians I.

Miss Ethel Fowler was responsible for overall plans for the successful School of Worship, conducted by the Clergy and District W.A. and patterned after those conducted at the Cathedral, held during March at ST. SIMON'S, Concord. The basis was the Acts, subjects—Doctrine, Worship and Discipline of the Church, with the Rev. Hugh D. McCandless, the Rev. C. Kilmer Myers and the Rev. Leslie J. Lang as guest speakers.

THE DUTCHESS CONVOCATION

The Rev. E. Otis Charles

Sixty miles north of New York City on the Albany Post Road is the Village of Fishkill. Just off the Post Road one sees historic TRINITY CHURCH built in 1769 by the Rev. John Beardsly. Subscriptions for the erection of a church were first solicited by the Rev. Samuel Seabury, father of the Bishop, about the year 1756. The Rev. Mr. Seabury came to the area as a missionary of the Venerable Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. For many years Trinity and its sister parish, CHRIST CHURCH in Poughkeepsie, were the only established centers of Church life in this part of the Hudson Valley.

Over the years the building first envisioned by the Rev. Mr. Seabury underwent severe changes, many to meet the fancy of fashion. Neo-gothic arches were added to form a "sanctuary" and Victorian furniture replaced the early Hitchcock. Graceful chandeliers gave way to primitive electric fixtures and dull brown was painted over the gleaming white of an earlier day. Despite the ravages of time its true character and dignity are easily discerned. Most of the windows contain the original hand blown glass. Door fixtures are of colonial design and craftsmanship. Wide board floors still remain, as do the old box-type pews.

Restoration of this 185 year old building is being undertaken by the Vicar and Vestry, as part of their program to meet the needs of an expanding community, with the Rev. Canon Edward N. West as technical advisor. The Rev. R. DeWitt Mallary is Vicar.

Easter saw the chancel given back its former spaciousness by the removal of several "steps" and the return of an early Holy Table, long since relegated to the sacristy. Covering the table is a full red Laudian frontal.

In the future major work will be undertaken to restore the full integrity of the interior. Perhaps further "finds" will be made. The wine glass pulpit common to churches of the period was last seen about 50 years ago in a nearby pasture. It is believed the chandeliers were placed in other churches about the Diocese. All will watch the progress of this project with interest, since it is the only building of such antiquity remaining in the area.

Parish Life Conferences Planned

THE MARKED success of the three Parish Life Conferences conducted by the Division of Leadership Training of the Department of Christian Education has led to the immediate agreement on dates for seven further conferences next autumn.

Reports coming from the ten parishes which have already been represented by five laity each, and the follow-up meetings conducted by the Director, are welcome evidence that this type of conference brings to those who attend it a deeper understanding as to the task of the Parish and the responsibility of individual members.

Dates for further conferences are tentatively set as follows: Oct. 1-3; Oct. 15-17; Nov. 5-7; Nov. 19-21; Jan. 7-9, 1955; Jan. 21-23; Feb. 11-13. All clergy who would like further information on these conferences are invited to talk with the Rector of a Parish which has already been represented (Armonk; Ardsley; St. Bartholomew's, White Plains; St. Bartholomew's, New York; Chapel of the Incarnation; St. Paul's, Yonkers; Calvary, New York; Church of the Resurrection, New York; Larchmont; St. James the Less, Scarsdale. Further information will gladly be supplied by the Department of Christian Education.

The Dean's Column

IN THE LETTERS opposing the position on McCarthyism which Dean Sayre and I took in each other's pulpits recently, the principal attitude which recurred over and over again was: "The Church should not concern itself with political matters but should 'stick to the Bible.'" This statement is common enough a one that I am devoting this month's column to answering it.

THE CHURCH CAN be interested in no less than God is interested in. Can we say that God is against private sin, but that public evil is beyond the sphere of His judgments? So the Church has always spoken out against abuses which hurt the sons of men. Those who want the Church to "stick to the Bible" should read Amos who denounced the evil conditions in the public life of his day, Isaiah who condemned bad housing conditions. A great bishop, in whose name a chapel is dedicated in our Cathedral, Ambrose, publicly barred the Emporer Theodosius from the Cathedral in Milan because he had "purged" people. The English Evangelicals, and later the New England "abolitionists", thundered from their pulpits against slavery. Standing in this same prophetic tradition, Bishop Michael Ready of Columbus, preaching recently in the Roman Catholic Cathedral in New Orleans, rightly called for an increase in tax exemptions for families and additional public aid for low-cost housing — both live political issues at the moment.

SHOULD THE CHURCH preach against individual gossip and be silent about a whole set-up by which the reputation of people is ruined without a chance to face their accusers and cross-examine them? Should the Church teach sound family life and be unconcerned about slums? Should Pastor Niemollor have been silent against Hitler? Should Bishop Dibelius now be silent against the Communist government in East Germany?

ACTUALLY PEOPLE DO not raise the cry of "the Church in politics" when they agree with a preacher's position. We have all been preaching — as a paramount duty — against Communism — a major world issue, and none but the Communists have cried "the Church in politics." It is when a sermon goes against some pet belief or prejudice or self-interest that this cry is raised as a smoke-screen. When the Roman Catholic clergy of Massachusetts took to their pulpits to help defeat legislation allowing medical advice on contraception, many cried "the Church in politics" because they did not agree with the Roman Catholic view on this ethical issue. I do not agree with it either, but I think we must affirm their right — their duty — to seek to persuade citizens to vote in the way that they feel is the will of God. When the public question of whether church schools were "American" or "divisive" was up a while back, our Cathedral pulpit and that of the Boston Roman Catholic Cathedral spoke as one voice against the proponents of a monolithic state control of education.

A ROMAN CATHOLIC prelate was quoted in the press recently as saying that the silence of his Church on McCarthyism was because they "don't preach sermons about politics". They do — and they should — when moral issues are involved. Slums, a bad tax structure, planned parenthood, freedom for religious education, Communism and McCarthyism — all involve moral issues. How then can the Church be silent on them?

THE CHURCH SHOULD not endorse particular candidates, nor specific legislation, but it must call evil evil, if we are to be of "the goodly fellowship of the prophets" which the Te Deum invites to praise God.

GOD HATES EVIL in all forms. As Amos said, The Lord God has spoken: who can but prophesy?

Dean of New York

The Daughters Of The King

THE Daughters Of The King is a seventy - year old organization, founded at The Church of The Resurrection in New York City, to spread Christ's Kingdom among women — senior and junior.

It's objectives are (1) To pray daily for the spread of Christ's Kingdom among women, and for God's blessings on the labor of the Order. (2) To take regularly some part in the worship, study and work of the Church; to make a constant effort to bring other women within its influence, and to render — at all times — such aid to the Rector as he may deem necessary for the spiritual upbuilding of the parish.

The National Offices of the Daughters of The King inform us that there are some 5000 adult, and some 750 junior members of the organization throughout the United States. Not very many when we think in terms of the total membership of our church. The writer strongly suspects that the answer to the organization's query, "How shall we go about getting the Clergy in the Diocese of New York interested in the Daughters of The King?" lies largely in telling about the organization. It may be that in the changes and vicissitudes to which every parish is subject that many a Priest has lost sight of the helpfulness that the Daughters can be to him.

Or it may be, human nature being as prevalent as it is, that the objectives, and the pristine staunchness of the Daughters has become swallowed up in the conflict of newer and overlapping organizations that seemingly have as their core the "fellowship" centered in cake bakes, bread bakes, flower shows, and what not, rather than the Churchly objectives of the Daughters as stated above.

So it is that with justifiable ambition the officers of the Diocesan Daughters, as well as the officers of the national office, want to revivify their organization and their objectives. They can do this only through new membership and the establishment of new Chapters. Despite the fact that the organization was founded at the Church of The Resurrection, there are only four chapters in New York City—St. Phillips; St. Ambrose; Trinity, Morrisania and the Church of The Transfiguration. These four chapters have 60 members.

Why plow and plant new seed, when the old field is ripe for the harvesting.

The expressions on the faces of the forty members of the Boy Choir of SAINT THOMAS CHURCH were something to see when the boys and their masters recently moved into their new living quarters on West 55th Street. Originally planned for opening in the fall, strikes during the summer and other difficulties kept the Choir Boys from moving into their new $500,000 home until the spring.

The School House for the Choir School has been built for about ten years, but the living quarters were in two converted old houses where there was always fear of fire or other disasters. "We never could have gotten over any tragedy like that", said the Reverend Dr. Brooks, Rector of Saint Thomas, "and so we decided that our boys must have the very best equipment available."

The most general comment heard when the new building was seen by the boys was "Wow!" They liked their new Common Room and Library, each equipped with the latest lighting and the softest chairs. They admired the 'Rumpus' room in the basement where they may let off extra energy without disturbing anyone since the walls and ceiling are sound-proof.

And the meals which came from the gleaming new kitchen won the approval of all, both boys and masters.

Final proof of the general delight which the boys feel in being in their new home came on the first Saturday night which is usually the night for movies. More boys elected to sit quietly playing checkers or other games than to view the movie. Apparently, they were showing their thanks in their own way.

Every year, SAINT LUKE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, on the Fourth Sunday in Lent, participates in what is apparently a unique ceremony in the Diocese. In keeping with the traditional title for this Sunday, of "Mothering Sunday", there is a cake baked and blessed in memory of the days when English apprentices came home with a gift for their mother. Then, as now, the cake is the outward sign of the love which we all feel both for our human mothers and for the common mother of us all, the Church. It might be of interest to give the recipe for the Simnel Cake: Butter, ¼ lb.; White flour, ¼ lb.; White sugar, ¼ lb.; Candied peel or citron, 2 oz.; Currants, ½ lb.; Eggs, 2. Beat the butter to cream in warmed bowl, add sugar, then beaten eggs, then flour, currants, peel or citron gradually. Bake in a moderate oven. Good Luck!

THE BRONX CONVOCATION

The Reverend R. A. Isaac
The Bronx Correspondent

The Bronx was a very busy part of a very busy Diocese during Lent and so, unlike some previous months, there is a great deal to report at this time. First of all we want to congratulate the Rector, Churchwardens, Vestry and people of ST. GEORGE'S, Williamsbridge, on their having become a parish. The Rector is the Reverend Robert J. Orpen, Jr., who came to ST. GEORGE's last November. Russell J. Barry and Blandford Y. Ermshar are the Wardens. The Vestry includes the following men: Henry G. Harke, Joseph G. LoPresti, Charles E. Watson, Adolph V. Johnson, John G. Frail, Donald L. Legg, Robert Becker, Wilberforce D. Simmons and Alfred Flaurand. Mr. Adolph W. Johnson is the Clerk and Mr. Donald L. Legg the Treasurer. The Rector invited the Convocation to hold its Annual Spring Meeting at ST GEORGE'S on Tuesday evening the 27th of April and we are happy to recognize officially their new status at that time. ST. GEORGE'S, by the way, was the only parish to have one hundred percent representation at the Meeting of the Clergy and Vestrymen of the Convocation at ST. PETER'S, Westchester, when Bishop Boynton presented the appeal for "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST."

The Rev. Leslie J. Lang, Dean of the Convocation and Rector of ST. PETER'S, Westchester, has reported the Church attendance of the parish for the Fourth Sunday in Lent. At 8 o'clock forty-three, at 9:30 o'clock two hundred ninety-two, at 11:00 o'clock one hundred seventy-six and at 7 o'clock in the evening one hundred and fifty plus. The Family Service at 9:30 each Sunday is proving to be the most popular and the best attended as the figures show. It is

THE HOLY CROSS

THE FINDING or "invention" of the Holy Cross is commemorated, in various Church Calendars, by a festival on May third, which is the reason why I thought I would write these words for this issue of THE BULLETIN.

In my Pectoral Cross is a sliver of the Cross which for over 1500 years has been honored by the Christian Church as possibly the Cross on which the Savior died.

This sliver is embedded in a golden Cross which was given to my father when he was made a Knight Commander of the Orthodox Order of The Holy Sepulchre by the Patriarch of the Holy City of Jerusalem and All Palestine. I inherited this treasure, and Canon West incorporated it in his design for my Pectoral Cross.

The Patriarchial Diploma of Honor which always accompanies the Cross reads in part:

". . . appreciating and rewarding the great piety and the other virtues of our most Reverent and Beloved son in Christ—(Name), and affirming his love and sincerity towards the Holy Sepulchre and the Mother of Churches, We hereby declare him and bestow upon him the golden Cross, with the Crown of Commander of the Orthodox Order of the Holy Sepulchre, in which Cross is kept a small Real Piece of the Holy Cross on which our Lord was crucified for our salvation."

OF THE ORTHODOX ORDER OF THE HOLY SEPULCHRE

This piece, along with all other authentic ones like it, comes from the cross which was discovered in the year 326 AD, as the story goes, by St. Helena, the mother of the Roman Emperor Constantine.

The legend is that, when visiting the holy places in Palestine, St. Helena was guided to the site of the crucifixion by an aged Jew who had inherited traditional knowledge as to its position. After the ground had been dug to a considerable depth, three crosses were found, as well as the superscription placed over the Savior's head on the cross, and the nails with which he had been crucified. The Cross of the Lord was distinguished from the other two by the working of a miracle on a crippled woman who was stretched upon it.*

Eusebius, the historian (339 AD), makes mention of the discovery of the Holy Cross, and quotes a letter of Constantine to St. Marcarius in which he thanks God "for this great miracle." St. Cyril of Jerusalem (386 AD) also refers to the discovery several times in his writings.

As I proudly wear this relic of the early Church, the words of the ancient hymn are constantly running through my mind:

Faithful Cross, above all other
One and only noble Tree:
None in foliage, none in blossom,
None in fruit thy peer may be.
Sweetest wood, and sweetest iron,
Sweetest weight is hung on thee.

The Rev. Mother Audrey, of THE CONVENT OF ST. ANNE, Kingston, writes: "The roof is on the Angel House, and the interior is in process of redecorating. Much has been done, but there is still a good deal to do. 'Operation Valentine' has given us a wonderful lift. A little more than a third of the $3,000 which our friends set as their goal has been received. This is more than we had any idea would come to us, and is a very real help. We are deeply grateful for what has been done for us. We wish everyone could see the house when all is done. A fire was a drastic way to get some things done that needed doing, but we certainly appreciate the new look. We are thankful to our friends and well-wishers for their help and to God for our friends. For 'this is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes!'"

The Rev. G. R. Hiatt, after 26 years of devoted service as Rector of ST. JOHN'S, Ellenville, retires at the beginning of this month. The Rev. John G. Phillips, Rector of CHRIST CHURCH, Marlborough, and ST. AGNES' CHAPEL, Balmville, left the Convocation recently to become Rector of the Church of Our Father, Hulls' Cove, Maine.

Reports throughout the Convocation concerning Lent this year would indicate increased attendances in several parishes.

At ST. GEORGE'S, Newburgh, on the Friday evenings in Lent the Sisters of St. Helena gave a series of instruction on Prayer. The large illuminated Cross which was placed on the lawn of TRINITY CHURCH, Saugerties, last Christmas and was so highly appreciated by a large number of residents, has been re-erected by the Men's Club of the parish and illuminated nightly during Lent.

Recent Convocation appointments have included: To the Department of Christian Education, The Rev. Alan H. Tongue; for the Aged, The Rev. F. T. Cooper; to the Youth Council: The Rev. Arthur H. Benzinger; and to Christian Social Relations: The Rev. G. Melbourne Jones.

CHRIST CHURCH, Warwick, sends in these items:

"Christ Church has made contact with the priest who covers the island of La Gonave, about 30 miles off the coast of Port-au-Prince, Haiti. The missionary's name is the Rev. Mirabeau Sannon. As a special project of the whole parish, we hope to be able to help Fr. Sannon, and his flock, on La Gonave in any way that we are able."

One of the projects of the Centennial of Christ Church was the repainting of the interior of the church. This project was started on March 12. The walls are gray and the upper part of the Sanctuary will be sky blue, the lower part a Wedgewood blue, and the pillars will be an antique red.

Before the year is over Christ Church will have all new vestments for the junior choir and the clergy."

ST. JAMES', Goshen, sends in these items:

IN MEMORIAM

"St. James' Church lost a fine and faithful member with the death of John J. Van Vliet on March 1. Mr. Van Vliet, who was born September 15, 1871, served as senior warden and vestryman for 53 years, and in 1949 was honored by the Diocese. He also was treasurer over a long period.

In the course of his long life Mr. Van Vliet gave generously of his time and effort to community affairs. He was for many years first vice-president of the Goshen Library and member of the Board of Education. His children remember him as a wonderful father, and everyone who knew him appreciated his kindly spirit."

The Rev. Douglas Glasspool was welcomed March 27th at a tea, in the refurbished rectory. The Glasspools have a new daughter, born February

4 Colleges Service At The Cathedral

The first Sunday after Easter (the Octave of Easter Day) April 25th, was observed by the 4 Colleges Service of Morning Prayer, Procession, and Holy Communion in the Cathedral.

This is the day set aside annually by the National Council of Churches of Christ in America to be Christian Education Sunday. At the Cathedral it was termed "4 Colleges Service" because the colleges of Hobart (1822) at Geneva, N. Y.: Trinity (1823) at Hartford, Conn.; Kenyon (1824) at Gambier, Ohio; and the University of The South (1857) at Sewanee, Tenn., participated in the service.

All four of these colleges – Episcopal owned – have a common denominator in their dedication to the principles of Christian liberal education in the tradition of the Episcopal Church. From their combined 17,000 alumni in the past 100 years or more, the Episcopal Church has received 14% of its clergy and 25% of its bishops, and countless lay readers.

Forty representative alumni, ten from each of the colleges, with the flag of the college before each group, take their places for the service pointed out by the Rector that there are more adults at this service than at the 11 o'clock and that the 9:30 figure does not include the attendance of children in the Church School classes. During Lent the Reverend Charles Scott of the ST. PETER'S staff gave a series of sermons on Sunday mornings at 11 o'clock on "The Works of the Living God." The Rev. Mr. Lang gave two series of addresses, the one on Wednesday evenings was based upon "The Holy Scriptures", Volume One of the Church's Teaching Series; the other on Sunday evenings on "The Episcopal Church, One, Holy, Catholic and Apostolic."

The Vestry of the CHURCH OF THE ATONEMENT on Beach Avenue have announced the resignation of their Rector, the Reverend Frederic H. Meisel. The Reverend Dr. Daniel A. McGregor will serve as Locum Tenens until a Rector has been called.

In the Bronx Convocation Basketball League ST. PETER'S defeated ST. JAMES' by a score of 51 to 40 to win the championship of the Post-Season Tournament. The MEN OF THE BRONX have donated a team trophy and individual awards which will be presented to league winners at a Fathers and Sons Night to be held at ST PAUL'S on the 4th May. The latter organization in its regular monthly meeting held at ST. PETER'S on Tuesday evening the 23rd of March began plans for the Annual Picnic event sponsored by the group.

The WOMEN OF THE BRONX held their Annual Corporate Communion at the CHURCH OF THE HOLY NATIVITY on the Feast of the Annunciation. After lunch the Reverend William R. F. Thomas of the Missionary Diocese of Honolulu addressed the group.

ST. JAMES', Fordham, have recently made available to their parishioners Cards of Remembrance for an expression of sympathy at the time of bereavement. The donor sends one card to the bereaved and another to the Church with a gift requesting prayers for the soul of the departed at the Parish Communion. The women of the parish held an afternoon meeting on the 4th of March at which the Reverend James B. Edwards, Jr., Curate of the parish, introduced the study of the Liturgy pointing out the evolution of some of the various rites of the Holy Communion Service in Christian History. Sunday evening the 28th of March the St. Cecelia Choir of the parish gave a portion of J. H. Maunder's Cantata, "Olivet to Calvary."

New heating systems seem to be in vogue in the cold north—north Bronx, that is. Both GOOD SHEPHERD, Wakefield, and ST. STEPHEN'S, Woodlawn, have recently completed new installations. The women of both these parishes came together at ST. STEPHEN'S on the 8th of April for a Quiet Day. The Rev. George F. Kempsell, Jr., Rector of ST. JAMES THE LESS, Scarsdale, was the Conductor. The Rev. Roger Geffen gave a series of sermons on Church History at the CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD on Tuesday evenings during Lent. The Rev. Richard A. Isaac give a series on "Worship" on Wednesday evenings at ST. STEPHEN'S. This was followed each week by a Question and Answer period. Questions on all kinds of church subjects were submitted during the week and answers prepared. Time was also taken to sing favorite hymns which were requested.

On Wednesday, April 7th, the Choir of HOLY NATIVITY presented the first New York performance of the new Lenten Cantata by H. Alexander Matthews — "Gethsemane to Golgotha."

The Suffragan Bishop of The Diocese officiated at a meeting of the Clergy and Vestrymen of all Bronx

The Council of the Young People's Fellowship of the Convocation of Westchester, is sponsoring a very active program for the Spring months. On Sunday, March 21st, a Rally was held at CHRIST CHURCH, Tarrytown. It began with an Evensong Service in the Church, and this was followed by a Box Supper in the Parish Hall. The speaker was the Reverend J. Jack Sharkey, Rector of ZION CHURCH, Wappinger Falls. Mr. Sharkey spoke on Haiti, which is the youth mission study area this year.

On Saturday, April 3rd, a Quiet Day was held at ST. BARNABAS CHURCH, Irvington. This began at 10:00 a.m. with a Celebration of the Holy Communion. The meditations were conducted by the Reverend Kim Myers.

Saturday, May 8th, will be Cathedral Day and all groups in the Convocation will journey to the CATHEDRAL OF ST. JOHN THE DIVINE. The day will begin with registration at 10:00 a.m. and there will be a Celebration of the Holy Communion at 10:15 a.m. This will be followed by a Box Luncheon and a Pilgrimage through the Cathedral. Bishop Donegan and Dean Pike will address the afternoon meeting and at 5:30 p.m. there will be a dance.

On May 23rd, Sunday, there will be a final Rally held at the CHURCH OF THE ACENSION, Mount Vernon. This will begin with a Vesper Service at 7:00 p.m. The Annual Elec-

Preserving New York's Landmarks for 104 Years

The churches, buildings and monuments which reflect New York's 300-year history do not withstand the rigors of time and weather without the aid of man.

And to many of these, such aid has come in the form of repair and maintenance by Nicholson & Galloway, Inc., specialists in roofing and waterproofing for 103 years.

The famous structures on which we have worked include the Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Tower, Grant's Tomb, the Stock Exchange, Wanamaker's, Trinity Church, the Pierpont Morgan Library, the Astor Hotel, Garden City Cathedral and St. Marks-In-The-Bouwerie.

23rd. They are now at work in Goshen, the Palm Sunday and Holy Week services marking the commencement of a new pastorate."

ST. STEPHEN'S, Pearl River, sends in this story: "Bishop Campbell confirmed 14 persons March 14th, each one was given a manual to prepare them for Holy Communion, a New Testament, a medal, a hymnal, and a subscription to a church magazine. (Ed. Note: Was it the BULLETIN?)

$600 is needed to install a window, entitled "Children of all Nations". 35 children attend the rector's Tuesday afternoon missions study class. The Lenten offering all time high in this Sunday School was last year's $250. The parish is getting ready to support the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" campaign."

GRACE CHURCH, Nyack, has these events to report: "A cantata, April 25th, "Redeeming Love," a new work by W. R. Voris. This was sung at 11 a.m. the first Sunday after Easter. $1,164 was pledged by March 15th for the clock and chimes fund.

In his monthly "Messenger" the Rector of Grace Church, The Rev. Harold Thelin, has a great deal to say about the variety of observances within Christendom, yet within the Anglican fold and he highlights the pan-Anglican congress, enclosing a folder that tells a great deal about this event.

The Dean of Ramapo preached in ST. MARY'S, Tuxedo, on "The Challenge and Opportunity in This Area", and in GRACE CHURCH, Middletown, on "Obedience to God."

Bishop Boynton addresed 75 representatives of 15 parishes and missions at CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, March 29th, on the responsibility of wardens and vestrymen as directors of the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" campaign in May, 1954. The Dean and the Rector of ST. MARY'S, Tuxedo, are in charge of the effort in the Ramapo.

The Rev. Walter W. Reid has the honor of being the first Vicar in the Ramapo to go over the top in the campaign for $9,665 in this Convocation, "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST." His three churches have already paid their quota in full,

CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, had organ recitals, lectures on prayer, the Old Testament, and, together with ST. MARY'S, Tuxedo, performances of Stainer's oratorio, "The Crucifixion", as features of Lent and Holy Week. The Rev. Dr. Edward O. Kennedy, secretary of Union Theological Seminary, N. Y., preached the Three Hour Service. Five ministers assisted him and the Rector, the Rev. Fessenden Nichols, in the liturgical parts of the Good Friday devotions.

Thirty men attended a series of lectures at CHRIST CHURCH, Suffern, in March: these were delivered by the Rev. Frank C. Leeming, headmaster of St. Peter's School, Peekskill.

ST. MARY'S, Tuxedo, the Rev. Fenimore E. Cooper, Rector began Lent with an early Communion, then had on subsequent Wednesdays films, Kodachrome slides, lectures, and addresses, one entitled "Adventures of a Country Parson", delivered by the Rev. John D. Chequer, Rector of GRACE CHURCH, Port Jervis.

ST. JOHN'S, New City, is having a lively year. Two recent events are the Communion and breakfast for one hundred men of the Convocation, with Archdeacon Brätt as celebrant, Eugene Curry of ST. STEPHEN'S, Armonk, as speaker, on the theme of "A Layman's Work in His Church." A spirited discussion followed on ways in which Ramapo parishes are trying to do their duty. On March 24 Miss Elisabeth Evans addressed fifty persons from seven parishes, also in New City, on "Ways of Helping the Aged." Welfare agencies of Rockland county were represented at this meeting, as well as clergy. The Afternoon Guild of St. John's Mission served refreshments. Sunday School attendance is surpassing all previous records.

GRACE CHURCH, Middletown, showed a film on April 1, invited guest preachers in Lent, hopes to redecorate the church, promoted the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" campaign, sends out a parish news letter, has teen agers at Holy Communion each Sunday at 8:00 a.m. The Rector, the Rev. Herbert M. Barrall, has prepared an attractive folder, with a picture of the church for page one, and a list of staff workers, etc. on page four. Inside he mimeographs the Sunday schedule, week by week.

THE CHURCH IN ENGLAND

BY J. R. H. MOORMAN

A NEW one-volume history of the Christian Church in England from Roman and Anglo-Saxon times to the present day has long been needed. The Principal of Chichester Theological College has now provided a remarkable comprehensive yet readable narrative which is at once an introduction to its subject and, through its generous bibliographical information, a reliable guide to further and more specialized study. Dr. Moorman's book is a model of clarity of arrangement and of exposition which will commend it to students and general readers alike.

Books in Review

by William E. Leidt

THERE ARE four books on my reading table today; four books on rather diverse subjects but which have four things in common:

Each is on a subject of some concern to Christian men and women today.

Each is written for the man in the pew, that is for you and for me.

Each is written by a recognized authority, and

Each is not a first book. The author in each case has an established reputation, and it is that reputation that led to the initial selection of these four books. They are:

The Apocrypha, Bridge of the Testaments — A Readers Guide to the Apocryphal Books of the Old Testament by Robert C. Dentan (Greenwich, Seabury Press. 1954 $2.25)

The Christian View of Sexual Behavior: A Reaction to the Kinsey Report by W. Norman Pittenger (Greenwich, Seabury Press. 1954 $1.50)

The Christian World Mission in Our Day by Kenneth Scott Latourette (New York, Harpers. 1954 $2.50)

Under Three Flags by Stephen Neill (New York, Friendship Press. 1954 $2.00)

PROFESSOR DENTAN, who in September will move to the General Seminary from the Berkeley Divinity School where for several years past he has been Professor of the Literature and Interpretation of the Old Testament, is one of the leading biblical scholars in the United States today. The present volume on the Apocrypha is a companion or supplement to Mr. Dentan's earlier book The Holy Scriptures (Greenwich. Seabury Press. $2.50). It is thus somewhat surprising and even unfortunate that the two books are dissimilar in size and format. By itself, however, the book is a pleasant size to handle and the typography readable if lacking distinction.

ANOTHER MORE seasoned professor in the General Seminary is the author of our second title. A popular lecturer and teacher of young men preparing for Holy Orders, Norman Pittenger has shared his charm and learning with a far larger audience through his many, many writings, including even an article, What is an Episcopalian? in Look Magazine a year ago.

Perhaps the best comment on The Christian View of Sexual Behavior is that of a teen-age prep school boy. Asked his opinion of the book, he replied "It doesn't say anything that the Headmaster hasn't told us." A commendation for both school and book. A valuable part of this book is its excellent selected annotated reading list. Unfortunately, it is not set in a style to clarify the text — an obligation of all good book designers — and hence is difficult to use.

Books in Review

KENNETH SCOTT LATOURETTE is a retired professor, but for a lifetime he has been a professional historian of the expansion of the Christian Church—Missions, if you will. Long a teacher in Yale University, he has recently turned to producing somewhat popular interpretative volumes of which The Christian World Mission in Our Day is the latest. For every Christian concerned about the future of missionary efforts overseas, this book is significant. In the face of the closing of China, with uprisings in Africa, threats in India, and the general uncertainty in almost every part of the globe, this book provides a calm answer to the question "What is in store for the Church in mission lands?" To those familiar with other books by Mr. Latourette, some of the pages may have a familiar sound. The author, he tells us in the Preface, has consciously been repeating although in summary and in other words some of the analyses and convictions which he has expressed elsewhere.

THE fourth book is concerned with India, Pakistan, and Ceylon. It is being recommended for reading and discussion during the coming months. Stephen Neill was for twenty years an Anglican missionary in India, ten years a member of the Joint Committee on Church Union in South India, and six years Bishop of Tinnevelly. Since his return from India he has been associated with the World Council of Churches and has been a welcome visitor and speaker in the United States. Recently excerpts from his book Christian Society have been reprinted serially in Episcopal Churchnews. Under Three Flags seems to me imperative reading for American Christians today.

THE CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, Greenwood Lake. The Rev. Harry B. Malcolm promised to go all out for the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" campaign, looks forward to the formal consecration of the church next summer. In 1943 they had a fire, after which the parish house was erected, along with the church. Previously they used as religious center of our work the chapel on the island which is no longer being used at all. Now everything is at the village church, a self-supporting parish. Naturally things get lively in the summer time at Greenwood Lake.

tion of Officers will be held at the meeting.

On Monday, February 23rd, Washington's Birthday, two parishes in the Hudson River area sponsored Corporate Communions and Breakfasts.

At TRINTY CHURCH, Ossining, several parishes cooperated on a joint affair and the Very Reverend James A. Pike, Dean of the Cathedral, was the Celebrant and the speaker.

At ALL SAINTS' CHURCH, Briarcliff Manor, where the affair was on the parish level for men and boys, the speaker was the Reverend T. F. Cooper, Chaplain of Wallkill State Prison. His topic was "The Application of the Gospel Behind Prison Bars." Both affairs were successful with large attendance reported.

The Rector of ST. THOMAS'S CHURCH, Mamaroneck, the Reverend Arnold Fenton, announced recently in the "Tower" the completion of another room in their Parish Hall renovation program. This one was repaneled and repainted through the generosity of Mr. Frederick Gilbert.

The CHURCH OF SAINT MARY THE VIRGIN, Chappaqua, has launched a campaign to raise $25,000 for the construction of the second floor of their Parish Hall. This will complete the work which was begun in 1950.

A new set of Green Eucharistic Vestments purchased by the relatives and friends of the late John Hutchinson, faithful sexton of ST. PETER'S CHURCH, Peekskill, for many years, was blessed by the Rector on Sunday, March 7th.

The Rector of ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, New Rochelle, the Reverend John Norman Hill, inaugurated a successful Family Service Program at the 11:00 a.m. Service on the last Sunday in February. The Church School now meets at that hour permitting the parents of the children to be present in Church.

The Reverend Kenneth G. Drescher, Vicar of the CHURCH OF THE HOLY COMMUNION, Lake Mahopac, and the CHAPEL OF THE REDEEMER, Granite Springs, has two men of the parish, Mr. Roger Murdock and Mr. Buddy Kellogg, studying with him preparing to become Lay Readers. They will assist the Vicar in carrying on the regular Services of the Churches.

School of Worship

each group as a resource person. Several successful adaptations have used clergy leadership entirely. Plans for the Cathedral School next fall call for several forms under clergy leadership in addition to the usual small discussion groups.

A day-long adaptation of the School of Worship was held at Seabury House in March for the Woman's Auxiliary leaders of Province II. As a result, four dioceses in this province decided to hold Schools of Worship. They are the Dioceses of Western New York, Central New York, Albany and New Jersey. The Dioceses of Long Island and Newark will attend the School of Worship at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine next November. The Diocese of Rochester held a School of Worship last February.

Hardly less gratifying was the response at the parish level when the seven parish organizations of St. Marks, Mt. Kisco (Vestry, Altar Guild, Church School, etc.) sent representatives to a School of Worship planning meeting, on March 14, arranged by the parish devotional chairman, Mrs. John Bennet, with the Rector, the Rev. Dr. William Colin Lee, and curate, the Rev. Mr. Bradford Locke. It was decided to hold a School of Worship open to the men and women of the parish on Wednesday evening of Whitsun Week which falls on June 9. A preliminary workshop was held on April 5 for 24 men and women who received training in group leadership and background material for study. Following the Cathedral pattern, the June program will begin with Evensong which will be followed by a lecture by the Rev. Gerald Gifford, assistant minister of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, who was in charge of the discussion groups relating the doctrine of the Trinity to the problems of family life at the Cathedral School of Worship last fall. His subject will be: "The Holy Communion in Relation to Ourselves". The Parish will break up into discussion groups each of which will be led by a trained lay leader and clergy resource person. Refreshments will be served.

Mr. Gifford was also the speaker at a School of Worship sponsored by the Department of Christian Education of the Convocation of Westchester and the Woman's Auxiliary. Held at All Saints Church, Briarcliff on February 17, the theme was "How the Church Answers the Needs of Family Life." Approximately 100 women from about 10 nearby parishes arrived at 10:00 a.m. for Holy Communion, listened to Mr. Gifford's lecture which they discussed afterwards in small groups each of which was under the leadership of a clergyman. They were dismissed at 12:30 p.m.

A similar pattern was followed on April 28 when all of the Yonkers churches cooperated in having a School of Worship at St. Paul's, Yonkers, with "Christian Teaching Begins at Home" as its theme. The Rev. Osborne Budd of St. Johns, Tuckahoe, who is chairman of the Children's Division of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education acted as leader. He was assisted by other Yonkers clergymen. A third Westchester "School" will be held on May 26 at Grace Church, White Plains, under the leadership of its Rector, the Rev. Dr. Alfred C. Arnold, who will be assisted by neighboring clergymen. The subject will be prayer, especially as it relates to intercession and meditation.

More than 100 women participated in a similar School of Worship which was held at St. Simons Church, Concord on Staten Island. This was also sponsored by the clergy and women of the District of Richmond. Held on three consecutive Tuesdays in March, the School followed the familiar pattern of Holy Communion, lecture, coffee and discussion groups. The theme was "The Acts of the Apostles: Doctrine, Worship and Discipline" with the Rev. Hugh McCandless, the Rev. Leslie J. Lang, and the Rev. C. Kilmer Myers delivering the lectures. A fee of 50 cents was charged and a baby sitter was provided.

St. James, Hyde Park, was the setting on April 7 of a School of Worship variation. After Holy Communion at 10:00 a.m., a panel of Woman's Auxiliary officers presented a series of talks on prayer. "Personal Prayer and a Rule of Life" was discussed by Mrs. Roscoe C. Hatch of Hyde Park, "Prayer and Study Groups" was presented by Mrs. John P. Currie of New York, "Meditation" by Mrs. Gurney Williams of Chappaqua, and "Our Prayer Book Answers to Life's Problems" by Mrs. J. D. Collins of Pine Plains. Mrs. Peter Oliver, Woman's Auxiliary Devotional Life Chairman of the Diocese, presided. A question and answer period and intercessory prayer demonstration followed lunch.

Saturday, March 20—Concert in Richmond, Virginia.

Sunday, March 21—9:30 A.M. St. Luke's Church, Richmond, Virginia.

The Rector of CHRIST CHURCH, Bronxville, has called for a program of Family Prayers and Bible Reading in his parish during Lent. "I hope we may make an effort again this Lent to have Family Prayers and Bible reading. As we suggested last Lent, after the evening meal is an excellent time to have Family Prayers and Bible reading. We have used the Gospels as the basis for this reading during several Lents. This year I hope we use St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians. If you do not own a copy we hope you will rush out and buy "Letters to Young Churches." They are wonderful to read aloud and you will feel that St. Paul is sitting right at your table talking directly to you. Let us try to keep Lent this year as a Christian Family."

Among the Churches which sponsored Lenten Lectures was ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CHURCH, White Plains, where Dr. George W. Barrett, Professor of Pastoral Theology at General Theological Seminary spoke on Wednesday nights, and the CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER, Pelham Manor, where Professor Powel Mills Dawley, Professor of Ecclesiastical History at General Theological Seminary gave seven addresses on the general subject "The Faith By Which We Live."

The Church of ST. JAMES THE LESS, Scarsdale, sponsored a series of three Musical Programmes at 5:00 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, March 21, 28th and April 4th.

Address to 173rd Convention

May 11, 1954

MY BRETHREN IN THE LORD:

IN welcoming you to the 173rd Convention of the Diocese my first word must be one of thankfulness to God that He has put it into the hearts of our clergy and laity to work together in a true spirit of harmony and fraternity for the upbuilding of His Church during the past year. I can report to you that the Church is on the move. For this many are responsible. To Bishop Boynton, whose cheerful, able, and devoted ministry is a continuing support and strength to me and to the Diocese; to Archdeacon Brätt, who indefatigably carries out his duties with zeal, skill and energy; Mr. Oxholm, who with painstaking care watches over the Diocesan finances and supervises the business affairs of our common life; Mr. G. Forrest Butterworth, the Chancellor, who gives his services unstintingly as legal advisor to the Bishop; to the Reverend Lawrence B. Larsen, for his efficient work as Registrar and Secretary of Convention; to our capable and loyal clergy staff and secretaries at Diocesan House; and to all the clergy and laity of the Diocese who have made this past year one of advance, I offer my deep gratitude. When I reflect on the labors of our clergy, and the devotion of our laity, I make the words of the Apostle my own, "I thank my God on my every remembrance of you."

We miss the presence of our former beloved Diocesan, Bishop Gilbert, who is sorry he cannot be present and has asked me to extend his warmest greetings to the Convention delegates. We cannot meet together at a time like this without being keenly aware of the tremendous problems, difficulties, and opportunities which face this generation, and the responsibilities that rest upon the Christian Church today. We are inevitably involved in the problems of the world in which we are set. Whether the Church will meet its present responsibilities and rise to the opportunities of the times, depends not only on the courage of its leaders in proclaiming Our Lord's principles of brotherhood, justice and truth, but also on the determination of Christian men and women to apply those principles in every area of life—personal, social, national, and international. The next few years are bound to be momentous, and I pray that we of this Church may, by our actions as well as our words, let it be known that we are not merely conventional, nominal Christians, but faithful disciples of Him we call Lord and Master.

NO TIME FOR HYSTERIA

It is impossible for any devoted Christian or churchman to be complacent about world conditions. Of course it is not a time for hysteria, but neither is it a time to be apathetic about the menace of the destructive power of the hydrogen bomb and the cobalt bomb and other modern weapons. It would be a mistake to adopt the attitude, "it cannot happen here." A serious responsibility is laid upon the Christian to pray unceasingly and to work untiringly for the basis of world cooperation that the forces behind these terrifying instruments of destruction may be turned instead to constructive use. It becomes more evident than ever before that only the Christian faith can save our civilization—Christ is the only Hope of the world.

The Bishop makes his address

My address at this Convention of course must, of necessity, be concerned with the more immediate affairs of our Church life in the Diocese. Figures are not particularly exciting but, nevertheless, they are symbolic, of what is taking place. During the past year 3,674 people have been added to our communicant strength; of this number 202 have been received from the Roman Communion and 7 from the Orthodox Church. In reporting these confirmations I should like to express my appreciation to Bishop Campbell whose valuable assistance makes it possible to meet the heavy confirmation schedule.

I have ordained 11 candidates to the Diaconate, and advanced 11 Deacons to the Priesthood, and set apart two Deaconesses. I have received by Letters Dimissory 32 clergy since last Convention, and issued 66 Licenses to Officiate in this Diocese. The following clergy have become Rectors of parishes:

The Rev. Roger Geffen, Church of the Good Shepherd, Bronx; The Rev. George F. Kempsell, Jr., St. James the Less, Scarsdale; The Rev. Samuel H. N. Elliott, St. Augustine's, Croton; The Rev. S. H. Lewin Shaw, St. John's, Cornwall; The Rev. Lewis Hammond Webster, Holy Communion, Manhattan; The Rev. Charles H. Wilcox, Holy Comforter, Poughkeepsie; The Rev. John Norman Hill, St. Paul's, New Rochelle; The Rev. J. Robert Orpen, Jr., St. George's, Bronx, and The Rev. Douglas M. Glasspool, St. James, Goshen.

Tomorrow night I shall institute the Reverend William Reuben Francis Thomas as Rector of St. John's Larchmont, and on Thursday evening of this week I shall institute the Reverend Roger S. Gray as Rector of St. Luke's, Tuckahoe.

We extend to all of these clergy a sincere and affectionate welcome, and we pray that their ministry may be abundantly blessed in the years ahead.

We record the retirement from the active ministry of The Reverend Messrs. Charles P. Deems; Edwin Ridgeway Smythe; John Nevin Sayre; Frederic Wamsley; Thomas A. F. Collett; George Robinson Hiatt. With gratitude for their service to the Church, we wish them health and happiness in the days to come.

At our service of Holy Communion this morning we remembered before God our clerical and lay brethren of this Convention who have been called into God's Heavenly Kingdom since our last meeting. May they rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon them.

The number of clergy now connected with the Diocese is 469 which includes those who are officiating under the Bishop's license. There are 13 Deaconesses canonically resident, and 188 lay readers.

In view of the clergy shortage I am glad to report that we have in this Diocese 94 postulants, candidates and pre-theological students looking to Holy Orders. The Church in this day cannot be a vital influence without a sufficient and well educated ministry. The clergy and laity should encourage young men of devotion, intelligence, and character, to offer themselves for the sacred ministry. The priesthood is not for those who look for ease and security; it is a call to young men who are not afraid of hard work and who love the Lord and their fellow men, and are willing to serve under Christ and suffer with Him if need be for the salvation of mankind. Those who respond will find the sacred ministry the most challenging and spiritually satisfying of all vocations.

NOTABLE EVENTS

It is obviously impossible to make more than passing reference to the significant milestones in parish life that have been commemorated this year. We congratulate St. James', Fordham, on its 100th Aniversary; Christ Church, Pelham, which celebrated its 110th; St. James', Goshen, 150th; and St. George's, Newburgh, which this last month celebrated its 225th Anniversary.

Other notable events have been the dedication of a new Parish House and Rectory at St. Peter's, Westchester; a new Parish House at the church of St. Joseph of Arimathea, Elmsford; a new Parish House at Christ Church, Tarrytown; a new Parish House at St. Barnabas', Irvington; the restoration of the spire of historic Grace Church, Manhattan; the consecration of Christ Church, Bronxville, and the consecration of St. Mark's Church, Yonkers. In addition we note that the new church at Granite Springs is almost completed, and plans for a new church and Rectory are under way for St. Barnabas', Ardsley.

St. George's, Williamsbridge, has become an independent parish, and by your action is now in union with Convention. Christ Church, Piermont, formerly an assisted congregation is now a self-supporting parish. I congratulate the clergy, vestries and people of all these congregations for their splendid accomplishments.

It is anticipated that before the end of the year the following Mission churches will also be independent parishes: St. Clement's, Mt. Vernon; St. Simon's, Staten Island; St. Simon's New Rochelle. As Missions become of age Diocesan funds are released for work elsewhere; in this manner the church moves ahead.

Another step forward is the revival of our work at Lewisboro and South Salem in the northern part of Westchester. Here an old church has become re-invigorated with the influx of new people into the community. The fabric is being renovated and in June the Church will have a full-time Vicar. Brand new work stirs the imagination and we are on the move in this area.

In Woodstock, Ulster County, plans are under way for the formation of an Organized Mission, and the construction of a church. We hope the Diocese will be able to assist in this project from the Diocesan Revolving Fund.

When we view the growth of communities, surrounding sections where our Church is already established, we cannot help but realize the opportunities presented to parish churches in some areas to sponsor new work. This will not in any way mean a diminution of their own congregations but rather it will mean an increased vitality with the incentive of strengthening the Episcopal Church in the whole area.

This evangelical task of the Church is not limited to the clergy. Laymen who are inspired to see their life in the Church as something more than being custodians of finances and trustees of the material life of the Church can help immeasurably in this responsibility to spread the Gospel.

The Council has recommended that the Department of Missions encourage parishes to take on this missionary responsibility with help from the Diocesan Revolving Fund which we expect will be available from the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" Campaign. Now is the strategic time to begin new work, and I repeat, we shall lose perhaps for a long time the opportunities which are now ours unless we can together on the parish level and the Diocesan level build new churches and gather new congregations in rapidly expanding areas where our people live. Opportunity is in our hands. Let us seize the day and move forward into ever greater and greater strength for Christ and His Kingdom.

THE "BULLETIN"

I THINK you will agree with me when I say that under the direction of Mr. William J. Moll, the Diocesan "Bulletin" has become one of the best Church papers. This fine magazine enables the Bishop to speak to the Diocese at large and keep the people informed of Diocesan activities and matters of interest to us all. In this way the "Bulletin" helps bind this large fellowship into a closer unity. For this reason, all of us should be concerned with increasing its circulation. I ask you, in your several congregations, to promote subscriptions to the "Bulletin" in order that this excellent publication may have the wide distribution it deserves.

DEPARTMENT OF PROMOTION – MR. YOWELL

LAST September on the recommendation of the Department of Promotion I appointed Mr. Ed J. Yowell as Director of the Department. Mr. Yowell has had wide experience in the field of promotion and already has been most effective in furthering the program of the Church. Mr. Yowell will be introduced to the Convention later on.

THE COUNCIL

We have now completed a full year of operation of the Council and we are now in a position to evaluate its work. I am sure that all of you have been touched in some way by its activities. It is hard to see how under the old system we could administer any kind of progressive program. The Council Meetings have been well attended, and we have found that meeting at Seabury House has been invaluable. The number of clergy and lay persons participating in the work of the Departments is most gratifying. There are 35 clergymen and 36 lay persons from all over the Diocese working in the activities of the Departments, all of whom are carrying out their duties intelligently and faithfully. We are fortunate in having the Reverend Messrs. John Heuss, Albert Chambers and John Bell as Chairmen of the Departments of Christian Education, Promotion and Christian Social Relations, and Mr. Ellis H. Carson as Chairman of the Department of Finance. As you know, the Bishop is Chairman of the Department of Missions, and I am more than pleased with the cooperation and generous service contributed to the Department by the Deans of Convocation and the other clerical and lay representatives. We owe them all a debt of gratitude for having given so much time and thought to the affairs of our common life.

The work of the Department of Missions has become so extensive that much of the responsibility for it has been delegated to the Executive Committee consisting of the Suffragan Bishop, the Archdeacon, the Treasurer and myself as Chairman. The Executive Committee meets for several hours each week and more frequently when required. Under my authority Bishop Boynton presides over the meetings of the Administrative Cabinet which is composed of the executives of all Departments and, by invitation, all associated organizations having offices in Diocesan House. These meetings have promoted that spirit of cooperation and understanding which is essential in carrying out the work of the Council.

Bishop Boynton as Secretary of the Council will present the report of the Council as called for by the Rules of Order, and the Committee on Diocesan Finances will present the Council Budget. This budget represents many hours of prayer and thought and preparation. I believe it is a sound, realistic budget and one that we should adopt and do our best to meet.

THE FOUR DIOCESAN AGENCIES

In this connection I want to speak of the four agencies not integrated into the Departments of the Council but receiving funds therefrom: The City Mission Society; The Episcopal Service to the Aged; The Seamen's Church Institute; and The Youth Consultation Service. Each agency in its field continues to serve effectively. However, we must still find a solution to the serious situation created each year by our failure to provide for them adequately in the Council budget.

The Council departments must rely solely on the parishes and missions for their support. The Department of Missions works actively in more than one-third of the congregations of the Diocese, and the Departments of Christian Education and Social Relations exist for the help they can be to you. But these special agencies, ministering to the aged, the poor, the sick, the afflicted, the troubled, the seamen who come to the port of New York, should have our concern for carrying on their Christian work. And I wish at this time to acknowledge our thankfulness to all the clergy, men and women who serve these agencies; their work is a true ministry, important to the life of the Church. Each agency, except the Episcopal Service to the Aged, ministers to all people regardless of religious affiliation and, consequently, is able to appeal generally for support. The major responsibility is, however, none the less ours. These are Church institutions and they are engaged in work for which we as Christians living in this complex metropolis cannot escape responsibility.

Consequently, just as a parish must make special appeals to meet special needs and emergencies, so must General Convention and the Diocesan Convention make special appeals when we do not meet our obligations or when special needs arise.

CANON 27

One of our oldest canons is directed to this purpose. Let me read it to you—Canon 27: "In every parish and mission and congregation of the Diocese provision shall be made whereby its members may make offerings by collections and otherwise as often as the needs of the church shall require for the support of its objects, particularly its missionary work at home and abroad, the education of young men for the sacred ministry and those other religious and charitable objects which are commended to the care of the church by the General Convention or the Convention of the Diocese; and it shall be the duty of the clergyman in charge to give due notice to the congregation of the time and purpose of such offerings and also to call their attention to the importance and claims for the respective objects to which the offerings are to be applied."

FINANCES

With the formation of the Council and its consequent report to the Convention, it is not necessary for me to dwell at length on finances. I do wish to say that our giving for Missions in 1953 amounting to $632,000 exceeded that of any previous year. This increased giving is not only a sign of financial progress but also it is a mark of spiritual growth. It indicates a spirit of responsibility and it enables us to look ahead with confidence.

Nearly 100 parishes and missions fully reached or over-subscribed their quotas. The parishes and missions of the Richmond Convocation, as a group, exceeded the Convocation quota, and I wish to congratulate them on this achievement. If we can maintain this progress, and if our efforts are successful in convincing the General Convention that a more equitable method of distribution of the National Council quota will result in more income, we may soon reach our objectives.

"BUILDERS FOR CHRIST"

ANOTHER sign that the Church is on the move was the decision of our Council to accept its full quota for the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" Campaign, and in the same appeal to attempt to raise an additional $200,000.00 to establish a Diocesan Revolving Fund to enable us to give assistance in building new churches in areas where due to the shift in population and the decentralization of industry, rapidly growing communities give us unique opportunities to extend our sphere of influence.

The "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" Campaign canvass began on May 2nd, so it is too soon to know whether our Diocese has done its true part in this important endeavor. Yet there are several things that can be said at this time in regard to the campaign. We are all greatly indebted to Mr. Charles M. Walton, Jr., for his indefatigable efforts as General Chairman, and I wish to thank him on your behalf, and also all the laymen who have assisted him. I am sorry it is not possible to name and honor all who are working for this cause, but I would like to thank the Department of Promotion which, under the direction of Father Chambers, has done an excellent piece of work in distributing the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" literature.

First reports coming in indicate very clearly that our people will respond when they know the need. In parish after parish where the Rector and the Vestry have faced their responsibility prayerfully and really made an effort, there has been success. I am confident that we shall do well, but I am concerned that we may not do well enough. I ask each of you whose congregation for whatever reasons, has not yet reached or exceeded its goal to redouble its efforts.

While the canvass should now be over, pledges as you know may be paid as late as June 30th of next year. This gives time for us to finish the job.

I wish to congratulate the clergy on their response to the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" Appeal; to date 167 clergy have contributed $13,518.00. Now if the laity responds with equal generosity we shall reach our goal. This is our common task and responsibility and I call upon the people of the Diocese to do their full part that the Church may move forward with power.

COMMITTEE ON DIOCESAN FINANCE

A YEAR AGO, on the initiative of its Chairmen, Mr. Edward K. Warren, the Committee on Diocesan Finance requested me to follow a plan of appointment which would add new members to this Committee each year. Believing in the principle of calling on more and more of our clergy and laymen to responsible positions in the Diocese, I was in complete agreement with this proposal and, therefore, beginning this year I have appointed the Reverend Dr. John Ellis Large to succeed the Reverend Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving, and Mr. Charles Reid to suceed Mr. Warren.

In relieving them of their responsibilities I wish to thank them for their services and to express the hope that they will continue to serve the Convention in other ways.

TRIBUTE TO MR. EDWARD K. WARREN

I CANNOT fail to remind you of the outstanding contribution Mr. Warren has made to this Committee. He was first appointed in 1935 by Bishop Manning, re-appointed by him each succeeding year of his Episcopal jurisdiction, and then appointed for seven successive years by Bishop Gilbert and myself. This adds up to 19 years of devoted service. It is not the length of time that Mr. Warren has served which is important, but rather, the quality of the service he has given. Mr. Warren has been wise in his judgments, patient in all of his dealings, and constructive in the formation of policies recommended to the Convention. Few persons have such knowledge of the Church and its agencies, and few have given so generously of their time and talent. I know you join me in expressing to Mr. Warren my profound gratitude and sincere appreciation for all that he has done.

THE TREASURER

As you know, in January of this year, Mr. Richard H. Mansfield, Treasurer of the Convention for the last 13 years submitted to me his resignation. In doing so he expressed his opinion that the financial and other business functions of the Diocese had grown to such an extent that the full-time services of the Treasurer were now required. While reluctant to lose Mr. Mansfield's services I shared fully his opinion in this matter and acceded to his request that I accept his resignation. It is an understatement to say that I heartily concur in the statement regarding his service which will be presented to you in the report of the Committee on Diocesan Finance.

"The pause that refreshes"

Upon acceptance of Mr. Mansfield's resignation, I notified the Standing Committee of the vacancy in the office of Treasurer of Convention and as you know the Committee appointed the Assistant Treasurer, Mr. Theodor Oxholm to serve until the meeting of this Convention today. It is, I am sure, a source of satisfaction and gratification to all of us that Mr. Oxholm has been elected unanimously to this important office. We know that we can expect from him the same distinguished, and consecrated service which he has rendered for the past 13 years.

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

ANY report on Diocesan activities would be incomplete without an expression of gratitude to the Woman's Auxiliary. Under the gracious leadership of Mrs. Simpson the Woman's Auxiliary through its program of education, fellowship, worship and giving has been an important factor in the forward movement of the Church's life in this Diocese.

THE CATHEDRAL

ONE of the responsibilities of the Bishop of New York is that of President of the Board of Trustees of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine. I am happy to report that our Cathedral, which is the Mother church of the Diocese, and in a real sense belongs to us all, has continued to develop its educational program and to expand its pastoral work and its service to the community. The Cathedral forums have been well attended, especially the fall School of Worship conducted jointly with the Woman's Auxiliary. Last summer 250 men and women were enrolled in the six-week forum on Religion and Education for Public School teachers. In the realm of pastoral work, five seminarians have been available each afternoon to talk to the many visitors to the Cathedral, and bring appropriate cases in touch with the clergy, and the program of psychotherapeutic counselling has been continued. The Cathedral has served the community by making the playing field available for the youth of the neighborhood, and last month, in cooperation with the Episcopal Service to the Aged, the rooms in the Cathedral crypt were made a center of recreation and fellowship for older people.

The luncheon line

Last fall, Canon Green was installed as Dean of the Cathedral Church of the Incarnation, Diocese of Long Island. Due to his many years of devoted service the Cathedral hardly seems the same without him. But we believe the Cathedral's educational and pastoral program will be considerably strengthened when the Reverend Howard A. Johnson and the Reverend John W. Pyle take up their duties as Canon Theologian and Canon Pastor. The Reverend Mr. Johnson is now on the faculty of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, and the Reverend Mr. Pyle is presently the Diocesan Chaplain for College Work, in which he has done notable work.

The Cathedral is fortunate in having the vigorous and enthusiastic leadership of our forthright Dean, Dr. Pike. In the complex and strenuous activities of the Cathedral schedule Dean Pike is ably assisted by the Canon Sacrist, the Reverend Dr. Edward Nason West, and the Canon Precentor, the Reverend Darby W. Betts, and the Bursar, Mr. George A. Torsney.

THE CHURCH AND SOCIAL ISSUES

THE statistics I have summarized I think show clearly that the Church is on the move. And this is not only true in this Diocese; it is true in varying degrees throughout the Church. But statistics tell only part of the story. The Church is on the move in the realm of its witness to the world on the serious issues of our day. For example, never has there been such a wholesome ferment within the Church seeking to end for good segregation or exclusion on the grounds of race or color. This is most encouraging for a segregated parish, or a segregated church group, cannot witness to the Heavenly Father Who "has made of one blood all nations of the earth": cannot witness to the Lord in Whom "there is neither Jew nor Greek, nor bond nor free"; cannot witness to the Holy Spirit through Whom the Apostles spoke on Pentecost to men of every background.

In Christ there is no East or West
In Him no South or North
But one great fellowship of love
Throughout the whole wide earth.

And it is encouraging, also, to see the Church out in front in the defense of our accustomed liberties of old against the excesses and abuses of the Congressional investigating power and the mentality of fear and suspicion which has resulted.

A sign that the Church is on the move in this realm is attested to by the vocalization of resistance to the Church's activity in the area of public moral issues. How often we hear and read in our unsolicited correspondence: "That's not the Church's business; why doesn't the Church stick to religion?", or "Why do you allow your clergy to say that?".

I want to take this occasion to affirm two fundamental principles of which we cannot be reminded too often, as we think of the pulpit in these times. First: God is concerned with all that affects the life of the sons of men. Therefore the Church in its teaching and preaching must display no less concern. We cannot confine God within the four walls of a church building. His judgments and His grace must be made manifest in terms of the important public issues of our day no less than in terms of personal piety and individual relationships. As I have said on other occasions, it is not the Church's responsibility to advocate particular candidates or endorse particular legislation. But it most certainly is the Church's task and, in particular, a Bishop's solemn responsibility by virtue of his consecration vows, to alert Church people, and all who will listen, to the religious and moral issues of our day. Nor should we deal only with vague generalities; what we say should be relevant, timely and to the point. I say to the clergy let your pulpits send forth no uncertain sound. Use wisdom, diplomacy and tact in preaching the Gospel—but let there be no doubt as to where the Church stands in regard to the social issues which face this generation.

FREEDOM OF THE PULPIT

SECONDLY, in the exercise of his prophetic ministry the preacher does not claim infallibility. And while we may all agree with the religious and ethical principles which he is proclaiming we may not agree with the application he makes or the propriety of his timing. But let it be understood that the Episcopal Church believes in the freedom of the pulpit. Our polity is especially effective in preserving it, and no one can tell a priest or Bishop what to say or what not to say unless he be guilty of heresy. This is a right which is essential to the health of the Church, and to its power to witness against evil—even popular evil—and for the will of God in our times. I am proud that in these days, as of old, the pulpits of our Churches are courageously and wisely bringing the eternal perspective to bear on our temporal scene. Such outspokenness, made more effective through a free press, is helping to save our Nation from the demonic-ism which would destroy our free way of life, and from the corruptions and inequities which would undermine it.

The Suffragan gives the Council report

ANGLICAN CONGRESS

BEFORE I close I must speak briefly of the Anglican Congress which will take place in Minneapolis next August. The Congress will be attended by Bishops, priests and laity; in this way it will differ from the Lambeth Conference which consists only of Bishops.

At Minneapolis we shall see a dramatic illustration of the fact that this family of Christians of which our own Episcopal Church is a strong and important part knows no barrier of race or tongue. The theme of the Congress will be "The Call of God and the Mission of the Anglican Communion." The subjects for discussion will be "our vocation," "our worship," "our message," "our work."

The Anglican Congress will have no legislative powers but through study and prayer it will aid us and our sister Churches in the work entrusted to us by Our Lord and Master; and bind in firmer fellowship this vast international family of Christians of many races and cultures who hold the faith of the same Book of Common Prayer, receive the same Sacraments and share the same religious heritage.

EVANSTON MEETING

AT the conclusion of the Anglican Congress, the second world assembly of the World Council of Churches will take place in Evanston. The Episcopal Church will be officially represented by delegates who with other Anglican churchmen will take part in this gathering of the wider fellowship of the Christian Church. The theme of Evanston is to be "Christ, the hope of the world", a most appropriate title for an assembly of world Christians in this year when pessimism and discouragement hang like a dark cloud over so much of the earth.

Exercising the franchise

CHRIST – THE ONLY HOPE OF CIVILIZATION

THESE events point up the need for the Church to continue to move forward with a new sense of fellowship among all who profess Christ as Lord and Saviour. He is our hope not only as individuals but the hope of society and the hope of civilization.

It is not new plans for peace that are urgently needed, but new people who are re-created by the spirit of Christ. "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold all things are become new."

I conclude with the prayer that God may lead us into a new understanding of what He requires of us, and that He may give us grace to be found always working and praying with faith, vision, and courage in the forefront of our opportunity.

The Dean's Column

ONE OF THE MANY QUESTIONS asked during the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" Campaign was this: "Won't some of that money go to the Cathedral?" While most of our readers know that the answer is no, the question did remind us of a more widespread notion we run into here and there in the Diocese, namely, that the Diocese helps support the Cathedral. More specifically, many people assume that a portion of what goes into "the red side of the envelope" finds its way into our hands.

THE IDEA IS A QUITE NATURAL ONE: there is no inherent reason why a Diocese should not assist in the maintenance of what is the flagship of the ecclesiastical fleet. But in fact (and this not by way of complaint, but only by way of clarification), not one cent of support for the Cathedral comes from the Diocese in any form.

IN FACT THE SITUATION IS IN REVERSE. The Cathedral does not not have a quota or apportionment, since it is not a parish and has no supporting membership. But the Cathedral assists substantially in the support of the Diocese in a number of ways. The Cathedral provides office space for 23 Diocesan officers and employees, the capital expense (in six figures) of purchasing St. Faith's House and converting it into Diocesan House having come out of Cathedral funds, the Diocese paying only its share of current maintenance. Likewise on the same basis the Cathedral provides offices for the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, apartments for the Suffragan Bishop and the Chaplain for College Work and quarters for the Archdeacon (since it is sometimes necessary for him to stay overnight in New York).

THE CATHEDRAL CONTRIBUTES to the maintenance of the Bishop's House. The Easter and Christmas offerings are devoted to The Bishop's Discretionary Fund, by which the Diocesan is able to meet many pressing cases of need in the Diocese. Garaging is supplied for a number of Diocesan officers. Meeting places are provided in Cathedral House for Diocesan committees. A number of employees on the Close are persons who serve both Diocese and Cathedral and are paid solely by the Cathedral. And the Cathedral staff are privileged to serve the Diocese in numerous ways — ranging all the way from the clergy's representing The Bishop on official occasions to the choristers' serving as pages at Convention.

ALL THIS IS ENTIRELY APPROPRIATE and a tangible expression of the fact that the Cathedral means to be the "HQ" of the Diocese in more than name only, and practically as well as liturgically.

SINCE THEN IT IS CLEAR that the Diocese does not support the Cathedral, and since there are no members and hence no pledges or "Every Member Canvass", the question naturally arises, how is the Cathedral supported? About five percent of the annual cost of maintenance and program comes from the open offering at services, the gifts of people from all over the country who are visitors at the Cathedral each week. The remainder is supplied by income from endowment. We never cease to be grateful to those who over the years by their contribution — through gift or bequest — to the endowment funds, have made possible the continuance of the life and work of our Cathedral Church, enabling us to provide a noble place of worship fitting as The Bishop's seat, a center for the operation of the Diocese, and the chief mission church for the Diocese, active in personal ministrations and educational influence.

BUT THE CATHEDRAL'S ENDOWMENT funds are not unlimited; in fact our budget brings us to the very "edge" of our income. And, further, any contemplated building to bring the Cathedral nearer to completion will require entirely new capital. But meanwhile we can carry on with the job, no burden to the Diocese nor to our parishes. For which, laus Deo.

New Organist and Choirmaster Appointed

THE Right Reverend Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., S.T.D., Bishop of New York, announced on April 27th, the appointment of Mr. Alec Wyton, choirmaster of Christ Church Cathedral, St. Louis, as Organist and Master of Choristers of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Mr. Wyton holds the Master of Arts degree from Oxford and has served as assistant organist and choirmaster at Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, and as Organist and choirmaster at St. Matthew's Church, Northampton, England. He is a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists and of the American Guild of Organists and has served in St. Louis since 1950.

He succeeds Dr. Norman Coke-Jephcott who retired as Master of the Choristers of the Cathedral in August. In the interim Mr. John Upham has been serving as Acting Choirmaster under a one-year appointment.

Mr. Wyton will assume his duties August 15th. He is married and has one son.

Canon-elect Pyle Appointed Chaplain

BEGINNING next fall, the Chaplain to St. Luke's Home and the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples will be the Rev. John W. Pyle, who was recently elected by the Trustees of the Cathedral, upon the nomination of the Bishop, as Canon Pastor of the Cathedral. He will begin his duties at the Homes on the same date as he begins his Canonry, September 15th.

Both Homes are near to the Cathedral, St. Luke's Home being at 114th Street and Broadway and the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples being at Amsterdam and 112th Street. There have always been friendly relations between the two Homes and the Cathedral but the appointment of a priest to the two Homes who is also on the Staff of the Cathedral will strengthen the ties and will provide a more continuing ministry to the residents.

A Sunday service is conducted at each of the Homes by the Chaplain and on Wednesdays there is one weekday Celebration at each. In addition Communion is taken to the sick. The Chaplain also has the responsibility for general pastoral care and special services to meet special needs.

Mrs. Muriel W. Ashwell is President of St. Luke's Home and Mrs. Alfred Herrfeldt is Chairman of the Chapel Committee. Mrs. Charles G. Proffitt is President for the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples and Mrs. Harvey Reeves is Chairman of the Chapel Committee.

Chaplain Pyle is at present Chaplain for College Work of the Diocese of New York. The Bishop is Visitor for both Homes.

Co-leaders In The Beacon Youth Workcamp

THE Rev. and Mrs. David S. Duncombe, Jr. of Holy Trinity Church, Hicksville, the Diocese of Long Island, will be co-workers with the Rev. and Mrs. David T. P. Bradley in the 1954 Youth Workcamp to be held at ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, Beacon, from August 16 to 27.

The Reverend David and Mrs. Duncombe bring a wealth of ability and experience to this year's project. Before her marriage, Mrs. Duncombe served in the city of Chicago as a social case-worker, and holds a B.Sc. degree. The Rev. Mr. Duncombe, a native of Westchester, has led the men of his parish in several projects to improve the church plant, and is currently engaged in the raising of funds for a parish hall which will double the capacity of the church in a rapidly growing area. They have two children.

The purpose of the Beacon Workcamp is to assist the Rector and people of ST. ANDREW'S in the overhauling of the parish hall and grounds, while a much more fundamental experience is imparted to the young people who participate, in that they will be trained to live a community life as Christians, and will gain a first-hand appreciation of a parish at work to take advantage of a change in its neighborhood setting. Since all costs are kept low by the self-help principle on which the Workcamp is based, it is expected that tuition fees will be still lower than they were in 1953. Further information may be secured from the Diocesan Department of Christian Education with which the Workcamp is affiliated, or by writing direct to the chairman, the Rev. David T. P. Bradley, 103 Elm Street, Yonkers, N. Y.

Report of Woman's Auxiliary President, Annual Meeting, May 4

THE time has come for the annual accounting of the Woman's Auxiliary, not only of its financial responsibilities but — and this is far more important in my estimation—an evaluation and review of the past year and the looking ahead to the coming year.

At the beginning of the year we said our aim was to be: TO KNOW MORE, TO CARE MORE, and TO DO MORE. Let us see how we have fulfilled this. As I read over the annual reports of District Presidents and Chairmen of Departments my feeling was one of deep gratitude for the splendid cooperation which was evident in every line between the officers and members of the branches, and the development of a real Christian relationship, carrying with it an interest not only in the Woman's Auxiliary, but in the Church at home and abroad. I feel we are really no longer a segregated group called "women", but that we are now persons and as persons are beginning to think of ourselves. We are becoming part of our Parish and Diocesan life in all its aspects, not only being useful in cooking suppers or raising money at bazaars—mind you, these services are important —don't misunderstand me. However, we are beginning to think through the meaning of this relation of ourselves, and to help by our example and through our counsels to lift that meaning out of the one-day-a-week relation to one that works for our Lord seven days a week and is the basis of all our actions, whether of worship, money raising, policy forming or any other part of our life.

Let me give a few examples of what I mean when I say I gleaned this from the annual reports.

IN the Department of Missions Promotion stress was laid on the fact that in every parish there is missionary work to be done—we don't have to go outside our city or our country to do it. Many a hungry and lonesome soul is right in our midst who is longing to join the Church but is too shy or too self-conscious to assert herself. So as well as doing the promotion work and personnel for Church work, the women are beginning to understand that Missions Promotion starts much nearer home.

IN Christian Social Relations a much broader understanding is being created—there again the emphasis has been placed not only on our work for Ellis Island or other Diocesan institutions, important as they are—and they are very important—but also on what we can do in our own communities,— helping the lonesome in old age homes, starting Golden Age Clubs in our own parishes, and trying to understand and help to integrate into American life the minority groups who are our neighbors — are some of the many things which are happening.

IN Education too, as well as the more formal program of study, we are beginning to interest the branch members in learning more about the Missions for which they are sewing — a very good way to start in education.

IN our Devotional Life we are growing steadily—we pray together, we study together, we worship together—but we also are trying to put into practice in our everyday lives what we gain for ourselves and so pass on to others. This development of spiritual growth is very evident.

IN our missionary Supply work, we are also growing—not in the number of garments we send out necessarily, but in the spirit in which we send them. This service of our hands must also come through our hearts. The people we are privileged to help are people like ourselves, and the more we feel this the better service we render,—the more satisfaction we have.

Then too we have been a "faithful" group this year—as you have heard from Mrs. Pim's splendid report. We have received much more money but, as she brought out, far more important than that is the increase of the number of faithful women.

I am not going to give you facts and figures — these you will find in the Treasurer's annual report published in the Green Book.

BUT I do want to mention our School of Worship of last November in cooperation with the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral. A very successful School of Worship was held on the four Mondays in November—350 women attended. As a result of their interest and enthusiasm, successful Schools of Worship were held in the Districts of Richmond, Westchester and Hudson-Ramapo. We are very fortunate here in Manhattan to be in the center of the Diocesan work, but it has pleased me—and I know I speak also for Dean Pike and the Cathedral Chapter—that the women have taken back to their Districts ideas which originated here. Also, it has not been limited to our own Diocese – Mrs. Rose, to whom credit for the whole idea of the School of Worship goes, is now working far afield and giving the benefit of her experience here, to other Dioceses in the Province.

THIS year also we have had one Volunteer Leadership Training Course and are in the midst of a second one. In five very busy sessions we give a brief outline of our whole work with special emphasis on Speaking, Chairing a meeting or committee—as well as a clear understanding of the Woman's Auxiliary, its organization and its aims. These two courses have proved very successful and we hope to continue them next year. In order to fulfill their purpose as study courses (not lectures) we limit the membership to twenty-five—so you see we can have many more and still not cover the ground.

In Westchester 11 Radio programs have been sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of that district, and their success has led us to hope that we may extend these programs to a larger area. Plans are now being considered as to the best way this can be accomplished.

Our Diocesan meetings have, I think, been successful—do you? Perhaps the best suggestion came from one of our parish branches—and which we have put in practice – that is, having coffee and sandwiches available in the Undercroft after these meetings. This has been made possible by the cooperation of the Girls' Friendly Society and the Order of Deaconesses. It is certainly delightful to get together, and even more so to find out what other members are doing. Has your parish any ideas? If so, let us know.

The meeting at which we had the largest attendance was the one held at St. Bartholomew's in the evening. Our registration shows that just as many day people came as at the other meetings, and the number was swelled by the members who can only meet at night. Most of the new branches formed this year have been those meeting in the evening—is this trend not significant? With more women taking up professional careers, and with our younger women obliged to stay at home with their children in the daytime (they can leave them at home with the male parent at night) we are finding that the evening meetings are becoming increasingly important.

The Woman's Auxiliary as an organization, is taking its place in the policy forming of the Diocese. Two women are members of the Diocesan Council with the power of vote. Serving on the Council as your representative has been stimulating and very educational for me—it has given me a very clear idea of the many problems which come up in the administration of a large Diocese like New York, and an increasing admiration for the way it is administered. I would like to pay tribute especially to Bishop Donegan and the group who work closely with him. The Bishop works harder than any executive I know, and yet has time to give advice and encouragement to all of us who seek it. And when I am speaking of that, may I also say that we have the finest cooperation with all departments of the Council and with the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral. Without it we could not have accomplished one half of what we have done this year.

And so at the end of the year we look back with satisfaction for what has been accomplished, but also with a sense that it is only a beginning and with the hope that in the year ahead we may, with God's grace, "pray fervently, labor diligently and give liberally" so that knowledge of our Lord may spread into all nations. May God bless our efforts in all that we undertake in the coming year.

As this goes to press Trinity Church, Fishkill, begins its drive to raise funds for the building of a much needed Parish House. A year ago the total amount raised for current expenses was a little under $3,000. This year the amount has been increased almost three times, and other money has been raised for repairs. The congregation also purchased a site for the Parish House.

While the need for the new building has long been known, it was felt by many that the project was much too ambitious for the local congregation to attempt. But with a Sunday School taxing the capacity of the church and with an expanding parish program for both youth and adult groups, the need could no longer be denied.

Trinity Church, Fishkill, boasts one of the oldest church buildings in the Diocese. The present structure was built in 1767 and it is today one of the finest examples of colonial architecture to be found in historic Dutchess County. Its quiet little churchyard contains the graves of several outstanding Colonial leaders.

For over 100 years the congregation enjoyed a secure place among the self-supporting churches of the Diocese. However, when the railroad chose the river level route, Fishkill was cut off and the Landing (which became Beacon) flourished. Situated in the heart of an agricultural area, Trinity continued its ministry to the community and surrounding estate and farm people. But many families moved away, and soon the Vestry found it difficult to pay operating expenses. In its extremity it approached The Bishop seeking Diocesan aid and for the past several years it has been listed as an Assisted Parish.

With the completion of the Parish House the Vicar, the Reverend R. De Witt Mallary, feels assured that Trinity can meet present needs and be in a position to take care of future opportunities.

The Vicar, by the way, is a very busy man. Besides his work in Fishkill, he is in charge of the Church of the Resurrection, Hopewell Junction, and St. John the Baptist, Glenham. Indeed, his "parish" is spread over an area of about 150 square miles.

Parishes with such a venerable historical background are often guilty of all-too-frequent backward glances. Not so Trinity! It is mainly concerned with present opportunities. And its sights are set on its plans for the immediate tomorrows to assure for the parish an era of expansion.

Excerpts from the Suffragan Bishop's Report of the Council of the Diocese of New York at the 173rd Convention

FOLLOWING the policy adopted last year, it is now my privilege to present to you as succinctly as possible the work accomplished by each of the five departments of the Council so that your forthcoming adoption of the 1955 Budget will be a justified one. The Department selected this year for special emphasis is the Department of Christian Education, the report of which will be presented by its Chairman, the Reverend Doctor John Heuss, (see page 20).

DEPARTMENT OF MISSIONS

DURING the past year there have been several signs of progress in our missions and assisted parishes. On the whole, communicant strength has increased, attendance at services is higher, and the Church School enrollment is growing. This brighter picture is reflected in greater income and in the ability and willingness of many congregations to assume increased responsibility in the matter of current expenses.

Since the first of the year, two churches have become self-supporting. St. George's Church, Williamsbridge, long a mission, is now incorporated and its first rector has been instituted. Christ Church, Piermont, a parish which has needed assistance over the past several years, no longer requires Diocesan aid. As of September first of this year, St. Clement's Church, Mount Vernon, assumes full responsibility for its program and maintenance. We congratulate these congregations and their energetic leaders. Five other churches, known to us, are within sight of the goal of self-support.

Within the year we expect that the congregation at Woodstock will be accepted as an organized mission. This will be the first new mission since St. Francis of Assisi, Elmsford, was organized some eight years ago.

Rapidly growing areas, particularly in the suburban sections of the Diocese, are being studied to the end that new work may be opened in the near future.

COMMITTEE ON SOCIAL RESEARCH

DURING the past year the Reverend Benson B. Fisher, Executive Secretary of the Committee on Social Research under the Department of Missions, has completed studies of geographical areas of the Diocese as well as studies of individual parishes and missions. Others are in the process of being completed. In connection with this part of his work, twenty-nine conferences with clergy have been held, and eleven addresses given to parish groups by invitation.

For four and one-half months the Executive Secretary was in temporary charge of St. Peter's Church, Chelsea, and is now temporarily in charge of Holyrood Church, Washington Heights. These assignments are in connection with studies of the parishes thus served.

The work of the Committee on Social Research is three-fold:

1. To keep informed of the current changes in the Diocese, especially the urban and suburban areas, insofar as these changes affect parish situations and afford opportunities for Church expansion.

2. To make studies of parishes and sections of the Diocese on request of the parishes or the Department of Missions.

3. To seek solutions to problems threatening effective urban Church life.

DEPARTMENT OF PROMOTION

MR. EDWIN J. YOWELL became Director of the Department of Promotion on September 1, 1953. Well qualified for this position because of his business experience as well as his active participation as a layman in successful promotional activities on the parish level, Mr. Yowell has already won his place in the Diocesan life.

The Department this year sponsored the first Speakers Training Program, under the direction of Mr. Ralph E. Hartwig. Fifteen men have profited greatly by taking this twenty-hour instruction based on Dr. James F. Bender's Speech Course for Business Executives, and they are now prepared to present facts concerning the Diocese and the general Church more articulately and convincingly. This course will be offered by the Department again in the event that additional groups may wish to benefit by it.

The members of Convention need not to be reminded of the essential part played by the Department of Promotion in the preparation for and the execution of the "BUILDERS FOR CHRIST" Campaign. The spot announcements over radio and television, arranged for by a committee under the chairmanship of Mr. William J. Moll, will undoubtedly play no small part in the anticipated success of this campaign throughout the Diocese.

The Chairman of the Department, the Reverend Albert A. Chambers, reports an encouraging response to the Clergy Kits which have been mailed to all clergy in the Diocese each month during the year; and the committee responsible for this helpful aspect of the promotional program, under the experienced guidance of the Reverend C. Kenneth Ackerman, looks forward to being of ever greater service.

The Director of the Department is in the process of making a comprehensive survey of the methods used by the various churches of the Diocese in money raising and general promotion. As a result of this survey, which should be completed by the end of the year, not only will the methods already being used successfully be available, but also new and workable ideas on publicity and communication will undoubtedly be uncovered for use throughout the Diocese.

One other item contained in the Department's full report to the Council should be noted. The Editorial Committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Clifford P. Morehouse, is in the process of editing a booklet which will describe the organization, the aims, purposes, and functions of the Departments of the Council and the affiliated and cooperating agencies of the Diocese, along with other pertinent material. The booklet will be extremely useful to new priests coming into the Diocese and to all inquirers desiring to learn of the organization of the Diocese and how it operates.

The Department's report concludes: "The work of promotion is to extend the life and work of the Church in every way, and also to educate the people of the Diocese as to their financial responsibility for the missionary work of the Church. This work is one that requires response and cooperation on the part of all who make up the family of the Diocese. We hope, therefore, that suggestions will be freely made to the Department as to ways in which it can do its work more effectively."

DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN SOCIAL RELATIONS

THIS Department, the history of which goes back to the establishment of the Social Service Commission in 1912, had a most active and effective year. Three regional conferences were held, one each at Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, Grace Church, Middletown, and St. Bartholomew's Church, White Plains, at which fifty-one parishes and missions were represented by 290 persons.

One potentially profitable result of a Conference on the Christian and his Daily Work, held at the Cathedral on April fourth, was a recommendation now under study that an Episcopal Lawyers Guild be formed to assist the clergy in those instances in which pastoral problems develop legal implications.

In cooperation with the Bishop, the Department sponsored a dinner at the Ambassador Hotel for board members, executives, and chaplains of the fifteen social service agencies of the Episcopal Church located within the Diocese. The attendance was 156, representing fourteen agencies, the National Council Department of Christian Social Relations, the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, and the Protestant Council. The Bishop spoke on the relation of the social service agencies to the Diocese, and Mrs. Theodore Wedel spoke on "The Health and Welfare Needs of the Nation and the place of the Church Agency." A follow-up meeting is to be held on May 26th at which time board presidents will meet with the Bishop and officers of the Department to discuss their mutual relationship and responsibilities.

The Department has been represented by its Executive Director, the Reverend Leland B. Henry, and often by its Chairman, the Reverend John A. Bell, as well, at many important conferences concerned with Church, world, national, state, and city affairs.

The Convention will have the opportunity of hearing a detailed report of the Department of Christian Social Relations, including its multitudenous activities, when it is presented another year by its Chairman.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

DURING the past year the Department completed its job classification study, and staff salaries in all Departments were adjusted to conform thereto.

A manual of personnel practices was written and distributed to all employees.

Proposals for insuring the lives of active parish clergy were studied and a policy contracted for. Upon its effective date the policy covered the lives of 126 clergy, or about 60 per cent of those eligible. It is anticipated that the number will increase throughout the year.

The Department made a careful review of Council finances and departmental budgets and presented a report containing its recommendations to the Council at its January meeting.

How Do You Go About It?

How does your church go about securing the funds necessary for the carrying out of the Lord's work in your own community?

Too often it is only after much fuss and fury, and great wailing, over the lack of response that funds for a minimum budget can be secured.

Have you ever considered that perhaps the method used is probably part of your difficulty? Have you ever considered how many churches needlessly clutter up their fund raising by unseeming and unnecessary gadgetry?

A story is told about Horace Greely, noted newspaper editor of the last century, by Dr. Clarence C. Stoughton. Greely, so the story goes, received a letter from a woman who wrote that her church was having serious financial difficulty. To try to make ends meet it had tried fairs, strawberry festivals, oyster suppers, beef stews, turkey banquets, a donkey party, mock weddings, grab bag parties, box socials, necktie socials and lawn fetes (we assume that Bingo had not yet been invented). Would Mr. Greely be so kind, the letter went on, as to suggest some new device to keep the struggling church from disbanding?

The editor's very brief and penetrating reply was "Try religion."

How many times does your church find itself asking it's communicants to support oyster suppers, beef stews and the like rather than the Christian religion?

How many times does your church find itself offering activity as a substitute for Christian responsibility?

How many times do you feel your church has become so embroiled in the minutia of fund raising that the means become more important than the desired end?

How much simpler it would be if the church could only secure it's support from each person that owes allegiance to the church through that person's personal degree of Christian responsibility rather than through the cluttered gadgetry that is far too often used!

It is true that the more you dilute any given substance the weaker it will become. This is the very principle that makes the annual Every Member Canvas work. It is all very well to have an eloquent appeal from the pulpit about the pressing needs of the church but when it is diluted by the number of persons in the congregation that respond to the message and further diluted by the number of persons who do respond yet never seem to get around to taking definite action, the

Preserving New York's Landmarks for 104 Years

The churches, buildings and monuments which reflect New York's 300-year history do not withstand the rigors of time and weather without the aid of man.

And to many of these, such aid has come in the form of repair and maintenance by Nicholson & Galloway, Inc., specialists in roofing and waterproofing for 103 years.

The famous structures on which we have worked include the Statue of Liberty, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Tower, Grant's Tomb, the Stock Exchange, Wanamaker's, Trinity Church, the Pierpont Morgan Library, the Astor Hotel, Garden City Cathedral and St. Marks-In-The-Bouwerie.

In a properly operated Every Member Canvass the only issue is the basic issue. That is to contact each person in the parish personally and put it to them on a "yes" or "no" basis of you will or you will not (or can or cannot) pledge your support for the work of the church and the greater work it represents in your own community.

If you are interested in putting on an Every Member Canvass in your church or you are interested in having someone discuss possible ways to improve your own Every Member Canvass, why not phone or write: Ed Yowell, Director of Promotion, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25, N. # Excerpts from the Report of the Department of Christian Education

THE necessity of close personal contact between the Director and the clergy working in the Parishes was recognized as a primary need for the laying of groundwork for this and subsequent years of work. It was also essential that the Director carry out research in the Parishes to acquaint himself with the educational work of the Diocese. A survey instrument was drawn up and this has served as the discussion centre in 102 consultations between the Director and parochial clergy serving 125 congregations. It is hoped that these consultations will be completed before October 1st. Elsewhere in this report comments are made on some of the results of these consultations. The Director wishes to express his deep thanks for the cooperation he has received from the clergy of the Diocese in this enterprise.

By far, the most significant undertaking during the year has been the discussions which have taken place between the Director and the clergy in charge of Parishes. Only in few instances has the ground outlined for those discusisons been completed in the first session, but in general the areas surveyed have been as follows:

(a) The Pastoral responsibility of the Parish in terms of numbers and age divisions; (b) The Sunday and week-day worship program; (c) The Sunday School; (d) Educational opportunities centered around the sacraments; (e) The group life of the Parish; (f) Relationship with Public Education and Higher Education; (g) Accommodation for Christian Education; (h) Leadership Training; (i) The questions parishioners are asking.

THE Director has experienced excellent cooperation both in the arranging of the appointments for these consultations and in the sincerity with which they have been anticipated and entered by the clergy. Any comments which might be made as a result of these consultations are necessarily colored by the Director's own opinions and experience, and are also limited by the incompleteness of the survey. With these factors in mind the the following comments are tentatively put forward.

a) The marked increase in number of Family Services conducted as part of the Church School program is noted with gratitude.

b) Sunday Schools are in operation in every Parish visited where such Schools are warranted. Attendance runs at about 75-85% of total enrollment. The greatest pressing problems are Teacher Training and Curriculum, the latter problem being complicated by an overdependence on printed pupil material and by the present tendency to select bits and pieces of several curricula.

c) There is a disappointingly small amount of contact between the Church School and the home.

d) There is very little relationship between what is happening to a parishioner on Sunday and what happens in week-day activity.

e) Pastoral opportunities in Baptism and Confirmation are recognized and in most cases are being well followed up. Little opportunity is being taken to provide a deepening of participation in the Eucharist as communicants move forward from Confirmation through years of Sacramental experience.

f) The comparatively small number of marriages solemnized in the Parishes visited is a matter noted by the Director. Preparation for marriage is being carried out in most cases as required by Canon, but comparatively little is being done in the way of long-range program of marriage preparation to provide the guidance which comes too late if made available only after intention to marry has been announced. In many Parishes the clergy find a great deal of their pastoral time is taken up in "post-marriage-problem solving," but it is interesting to note that a large number of the clergy report that this type of problem is not being brought to them.

g) Frequent opportunity seems to be taken to present the challenge of Holy Orders to men and boys in the Parishes, but there are many Parishes which have never in their history sent forward a man to the Church's Ministry. A few Parishes have done outstanding jobs in this area.

h) There is an amazingly small amount of week-day group life for children in the Parishes aside from the Released Time program which is active in about half of the Parishes visited. A much higher proportion of Parishes is active in teen-age work but there are still many places where this work could be initiated and the present work strengthened.

i) Group work among adults is by far the largest proportion of week-day activity, but in comparatively few instances is the full educational opportunity in this adult work realized. This is, probably, the most outstanding weakness in the educational program in the Diocese.

j) Educational accommodation in the Diocese seriously limits good educational practice in many Parishes, but in all Parishes visited good and imaginative use is being made of such accommodation as is available. In a few Parishes the excellent accommodation provided is outward evidence of the sincere concern for Christian Education.

k) In only a comparatively few Parishes is any attempt being made to assist the Church School teachers to achieve success in the task the Church places in their hands. In about half of the Parishes visited the teachers meet, either regularly or occasionally, but in a large majority of those meetings the chief topics of concern are matters of organization and administration, with very little attention being given to the objectives the teachers should be achieving and the ways by which these objectives might be achieved.

IN 1953 the Division of College Work engaged in the following activities through its eight Canterbury Clubs and four informal student groups under the direction of the Chaplain and Parish clergy designated by the Bishop for college work responsibilities:

The maintenance of a Chaplaincy program at New York University for Episcopal students and faculty.

A Chaplaincy program for Episcopal students at Columbia University.

The co-sponsorship of the Graduate-Faculty Forums at the New York Cathedral with the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral.

The development of a Diocesan Canterbury Association which fosters student leadership, exchange of ideas between Canterbury Associations, an Annual Retreat and an Annual Conference.

The coordination and assistance of local Chaplaincy programs maintained by parish clergy.

Publication of a student newspaper, Canterbury Witness, to promote better programs in the various colleges.

The interpretation of the Church's college work responsibilities to parishes through student panels, individual speakers, and published material.

The development of groups of faculty Episcopalians through local and Provincial Conferences.

The representation of the Episcopal Church in ecumenical college work activities.

A HISTORY

OF

THE CHURCH IN ENGLAND

BY J. R. H. MOORMAN

A NEW one-volume history of the Christian Church in England from Roman and Anglo-Saxon times to the present day has long been needed. The Principal of Chichester Theological College has now provided a remarkable comprehensive yet readable narrative which is at once an introduction to its subject and, through its generous bibliographical information, a reliable guide to further and more specialized study. Dr. Moorman's book is a model of clarity of arrangement and of exposition which will commend it to students and general readers alike.

Resolutions Introduced to Convention by the Department of Christian Social Relations

THE Department of Christian Social Relations introduced five resolutions at the Annual Convention of the Diocese on May 11th.

1. *On the General Convention of 1955

This resolution gives the history of the issue to date, a statement of concern over the probable results of a General Convention held under a pattern of partial segregation, and a resolution that further efforts be made "to provide Christian hospitality for all deputies, delegates, and accredited visitors."

2. *On Investigations

This resolution cites the "trend to hysteria" and the "disregard of American concepts of justice and fair play" and urges the right of dissent and the observance of constitutional guarantees.

3. *On Housing

This resolution reaffirms the resolution on public housing adopted by the Annual Convention of 1947 and endorses the President's recommendation "for the construction of 35,000 units per year for a period of four years."

4. *On Christian Community

This resolution commends the Bishop of New York for his clear and forthright statements of "the necessity of achieving a Christian fellowship transcending all differences of race, culture, and class" and asks for a committee "to study the areas in this Diocese in which we have not yet achieved these goals, and report its findings and recommendations to the Annual Convention of 1955."

5. *On Refugees

This resolution urges "each parish and mission in the Diocese to make every effort to find housing and employment for one family unit eligible under the Refugee Relief Act of 1953."

IS IT ANY OF THE CHURCH'S BUSINESS?

Before determining one's stand on any one of these resolutions there is a prior question that must be asked. Are such resolutions within the proper province of the Annual Convention? Is it any of the Church's business? The answer to the question is three-fold.

1. *Biblical

It is clear that the Law-givers, Prophets, and Priests of Israel believed that the social, economic, and political affairs of the nation were under the judgment of God, and hence were a legitimate concern of religion. Most of the Deuteronomic Code, almost all of Amos, Hosea, Micah, Isaiah, and Jeremiah and many passages in the Priestly writings (e.g. Lev. 19) deal with precisely such issues. When our Lord spoke of the Law and the Prophets it was not to repeal them, but to emphasize them and to spiritualize them. "Not a jot or title shall pass away."

2. *Theological

The Christian Doctrine of Creation places the whole world under the rule of God who made it. The Christian Doctrine of Man views the whole life of man as of concern to God. The Christian Doctrine of Redemption includes the whole creation as the object of God's redemptive acts. The Christian Doctrine of the Incarnation shows us God in Christ taking upon Himself all the burdens of our human life, and ministering to every form of human need. The Christian Doctrine of the Sacraments teaches the interrelation of the "material" and the "spiritual," so that the simple, homely elements of bread and wine, the products of God's bounty and of man's labor, become to us the Body and Blood of our Lord.

3. *Historical

The Church at her greatest moments has always viewed all of life as lying within God's concern and under God's judgment — hence as an object of concern and judgment for the Church, which is Christ's Body. We can see this through all the centuries — in the works of mercy of the Apostolic Church, in the words of St. Augustine's City of God, in Archbishop Temple's The Church and the Social Order. We see it in the report of Lambeth, 1948, especially the chapters on The Christian Doctrine of Man and The Church and the Modern World. We see it in resolutions of General Convention, in the Pastoral Letters of the House of Bishops, and in action after action of the Annual Convention of this Diocese over a period of more than half a century.

The Bible, Christian doctrine, and the age-old practice of the Church unite in saying "this is the Church's business. This is part, and an essential part of the Church's task."

nual Report pointed out the possibility that the backlog of needs with which any new agency is always apt to be swamped had been met and later figures would seem to indicate that this was the case. During the period from April 1, 1953 to April 1, 1954, 148 applications were received as against 205 for the preceding 12 months, 167 for the year before that, and 115 for the first year of operation.

By far the largest single need

Please turn to Page 24

Service to Aged

presented during the past year has been that for the care of the senile person who did not require state hospital care but for whom there was no other resource available. It is interesting to note in this connection that in a study of unmet needs made by 17 organizations which maintain information services and which are member agencies of the Welfare and Health Council almost a third of all unmet needs of all age groups fell in this area. In one two-week period the Episcopal Service to the Aged had nine such applications and it just happened that during this time there were no applications for any other service.

In June the Episcopal Service to the Aged will be four years old. Much has been accomplished. 243 people, unable to maintain themselves in the community, have been helped to find appropriate shelter and/or medical care. Nearly 400 more have been assisted with other problems. More than 150 congregations (as distinguished from parishes) have used the service and requests for help in dealing with problems of the aging have come from as far west as California and as far south as Texas and Florida. The Executive Director has made special studies of three homes for the aged and as a result of specific recommendations made and followed, all these homes have markedly improved their service. More than fifty talks have been made to lay as well as to clergy and other professional groups in an effort to acquaint the people in the Diocese with the service offered. The Executive Director has also participated in community planning for the aged by means of membership in committees of such organizations as the Welfare and Health Council, the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies, the New York School of Social Work, and the Westchester County Council of Social Agencies; and has sought to keep abreast of new developments in resources and current approach as to the problems of aging by means of study groups and attendance at conferences on national, state, and local levels.

All this is a start and it is the opinion of the Executive Director that a good foundation has been established. Future emphases and developments would seem a matter for serious and realistic consideration by the board. We cannot close our eyes to the fact that the service is understaffed. Intake in any one month has only rarely been less than is considered by present-day standards an appropriate load for a full time experienced caseworker without other responsibilities. It has seemed to the Executive Director important to attempt to meet the needs of the applicants as promptly as possible and yet because of this, other aspects of the work have suffered. Only a limited amount of follow-up care has been possible; interviews with the clergy either to report on people whom they had referred or to acquaint them with the needs of their parishioners have in many cases been delayed or neglected altogether; sufficient time for investigation of boarding and nursing homes has not been available so that a small percentage of unwise referrals have been made. Moreover one-third of a secretary's time takes care of letters, reports, messages, and general office coverage, but does not permit the keeping of adequate case records.

The following officers were elected:

President, The Rev. John A. Bell

1st Vice-President, Mrs. J. Harper Skillin

2nd Vice-president, Miss Helen Elting

Treasurer, Mr. George Rhoades

Secretary, Mr. Frank S. Roberts

St. John's, Larchmont Has New Rector

On May 12th, the Reverend William R. F. Thomas was installed as the Rector of St. John's Church, Larchmont, by Bishop Donegan.

The new Rector was a former mission priest in Hawaii, and succeeds the Reverend Francis J. H. Coffin, who died last summer.

The Rev. Mr. Thomas, a native of Wales, attended Emanuel College of the University of Saskatchewan, Canada, and was graduated from Nashotah House, Nashotah, Wisc., in 1940.

He served St. John's Church, St. Cloud, Minn.; St. Paul's Church, Albany, Ga.; and St. John's Church, Decatur, Ill., before going to Hawaii two years ago.

W. A. Plans New Things

THE Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary Board, at its meeting at Seabury House in June, studied and approved plans for a major revision in one of its departments. This department, formerly "Missions Promotion and Personnel", will now be called "Personnel", and its principal function will be the recruiting and training of volunteer workers. This department will also serve as liaison between special committees for Diocesan projects, (such as the School of Worship Committee) and the Woman's Auxiliary Board.

In reviewing the role of this department it was agreed that all of its work has been necessary and useful, but that some of its functions should be handled by other departments or by special committees. It is to be emphasized that none of the work will be discontinued, but simply reassigned. This partial reassignment will allow the reorganized department of Personnel to undertake some of the projects indicated in the field of job training and orientation.

During the past year a Diocesan committee on "Leadership Training" has conducted two classes in which it sought to explain the function of the Woman's Auxiliary — as a whole, and in the various departments — in its parish, diocesan and national scope. These classes of twenty-five each met at various places of special interest in the Diocese for instruction, study, exchange of ideas, wor-

Two Missions Expected To Become Parishes This Fall

ST. Clement's, Mount Vernon, and St. Simon's, New Rochelle, have signified to the Department of Missions their intent to call meetings for incorporation as parishes this fall.

The Rev. Dudley deC. Cobham, Vicar of St. Clement's for the past two years, has inspired such growth in the membership of this mission that not only is parishhood possible, but larger facilities will soon be needed. The congregation relinquished financial aid from the Department of Missions on September 1st.

The Rev. Arthur C. Moore, Vicar of St. Simon's, has chartered this mission's course to a position of outstanding influence in this busy Westchester city. The new Church and Rectory, built largely with funds raised in the Cornerstone Campaign, are fulfilling the promise made by the loyal members of St. Simon's who for so many years worshipped in a dark crypt intended as the basement of a new church.

St.Mary's-In-The-Garden

How many Manhattan parish churches have stood their ground on the same site for 100 years? Just four.

The oldest are Trinity, St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie and St. Michael's — familiar names, all.

The fourth in this slim line of centenarians boasts no such fame, even among Episcopalians. And the tourist never sees the obscure corner of the West Side where St. Mary's, Manhattanville, is tucked away. Yet St. Mary's is well worth knowing. It's worth knowing for its past (for merely to survive 131 years is something). It's worth knowing for what it is today — an improbable fragment of rural countryside in the midst of the teeming city. Above all, it's worth knowing for the responsibilities being thrust upon it by great changes in the polyglot West Side.

St. Mary's isn't hard to find. The address: 521 West 126th Street (Lawrence Street, on some old maps). Take the IRT subway, West Side (Broadway) line, to 125th Street. Walk a couple of blocks east. Suddenly, wedged between a fire station and a city playground, you come upon a green oasis — an inviting grassy plot shaded by a great ash tree. The lawn runs back to the white wooden rectory (considerably weatherbeaten nowadays, but still serviceable after 101 years) — a gem of country architecture. At one corner of the rectory, an English black oak believed to be more than 200 years old stands sentinel.

At one side of the lawn stands — or rather, crouches — a little reddish-brown brick church: "St. Mary's-in-the-Garden," as one of its organists lovingly called it.

In style, it's vaguely English-village-gothic. An architect might find it undistinguished. Yet it has a comfortable and "homey" look about it — a promise borne out as you step inside. The rather wide and short nave and shallow chancel assure close participation in the service even for "back-seat dwellers". Ceremonially, St. Mary's is neither "high" nor "low". Flags, both churchly and civic, hang from the rafters of the nave — adding not only a dash of color but also a touch of intimacy, for they camouflage the loftiness of the roof. The setting is appropriate to the informal and friendly "family spirit" of St. Mary's.

St. Mary's In The Garden

The present church is 45 years old. In 1909 it replaced the original white frame building — honorably retired after 83 years of service. Both structures stood on the same plot of ground. It's hard to picture this today, but the site was once the crest of a knoll overlooking an inlet of the Hudson River. In those days the spire of St. Mary's dominated all the neighborhood round about. Through the years landfills have raised the surrounding area even with the top of St. Mary's own little hill. Now the taller buildings nearby seem almost to smother the little church.

COUNTRY HAMLET

Let's start back in the 1820s. Fourteenth Street was 'way "uptown". Farms and country houses and squatter settlements sprinkled the woods and wastelands of upper Manhattan. Far out in the country — over seven miles from City Hall, at the end of the stage-coach line from Chambers Street — 15 or so squatters' hovels clustered around "Harlem Cove." (This inlet of the Hudson River, long since filled in, is now the west end of 125th Street.)

No church ministered to the shiftless settlers of "Manhattanville," as the Harlem Cove area was called. This seemed a shame to the Rev. William Richmond, rector of fashionable St. Michael's at "Bloomingdale", (now the area around West 99th Street). Burning with missionary zeal, he arranged to hold services now and then at a little private school on the hillside just west of Harlem Cove. And in that schoolhouse St. Mary's was born.

On Thanksgiving Day of 1823 (Thanksgiving was celebrated on December 18 that year), a little group of people met at the school, including several members of St. Michael's. They organized as: "the Rector, Church Wardens and Vestrymen of St. Mary's Church, Manhattanville, Ninth Ward of the City of New York."

At their first meeting, the vestry set this qualification for voting membership in the congregation: "all male persons of full age shall contribute the sum of fifty cents annually."

Evidently even this small demand was more than the traffic would bear. St. Mary's early chronicles are a sorry tale of debts defaulted and salaries unpaid. St. Mary's kept afloat mainly because Trinity Church stood by to bail out the struggling church when the sea of financial difficulties rose too high.

Strangely enough, this very poverty has brought St. Mary's a certain measure of fame, in a way doubtless quite unintended at the time. In the early 1800s many churches depended for their income on rental of pews. At St. Mary's this system proved a complete flop. So, about 1831, the vestry took the drastic step of abolishing pew rents. Thus St. Mary's became the first free-pew church in New York and perhaps in the nation.

The Bishop's Message

My dear People:

THE summer season is a time of refreshment, and I trust that it has brought renewed strength to our clergy and people, and that now with new enthusiasm and determination we resume the respective tasks that are before us.

The present world situation confronts the Church with the most compelling and urgent challenge. In these times our first concern should be the deepening of our personal faith in Christ. Our religion is something infinitely simpler and greater than a mere human philosophy. It is faith and trust in a Person. It is faith and trust in Him of Whom the scriptures and creed speak to us, Jesus Christ the Son of God. What is needed to give greater reality to our religion, to give serenity of mind, and power to our lives is deeper faith in Jesus Christ. Let us this year be more faithful in the things which bring us nearer to Christ; our prayers, our worship and especially in the Blessed Sacrament of the Holy Communion.

This season let us be more faithful about our work in the Church as vestrymen, as teachers and members of the Church Societies and Organizations. And especially in doing our part more faithfully in support of the Church's Program. The whole work of the church in the Diocese and beyond depends upon our faithfulness in this. If you are a Rector, are you doing what the Church asks and expects you to do for the Church's Program? If you are a layman or a laywoman are you doing what can be rightly expected of you according to your means and what the Church asks of you?

I AM glad to report that to date $414,398.06 has been given and pledged to the Builders for Christ Campaign. Of this amount nearly a quarter of a million dollars, $232,931.48 to be exact, has been paid. Yet encouraging as these figures are many congregations have not yet responded to the appeal.

The Builders for Christ Campaign is our common task and responsibility. I hope that there will be unanimous participation, by every congregation of our Diocese in this vital undertaking, and that there will be forthcoming not only the amount asked by the National Council, which seems assured, but also the funds required for the Diocesan Revolving Fund.

THE Anglican Congress at Minneapolis which brought together six hundred and sixty-two Bishops, clerical and lay delgates, and numerous visitors, was an inspiring spiritual experience. Men and women who were present from many nations and from every human race; Africans, Indonesians, Japanese, Indians, Singhalese, Englishmen, Scotsmen, Irishmen, Welshmen, Canadians and Americans bound together by close ties of common belief and common life, witnessing to the world that they were one in Christ Jesus. The daily worship (each day the Holy Communion was celebrated according to a different use); the frank exchange of views in discussion groups; and the genuine fellowship throughout the Congress have in a very real way drawn the various parts of the Anglican Communion closer together. The Congress succeeded in its purpose "to bring together in common worship and prayer representatives of our world-wide communion, to seek God's guidance therein, to establish and strengthen our fellowship and to come to know a little more deeply our mind and will under the call of God."

No one could have been in Minneapolis without gaining new understanding of the glory, the potentialities, the opportunities, and the obligations of the Church. And no one could escape the challenge to reconsecration for the service of God and His Church, to a deeper loyalty and a wider world outreach to the greater glory of God and for the sake of Him Who died to save us all.

THE tasks before us today call for greater zeal on the part of us all. May we, Bishops, Clergy and People, be more faithful in the months to come so that our labors may be more useful to Our Lord and His Church.

Faithfully and affectionately your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

ship, and fellowship. Among the places selected were the Church Missions House where the Rev. Dr. C. Rankin Barnes explained the functioning of the National Council; Seamen's Church Institute, where the class was conducted on a tour, by Mrs. Guy E. Shipler; Windham House, where Miss Maude Cutler discussed the training of the Church's professional women workers; the Church of St. Edward the Martyr where the vicar, the Rev. J. T. Mason, Jr., told something of his part in our Diocesan mission to the Puerto Rican people in New York; and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and Diocesan House. In addition to these special interests, members of the Diocesan Auxiliary Board and others explained the regular work of the Woman's Auxiliary and its relationship to the whole Church.

The popularity and successful results of the course indicated that such instruction is much needed and would be eagerly welcomed. With this need in mind, the Department of Personnel has been asked to establish such a basic training, or orientation course on a permanent basis. This year the classes will be on a Diocesan basis only, with study being made of the possibility of similar future instruction in the district level. It is felt that eventually such instruction, always available, can be of great assistance to the entire program of the Woman's Auxiliary. Every parish branch which has been established for any length of time is familiar with the problem of instructing new members in the basic function of the Auxiliary, without boredom to the more experienced members. Such classes will permit the training of women for parish auxiliary positions, as well as for special Diocesan jobs, and will free parish auxiliaries for more stimulating and educational programs.

Some of the projects formerly under Missions Promotion and Personnel will now be conducted by Diocesan committees. At this time three such committees — College Work, School of Worship, Hospitality — are established and others are planned. The College Work Committee will seek to encourage and assist our College Chaplains and stimulate an interest and understanding of College Work in the parishes. The School of Worship Committee will cooperate with the Dean and Chapter in planning the School of Worship at the Cathedral. And the Hospitality Committee will assist with arrangements for Sunday afternoon teas at the Cathedral, and cooperate with the staff at Church Missions House in meeting missionaries and other Church visitors who come into New York by boat or train. These committees will function independently, but will call upon the Department of Personnel for volunteer workers, and maintain contact through the chairman of Personnel with the Diocesan Board.

During the coming months details of this reorganization will be made available to parish auxiliaries. Every effort will be made to achieve this reorganization with a minimum of confusion, but it is hoped that some patience and a smattering of humor will be applied by all concerned.

The Chairman of Personnel is Mrs. George West Barrett. The Committee Chairmen are: Vice-Chairman in charge of Training, Mrs. William E. Leidt; College Work, Mrs. James E. Greer; School of Worship, Mrs. Charles S. Reid; and Hospitality, Mrs. Clement C. Mason.

Devotional Life

THE Devotional Life Department of the Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council, conducts a Devotional Workshop every fourth Tuesday of the month from 11 A.M. to 12:30 P.M. at Guild Hall, Saint Thomas Church, 1 West 53rd Street, New York City.

Visitors to New York are always welcome to attend and participate in the programs of worship, instruction and discussion. Information concerning the Church's activities and services in New York; "where to buy books", how to get to the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine or the offices of the National Council; will be available to any visitor.

First W. A. Meeting

THE first Diocesan meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held on Tuesday, November 9th at 10:30 A.M. in the Synod Hall, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, featuring Christian Social Relations. The speaker will be The Right Reverend Theodore Ludlow, and his topic will be "Christian Citizenship".

Seven Mission Posts Filled by The Bishop

DURING the summer The Bishop made seven new appointments to Missions and Assisted Parishes. The Reverend Messrs. David W. Arnold, Frederick R. Gutekunst, Wray E. MacKay and Paul E. Parker, all recently ordained to the Diaconate, and the Reverend Messrs. Charles Pickett, Robert C. W. Ward and Arthur F. Widlak were those designated.

Mr. Arnold arrived in the newly purchased rectory at Stone Ridge in June and is in charge of St. Peter's, Stone Ridge; St. John's, High Falls; and All Saints', Rosendale. One of his first problems was water pollution, and investigation revealed the need to drill a new well. At last reports, water had been struck at 175 feet.

Mr. Gutekunst began his ministry in Haverstraw where he is in charge of St. Luke's. He is also acting as Vicar of All Saints, Valley Cottage. His first problem was transportation, but with the aid of some parishioners he has acquired an antiquated Buick, which he hopes will hold out until he can afford a more recent model.

Mr. MacKay is Assistant Minister at St. Peter's, Manhattan, in the old Chelsea area. Here under the Vicarship of the Reverend Edward Chandler St. Peter's is ministering to a community composed of many ethnic groups recently added to by large numbers of Puerto Ricans.

Mr. Parker, who is from the Diocese of Erie, is Vicar of St. John's, South Salem, and St. Paul's Chapel, Lewisboro. St. John's, which dates from Colonial time, is experiencing a resurgence in growth attributable to the rapid building of new homes all over this northern section of Westchester. Mr. Parker worked in this field while a student at General Seminary. Last year electricity was brought into both churches, and new heating plants installed. Plans are now under study to renovate the parish house and rectory at Lewisboro, and to use the house at South Salem, now the Vicarage, as a parish hall.

Mr. Pickett, who had been Assistant Minister at Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, was appointed Vicar of the Church of the Divine Love at Montrose. This community, which not long ago seemed to have no future for the Church, has blossomed with the building of the nearby Franklin D. Roosevelt Veterans' Hospital. New homes surround the Church, and Mr. Pickett is the first full-time resident priest to be in charge of this cure for many years. The original glebe house of the Church's founder, the Reverend Gouvernor Cruger, which had been rented for 20 years, was repossessed and has been renovated. The Vicar had to move in before this work was completed, but is now comfortably settled except for his bookcases and the heating plant. Last year kitchen and toilet facilities were added to the small parish hall, the dangerous Church tower and old attached rectory were demolished, and new windows were installed in the Church.

Mr. Ward has accepted appointment as Vicar of St. John's, Ellenville. Last year he was Chaplain at St. Peter's School, Peekskill. Mr. & Mrs. Ward also had to await complete renovation of the large rectory, which had not enjoyed major repairs or improvements for many years. The work is being financed by the Department of Missions, the major share to be in the form of a loan to the parish.

Mr. Widlak is Vicar of St. Simon's, Concord, Staten Island. He was previously Assistant Minister at the Church of the Holy Trinity on East 88th Street, Manhattan, and succeeds the Reverend Douglas M. Glasspool, who is now Rector of St. James, Goshen. Mr. Widlak and the people of St. Simon's have set themselves the goal of incorporation as a parish within one year.

Clergy, Too!

THOSE clergy who have been a bit "jealous" because the Department of Christian Education would not allow them to attend the Parish Life Conferences planned for the laity can now relax. And those who have wondered "Why all the secrecy?" will have their questions answered.

Now that the program of lay conferences is well under way, and partly as a result of these, the Department is arranging special conferences of this same nature "for clergy only". The Bishop of the Diocese is issuing invitations to all of the clergy in turn, two of the conferences have already taken place, and it is hoped that the whole Diocesan list will have been covered before the next Diocesan Convention.

The life of the Church is neither greater nor less than the life of those parishes which make it up whether this life is expressed through individual commitment or corporate action. These conferences are designed to bring to the whole Church a deeper sense of the way the Holy Spirit works and a clearer insight into the tasks the Church is on earth to achieve.

The Dean's Column

WE had a good summer at the Cathedral, benefiting richly from the fact of the Anglican Congress and the Evanston assembly of the World Council of Churches. Among those honoring our pulpit were the Archbishop of Dublin, the Primus of Scotland, the Bishops of Liverpool, Truro, Limerick, Croydon, Lagos in Nigeria (Assistant Bishop and Provost of the Cathedral) and Bishop Newbigin of the Church of South India. About 250 enrolled for our forums for school teachers conducted concurrently with the Columbia summer session, with lectures of Canon Alan Richardson of Nottingham and seminars headed by twenty clergy and lay leaders. Canon Pyle directed this series and participated with me in the dialogue sermon series at the July Sunday Evensongs.

All of our visitors from abroad commented favorably on our usages at the Cathedral, especially the provision of choral Morning Prayer and Holy Communion every Sunday, the offertory procession in which the bread and wine as well as alms are brought up by the laymen, the reading of the Gospel from the pulpit, and the custom of facing the people from behind the altar from the Sursum corda through the Lord's Prayer. We were glad to hear that such practices making for greater lay participation and a greater sense of corporateness are gaining ground rapidly throughout the Anglican Communion.

THINGS got off to a fine start this fall with the filling out of the Chapter and the staff. The coming of Canons Johnson and Pyle enables us to project new forums and strengthen our present ones; and to provide a more effective ministry to the University and the nearby homes for the aged.

With Mr. Alec Wyton (who is living on the Close) as our Master of Choristers we are anticipating a steady improvement in our music and an expansion in the musical program. Miss Polly Telford, who has come as librarian and consultant for the Exhibit Hall, will, under the direction of Canon Johnson, lay the foundation for a Cathedral Library and will, with Mrs. Linn, the manager, improve the quality of the books and articles available at the Hall. These, with other staff members old and new, give us an efficient, well-rounded and congenial team. Promising too for the future is the fact that two births (Catherine Betts and Damaris Pyle) and Vaughan (named after Vaughan Williams) Wyton bring the number of children on the Close up to twelve.

James A. Pike

Dean of New York

The Church's Ministry To Alcoholics

A VERY experienced priest knows something of the toll of alcoholism. He has seen it ruin promising careers, break homes, and bring untold tragedy to the alcoholic and to his (or her) family. Every alert priest is aware that alcoholism is not merely a sign of a weak will. It is an illness, and there are tried and proved methods of treatment. But not every priest has definite information about the various techniques — medical, psychiatric, custodial and spiritual — at present available to help the alcoholic.

It is to supply this information that the Department of Christian Social Relations is sponsoring a Conference on The Church's Ministry to Alcoholics, at the Seamen's Church Institute, on Tuesday, October 19. Attendance is limited to clergy, church social workers and lay people with a definite interest in the problem. The speakers and discussion leaders are men with wide experience in the field. There will be full opportunity for questions and discussion. A literature table will be supplied by The National Committee on Alcoholism.

Christian Education For Youths And Adults

THE Diocesan Youth Division, under the Chairmanship of the Rev. L. J. Winterbottom, Rector of St. John's Church, Yonkers, announces a radical change in its program for this and subsequent years. A special committee, working through the summer months, has developed a Rule of Life statement under the title, "Because I Believe — Therefore."

This Rule takes its pattern on a Rule that has been in use in Canada during the past few years, sponsored by the Dominion Council of the Anglican Young People's Association, but differs from the Canadian rule in that it is based on the Catechism Summary of the Creed rather than program structure.

This Rule will receive its inaugural promotions at a Diocesan Youth Leaders Conference to be held at Church of St. James the Less, Scarsdale, on Saturday, October 9th. All clergy who have active youth work in their Parishes, and the officers of parish youth groups are being invited to attend.

The Division of Youth plans that this Diocesan Youth Leaders Conference will be followed by retreats, quiet days or some type of devotional rally under the leadership of the Youth Advisor in each convocation.

Those wishing copies of this Rule for use with youth groups or confirmation classes should apply to the Department of Christian Education for a free supply. The Youth Division is preparing a Leader's Manual for the assistance of those who will be responsible for interesting this rule to young people.

EPIPHANY CONFERENCES FOR ADULTS

Adult Religious Education will be highlighted in special conferences to be conducted by the Division of Adult Work of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education. The Rev. Canon E. N. West, Canon Sacrist of the Cathedral Church and newly elected Chairman of this Division plans to develop an afternoon and evening conference program which will emphasize the need and methods of this phase of the Church's work.

Saturdays and Sundays in January will be selected for sessions in each convocation with the hope that the clergy and representative laity from each parish will find the help needed to enable them to enrich present parochial programs or establish new activity in those areas where none exists.

Refugee Relief Progress

IN this cosmopolitan Diocese of New York, under the leadership of our Bishop who preaches in season and out the Gospel of One Church for all races and kinds of men, it is good news to report that the Diocese of New York leads in the number of assurances now being processed under the Refugee Relief Act. At this writing, 89 of Europe's unfortunate refugees, 50 cases in all, have new hope of coming to our good land because friends, relatives, and interested people have lined up jobs and housing facilities for them. This is one-seventh of the national Church record to date, and, by the way, the Episcopal Church leads in this respect under the good offices of the Reverend Alexander Jurisson and Mrs. Webb of the National Council.

We have just begun, however. At the Diocesan Convention last May, a resolution was passed unanimously asking each parish to sponsor one assurance. Most parishes have not as yet turned in their quota. The chairman of the sub-committee on Refugee Resettlement, the Reverend E. Walter Chater of All Saints' Church, Harrison, would like all those Episcopalians who know of a job or a housing opportunity for the future or who are concerned about this Christian problem to get in touch with their rector or with him. Surely our great and growing Diocese has room and opportunity for this very minute proportion of people who look to us for new hope and new life.

St. Mary's In The Garden

This part of the story doesn't have a happy ending, for the church was as bad off financially after this step as before. Receipts fell off until at one time the munificent collections at the evening services — $16 — provided the entire annual income outside the usual grant from patient Trinity.

From the beginning, however, St. Mary's had one prosperous patron. He was Jacob Schiefflin — drug manufacturer whose country home overlooked the Hudson at what is now West 144th Street — ardent "Loyalist" who fought on the British side in the American Revolution — landholder whose estates covered Manhattanville — churchman who was St. Mary's first warden. In the 1820s he subdivided his Manhattanville plot for a real estate development and (perhaps at Dr. Richmond's urging) gave a 60x100 foot plot for a church. Later additions enlarged the church plot to about 200 feet on each side. By October of 1824 the building was framed. Then, as usual, money troubles raised their ugly head. The vestry couldn't pay its building loans ($1200 altogether). Work stopped. Finally Trinity (also as usual) picked up the check. In 1826 the unpretentious structure was completed and consecrated.

By a sort of droit de seigneur, the Schiefflin family always took the front pew, right. The pew opposite was, by common consent, reserved for another important family in the parish: the Schiefflins' friends and neighbors, the Alexander Hamilton family of nearby Hamilton Grange. (The great Secretary of the Treasury himself had died in a duel long before.) The Schiefflins, chief human link in the 131-year story of St. Mary's, have remained loyal to their church unto the sixth and seventh generations. In the rectory hangs a portrait of old Jacob Schiefflin in his uniform as a British "red coat". He looks down on vestry meetings in which, today, two of his direct descendants take part. St. Mary's seal, the Agnus Dei, is taken from the Schiefflin family crest. The churchyard burial ground that once surrounded the church has long since disappeared, but you can still see the Schiefflin family vault, sheltered by the roof of the entrance porch.

WORKINGMEN'S VILLAGE

St. Mary's neighborhood changed and grew — but didn't get noticeably wealthier. A few small factories sprang up at Manhattanville, and with the factories, a community of German workingmen. There were so many that one rector of the 1850s held German-language services.

In 1853 the rectory was built (total cost: $1,167). Subscription lists for this project, compared with lists of those who gave for the original church building, suggest that Manhattanville had become an entirely different community. Hardly a single name appears on both lists.

Among Manhattanville's newcomers at mid-century was Daniel Tiemann (later a mayor of New York City). He opened a factory in the neighborhood and built a home on the hillside near the river. He filled the place of grand seigneur occupied in earlier days by Jacob Schiefflin. His gifts helped keep the always-impoverished parish going.

The Suffragan

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

THE delegates from the Diocese of New York were, in the proper sense of the word, the proudest of all those who attended the great Anglican Congress in Minneapolis in August. Proud because of the contribution the Diocese made there, and proud because of the contribution the Episcopal Church made there.

The Diocese was well represented. First, there were of course the two bishops, your Diocesan and his Suffragan. Then there were the delegates who had been elected at the last Diocesan Convention, Dr. John Heuss, Rector of Trinity Parish, and Dr. Norman Pritchard, prominent layman of St. Martin's Parish. Dr. Heuss was also Vice Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements and Chairman of the Subcommittee on Finance.

The Diocese was further represented by the Rev. Dr. Powell M. Dawley, Subdean of the General Theological Seminary and Editor of the Congress Report; the Very Reverend James A. Pike, Dean of our Cathedral and delegate at large; and the Rev. Dr. Edward N. West, Canon Sacrist of the Cathedral and Chairman of the Committee on Services.

The Bishop joins me in saying a word of special praise for Canon West's contribution. First of all, it was he who designed the Congress emblem which, symbolizing the origin and unity of the Anglican Communion, appeared on all official literature and, in heroic size and colors, was the focal point (other than the altar of course) at the two great Services of Witness.

Canon West's genius was even more noticeable, however, in the brilliant execution of the main services. The first was the Opening Service at the Minneapolis Auditorium with its dramatic procession of some 1100 dignitaries, which involved the most delicate protocol. Not one of the 14,000 pepole who crowded the Auditorium will ever forget the gap which was left in the procession and marked by a teen-age acolyte carrying the banner of China to emphasize the absence of the China delegation, barred by the Iron Curtain. This was "procession-perfectionist" Canon West at his best. The second was the Mass Meeting of Missionary Witness held in the St. Paul Auditorium with its congregation of 6000 and its participants of Primates, Metropolitans, Episcopal chairmen and the Missionary bishops who spoke. Furthermore, Canon West was chiefly responsible for the drawing up of both these services.

Besides being proud, as I have said, because of the conspicuous positions held and the contributions made by the men representing the Diocese, we were also proud of the contribution made by our own Episcopal Church.

As reported in a recent issue of Episcopal Church News, "Of the many splendid addresses delivered before the Congress, it was significant that tremendous ovations were given the two papers on OUR WORSHIP prepared by the Rev. Massey H. Shepherd and the Rt. Rev. David Colin Dunlap, Dean of Lincoln. It was a tribute to the excellence of the addresses and it evinced the deep interest of the dlegates in the ordered worship of our Communion".

Now Dr. Shepherd is perhaps the outstanding liturgical scholar of our Church, and all Episcopalians at the Congress were extremely proud to claim him as one of our very own. His paper, "Our Anglican Heritage of Common Worship", was brilliant throughout, and his concluding charge could well be adopted by us all as our special meditation each time we participate in the Holy Communion during the months ahead. Let us all emphasize as never before "the here and now experience of eternal life, that in the sacraments we do literally taste the good word of God, and the powers of the age to come. Being initiated into Christ, we are no longer dead, but alive; no longer are we offerers of dead works, but of service to the living God. We have been translated out of the realm of darkness into the kingdom of light. It is because we are redeemed that we make bold to offer. And when we offer, in penitence and in faith, the living, risen Lord comes to offer with His own, to make us up into His offering eternally in the heavenly places."

The vestry (he was a member from 1851-1900) met at his house. In fact, three generations of Tiemanns served on the vestry.

In a quiet way St. Mary's was serving its community during this time of struggle to keep alive. The original vestry had arranged for the first free school in the Manhattanville neighborhood. During a great plague of 1832, and again in the panic of 1857, city officials put the rector of St. Mary's in charge of relieving suffering in the whole upper end of Manhattan. In the late 1800s Sheltering Arms Orphanage was founded next door to the church, and St. Mary's ministered to the children until the last building closed about 15 years ago. St. Mary's was also a center for mission work farther eastward in Harlem.

THE CITY CLOSES IN

Up to 50 years ago St. Mary's community was one of scattered frame houses and even a few farms. Suddenly, in a torrent of steel and concrete, the city poured in. During the early 1900s multi-story apartment houses and commercial buildings shouldered their way upwards, nudging one another for elbow-room.

Too old and too small for its bustling new parish area, the original St. Mary's was razed in 1908. Some of "old St. Mary's" lives on in the new building. Embedded in windows of the nave are stained glass medallions from the original church, and the battered old church bell hangs (silent now) in an archway of the chancel.

MIDDLE-CLASS HEYDAY

From the start the new church was crowded almost to capacity. It served the fringe of a district where great educational institutions were arising. College teachers, professional people, families of some means, settled on the "American Acropolis" of Morningside Heights. Many of them looked to St. Mary's as their church home. In the 1920s the parish claimed more than 600 communicants, and its rolls of baptized persons passed the thousand mark.

Rector during this "golden era" was the Rev. Charles Breck Ackley, D.D. He came to St. Mary's in 1919. Now 76, he is one of the oldest of Manhattan's active rectors and in point of service to one church. His 35-year rectorship (long may it continue) is the longest in St. Mary's history.

SLUM AND REGENERATION

The wave of change rolled on. Once-handsome buildings decayed. The "old" congregation began to scatter, as new groups crowded into the neighborhood. "Boy gangs of Mousetown" (sensationalized in Reader's Digest) terrorized the area at night.

St. Mary's fell upon hard times once more. Income and membership went down and down.

But today a new community is arising on the ashes of the old. Wreckers have smashed whole blocks of down-at-the-heel tenements just west of St. Mary's. Twenty-story skyscraper apartments (most of them publicly financed) will soon tower over the site — letting in light and air and sunshine to a neighborhood that knew only the drabness of brick wall and concrete sidewalk. Just east of St. Mary's another wide slum will also be swept away and more public housing built.

Can St. Mary's meet the challenge of this great new multi-racial community?

At first glance one might have doubts. Communicants number fewer than 300. The little church, with seats for only 320 including the choir, is seldom crowded. Age has wreaked its toll on the buildings. Envelope contributions pay scarcely a third of the modest $11,000 budget. The church has no endowment nor other money-earning property except for a few bonds and memorial funds returning perhaps $100 a year in interest.

St. Mary's In The Garden

But there's a bright side to this story. In this little essay so far, we have tried to paint St. Mary's without haloes. Not it's time to gild the lily. And little old St. Mary's has a few things to teach its more affluent sister parishes.

Alive to its new responsibilities, St. Mary's is widening its parish flock. Today about 12 per cent of the congregation are of Puerto Rican descent — chiefly young people of the second generation in New York — with a scattering of Negroes, Japanese and other groups. St. Mary's is in touch with its community in another way: several parishioners belong to District 9 City Planning Board (a non-salaried advisory group to the Manhattan borough president), which meets at St. Mary's.

Vestrymen and others gave many hours of spare time during the past year to "Operation Paint". This was a project under which parts of the rectory and parish house interior were painted and repaired and pews and floors in the church building refinished. Backing up these loyal unpaid workers were loyal givers — the "Friends of St. Mary's", as we call those families, now widely scattered, who once had ties with St. Mary's and still contribute for special needs of the parish, such as the expenses of "Operation Paint".

Financially the parish is on sounder footing than for many years past. The fiction of financial independence (maintained through a thinly-veiled subsidy from Trinity) has been surrendered in return for regular aid from the Diocese. Maintenance work is supervised by Diocesan experts. St. Mary's hopes, of course, that this "assisted parish" status will be short, and that the parish will soon stand on its own feet again.

Speaking of money, St. Mary's is proud that for a decade it has paid every cent of its Diocesan quota every year.

Active women's organizations carry on invaluable mission , study, church improvement, and money-raising functions. The women assume most of the burden of the traditional two-day Thanksgiving Bazaar and parish dinner — an essential fund-raising activity.

Unique in this region is the older boys' organization, the Order of Sir Galahad. Although popular in New England, this Order has only one court in our Diocese — that at St. Mary's. This is only one of several youth organizations. St. Mary's does well by its young people. A special children's service is held at 9:15 every Sunday morning during the school year. Special "streamlined" readings from the Revised Standard Version help put across the grand old Bible stories in today's language. Sunday School follows, with graded classes and also a special teen-age-and-adult Bible and discussion group.

Young people take much of the responsibility for their own service — as Junior Choir members, servers at the altar and lay readers. Seven boys are duly licensed lay readers — an unusual record.

This program of building lay leadership responsibility is perhaps St. Mary's biggest asset. Besides the junior lay readers, there are half a dozen senior lay readers, who take much of the 11 A.M. service. Lay members address the congregation frequently on special occasions. A unique institution is the "auxiliary vestryman". By authorization of the vestry, the rector appoints annually a few interested lay members to deliberate regularly with the vestry. In time most of these "auxiliaries" become full-fledged vestrymen — and begin their duties already well grounded in parish activities.

St. Mary's is neither a stick-in-the-mud parish nor a one-man-show. It is making ready to prove its worthiness to survive another century, through service to a new type of community now in the making.

So That You May Be Informed

THE Department of Promotion of the Diocese of New York has announced the recent publication of an informational booklet describing the functions of the Departments of the Diocese as well as the affiliated agencies.

Mr. E. J. Yowell, the Director of the Department of Promotion, said that this was done to further improve what he called the "communications" between the laity and the actual work done by their Diocese.

It has been borne out many times that Episcopalians, by and large, are very poorly informed about the structure of their church and the actual work done by their church. As an example, it is pointed out in the new informational booklet that very few members of this Diocese know that the missionary program carried out within the confine of this very Diocese is an enterprise larger than the entire work of one-third of all the Diocese and Missionary Districts of the Church at home and abroad.

In this new informational booklet the programs of the five Departments of the Council of the Diocese are set forth as well as the programs of the four affiliated agencies.

It is felt, Mr. Yowell stated, that if more were known about the functions of the Episcopal Service to the Aged, the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, the Seaman's Church Institute and the Youth Consultation Service of the Diocese of New York, more Episcopalians would avail themselves of those services offered and this in turn would increase the effectiveness of the several agencies and departments mentioned.

This booklet contains certain historical information about our Diocese. It shows an organizational chart on how the Diocese is organized and administered. There is also a map which will show the location of each parish, aided parish and mission within the limits of the Diocese.

Mr. Yowell further stated, that this booklet would make ideal reading for any adult confirmation class members or persons who were seeking additional factual information about the Diocese of New York.

This information booklet was distributed to the clergy of the Diocese at the annual Clergy Conference held at the U. S. Hotel Thayer, West Point, New York on September 27th and 28th.

Additional copies may be secured for twenty-five cents, which will cover the cost of handling and mailing, by writing to the Department of Promotion, Diocesan House, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25, N. Y.

THE Woman's Auxiliary program for Christian Social Relations for 1954-55 centers on Christian Citizenship. A new outline of study and action has been set up by the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary Christian Social Relations committee giving suggestions for programs and resource material.

A strong committee of District and Divisional Woman's Auxiliary Christian Social Relations chairmen has been chosen to carry the conferences and roundtables on Christian Social Relations into every parish branch of Woman's Auxiliary in the Diocese: Mrs. Walker DeWaters, Diocesan chairman; Mrs. Grace H. # An Historic Parish Fights On With New Vigor

SITUATED on a sloping bank of one of the seven hills of Staten Island, the Church of St. Andrew, known for years as the "Friendly Church in the Valley", has for almost two hundred and fifty years occupied a prominent place in the spiritual, cultural and historical life of this island in the bay of New York City. Its natural setting, overlooking a spreading salt meadow where a brook joins the Arthur Kill, has given it a location excelled by few other churches. Its architecture, its pointed spire, and its old churchyard have been a potent sermon of spiritual values for generations.

The early history of the Church of St. Andrew is closely connected with that of the Society for the Propogation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts which was chartered in London in 1701. The missionary zeal of this society led it to send to Staten Island as its missionary, the Rev. Aeneas Mackenzie in 1705. Working diligently among the families of Staten Island, Mr. Mackenzie founded the parish of the Church of St. Andrew in 1708 and with the help of twelve men, known as "undertakers", secured the building of the church and the first rectory. The church was opened for worship in the summer of 1712 and is described by Mr. Mackenzie as "a pretty handsome church of our own, built of stone". It is interesting to note that the long period of

"RELIGION AND THE HOME"

"Not for a single day did they cease to teach and preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ in the temple and at home" Acts 5:42 (Moffatt)

THERE is a Babylonian tablet five thousand years old which reads "Ah times are not what they were. Children no longer obey their parents." This is an old problem. Perhaps it is true of every generation.

Yet the fact remains that the most single serious danger threatening our civilization is the deterioration of family life, and the breaking down of the sanctity and significance of the home.

If we need awakening to the gravity of the present situation by recalling that in the opinion of Gibson the historian, it was not the forces without, but the disintegrating forces within the home that brought about the downfall of the Roman Empire.

At the present time Toynbee is reminding us that fourteen of the twenty-one civilizations which this planet has known have disappeared from the face of the earth.

We cannot escape the lesson of history, and we had better read the handwriting on the wall before it is too late, lest our civilization go the way of others. The spiritual health and welfare of the nation and the world depend not on scientific progress, or material achievements, but on the stability of the home which is the basic unit of our human society.

Today there are influences present that make the restoration of the home and the recovery of family life extremely difficult. For example, there is the disintegrating influence of much popular entertainment. There is a large output of unworthy literature which emphasizes shallow romance and glamor, and ignores the beauty and pain and splendor which makes a true family and a real home.

There is a false scale of social values which subtly persuades a mother to go out of the home in order to increase the family income, often to buy non-essentials and the latest devices which social standing in her particular community require. These things are a poor substitute for the true values so necessary for a home to be a "haven of blessing and of peace". Material things do not take the place of the love and understanding which children need with a terrible urgency. When they come home and the mother is not there, they are deprived of a sense of security.

Furthermore, the over-emphasis on independence and rights together with the distractions of modern living make the home – in many instances – merely a convenient place to eat and sleep and little more. In many homes few are the meals the family eats together, and rare are the occasions for conference and interchange of thoughts.

There was a time when the home was the center of common interests; where the concern of one was the concern of all; where the joys of one were gladly shared; where the troubles of one were cheerfully regarded as the burdens of all.

But the most serious danger to family life today is the appalling and alarming increase in Divorce. One marriage in four ends in failure. What unhappiness and tragedy this figure represents.

Divorce, as nothing else can, destroys the security of the home. Divorce means broken relationships and broken children who become unstable, undisciplined men and women. It is a fact that the chief cause of juvenile delinquency which is rising like a tide around us is the broken home and the divided family. When the obligations of parenthood and the sanctity of marriage are regarded lightly the social, spiritual, and moral health of a nation declines.

The Christian Church has many a battle to win but the most decisive of all is the fight for the Christian family.

What can we do to win this significant victory? One thing we can do, and it is most important of all, we can seek to have all the homes in the land patterned on the home at Nazareth.

Consider that home for a moment! It was a simple home. We commonly suppose that the possession of material things is an essential factor in the creation of a happy home. But when we look back at Nazareth we find no evidence of any comforts.

The most important possession in that home was faith in God. The child Jesus was taught religion by Mary His mother and by Joseph. In boyhood Jesus came to know the sacred scriptures. He knew the great personalities of His ancient nation. He knew the message uttered by the prophets and how they spoke out passionately against social and economic injustices and iniquities. He early saw how the purpose of God was revealed through the drama of human history.

In a home where faith in God is a valued possession prayer ocupies a central place. Jesus learned to pray at his mother's knee. Prayer became "the climate of his days". He prayed at His baptism, "a great spiritual act of consecration". He prayed all night before He chose His disciples. He prayed in the congregation of the Temple and in solitude He Communed with God. And on the cross Our Savior died with a prayer on His lips, "Father into Thy hands I commend my spirit".

In a home where faith in God is a valued possession a special day is naturally set apart for religious worship. When Jesus was a boy it was His custom to worship God in the synagogue. And the habit begun in childhood continued in manhood. Mary and Joseph not only saw to it that the child which was subject to them worshipped God with His fellows, but also they set the example. These things came first with them. With us they often come last, or not at all.

Religion and the Home

Compare the modern home with the home at Nazareth. No, compare your own home. Is faith in God the most valued possession in it? Do you ever read the Bible to your children; do you read it yourself? Do you teach your children to pray; do you ever pray? Do you follow such a simple religious observance as grace before meals? Do you teach your children the value of worship and do you set the example yourself?

One realizes the obstacles in the way, and the practical difficulties. But God's word as recorded in Deuteronomy keeps coming to us, "Thou shalt teach these things I have given you diligently to thy children. Thou shalt bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord". Remember, that is not just good advice; it is the law of God. Disobedience to God's laws ultimately results in disaster in this realm, as well as in the realms of life.

Modern parents take great pains — and rightly — to make provision for the educational, physical, and material needs of their sons and daughters. But they are apt to forget that when their children grow up to adulthood they will need a sound religious faith to live by.

The most valued possession in any life is faith in God. It is this which guides us in time of moral decision. It is faith which undergirds a happy marriage. It is faith which helps us to deal with suffering, pride, false ambition, with racial prejudice, with sorrow and success, and all the vast array of experiences that confront us. And if that faith is not supplied through the home the children will pick up ideas and attitudes amply supplied by moving pictures, television programs, cheap literature, and the street-corner-gang — or by Christianity's foremost and deadly ideological enemy.

Let parents remember as they seek for assistance in fulfilling their task, that sharing in the life of the Christian church is an essential aid in the development of the child's religious faith — of the family's religious faith.

At its best the church is the larger family of the families of Christ. It is here we witness to, and mediate the love and knowledge of God as revealed in Jesus Christ. But the home has the greater opportunity and the deeper task to be the most immediate interpreter of what love is and what Christian redemption can mean.

In the home today, as in the home at Nazareth, the spiritual and moral development of the child rests largely with the mother. This is natural since normally the mother is with the child most of the day. Fortunate is the child who learns early that his mother depends on, and responds to, some power greater than herself. Here lies the secret of the true sanctity of motherhood. Whether a mother realizes it or not she is showing forth in her daily life the power on which she depends. By prayer in the presence of her child, by the quiet demonstration of confidence in a loving God, and through the many daily acts which acknowledge God as present in life, utterly patient and endlessly forgiving, the mother builds an enduring relationship between her child, her God and herself.

WE have asked one whose singular distinction it is to have the word "mother" as part of her very title, to unveil the Motherhood Window now to be dedicated. Such a title in the country whence Her Majesty comes is a symbol of the high esteem and deep affection in which our honored visitor is held.

It is not what the official style and title decrees, but rather what her people call her: "The Queen Mother".

We are greatly pleased that Her Majesty has most graciously consented to unveil a window which vividly portrays the contribution of five devoted mothers: two who have influenced the course of our nation's history, the mother of Washington, and the mother of Lincoln; two who have affected the life of the Judaeo-Christian heritage, Hannah, the mother of Samuel, and Helen, the mother of Constantine; and one whose holy life represents the summation of all motherhood, whose title is

"Higher than the cherubim
More gracious than the seraphim
The Bearer of the Eternal Word".

with their Rectors to discover the unmet needs within their parish and community and working with others, interparish and interdenominational, to bring about understanding and changes toward Christ's Way of Life. Secondly, the program is one of intelligent attitude and action beyond the parish and community through Church World Service, World Council of Churches, United Nations, Ellis Island, the Welfare Agencies and Instititions of our Church.

Never has there been a greater need for Church women to be well informed and to stand together for what they know to be right, and to fight indenominationally for Christian ideals, than there is in this year 1954-55.

Department of Christian Education Accomplished Much in Past Year

THE October meeting of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education brought to an end the first year of its Five Year Advance Program and opened the door on the second year. It is gratifying that this plan has already served the original purpose for which it was written, viz. to give to the Department a definite statement of purpose and to assure all concerned of the direction in which the Department's expanding program would grow. They have, however, been able to avoid the limitations which might be involved in following such a program too slavishly. As the year has proceeded they have taken steps to change the program by deleting elements originally listed (e.g. Convocation Teacher Institutes) and to add to the program elements not seen a year ago (e.g. Parish Life Conferences for Clergy).

The Director, the Reverend J. S. Wetmore, reported that the major feature of the first year has not been completed, viz. the Parish Consultations. Fifty-one of these consultations remain undone (Manhattan 27, Bronx 7, Richmond 5,

Friends of the Cathedral

We are not a parish church; so we can have no members of our own. But we perform important service to the Christian cause throughout the land, fulfilling functions no local church can fulfill. To carry forward our program we need a large number of well-wishers everywhere who will learn more about the Cathedral, tell others about it, and pray for us.

You will notice that in that list does not appear the phrase "support the Cathedral". This is because the main cost of the maintenance and program is covered by income from endowment. We can carry on as we are without a cent from the Friends of the Cathedral. It is true that if we are to extend the program of the Cathedral and increase its significance in the life of the Nation we will need financial help beyond our endowment income and we hope that many of our Friends will want to help us extend "the growing edge" of the Cathedral's program in certain specific ways. But whether you can or want to, we still want you as a Friend of ours if you are willing to learn, tell and pray.

If you beome a Friend:

1. You will receive every few weeks a letter from the Dean telling you what we are currently doing and including excerpts from the preaching and lectures at the Cathedral and a survey of recent books in the fields of our interest.

2. You will receive an annual illustrated volume with pictures of our art treasures, articles by our staff and a report of the Friends.

3. You will be tied into the Cathedral by prayer: we remember you and you are to remember us every Wednesday and especially on St. John's Day, December 27th.

4. You will be invited to our Annual Friends' Day, which will be a great cultural opportunity and religious experience.

5. You will be invited to all special lectures and recitals.

6. You will receive a list of books available for borrowing from our library and those you request will be mailed to you.

7. You will receive copies of the programs of special services.

8. You will be welcome to correspond with us, wherever you are, about advice on reading, or any other matters within the competence of our several staff members.

9. If you express interest in a particular part of the program you will in addition receive special reports on that phase of our work, text of important papers presented, etc.

How to become a Friend of the Cathedral

Simply indicate your wish by phone call or a post-card; then we will send you a certificate and you will begin to receive our reports.

Ramapo 2, Westchester 10) and it is not clear at the moment when these can be completed. It is the Director's real conern that these be completed as quickly as possible and a careful study made of the results looking to further detailed work in those Parishes where the survey has indicated either special interest or special need.

Other items in the first year program are either on their way to completion or have been completed. The establishment of the various divisions has been a long process but it now seems that all divisions are well established and are digging into central areas of their responsibility. The Departmental Library has been completed except for the Visual Aids Section, and especially good use has already been made of the Curriculum Reference Section.

Parish Life Conferences, Presentation Service, Summer Conferences, Cathedral Youth Day, have all been conducted as planned. The Curriulum Conferences were attended by a total of 278 teachers and 57 clergy. About one-third of the parishes were represented. The transfer of the Guild of the Christ Child materials to the Educational Center, Plainfield, N. H. as distributors was authorized at the October meeting.

The second year of the program includes the following items: 1. Establishment of Religious Education Conference Center. 2. Increased program of Intensive Week-ends (Parish Life Conf.) 3. Intensive Promotion of Departmental Library Resources. 4. Implementing of the Second Year Plan developed by each Division. 5. Increased emphasis on Teachers Institutes and Conferences. 6. Extension of the School of Religion program. 7. Parish consultation arising out of the First Year Survey. 8. Agreement of Standards for Parish Day Schools. 9. Establishment of a 'Director's Forum'.

The Director's Forum has already been established and receives an interested response.

The Department adopted unanimously the following recommendations regarding the second year of its program:

1. That Departmental Library Resources be included within the Library being set up in Diocesan House, but promotion of the use of these materials be the responsibility of the Department.

2. That the Department continue to consider Parish Life Conferences for the laity as its chief program in teacher training but that every opportunity for the conducting of teacher conferences for parishes or groups of parishes be taken up.

3. That the Forums on Adult Education planned by the Adult Division take the place of School of Religion program mentioned in the second year plan.

On October 7th, the Bishop dedicated a set of nine Mortlake Tapestries woven from designs by Raphael, and depicting the Acts of The Apostles. The topestries are hung in eight of the Nove chapels and are well worth a special visit to the Cathedral. The tapestries are the gift of Mrs. Louis S. Bruguire of Washington and Newport, R. I. in memory of her husband.

*6,000 people attended the First Vespers of St. Luke's Day in the Cathedral on October 17th. The Bishop concluded the service with a blessing of the St. Luke's Hospital flag designed by Canon Edward N. West. construction was due to the fact that there was considerable trouble in securing payments on the subscriptions because of the poor tobacco crops.

Mr. Mackenzie's next step was the procural of a Royal Charter from Queen Anne. The church had become involved in legal entanglements over the titles of certain land and, at the wish of Governor Hunter of New York, Queen Anne gave the Royal Charter which legalized all gifts, including lands, church, and churchyard. This charter has been preserved through the years and is one of the treasured possessions of the parish. By its provisions it created a "body politick and corporate" which was empowered to hold property, assemble congregations, and hold vestry meetings. Mr. Mackenzie was confirmed as the first rector and the right to elect his successor was conferred upon the Wardens and Vestry. In addition to the charter Queen Anne gave the parish several articles for use in the church, including a silver chalice and paten still owned by the parish but on loan to the Staten Island Historical Society.

In 1714 Ellis Duxbury, then the County Judge of Richmond, gave his plantation, including buildings, live stock, and slaves to the parish for the purpose of establishing a fund from which to pay the rector's salary. Even though the income from this fund has varied with the years, there have been long periods when the income was considerable. The rectorship of St. Andrew's was coveted by many and the rectory became known as "The Golden Rectory". The church, the churchyard, and the Duxbury Fund still remain as living memorials of the eighteen-year rectorship of the Rev. Aeneas Mackenzie.

DURING the succeeding years of the colonial history of our country the parish on Staten Island continued to grow and prosper. In 1743 it was found necessary to enlarge the church building to its present size. Other additions were made to the interior and more land was obtained for the churchyard.

During the period of the Revolutionary War the parish was almost continuously in the hands of the British or those favorable to the British cause. Dr. Samuel Seabury, later the Bishop of Connecticut, was the rector of the parish from 1778 to 1782. Although Dr. Seabury was obliged to leave the Island for considerable periods of time, the church was never unsupplied. Officiating under Dr. Seabury's supervision several British chaplains conducted services in the church. On October 17, 1776 American forces attacked the British with some damage to the church. Again on August 8, 1777 the Americans drove the British into the church firing on them through the broken windows until reinforcements forced the Americans to retreat.

After the turbulent years of the Revolutionary War, the Rev. Channing Moore later Bishop of Virginia, and his son David Moore served the parish for sixty-eight years, from 1788 until 1856. As the population of the Island grew, so did the membership in the parish. Trinity Chapel, later to become the Church of the Ascension, was founded in 1802 and by the middle of the century there were several

THE mighty Hudson is one of the world's most beautiful rivers but because it flows through the heart of the Diocese it has always been considered by some to be a barrier to helpful contacts between churches on the east and those on the west. To be sure all roads lead to New York and churchmen follow them to Convention every May. But for the larger number of delegates the names of many towns and cities they hear identified with the Diocese of New York mean little or nothing. It is safe to say that 90% of the people of White Plains know nothing about New City even though that thriving village is a nearby sister County Seat! So generally is this true that to mention missionary extention in an area on the "other side of the River" often brings forth the remark, "Is that in our Diocese?"

When the Bear Mountain and George Washington Bridges were built there were those who hoped the days of separation were forever passed. Since then the Poughkeepsie bridge has had an important role in binding together the northern convocations. But by far the most important factor in the betterment of east-west communications is now nearing completion. For the thru-way bridge has so altered the long-held concepts of the river barrier that both in thought as well as in fact the Hudson is no longer a real problem.

To be sure the bridges alone did not accomplish this. Radio White Plains is of great importance to Rockland County; Radio Newburgh spans the river to Putnam and Lower Dutchess Counties; and Kingston's broadcasts and those originating in Poughkeepsie's two fine stations know no communications barrier.

When, then, we hear that All Saints, Valley Cottage, is over-crowded every Sunday and must find ways and means to extend its plant, we can all be encouraged. Now for all of us, Valley Cottage has become a neighboring church. The fact that St. Barnabas, Ardsley, is stirred mightily by community expansion and plans to erect a new Church is cause for rejoicing in nearby Orange County. And because Trinity, Fishkill, builds a new Parish House it arouses interest and determination in a congregation "over the bridge" faced with a similar project. "If they can do it, so can we!"

Of course the River never has divided the Diocese in any important sense of the word. Whatever hindrances there have been to free contacts and exchange ideas in the past, however, are now non-existent. And for this we may all say fervently, laus Deo.

An Historic Parish

other parishes serving other parts of the island. Twice during this period the steeple was blown down and once it was destroyed by lightning. During the second half of the 19th century there were two disastrous fires which partially destroyed the church building. The first was on March 29, 1867. The Richmond County Gazette gave this report, "The fire started between ten and eleven o'clock on Friday morning, when flames were seen issuing from the roof; a violent wind was blowing; the outer woodwork of the spire was completely burned off leaving the timbers bare before they fell and nothing was left but the four walls of solid stone". Services were held temporarily in the Dutch Reformed Church and resumed in the rebuilt church in August 1868. The second fire occurred on October 16, 1872 a little over four years after rebuilding. This fire, supposed to have started from a defective flue, raged for three hours. Again the interior was completely destroyed and only the walls remained. The church as rebuilt after this fire of 1872, and improved since, is the building that is now used and under successive rectors has served the people of Staten Island faithfully ever since.

THE opening of the Twentieth Century found the parish in a strong spiritual position. Through the successive rectorships of Dr. Yocum and Dr. Burch who later became the Bishop of New York, considerable progress had been made in the parish life. In 1891 a large parish house was built a short distance from the church to house the expanding parish program. This building later fell into disrepair and was pulled down in 1924. Electricity was installed in the church in 1905. At the 200th anniversary of the parish, held in 1908, the choir was vested for the first time and moved to the front of the church where choir seats had been installed. Previously the choir had sung from a raised platform at the rear of the church. The first cross on the altar was given by the choir in 1918 and altar candlesticks were first used in 1924. In that same year construction was started on Burch Hall as a memorial to Bishop Burch, to replace the old parish house. It was attached to the original choir room and vestry and is still used as the parish house.

Around this period several events effected the welfare of the parish. Richmondtown had since the earliest times been the center of the civic government of Staten Island. The court house, several hotels and most of the government and legal offices were there. At the turn of the century Staten Island became incorporated into the City of New York as the borough of Richmond. Plans were soon underway for the transfer of the civic offices to a more imposing building at St. George near the ferry terminal. When this transfer took place Richmondtown became a deserted village, buildings became vacant, abandoned and finally were torn down. From the earliest times the Washington Tavern had existed very close to the church. In 1911 the nuisance of this tavern became so great that in order to prevent the services in the church from being disturbed by the drunken brawls, the church bought the tavern and pulled it down, making the ground a part of the present churchyard. The first World War and the depression that followed brought financial difficulties to the parish. Church school pupils were few, the parish rolls dwindled, and the income from the Duxbury Fund, depleted by poor investments, was not sufficient to pay the salary of the rector. The once "Golden Rectory" was no longer a coveted plum.

The rectorship of the Rev. Francis Godolphin beginning during the depression and continuing until World War II started a period of growth and a new spirit in the parish. Slowly the parish grew in vigor, financial stability, and increased membership. Since the close of the last war the growth of the parish has continued steadily. Many new homes have been built in the vicinity of the church resulting in a large increase in Church School pupils. Attendance at the Family Service at 9:30 A.M. has averaged well over 300 during the last year. The vestry, recognizing that the parish could not provide adequate Christian education with its present facilities, planned carefully for over two years, and finally launched a campaign in the spring of this year for $100,000 for the erection of a new parish house. This campaign is still under way, and there is every indication that the new building will be started next spring. In the meantime the parish lives through a Sunday program crowded beyond all proportions for adequate teaching.

IN recent years the Staten Island Historical Society in cooperation with the New York City Park Department has made extensive plans for the establishing of Historic Richmondtown in the area of the Church. This will include the rebuilding of some of the former historical structures and the moving into the area of interesting old buildings from other parts of the Island. The land has already been acquired by the City of New York, and models are being prepared for this building of a great historic center within the confines of the city.

Under the able leadership of its present Rector, the Rev. B. A. Hemsley, the Church of St. Andrew, sitting on the edge of this historic program, will be assured of its rural setting and will have a prominent part in this venture.

W.A. January Diocesan Meeting in Evening

On January 4th the regular Diocesan monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the evening at St. Bartholomew's Parish Hall so that those members who cannot attend a morning meeting may join with the other members in a regular Diocesan Meeting. The evening meeting last year far surpassed any other meeting in attendance. An even larger group is expected this year. The speaker will be Mr. Masih.

W. A. Diocesan Devotional Workshop

The Diocesan Devotional Workshop of the Woman's Auxiliary meets the fourth Tuesday of each month at Saint Thomas' Guild Hall, 1 West 53rd Street, Manhattan, from 11:00 A.M. to 12:30 P.M. The only exception to the regularly scheduled meeting is a legal holiday when schools are closed.

Visitors to Manhattan are always welcome to attend and participate in the programs of worship, instruction and discussion. The varied subjects covered, such as the proposed changes in the liturgy; Christian education in the home; a guide to selecting and reading books; provide program material for parish meetings. The primary aim of the Workshop is to provide a common meeting for all women of the Diocese.

St. Peter's, Westchester, Has Kept A "Settled Ministry"

In the year of our Lord, 1692, there were thirty-four churches in the Province of New York and not one of them was Anglican. However, on the Feast of Saint Matthew, September 21, 1693, by Act of the Provincial Assembly, passed with indifference and quite without enthusiasm, provision was made for a "settled ministry," with specific agreement that two clergymen should be provided for Westchester, and one each for New York. Richmond and Queens. One of the Westchester priests was to go to Rye, and the other to old Westchester Village, the original County seat, but now in the northeast corner of New York City. So began the life and worship of the Anglican Church in Westchester Village, and so there came into being the parish of Saint Peter's, Westchester. The earliest reference which we can find to the patronal dedication is the year 1710, but the first church building was erected on the present site in 1700.

In the year 1702 the Bishop of London sent over the Rev. John Bartow, under the kindly auspices of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts. Soon after that the parish was presented with an Altar (the present

Christian Education Adult Forums

9:30 p.m. Canon West will be assisted at each Forum by the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, Director of the Department of Christian Education, and by one other member of the Division of Adult Work.

Plans for these forums are based on the premise that a great deal of adult education is now taking place in the Diocese, particularly through the Sunday sermons or in parent classes following Family Services. Much is also being done through existing adult groups as they carry out their yearly program. Many parishes are making a special effort through Schools of Religion or some other form of series of addresses.

The forums are designed to take note of, and assist, the work that is now going on, and to encourage a broader use of these and other means of adult education in every Parish and Mission in the Diocese.

Once again it must be said that "the key is leadership". The program of the Epiphany forums is, therefore, the preparing of people who can undertake more responsibility in the Parish program. Special help will be given in the use of the discussion method as a particularly significant means of enlisting and keeping adults in an extensive program of adult instruction.

General Theological Seminary Has Special Exhibit

"THE Printed Bible Through Five Centuries" is the title of the exhibit held at the General Theological Seminary, 175 9th Ave., N.Y.C., in honor of the 500th anniversary of the publication of the Gutenberg Bible. The Seminary library contains many rare and valuable books, including a Gutenberg Bible, and these treasures will be on display. This is an unique opportunity for an interesting field trip for your parish Auxiliary. Groups will be particularly welcome and should notify the Seminary in advance so that proper guides may be provided. Call Dr. Nils H. Sonne (AL. 5-3671) for an appointment. The exhibit will run from Dec. 27, 1954 to Feb. 20, 1955 and will be open from 2:30 to 9:30 P.M.

The Bishop's Message

CHRISTMAS is the affirmation of the most amazing truth in history. This is expressed in the doctrine of the Incarnation which means that God appeared in bodily form in the coming Jesus Christ. Christmas commemorates the entrance of the Infinite God in human experience. Before Christ was born it was asked, if God existed why did He not reveal himself so that His character, His purpose, and the meaning of His world might be known. There was a longing in the hearts and minds of mankind for some sure word of God to lighten their path and to guide them into truth. Christmas was the answer. "The Word became flesh and dwelt among us." The life which began its earthly existence at Bethlehem, was the manifestation of the life and love of God. Jesus said, "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father." We believe we see the Everlasting God in the Child of Mary. In the mature life of the Divine Infant, born in humblest surroundings, God has spoken—His thoughts have been expressed, His purpose disclosed, His answer to the deep needs of life has been given. Our deepest need is for God. We believe—and keep believing—in the truth Christmas affirms, that "we have seen the light of knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

Amidst the gladness, and momentary goodwill, of this festive Season there comes the abiding truth of the Incarnation. We know that the One Who was born in a manger in Bethlehem on a starlit night, while the angels sang, was more than a great prophet, or a fearless crusader, or a spiritual idealist. He was none other than God's only-begotten Son. He was, and is, "God of God, Light of Light, Who for us men and for our salvation came down from Heaven." The Christian faith is firmly fixed in the historical fact of Jesus' birth which we celebrate at Christmas. Jesus is the Word made flesh, God's Incarnate Son, the manifestation of truth and ultimate reality, the revelation of the eternal purpose, and the fullest meaning of the world.

We, who believe in the Incarnation, can rejoice. We can rejoice not because of the annual observance of a seasonal holiday, but because we know that "The Dayspring from on high hath visited us; to give Light to them that sit in darkness, and to guide our feet in the way of peace."

I send you my affectionate greetings in the spirit of the Eternal God, "who makes us glad with the yearly remembrance of the birth of His only-Begotten Son."

Lady Altar) by Queen Anne, a font (now encased within the newer one), and a chalice and paten (now on exhibition on the south side of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine). Perhaps this is the place to mention that the parish possesses the original charter granted by King George the Third in 1764 and many "secondary relics" of its early priests.

Tradition

SAINT Peter's Parish throughout its long history has more often than not been called "high church" by the faithful, the scornful, or the casual visitor. Certain it is that John Bartow had a "high" regard for the Apostolic Ministry when he left a comfortable parish at home to brave the trials and storms of a lengthy ocean voyage. He must have placed a "high" value on the gift of the Blessed Sacrament, for very early in the history of St. Peter's "Sacrament Sunday" assumed some importance, at least the distinction of a noted difference, in the records, from all other Sundays.

It is not necessary to mention more than briefly the fourth rector of St. Peter's, Samuel Seabury, our first Bishop. His sermons, now in existence, indicated that he preached to his people in Westchester the Gospel of our Lord and His Church, of the Blessed Eucharist, of the Sared Ministry, of the Liturgy. Samuel Seabury and those who came before and followed after, were high churchmen in the historical and best sense of that term, for they bore their faithful witness in times when the Church was neither understood, appreciated or desired.

That Isaac Wilkins was a high churchman and so impressed his parish and the Diocese of New York from 1800 to 1830, may be taken for granted when we read a letter addressed to him by Bishop Hobart in 1812. In this letter the Bishop thanks him for a pamphlet which "arouses a Christian indignation against the disturbers of the Church's peace, and violators of her authority and honor . . . the Church is too little regarded as a divine institution, the Redeemer's spouse and body . . ."

When, in 1881, it became necessary for the parish to seek a new Rector, we know from the correspondence in the parish archives that it was always a "good churchman," a "strong churchman" that they were seeking. Such the parish found in the person of Joseph Horsfall Johnson who was later to become the first Bishop of Los Angeles. Dr. Johnson was perhaps the first "Tractarian" to come to St. Peter's, for tractarian writers formed a valued part of his library and were often quoted in his sermons and instructions. In a pamphlet which he wrote in 1886, on the via media position of the Anglican Communion there is a footnote to the effect that "The Weekly Eucharist (is) the Practise of the Early Church and the Law of the Anglican Communion." On the basis of that conviction Dr. Johnson instituted the weekly celebration of the Holy Communion.

With the calling of the Rev. Dr. Frank Montrose Clendennin in 1887 the parish entered into a stage of logical development in the High Church Movement. He early introduced a moderate ceremonial, translated doctrine into practise, taught the Sacrament of Penance, and the Real Presence, and the Holy Eucharist became the central and chief act of worship on Sunday mornings. He became one of the outstanding leaders of the Church in this country, a noted teacher and preacher, and the author of numerous papers, published sermons, and theological works. He fought a good fight, rallied his people around him, and promoted every good cause within and without the Church, with a zeal according to knowledge. The priests who have followed him have entered into an established tradition which characterizes the life and work of the parish as of this present.

Change

IF the tradition of churchmanship has remained constant, it has been so in the midst of constant change. We have been the only public institution in a tiny hamlet; we have been a village parish; we have been in Westchester County, and out of it; we are now in New York City, but always in Westchester "Village" as it is still called by the older people. We have been a suburban parish, and are now the spiritual center of a great city population. We have seen nations rise and fall, for we began to be in a colonial province, we have had a royal charter, and we are three quarters of a century older than the United States of America. We have seen wars, and we have been entirely ravaged by one of them.

As We Are

ONE would not attempt to evaluate more recent years for the reason that they are still very much of the stuff of the present. The parish, under God, suffice it to say, is virile, robust, active, and populous. It is the spiritual home of some thousand families or individuals. Its people come out of every ecclesiastical background, and they bring with them their preferences for Solemn Mass or Morning Prayer, and yet to them all, is offered the Daily Office as the due and fitting adjunct to the Lord's Own Service on the Lord's Own Day, and every day, and His sustaining, healing, forgiving, strengthening love is made known to those who will receive Him, in His holy sacraments.

There are reasons, other than historical, for writing such a brief record as this. It is not so much a record of achievement as a revelation of God's loving care and direction along lines which he who runs may read. Saint Peter's has never been a "Catholic Parish" in any partisan sense, but always a catholic parish in that all sorts and conditions of men, at all times, and from many places have been welcomed and have found, and are finding their place. A witness of more than two and a half centuries to the Catholic Faith "as this Church hath received the same," and to the religion of the Prayer Book, is a matter of deepest interest to any churchman, and must be a cause of rejoicing to most of them.

The present clergy of Saint Peter's are the Rev. Leslie Lang, the Rev. Thomas Brown, and the Rev. Charles Scott. They are assisted in their work by two members of the Community of the Holy Spirit and Seminarians.

The Dean's Column

This month I have turned over this column to the Canon Pastor of the Cathedral to tell us something of his College Work Program. As of this Fall, the Cathedral has the responsibility of the ministry of the Episcopal Church to Columbia University. In order to further this ministry Canon Pyle holds official appointment at the University as Advisor to Episcopal students and as Associate Counselor to Protestant students, as part of the Inter-Faith Program at Earl Hall, the University Religious Center.

J. A. P.

IN fulfilling its new college work responsibilities the Cathedral has one great objective. This is to make the Christian faith, as understood and practiced by the Episcopal Church, a living part of the experience of undergraduates, graduate students, and faculty members in the University community.

This varied program includes pastoral visitation, counseling, group discussion and study, Christian action, and Eucharistic worship.

The program of pastoral visitation is carried out by a team of seminarians from General Theological Seminary comprised of Messrs. Al Minor, Bernard Costello, and John Beavan. Also on the team is Mrs. David Vanderburgh, a graduate student at Union Theological Seminary, who has a special responsibility for calling on women students at Barnard and Columbia. It is hoped that every Episcopalian on the Columbia-Barnard campus will be reached in this way. The team's objective in this pastoral program is to bring the Church home to the students where they live. Key men or women are designated for certain dormitory areas. The key men, in turn, become responsible for bringing together students for informal dormitory discussions and keeping the Church alive in the everyday experience of the members of the dormitory community.

In addition to the program of dormitory visitation, I keep office hours at Earl Hall for interviews with freshmen and other students.

On each Tuesday evening there is a religious discussion group on the University campus to which Episcopalians and all of the students who have questions about the relationship between the Christian faith and modern life are invited. Currently this discussion group is considering the topic Church History and its Implications for Modern Life.

On Friday noon all Episcopalians on the Columbia-Barnard campus are invited to make a corporate Communion at St. Paul's Chapel. Following the service there is a luncheon in the Chapel crypt.

On Sunday evenings there is an informal supper at Cathedral House. To this supper come students who enjoy the fellowship of the Church and are interested in planning ways in which to strengthen the Church's ministry to students.

Also at Cathedral House on Sunday nights there are held the Graduate Faculty Forums of particular interest to graduate students, faculty people, and young professional people in the Columbia University community. To this gathering come those who are seeking genuine intellectual stimulation from outstanding authorities on a level of mature Christian concern.

Thus the Cathedral, as a "center of intellectual light and leading in the spirit of Jesus Christ" (to quote our charter) is endeavoring to bring home to all groups within this University community the corporate reality of Christian truth on a level of maturity consistent with all other areas of their experience.

Manning Chantry Dedicated In Cathedral - Nov. 21

On Sunday, November 21, at 4 P.M. in New York Cathedral there was the traditional annual service for the Patriotic Societies of New York and the dedication of the Manning Chantry.

Some 58 Patriotic Societies of the New York Metropolitan Community took part in an Evening Prayer. A Procession of the choir and clergy, and the societies marched into the Cathedral with their military guard-of-honor, their banners and participating members. The preacher at this Service was Bishop Donegan.

After the sermon, at the end of the Service of Evening Prayer, the Procession of the Bishop and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral went to the newly finished Manning Chantry which has been built into the Patriotic Societies' Bay in the north wall of the Nave. The honor-guard and banners proceeded into the middle aisle of the Nave at a place opposite the Manning Chantry, and the participating members of the Patriotic Societies moved from the Crossing into the south aisle at a place opposite the Manning Chantry. The Bishop dedicated the new Chantry and blessed the banners of the Patriotic Societies.

The Patriotic Societies Bay has been furnished as a Chantry with an altar, crucifix and candles. On the steps, at the edge of the aisle, has been built Bishop Manning's tomb in which he is now buried. The tomb is surmounted with a recumbent figure of Bishop Manning, carved out of a four-ton block of Carrara marble brought from Italy for the purpose. The figure was carved by Constantin Antonovici, who recently did the wood carving of St. Luke, the Beloved Physician, for St. Luke's Hospital.

The Right Reverend William Thomas Manning, D.D., was the tenth Bishop of New York. A native of Northamptonshire, England, he was born on May 12, 1866 and brought to the United States by his parents. He graduated from the University of the South; was ordered deacon in 1889 by Bishop Charles T. Quintard of Tennessee and was advanced to the priesthood by Bishop William F. Nichols of California two years later.

Before coming to New York, Bishop Manning served as rector of Trinity Church, Redlands, California, 1891-93; Professor of Dogmatic Theology, University of the South, 1893-95; rector of St. John's Church, Landsdowne, Pennsylvania, 1896-98 and of Christ Church, Nashville, Tennessee.

In 1903 he became vicar of St. Agnes' Chapel of Trinity Parish and served for five years. In 1908 he became rector of Trinity Church, New York City. He was consecrated Bishop of New York in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on May 1, 1921. Bishop Manning served as the Bishop of New York for twenty-five years, resigning in 1946. He died on November 18, 1949.

Among the many achievements of Bishop Manning, there are three worthy of notable mention. First of all was his outstanding work in slum clearance and better housing. So engrossed was he that he had, from England, experts, who had led the slum clearance in Great Britain, come to this country and make a study of the conditions in New York, giving advice which was followed.

The great movement for better housing, not only in New York but throughout the East owes more to Bishop Manning than can easily be calculated.

In another realm of civic and national life Bishop Manning led the way. This was in the difficult work of establishing and maintaining right relations with other races, particularly the Negroes. No other diocese in the American Church has so many Negro communicants and such valuable representatives of their race among Churchmen as the Diocese of New York. Bishop Manning's insight, sympathy and support went far in building a true Christian basis of non segregation.

The third outstanding achievement was his work among young people in the Diocese of New York. Young people, both girls and boys, became devoted, informed members of many parishes in the Diocese and of the general Church. Bishop Manning gave them beloved, able leadership.

Bishop Manning did not start as a Cathedral builder when he was consecrated. He found the Cathedral of St. John the Divine begun and, in part, ready for use. Today, however, the glorious Nave, the reconstructed Choir and Sanctuary, the advancement of the building of the towers and transepts speak of what Bishop Manning was able to encourage the people of New York to do towards finishing the Cathedral. The work still goes on — as the beautified Sanctuary shows.

Outstandingly, Bishop Manning stood unshaken and undismayed amid the doctrinal and canonical storms of the Episcopal Church. The tradition of the Church, the Faith of the Church, the practice of the Church — "from the Apostle's time until now" — was the ground on which he would have the Church take and keep her firm stand, and every proposed change or suggested new interpretation was tested by one criterion: "Is it consonant with the Faith and practice, the doctrine and tradition of this Church?"

Allen Reddick, Director of College Work

WE have impatiently waited for time and space to tell you about Allen Reddick, who has newly come to the Diocese to be the Director of the Division of College Work under the Department of Christian Education.

Allen Reddick was born in Florida and attended the public schools there. He graduated from Birmingham Southern in 1943, Phi Beta Kappa, Magna Cum Laude. In 1946 he had a B.D. from the University of Chicago and in 1950 a Ph.D. from the same University.

For two years, 1947-49, he was Director of Religious Activities and Assistant Professor of Religion at Southern Methodist University. He was Assistant Professor of Church History at the University of the South (Sewanee) from 1950 to 1953, and from 1953 to 1954 he was Assistant Professor of Church History at Virginia Theological Seminary and Howard University.

In his experiences he has served as discussion leader to Youth Conferences in the Middle West; a lecturer to college groups on the relation of religion and psychiatry; in 1953 he gave a series of lectures on "Academic Freedom" to college administrators at conferences in North Carolina; and in the summer of 1954 he was group leader at the Inter-Seminary Conference — adjunct of the World Council of Churches. Currently, Dr. Reddick has a book in progress, a study of anti-clericalism under the Third Republic.

In his work here in the Diocese over the past two months he has had a warm reception from everybody because he is a very personable young man.

Woman's Auxiliary Has U.T.O. Presentation Dec. 7

THE Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York held its annual Advent meeting on Tuesday, December 7. This annual meeting is the occasion of the United Thank Offering by the women of the Diocese.

At 10:00 A.M. there was a celebration of the Holy Communion and presentation of the Thank Offering in New York Cathedral (St. John the Divine). The preacher at this service was the Very Reverend John C. Leffler, D.D., Dean of St. Mark's Cathedral, Seattle, Washington.

After the service, at Noon, there was a box luncheon in the undercroft of the Synod House, and at 1:00 P.M. the Diocesan meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary began. The speaker at this meeting was Mrs. William Travis, and her subject "Liberia". Mrs. Travis has taught English in the Episcopal School in Cape Mount, Liberia, since 1947. She and her husband, who is also a missionary, are now in America on furlough.

Photograph above shows some of the women from the many parishes of the Diocese making the presentation — which is the next to the last before the Triennium.

The Suffragan

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

EVEN if Christmas didn't have a profound religious significance, there would still be the desire and need for such a feast. On too many scores the world of people demands such a festival at least once a year which can be the focus of dramatic beauty, the subject of some of the world's most sublime music, the opportunity for the heart of a Scrooge to be generous and thoughtful, and the occasion to express uninhibitedly all the emotions surrounding the birth of a baby.

If only to satisfy the single, the childless, those who are too young and those who are too old, it would seem that the whole world itself at one time in history had a baby, the birth of whom the whole world might celebrate.

But what really happened in Bethlehem on that first Christmas night was not the birth of the world's baby, but, on the contrary, the birth of God in terms of human flesh and blood. God, for us men and for our salvation, on that night and in that place, came down from heaven and was made Man. Or, as the Prologue of St. John's Gospel puts it, "The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us." No, it was not the birth of the world's baby, but the birth of the Word; the Word that was with God, the Word that was God.

The profound religious significance of Christmas is that God — the only God there is, the same God whom mankind has worshipped in a thousand forms and in a thousand ways through the thousands upon thousands of years of history — assumed human nature and for a brief time lived as Man among men.

Jesus was not a man who was in some mysterious way endued with divine properties. Jesus was God, who for a short time and for a special purpose took upon Himself human properties. If Christ were no more than a divinely inspired man, if Christ were but the world's baby, He would be only a beautiful example of what God can do with one responsive life. We would look and wonder, and be helpless.

But the Incarnation, the coming into the world of God in terms of human flesh, tells us that God became Man and thereby injected a new spiritual power into human nature in which we can all share by union with Christ. The sharing in the new spiritual power is accomplished by receiving the God-Man in the Christ-Mass. And the Christ-Mass is not only at Christmas, but whenever the Holy Eucharist is offered.

This Christmas, and whenever you draw nigh and take the Body of the Lord, and drink the holy Blood for you out-poured, know that you are saved by that Body and that holy Blood, with soul refreshed, render thanks to God.

The Friendly Girls Have Interesting Meeting

THE Girls' Friendly Society tried an experiment on Saturday, December 4, 1954. For the first time the Diocesan Council met in two groups, the "Senate" which was made up of the Board of Directors, Branch Advisors and Delegates and the "House of Representatives" made up of Teen-age and Junior Representatives of parish branches. Fifty delegates in all met for a Corporate Communion followed by a breakfast, a council meeting and luncheon at Incarnation Chapel, New York City. The Rev. Howard O. Bingley, Vicar celebrated and the Rev. Robert S. Hayden assisted.

The council meeting was opened with a keynote address, "The wrong reason for the right thing", being given by the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, Executive Director, Department of Christian Education of the Diocese. The two "houses" then met in separate session to discuss plans for the coming year including the GFS Week Stamp Sale (January 23-30, 1955), the Children's World Day of Prayer (February 15), Leaders' and Clergy Round Table (March 26), Pilgrimage to Washington, D. C. for Teenage Members (April 11-16), a Retreat for Leaders, a Junior Camping Program and many other activities. During the afternoon session, to the Senate the findings of the House were reported, as its members adjourned to the United Nations for a tour of its buildings.

Churches Urged To Contribute More To Needs Outside Local Parishes

THE Episcopal Churchnews urges individual churches to spend as much money as they possibly can outside their local parish.

In a strongly worded recent editorial, the Episcopal magazine divided churches into three stages of Christian development: Childhood, adolescence, and adulthood.

In the childhood stage, a church feels "that any need of the local congregation far outweighs needs elsewhere. A new church building (in a 'better' section) for themselves appears of far greater importance than any kind of church building for others."

In the adolescent stage of Christian development, churches face and answer the question: "How much shall we keep for parish use and how much should go outside?" They know it is their duty to share in the work of spreading the faith and bringing the light of the Gospel to bear upon all the world.

These churches are tempted, however, "to consider any local need justification for the cutting of the Diocesan missionary goal. Sudden windfalls are likely to be regarded as gifts of God for local purposes, and it is quite easy to forget that God is really God of all the world, the magazine explains.

In defining true adullhood, the Episcopal Churchnews states that the test is being able to "exercise responsibility in the care of others."

"We believe," the Episcopal Churchnews concludes, "that more often than not, an 'adult' Christian congregation will be found more and more ready to curtail local comforts in the interests of great and proven 'outside' needs."

The Supply Department of The Woman's Auxiliary and How It Operates

THE Supply Department is one of the best known departments of the Woman's Auxiliary—if not the best known—for the work began more than one hundred years ago. At first small groups of women in the Church began sending clothing to the Indians and then aiding missionaries and their families. Other groups sent boxes to Negroes and to mountaineers. As a result of the growth of the work at the 1919 Triennial in Detroit the Supply Department was organized along its present lines with a National Supply Secretary at the Church Missions House in charge. All appeals for help were then sent to this central head.

The Woman's Auxiliary has committed itself to the responsibility of supplying the missions of our church with many of their material needs. Each spring the National Supply Secretary receives from the Bishops a list of missions, hospitals, and schools to which the Auxiliary is asked to send supplies. These institutions are contacted for a list of their needs. The lists are carefully edited and prorated to the Supply Secretary of each diocese and of each missionary district in the church.

Unremitting Zeal and Effective Loyal Service

IT is a matter of regret that some of the most fruitful periods in the history of St. Andrew's Mission, New Paltz, have no local recorded annals; but the attractive church and vicarage at the corner of Main Street and Oakwood Terrace are mute testimony to unremitting zeal and effective loyal service toward establishing the mission at New Paltz.

At the turn of the century there was a local Opera House, now St. Joseph's Community Center, which had a basement room opening on the street. Over the door of this room, deeply chiselled in the red sandstone lintel, is the word, Lager. It was in this room that regular services were held from 1904-1909. Rent was $50 a year. The room was heated by a wood stove and an altar was contrived out of wooden packing-case materials. In 1905, and probably before this date, the Rev. C. M. Hall was the minister in charge. His responsibilities were divided among a number of small nearby communities, but he held a service every Sunday in New Paltz. In 1905 the local yearly collections for the support of this mission amounted to $82.12. The average weekly total contribution from envelopes was approximately 75¢, and when he left in January, 1906, there was a balance on hand of $15.64, but it would appear the mission owed about $9.00.

Between 1906, when a considerable number of engineers and their families came to New Paltz, and 1912, when the New York City Aqueduct was completed and the engineers left, the little village of New Paltz was thrown rather

Rector Has Surprise Party November 23

It was all a complete surprise to both the Reverend Charles B. Ackley, S.T.D., and his sister, Miss Ackley. The vestry beguiled the Rector into going with them to what he thought was a little informal vestry supper party. While they were there a group of members of the parish set up the undercroft for a surprise birthday party. When the Rector came down into the Undercroft there were some 125 to 150 members of the parish seated at long tables, and they all broke forth into singing "Happy Birthday to You." Dr. Ackley was so amazed and surprised that he was speechless (he says that does not often happen).

All this was in celebration of his thirty-five years rectorship of St. Mary's-in-the-Garden. Before the rector could shake hands with all the people, Bishop Donegan arrived.

Mr. John T. Farrell introduced the Senior Warden, Mr. Cobb, who gave a most generous tribute to Dr. Ackley. Then the Bishop gave a fine address and another most generous tribute to Dr. Ackley and to all the people of the parish. The Rector just did not have any words to express his gratitude and appreciation.

Mr. Farrell then presented him with a very beautifully bound copy of the New Version of the Bible. Mr. Farrell also presented Miss Ackley with a beautiful handbag. The Bishop had spoken of the wonderful help that she had given her brother through all these years.

Then came another surprise. (There was just one surprize after another.) Mr. Farrell lifted the cover from what looked like a stand and presented a marvelous Philco Television Receiver to Dr. Ackley, together with three $50 Government Savings Bonds and finally a great big birthday cake.

The Bishop's Message

The beginning of another year is an appropriate time to pause and take note of the progress we have made in the Diocese during the last twelve months. In so doing there are many evidences of progress for which we can not help but be profoundly thankful to God. To mention only a few things that indicate spiritual advance; in 1954 three mission churches came of age and are now independent parishes, St. George's, Williamsbridge; St. Simon's, New Rochelle; and St. Clement's, Mount Vernon • St. Gregory's, Woodstock, was organized as a mission church • the handsome new church of the Good Shepherd at Granite Springs, generously given to the Diocese by Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Koegel, was completed, and opened for worship by the Archdeacon on Christmas Eve • plans are under way for the building of two new churches • the total amount of $393,548 asked of us by the National Council for the Builders for Christ Campaign was pledged in full • gifts were made, and continue to come in, for the Revolving Fund • the number of Confirmations and the enrollment in our Church Schools increased • and throughout the Diocese there is new zeal and new effort to strengthen and extend the work of the Church. Truly God has done great things for us in the year just ended. We rejoice and give thanks to Him for all His goodness to us.

But what of this new year? Of one thing we can be certain; namely, that there will be opportunities for spiritual advance in the months ahead. We believe God has a purpose for His Church and His people; and His guidance and strength are ours as we seek to do His will, and persevere in His service and put our trust in Him. A deeper faith in God is the only faith sufficient for the opportunities of tomorrow. How it will be with us this year depends upon the trust we place in Him.

Let us rededicate ourselves to God, and with courage and confidence endeavor to fulfill His commands, and may this Church which God has called into being be a more effective instrument, than it has been in the past in the carrying out of His purposes for the good of all mankind.

Faithfully your Bishop

Horace W.B. Donegan

Supply Department of the W. A.

In this Diocese the assignment is studied by the Diocesan Supply Secretary and the requests divided into three groups: (1) those articles that can be made in the parish work rooms, such as most women's and children's clothing, knitted articles, surgical dressings, etc.; (2) those articles that must be bought readymade; and (3) requests for financial aid. The articles in the first group are assigned to the ten districts whose secretaries make a further distribution to individual parish branches. A branch is not required to take an assignment, but all of the work is always done by the Diocese as a whole.

Each parish branch is also asked to make cash contributions, in accordance with its ability, to the three money funds of the Supply Department, which are set up to provide for the items in groups 2 and 3. These funds are: (A) the Special Gift Fund which is used to furnish the National Supply Secretary with cash for Christmas checks to missionaries' widows and orphans, a few retired missionaries living on small pensions, and for checks to missions that request financial aid rather than goods; (B) the Readymade Buying Fund which is used to buy at wholesale articles such as men's clothing, shoes, underwear, rainwear, household linens, etc., that cannot be made in the parish workrooms; and (C) the Dispensary and Special Needs Fund used for the purchase of drugs, other hospital and dispensary supplies, to provide shipping charges to distant foreign missions, and to meet many emergencies that come to the attention of the Supply Department.

The work of the Supply Department is not confined to the foreign and domestic missions of our Church, but is also concerned with the great missionary opportunity here in our own Diocese. One member of the Supply Committee visits each of our Diocesan Institutions at least once a year, and through personal interviews with those in charge, compiles a list of their material needs that the Supply Department tries to furnish through the parish branches. Each branch is asked to take an assignment for one or more institutions or to choose their own assignment from the prepared list.

The Supply Department has also suggested to our women who are anxious to do still more work the interdenominational agency for world relief, Church World Service, as a channel through which they can be of service beyond the limits of our own Church.

In order to assist the parishes in their work a Cutting Room is maintained at Diocesan House where cut garments for sewing and wool for knitting can be purchased at wholesale prices. Between 8,000 and 10,000 garments are cut, marked, and assembled by a group of volunteers and sent to the parishes for sewing each year.

The Supply Department is closely related to the other departments of the Auxiliary. Our work for a particular mission stimulates interest in Missions in general and we seek to learn more about them, moving easily from Supply to Christian Education.

Although Supply work is very practical, it also has a spiritual side. When we complete an assignment and send it to a mission, it represents more than material goods. It is actually an offering of money, time, and labor — in many instances an offering of real sacrifice. It is an expression of our Christian concern for others and of our love for our Lord and our desire to make him known to all people.

The Dean's Column

ONE of the functions assigned to the Canon Precentor by the Dean and Chapter, with the approval of the Bishop, is that of Director of Community Relations. Under this title is brought together the many-faceted program in which the Cathedral Church is now involved on the civic and social level.

Canon Betts is Chairman of the League of West Side Organizations, a federation of institutions and neighborhoods having their chief sphere of activity between Central Park and the Hudson River, and 59th Street and 125th Street, and composed of such institutions as Columbia University, the American Museum of Natural History, churches and synagogues, private schools, business organizations, neighborhood civic organizations and fraternal orders. Along with Rabbi Klein of the Stephen Wise Free Synagogue and Father Charles Keenan, Managing Editor of the Jesuit magazine America, the Canon gives active direction to a full program covering the areas of housing, police protection, outdoor cleanliness, traffic conditions, and a quasi-official representation of our neighborhood with the city government. In addition, the League operates a five-session workshop during the spring covering one or more of the areas mentioned above.

As chairman of the Citywide Slum Prevention Committee, composed of official representatives of such organizations as the Catholic Charities, Jewish Family Service, Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies, Real Estate Board of New York, Real Estate Board of the Bronx, Citizens' Housing and Planning Council, and some thirty other industrial, commercial, social and religious organizations, Canon Betts is involved in efforts toward the prevention of slums, the conservation of neighborhoods, the remodeling and rebuilding of salvageable housing, and the revising of housing legislation.

As a member of the Board of Directors of the Manhattan-Westchester region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and a member of its Community Organization Committee, Canon Betts takes an active part in the planning and operation of the NCCJ program in our city.

As a member of the Washington Heights-Riverside District Health Committee of the Tuberculosis Association, the Director of Community Relations has been engaged over the past six months in helping plan the new health center to be erected in our neighborhood by the city.

Since last spring the Cathedral has been actively concerned in the fight on juvenile delinquency by opening its north field as a playground and summer day camp activity maintained by the YMCA, Morningside Citizens Committee, and Morningside Heights, Inc. The Cathedral's part in this program is also a responsibility of the Director of Community Relations. As a member of the Public Safety Committee of Morningside Heights, Inc. (of which the Cathedral, along with the other institutions in the neighborhood, is a constituent member) Canon Betts is in constant contact and conference with the local police captains in regard to the good of the neighborhood and of the police force as such. The Institutional Committee on Schools of Morningside Heights, Inc. is engaged in bettering the public and the private schools in our neighborhood. Canon Betts serves on this committee also.

The above outline will give some idea of the degree to which the Cathedral concerns itself not only with the community program and problems of its own neighborhood but those of the city as a whole.

off balance by this unprecedented boom. Among the engineering group were a number of strong church families, able and inclined to give generously to the support of the mission in New Paltz. The mission benefited by a sudden increase in church attendance, increase in financial receipts, and in interest manifested in securing a more adequate meeting place than that provided in the lower room under the Opera House. The present church building resulted.

The Rev. Eli Sutcliffe had come to New Paltz in 1906 and he was minister in charge during this period of parishioner inflation and the inevitable depression which came with the exodus of the engineers. The cornerstone of the church was laid in 1909. The mission has no records of Mr. Sutcliffe's ministry. It is remembered, however, with what dogged determination he set to work to free the mission from debt. He left New Paltz in 1919 but happily was able to return and assist at the consecration of the church by Bishop Shipman on Saturday, April 22, 1922.

Down through the years the mission has been served by a considerable number of clergy. Some were resident, and some non-resident. It would be invidious and unfair to recount in detail their individual accomplishments. Each one is remembered for some outstanding personal quality or some distinctive contribution toward the mission's welfare; and anyway, a mission's ups and downs are not due entirely to qualities manifested by the minister in charge. The fact is that a mission in a small community has a long hard road to travel before it reaches its goal of self-support.

For instance, his out-going personality and enthusiasm prompted the Rev. Frank R. Wilson to broaden the scope of activities when he came to St. Andrew's in 1922. He became a Fireman and was designated to drive the truck. He organized a non-denominational Boy Scout Troop. He started the mission Sunday School. The mission purchased a new organ. The chancel was re-furnished and a new altar

THE SEMINARY IN THE HEART OF THE CITY. Students observe New York's famous skyline from the tower of the General Seminary. Here, ministerial training is related to the life of a great metropolis, with all its resources and problems.

ORIGINATED by the alumni of the General Seminary in 1938, Theological Education Sunday has now become an annual observance of the whole Episcopal Church. Without the offerings made by parishes and missions on that day, the Church's eleven seminaries would find it virtually impossible to balance their budgets and undertake essential replacement and expansion of existing facilities. Theological Education Sunday is meeting the problem created for the seminaries by the great increase in the number of candidates for the priesthood, coupled with the rise in the cost of living.

At present one half of the 8,000 Episcopal congregations participate in this offering for the work of ministerial training. Last year the oldest and largest of the Church's seminaries, the General Theological Seminary in New York City, received approximately $58,000 for this purpose from 726 churches, as compared with $55,000 from 664 churches the year before. As the offering increases, the gap between income and expenses which has threatened the welfare of all seminaries is being steadily closed.

quate endowments, the seminaries continue to make an essential contribution to the life and work of the whole Church.

Our Presiding Bishop says of Theological Education Sunday: "Our Theological Seminaries are performing a very great service to the whole Church for nothing is more important than the training of those who are ordained to minister to all our people. We can rejoice in the increased number of students in our Seminaries. But this necessitates larger faculties and better facilities of every kind. Let us give our Seminaries the essential scholars and tools.

"The Third Sunday after the Epiphany, the Sunday nearest to the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul, January 23, 1955, has been designated as Theological Education Sunday. On that day offerings will be taken for the support of our Theological Seminaries. I commend this great cause to the generous and intelligent support of all our Church people."

Theological Education Sunday offers to each communicant and to every parish and mission the opportunity to share in training the future leadership of the Church.

installed. On Easter Sunday, 1923, forty-one received Communion. There was a choir of fifteen voices. It was a prosperous period in the annals of the mission. This, however, was followed by a decrease in church attendance. On Easter Sunday, 1928, twenty-seven received communion; and on Easter Sunday, 1936, seventeen.

The somewhat neglected potential existing among the students of the local State Teachers College was recognized at last and we find a "college choir" functioning in 1940. Bill Ridgeway, a student at the college, now the Rev. Wm. Ridgeway of Peekskill, played a major part in the success of this addition to the beauty of the church service. But the importance of providing a church home away from home for college students was not fully grasped until April 1948, when the Rev. Marshall Wilson organized the Canterbury Club, which is now an integral part of the mission's program and meets in fine fashion a felt need of the college community.

During these recent years an addition has been built on the church, oil furnaces installed in both church and vicarage, a number of major repair jobs completed with the help of the Diocese, and because there have come to the mission community a number of people with outstanding ability in music, St. Andrew's enjoys the best music on Sunday to be heard in New Paltz. The mission is still a mission. The Women's Guild is an invaluable factor in the affairs of the church, the revenues have been doubled and tripled over the mission's meager beginnings, the students enjoy the hospitality of the vicar and Mrs. Wilson in the vicarage, but because the parishioners have weathered discouraging days in times past, they are undismayed by any ambitious plans for the future. They feel St. Andrew's is growing. On Easter Sunday, 1954, sixty-seven out of ninety-six present, received communion.

"Seabury Series"- New Curriculum

In May 1955 the first fruit of a long and expensive venture of faith, undertaken at the instruction of the National Council, will begin to appear, and in September will have its first general use. The new curriculum has seemed to many to have been a long time on the way, but when one understands the delicate research which has gone into its building one is inclined to be most thankful for the patience all have shown.

Under the name 'Seabury Series' the fourteen courses for children and young people will be in complete form by 1959. The Department of Christian Education for this Diocese has just completed seven conferences for clergy, led by members of the Leadership Training Division of the National Council Department, at which special consideration was given to those materials which will be the first to appear.

Materials will be ready next May for Grades 1, 4, and 7. In each case there will be a Teacher's Manual and pupil material. There will also be a Parent's Manual covering all three of the courses. While prices are not yet definitely fixed it is re-assuring to know that cost is being kept low and the materials are being marketed by Seabury Press on an "at cost" basis.

These materials, we have been assured all along, will not be just another series of Sunday School lessons to place beside the many which are already in existence. They will be different in both their underlying theology and in the kind of leadership assistance provided. They require, among other things, a Parish background which fulfills the following requisites:

(1) A group of people vitally concerned for the redemptive task of the Church.
(2) Family corporate worship in one of the liturgical services of the Church each Sunday.
(3) Parent Class (or classes) dealing with the problems parents are facing and how they can assist the further religious development of their children.
(4) A Teacher Training program which is concerned with both the religious development of the teachers and their ability to communicate the gospel meaningfully.

It is fully understood that such a standard may well be already in existence in many Parishes. But it is also realized that many parishes fall far short of it and will have great difficulty initiating some of the new emphases required. The National Council is strong in its statement that parishes should delay the use of these materials until the above standards can be met.

Subsequent issues of THE BULLETIN will contain statements in further detail on each of the four standards. In the meantime over 100 clergy of the Diocese have discussed these carefully and have received instruction in how they should provide for the necessary training of their teachers during the coming spring.

In June of 1955 the Diocesan Department will conduct New Curriculum Introductory Conferences in each Con-

Two Westchester Missions held special meetings in December at which the formal proceedings necessary to incorporation as Parishes were acted upon. Rarely do we experience two such actions in one month. The Church of St. Simon the Cyrenian of New Rochelle and St. Clement's Church, Mt. Vernon, by their action have made history; their meetings took place in the same week — that of the former on Monday, December 13th, and that of St. Clement's on Wednesday, December 15th.

For a number of years these congregations were served by the same Priest. Six years ago, after consultation with the Vicar and with the results of its own study known, the Department of Missions divided the work. The Department felt then, from its knowledge of the opportunities in both places, that this action would result in two self-supporting churches in a reasonably short time.

To all who have followed the growth of these congregations over the years there is sincere appreciation of the difficulties encountered and the magnificent spirit which overcame them. The people of St. Clement's can tell a moving story of population shifts which dispersed their congregation to places as far removed as Long Island and New Jersey. They know what it means to "start all over again."

The St. Simon's congregation outgrew a damp, cold basement church before they could afford doing much about it. Through the Cornerstone Campaign, the Diocese offered assistance and a new site was selected, a new Church built with adequate Parish House facilities provided in an undercroft, and a new Rectory erected.

Growth did not come in either place without travail. Priests and people toiled together and personal responsibility was gladly accepted by every member of the congregations even though such acceptance often meant true sacrifice. The feelings of satisfaction with the assured present gave place to the challenge of an unassured but promising and adventurous future. And so, as He always does, God has blessed and prospered them and their efforts.

We offer to the Rev. Dudley Cobham, the first Rector of St. Clement's, and to the Rev. Arthur Moore, first Rector of St. Simon the Cyrenian — and through them to their congregations — our praise and the assurance of our prayers of thanksgiving.

vocation intended to help the teachers understand and begin to study the materials which have now become available. These conferences, and the earlier training provided by the parish clergy, will be followed by area workshops in September and October 1955 for those teachers who are actually up against the problems of adjusting to the new materials.

Girls' Friendly Making Wonderful Headway

THE G.F.S. has hopped on a brand new bandwagon of activities and interest. Evidence of its effectiveness is measured in its strength. One year ago they had 18 branches; today they have 48 with 6 or 8 to be chartered after the new year. Membership includes approximately 500 girls, 75% of whom are under 12 years of age. Most of the leaders are bright, young, attractive; in many cases trained leaders of girls' groups. Alumnae, those over 21, have been organized into convocation alumnae associations, with the exception of Dutchess and Hudson. The Board of Directors now number 35 women from various backgrounds; clergy wives, directors of Religious Education, College Work, Field Advisor of the Girl Scouts USA, a statistician of the United Nations, a Negro Social Worker and 2 older teenagers. The Diocesan Staff consists of a Field Consultant and a part-time office secretary.

was the Mission Object Rally. Held at the Cathedral, 300 girls met in the Undercroft of Synod Hall for a box luncheon, afternoon program of games, songs and dances — based on their study of the missionary project of the year, Haiti. Each branch presented its offering after the meeting at a service in St. James' Chapel. The Rev. J. Philip Nordeck, Jr., Diocesan GFS Chaplain conducted the service. The largest offering was presented by St. Cornelius' Chapel Senior Branch and the second largest by St. Margaret's, Bronx. The total offering more than doubled that of the previous year. The offering was contributed to the national GFS fund to buy a station wagon for St. Vincent's School for Handicapped in Haiti. We understand that the wagon arrived just in time to evacuate those suffering from the hurricane.

The second most successful project was the contribution of the girls to the work of the Supply Department of the Woman's Auxiliary. Hundreds of stuffed animals and baby clothes were assembled and sent to St. Andrew's School, Tennessee, and Chapel of the Redeemer, South Carolina.

This year so far, a survey of the possibility of organizing local parish branches in the Convocation of Dutchess has been conducted. Of the requests for appointments with local clergy, 25% invited GFS to confer with them, 25% explained that there was no interest or need for this program at present and 50% did not reply at all.

Two leadership training classes have been conducted in response to a request to hold them in individual convocations. Little or no response by way of registration came from the Dutchess or Staten Island convocations. Hopes are still high for Manhattan, Bronx, Westchester, Hudson and Ramapo. The Diocesan Rummage Sale was repeated but it too was not completely successful; the chief reason being the lack of sufficient merchandise.

In place of an annual appeal for diocesan and national support, GFS is going to have a Stamp Sale during the month of January. 2,500 interested people will buy sheets of 48 stamps for $1.00 or more. Returns will be used to further the work of the GFS.

Some coming events: A Teen-Age Pilgrimage to Washington, D. C. over Easter holidays. In addition to the usual sightseeing, special visits have been arranged to the College of Preachers, Cathedral School for Girls, St. Clement's Church and Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria. About 35 girls will attend.

In March there will be a Clergy-Leader Round Table and Luncheon at which the Rev. Moran Weston will be moderator. He was chaplain for the GFS at their National Assembly this past year.

In June there will be a Retreat for Leaders.

The Summer Roundup for Junior Members will be for one week at GFS Holiday House, Canaan, Conn.

The parish branches are taking turns supplying refreshments to the Cathedral Community Club.

Collectively, the new Diocesan Program includes special activities for the Juniors, Seniors, Leaders, Alumnae and Clergy respectively. All this could not be done without the effective work of the parish branch leaders who work every week to prepare and carry out an interesting, useful program for the girls of the parishes. Their's is one of devoted service.

What effect is all this having on the girls? It is difficult to measure now but every now and then when some bright remark comes through at a parish group meeting, we know it has deeper meaning than we could possibly know.

Our Responsibility To Our Troubled Children

THE Department of Christian Social Relations is planning a conference in March on the subject of Our Responsibility to our Troubled Children. The conference will deal with the problem of juvenile delinquency, and with the organization and program of the Courts dealing with children and the family.

The Temporary Commission on the Courts of the State of New York has published A Proposal for Dealing with Youth in the Courts, which highlights the seriousness of the problem and makes drastic proposals affecting the Courts. The subject is obviously of direct interest to the Church and to all agencies dealing with youth.

The Episcopal Service to Youth of the National Council; the Diocese of Long Island; Greer, A Children's Community; Youth Consultation Service; the Woman's Auxiliary; Girls' Friendly Society; Department of Christian Education; and the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies and the Protestant Council have all agreed to cooperate in the proposed conference.

Builders For Christ Campaign Needs Additional Gifts

THE Treasurer of the Diocese, Mr. Theodor Oxholm, reports that as of December 28th $328,614 had been remitted by parishes, missions and individuals towards the total goal of $600,000 for the Builders for Christ Campaign. While the Campaign does not end until July 1, 1955, the money so far received is already at work. More than $300,000 of the diocesan quota of $393,548 for the National Council has been disbursed, and the $21,000 share set aside for social agencies in the diocese has been distributed to the Episcopal Service to the Aged, the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, the Seamen's Church Institute and the Youth Consultation Service.

The Bishop reported to the parishes on November 15th that known pledges at that date totaled $447,799. He expressed his pleasure that the payment of these pledges would make it possible for the diocese to meet its full National Council quota, but also stated his concern that unless additional substantial gifts were made the amount to be available for the Diocesan Revolving Fund would be inadequate.

All those who have not yet given and those who, having given in 1954, can give again in 1955 are urged to do so either through their parish or mission or directly to the Bishop.

A Conference Concerning Our Troubled Children

"JUVENILE DELINQUENCY" is a phrase that appears again and again, in the press, in magazine articles, in ordinary conversation. Often it is spoken in an almost hysterical tone, blended with fear and frustrations. Often the speaker, with far more self-assurance than knowledge, and with far more vindictiveness than love, offers as his prescription the persuasive influence of a policeman's night stick and the redemptive effect of a term in a reformatory.

The Diocese of New York, with concern for the individual, has something to say in this situation. "Juvenile delinquents" are not so many units in a table of court statistics. They are not so many little demons to be punished. They are our troubled boys and girls, desperately in need of skillful help — above all, desperately in need of love.

To bring this insight of the Church to the largest possible number of responsible citizens is the purpose of a conference on "Our Responsibility to Our Troubled Children," to be held at the Biltmore Hotel, Friday, March 11th.

The conference is sponsored by the Department of Christian Social Relations of the Council of the Diocese of New York. The Reverend John A. Bell (Rector of the Church of the Incarnation, Manhattan) is Chairman of the Department, and the Reverend Leland B. Henry is Executive Director.

The United Thank Offering

THE greatest United Thank Offering ever has been gathered in — over $27,200. Almost 9,100 women shared in it, which is about 730 more than have shared in it before. We are more than $19,500 ahead of last triennium, and our total for the triennium now is over $126,000.

The United Thank Offering is a love Offering. This is one of the things which make it different from any other offering. Some women use the Blue Box because they love God enough to take joy in spending a few minutes every day thinking of all He has done for them and others. Other women want to learn to love Him through contemplation of His blessings. Regular, daily use of the Blue Box means love of God and His creatures; also, it can increase such love.

The Blue Box is taking its important place in the lives of more women all the time. Many women who used to write a check, or put a bill in an envelope, are now using the Blue Box because they realize how much it can mean

A General Face Lifting and A Move Forward

A general face-lifting is the program of Grace Church, Port Jervis, as it opens its second century of service in a section of the Delaware Valley which lies just north of the State of New Jersey, east of Pennsylvania, and covers approximately 400 square miles within its Parish limits.

The face-lifting has a double-barreled action. It not only covers a complete renovation of the Church building, but it includes a move forward on the part of the parishioners toward eventual independence.

Faced with one financial crisis after another almost continuously through its past 100 years, and requiring assistance from the Diocese for more than half of that time, the Parish is entering a new era of vitality and resurgence which is in sharp contrast to conditions in the city in which it is located.

The economic structure of Port Jervis, and its Churches, for more than a century has depended on two "public carriers" which used Port Jervis as a crossroads and terminal. One was the 108-mile-long Delaware and Hudson Canal which carried coal and other produce cross-country from Honesdale to Kingston-on-the-Hudson, and which operated for 70 years until abandoned in 1898.

The other is the Erie Railroad which ran its first train between Jersey City and Chicago in 1847, and which provided most of the male employment in Port Jervis until two years ago when the "terminal" was torn down and

The Bishop's Message

Excerpt from the address given at the Church Club Dinner on January 17, 1955.

"THE financing of the expanding work of our Church in the Diocese is never easy. It represents sacrificial giving, work and the practice of Christian stewardship on the part of our people. How different this method of church support is from one which is now very much in the public eye, and one which draws not on sacrifice or generosity but on people's hope of getting something for nothing; namely, the gambling device known as Bingo.

"I feel it is my duty to speak of this matter because of the current efforts to provide by legislation, permission for churches and charitable organizations to engage in what is for others illegal.

"If Bingo is not wrong and harmless to the many people — often of limited means — who spend mnay hours and devotion to it — then the constitutional prohibition which outlaws gambling as contained in the constitution of the State of New York should be repealed entirely.

"If gambling is wrong, then the Church has no business seeking a special privilege to promote gambling however worthwhile the purpose. And the State has no business under our doctrine of separation of church and state—offering to the churches and charitable organizations a special exemption from moral restrictions imposed on the citizens generally.

"If the churches and charitable organizations, which are rightly concerned with the moral character of our citizens, should be permitted to pursue a course which is considered detrimental in general, it must be obvious to anyone that once Bingo is made legal for churches and charitable organizations it will only be a matter of time before it will be legal for those individuals primarily interested in exploiting others for their own greed and gain.

"At a period when we are concerned about the increasing lawlessness here is something which openly encourages disregard of what has been accepted as law by the lawmakers themselves. What a strange thing has come to pass.

"The legalization of Bingo will encourage the gambling fever which is already a serious menace to American life. I am amazed at the defense of this form of gambling on the ground that 'only small sums are involved' and, that 'the proceeds will go to churches and like organizations.'

"As to the first point it means in effect 'that a little bit of illegality doesn't matter.' The fact is overlooked that it is largely people with little amounts of money who play Bingo — and play it game after game.

"As to the second point that legalization of Bingo will help support churches and like organizations, I share the sentiment of Assembly Majority leader Joseph L. A. Cartino of Nassau County who said 'I don't think organized religion is going to go out of business without Bingo. Organized religion has been around for a long time without it.'

"If this bill before the legislature is passed — regardless of what the conscious of other communions may dictate in this matter — the long-standing policy in this Diocese of the Episcopal Church (and I am sure it will be true of all our Dioceses in New York) will remain unchanged. We will not sanction the use of any gambling devices in our parishes. We will continue to raise our necessary funds through the practices of Christian stewardship; through free-will offerings; through the work and sacrifice of our people.

"I trust that many of you will be stirred by Christian conscience to protest to your representative in the legislature this attempt to give the sanctity of law to what some charitable organizations have been doing in defiance of the law.

A General Face Lifting

activities transferred to Jersey City placing Port Jervis in the position of a whistle stop.

During the past century the Erie has been the principal source of male employment in this area, and many of the older citizenry are pensioners.

Today in Port Jervis any woman who can operate a machine or who will do assembly line work can find reasonably steady employment at a fairly high level of remuneration, but most skilled male labor must look elsewhere.

Strangely enough for a rural community, most of the employment for women is offered by mills where silk is woven, or sweaters and other women's apparel is made; and by glass and slipper factories, and by one of the largest manufacturing chemists in the East.

Youth as it graduates from High School, either goes on to college and never returns because of the lack of employment opportunity, or remains in Port Jervis and enters the ranks of local trades-people or unskilled labor.

In spite of the uncertain economic outlook, Grace Church is moving into a better financial condition with hopes of continuing growth. Just how far this growth may go, or just how close to financial independence the Parish can come, is for the future to indicate. And as long as progress continues, the face-lifting program will continue.

No historian kept a complete file of the beginnings of Grace Church. It is known, however, that Grace Church began its work as a mission on August 22, 1853 when the congregation met in the Presbyterian Church. The first Priest was the Rev. John Grigg who began his work in 1854. A house built by Samuel Fowler, still standing at 41 East Main Street, was the first place of worship.

Including Mr. Grigg, the Church has had 13 Priests. Since no records date back the full century, a survey was made of old canonical records by the present Vicar, the Reverend John D. Chequer, and a review of old newspapers was made by Mrs. Mabelle L. Tice, onetime secretary of Grace Church Woman's Guild. The compilation was presented to the Church by Mrs. John Howitt.

As near as can be ascertained, Grace Church pastors and the approximate dates when they assumed spiritual leadership of the congregation are as follows: John Grigg (1854); W. F. Halsey (1858); Charles H. Canfield (April, 1859); J. P. Appleton (February, 1868); F. N. Luson (November, 1870); J. G. Rosencrantz (February, 1875); Alexander Capron (March, 1880); Lewis P. Clover (September, 1882); J. B. Shepherd (April, 1884); Uriah Symonds (April, 1887); Charles H. Kues (April, 1918); Robert Gay (December 1, 1936), and John D. Chequer (December 1, 1952).

The thorny road traveled by Grace Church in its early days is quite clearly indicated by the fact that no permanent Church was built until 1871. In those first 17 years the struggling congregation just managed to survive a sheriff's sale of the property in which it was meeting; and was forced to disband for the year 1858-59 because of lack of a Priest.

A newspaper article appeared in 1862 which read — "Calamity struck the little congregation when in March, 1862 the Church was sold at auction by foreclosure of mortgage. By May the furniture of the Church had been removed to the hall in John I. Westbrook's brick building where it was announced that divine services would be held in the future."

After being dogged with misfortune for almost two decades, the little congregation, under the leadership of Mr. Luson, finally built a downtown Church on the corner of Sussex and Hammond Streets. The congregation remained there until 1891 when the present uptown edifice was built on East Main Street, about a mile from the first Church. The building was consecrated July 14, 1892, by the Right Reverend Henry Codman Potter, Bishop of New York.

The downtown Church was sold to the Lutherans who used it until 1952 when they built an uptown Church building. The old Church was razed and the site now is used as a community parking lot.

Built of stone, Grace Church has a seating capacity of 172; is furnished with contour shaped oak pews, has a lovely oak Altar which is set against three stained-glass windows, and is as lovely a rural Church edifice as can be found.

Its builders, however, made no provision for Sunday School, or youth and adult social activities, so it has been in the Church basement where the initial face-lifting has taken place.

The present Church building was built in 1891 at a cost of $9,000. Trenches were dug for two-foot stone foundation walls, and the stones were dropped in without footings. There was one exception — room enough for a furnace.

During the tenure of the Rev. Robert Gay, the cellar was completely excavated as deep as the foundations would permit. During the present face-lifting program, consideration was given to dropping the floor, to relieve the limitations of a low six-foot ceiling, — then it was discovered that the foundations were lying on dirt, with no footings, and the idea of further excavation was abandoned.

The Dean's Column

Under the statues of the Cathedral the Canon Theologian is charged with the responsibility for the Cathedral Library. I have asked him to take my column this month in order to share with the readers of the Bulletin the present developments in that regard. J. A. P.

By gift and by bequest, the Cathedral Church has been receiving, for nearly half a century, books — sometimes single volumes, sometimes entire private libraries. Insofar as possible these books were immediately made available to interested readers, but they had to be shelved wherever there were shelves; and that meant they were scattered about the Close in a multiplicity of offices, public rooms, and corridors. Of necessity, however, most of the books had to go into storage. Awaiting a better day, they were lovingly cached away in a variety of crypts, undercrofts, basements, and attics, where moth and rust could not get at them, nor thieves. But neither could readers! No human being was quite master of this diaspora. No one could say for certain how many books there were, what they were, or exactly where they were.

Happily enough, the better day is about to dawn. Last September Miss Polly Telford, M.A., was appointed Cathedral Librarian — and the search was on! These great buildings on the Close were ransacked from top to bottom, and every single book not privately owned has been carted to the William Reed Huntington Room in Diocesan House. For the first time, these volumes — about four thousand of them — are under one roof, in one room. Indeed, a very handsome room, with fireplace, panelled walls, and shelves from floor to beamed ceiling; and directly below it, a stack room reached by spiral staircase. An ideal locale for the Cathedral Library which is to be; and because there have long been people who loved the Cathedral enough to give it books they loved, we already have the nucleus of a working library, specializing in matters Anglican, which will be open to all.

Not yet, however, are we ready to hang up our "Open" sign. A Babylonian confusion must first be reduced to order. It takes time to classify and catalogue a library. Miss Telford keeps hard at it, and for the past month she has had the able volunteer assistance of Professor Taylor Putney, Jr., who, luckily for us, has decided that this is a good way to spend part of his sabbatical year from New York University. From time to time, when these two are ready for us, the Dean and Chapter swoop down in visitation to inspect the classifications, to accuse that such and such a book has got placed in the wrong category, and to determine whether this or that book is worthy of shelf-room. In this process a few obvious duds get cashiered, needless duplications are weeded out, and books of value which lie outside our fields of interest are earmarked for loan to other libraries or for eventual sale (if the terms of gift permit). Proceeds from such sales will go at once into the purchase of books an adequate Anglican library must possess. The most conspicuous fact brought to light during these capitular inspection-tours, however, is our wealth. We are rich in books, some of them extremely rare, dealing with the history of Cathedral and Diocese; and we have the beginnings of excellent collections in the fields of Patristics, Theology, Canon Law, Ecclesiastical Art and Architecture, Music, and Pastoralia. Presently Cathedral Library will be further enriched when the Diocesan Departments of Christian Social Relations and Christian Education make us custodians of their own special collections. Beyond that, the Joint Commission on Architecture and the Allied Arts has designated Cathedral Library as its official agent for receiving books and drawings relevant to its field.

In spite of present wealth, many acquisitions there yet must be. If books, by gift and by bequest, keep coming to us, there is no reason why Cathedral Library should not become, in time, an ornament to the Cathedral, a service to the Diocese, and a joy to scholars.

to them. It is a very simple, practical way to save coins toward the next Ingathering. But it is not an easy way! It is not easy because it means quiet attention, and that is what we like least to give to God. Almost all women love to do the active work of the parish — dinners, card parties, bazaars, and so on. All of these things need doing, but "there is one thing needful" which should not go undone. The Blue Box, standing quietly where we are sure to see it often, reminds us of this "one thing needful" and we, when we are reminded, remember to think of God's blessings to us and others, we give Him thanks, and right then, while we are in this spirit of thankfulness, we drop a coin or coins in the Blue Box for His work. A practical response of a thankful heart.

It is certain that if God's gifts came to us only occasionally we would surely thank Him. It is because we are continually and always surrounded by His bounty that we take so much for granted. As we practice giving thanks through daily use of the Blue Box, we recognize as gifts of God things which we had never thought of in that way. An entire lifetime is not sufficient to recognize all of them, but through growing recognition of the gifts comes more intimate recognition of the Giver.

We should think of the United Thank Offering as completely comprehensive, including all sorts of things. This particular Offering includes rejoicing for sunshine on a day set aside for heavy shopping, the white moon on the river, the return of a son from Korea, a new job in the nick of time, thanksgiving for the recovery of a husband after a serious accident, recognition of the worth of a musical composition.

It is a great happiness to announce that Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, members of St. Bartholomew's, New York City, have presented through the Myron and Anabel Taylor Foundation, Inc., a gift of One Million Dollars to the Diocese of New York to erect and help maintain a Diocesan Center at Locust Valley, Long Island.

The Center will be built on six acres of Mr. Taylor's estate known as "Killingworth". At some later date an additional fourteen acres, which comprises the whole property, and the handsome residence, will be given to the Diocese of New York for the same purpose.

"Mr. and Mrs. Taylor made their gift after thoughtful consideration and the conclusion that this property lends itself most admirably to a religious center which would provide the proper atmosphere for conference and study amid pleasant surroundings, and attain perpetuity in its ownership and occupancy consistent with its character and history.

"The building of the new Conference Center will begin this Spring and when completed will accommodate 60 people over night. It will have large conference rooms, an ample dining room, and a Chapel which will accommodate 125 people. The present residence on the estate will accommodate an additional 50 people.

"The purpose of the Center is to provide the facilities for conferences, meetings, retreats and other similar activities of the departments and agencies of the Diocese of New York and such other religious purposes as may be approved by the Bishop of New York, or conducted under the supervision of the Bishop.

"At the Center will be held conferences of groups of clergy and lay people; retreats led by the Bishop; meetings of the Council of the Diocese of New York; leadership training conferences; parish life conferences; youth work conferences; adult religious life conferences; college and college faculty conferences. Large groups of pepole will be enabled to participate in programs of worship, fellowship, study, and recreation with opportunities to know each other better and make for a spirit of unity — so difficult to accomplish without adequate facilities.

"Mr. Taylor has had a distinguished career as an industrial leader, as a philanthropist, as a humanitarian who has always been interested in all good works. He occupied with great distinction, the post of Personal Representative of the President to the Vatican under two administrations. This office carried with it the rank of ambassador and its purpose was to advance the cause of international peace. Mr. Taylor has been decorated by the governments of several nations for his outstanding services.

Anabel M. Taylor

"I am confident that you and every member of our Diocesan family will join wholeheartedly with me in expressing the profound feeling of gratitude which is ours, to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor for this munificent gift.

"This center which I trust will bear their names will be a continuing reminder of the generous and devoted interest of these distinguished, creative, and kindly members of our church."

volunteer labor of other vestrymen and other male members of the Parish, the entire floor area was leveled and painted; the white-washed stone cellar walls were covered with sheet-rock simulating knotty pine; the ceilings were painted; wash rooms were painted and new plastic toilet seats were installed; a new vesting room was created for the acolytes and choir with ample shelving; another set of shelves was provided for Sunday School use, and a furnace store room was created.

The kitchen also had a face-lifting. An antiquated ice box and gas range were discarded and a much-needed exhaust fan was installed near the large modern gas range, gift of a Roman Catholic contractor. A new (used) electric refrigerator has been installed, and the entire kitchen has been painted.

A project already contracted for as soon as the Spring weather opens, is the painting of the outside trim of the Church. A second outside project will be the pointing-up of the stone walls and the checking of leaders and the slate roof. Then, consideration will be given to the face-lifting of the Upper Church.

Our Troubled Children

The conference will open at 9:30 in the morning and will last through lunch.

Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, President of the College of the City of New York, will make the opening address on "The World in Which Our Children Live". Following this there will be a panel discussion under the general title "Dealing with Children in Trouble". Two judges of the Children's Court will contribute their specialized knowledge — the Honorable Justine Wise Polier on "The Philosophy of the Children's Court," and the Honorable Hubert T. Delany, on "The Inadequacy of the Court's Supporting Services". The two other speakers on the panel will discuss the various proposals that have been made for strengthening our sorely-taxed facilities — Dean Kenneth Johnson, N. Y. School of Social Work, on "How to Get Adequate Supporting Services", and Dr. Walter Gelhorn, Professor, Columbia Law School, on "The Key Role of the Judge".

The luncheon address will be made by the Right Reverend the Bishop of New York, and his subject will be the keynote of the conference "Our Responsibility to Our Troubled Children".

The conference will have a number of cooperating agencies, among which are: The Protestant Council, Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies, Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Greer School, Girls' Friendly Society, Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, The Woman's Auxiliary, St. Mary's in-the-Field, Youth Consultation Service, Episcopal Service to Youth, the Diocese of Long Island.

Whether or not you are a member of any of the cooperating agencies you are most cordially welcome to attend this worthwhile conference. Write The Department of Christian Social Relations, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City 25 for registration blanks.

United Thank Offering

It also includes Offerings in different ways from four women now departed. In one case it includes the Blue Box of a custodian of the United Thank Offering who was an inspiration to her fellow parishioners. In another, it includes a memorial to a much loved custodian. In a third case, it includes a large gift which was left in a will. In the fourth case, a woman, knowing she as dying after a long and painful illness, asked for her pen and was assisted to write and sign a check for the United Thank Offering, praising and thanking God almost with her last breath. How wonderful that even after death women still share in this Thank Offering! And how fitting to give thanks to God for what the lives of departed friends and relatives have meant to us!

This particular Offering also includes the contents of the Blue Box of a mother whose only children were fatally injured in an accident about a year ago. In spite of her grief she has found things for which to thank God. It would seem that when we have reached the point where we can give thanks even in pain or sorrow or disappointment we have found the real meaning of thanksgiving.

It is not much to say, just, Thank You, Lord —
And yet how He has to wait to hear that word!
Suppose His gifts should fail! How we would pray
To have just one more chance our thanks to say!

Why" Concerned Persons"?

THE first suggestion made by the National Department of Christian Education to those parishes which intend to use the Seabury Series — the New Curriculum Materials — is that the Parish should contain a "core of concerned persons" who are deliberating on and active in the total program of Christian Education in the Parish. While this will be particularly necessary for the proper use of the New Curriculum Materials such a group is necessary in EVERY congregation regardless of the curriculum being used.

Whether formally organized into a committee or merely a group of interested people the congregation needs the discipline and insights of a group which will (a) Be aware of what is going on in the name of the Church (b) Consider what these programs are doing to communicate the Gospel (c) Survey the need for further action in areas not being touched or too superficially dealt with (d) Be a source of encouragement to those who are carrying out leadership responsibility (e) Cooperate with the clergy in the enlistment of further leadership and in making provision for continued training.

More specifically this is the kind of group which can sit with the Rector and view what is taking place with questions like the following in mind:

i) What is the purpose of this particular activity? ii) How is it related to the worship of the Church and other areas of Parish life? iii) How well is this purpose and this relationship being carried out? iv) What assistance does this work need? v) What assistance do the leaders of this work need? vi) What work is being neglected or ignored? vii) Are there unnecessary duplications in our activity? viii) What "gospel" is being proclaimed by this activity?

Many parishes have such a 'core of concerned persons' already, though often they do not recognize themselves as such. Many such groups are being born as a result of Parish Life Conferences for the laity. These conferences are designed to give people a deep experience of the fellowship of the Church and a deeper conviction both of the purpose of the Church and of the reasons why they, personally, should be active in the Church's work.

When people have been home from such conferences approximately a month they are gathered together to assess results. In almost every instance a deep and real concern for the basic work of the Church is evidenced and special appreciation is shown for the importance of the Christian fellowship through which that purpose can be carried out.

Parish Life Conferences are not the ONLY way by which this concerned group can be established, but it has been found through experience that this is ONE way, and that people who are already concerned experience a deepening of that concern.

Why Concerned Persons

Christian Education has been, for too long a time, considered a 'side issue', something which can be conveniently pigeon-holed into a corner of the Church's total work. It is becoming increasingly clear that by EVERYTHING the Church does it is communicating the Gospel! Often the Sunday sermon is proclaiming one gospel and the mid-week groups or the coffee hour after Church are denying what has been proclaimed.

To enable the Church to speak with one voice, and to bring the action of the Church to the support of the pulpit, a great deal of searching may have to be done into the whole gamut of parish life. This is delicate, it is time-consuming, it requires people who will grow in their understanding of the Church's real tasks and investigate the ways by which these tasks are best accomplished. Therefore the group must not only be 'concerned' it must be "deeply concerned in the right direction."

The Diocesan Department of Christian Education stands ready to assist the clergy in any steps they might wish to take in the establishment of, or further development of this 'core of concerned people'.

The New Church Building of The Good Shepherd at Granite Springs

A CAPACITY congregation witnessed the official opening of the new Church of the Good Shepherd, Granite Springs, on Christmas Eve. Acting for the Bishop of the Diocese, the Archdeacon officiated at the Service assisted by the Vicar, the Rev. Kenneth G. Drescher. The new church, of brick and slag block construction, is situated on a beautifully landscaped three-acre plot and will serve a large area in north-central Westchester.

This newest venture in Church building in the Diocese provides the following features: (1) a Church auditorium which seats 140 people; (2) a Choir room; (3) an office and conference room; and (4) ample parking area.

Funds for the acquisition of the site and erection of the Church were given to the Department of Missions by Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Koegel of Granite Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Koegel were among the first residents of Granite Springs to realize the great potentialities of the area and the inadequacies of the old mission church. It is anticipated that this diocesan mission will soon take its place as a fully self-sustaining parish of the Diocese.

The Suffragan

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

SOMEONE said recently, "the future well-being of the world depends more than ever upon the quality of the people who live in it. This important factor we are in danger of overlooking in our obsession with the idea that pacts, agreements, and conferences can save us from destruction. Only God can save us, and He has offered us the way in our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ."

Only God can save us, if we are worth saving. This is God's world. History is God's history. As of old, so now, God is working His purpose out through men and the events of men. The moment men prove themselves worthy, God will save them. But God will not save His fallen creation and His fallen creatures until and unless there is a disposition to be saved, not on men's terms, but on God's terms.

Pacts, agreements and conferences, if they are successful, may save us from committing global suicide and thereby be the means of preserving something for God to save, but they in themselves will not save us.

The cry goes up, What can I do? The total situation is so vast and so complex. What can I do as just one little ordinary person?

Our task, our contribution, is to make ourselves worthy of salvation. That is something you and I can do no matter how important or unimportant we are, no matter where we live, no matter if we are old or young, no matter whether we are male or female. And one of the tangible ways of making ourselves worthy is to fulfill our bounden duty as members of God's Church.

By virtue of our baptism we solemnly promised to fulfill our duty as a member of Chirst, the child of God, and as an inheritor of the Kingdom of Heaven. And we haven't kept the promise, which, I sincerely believe, is one of the reasons why we are not yet worthy of being saved. The sooner we begin to fulfill our bounden duty, the sooner we will have that right disposition upon which our salvation depends.

Let us use the coming season of Lent to test our worthiness by seeing to what extent we really are living up to our bounden duty. And what is that bounden duty? To follow Christ, to worship God every Sunday in His Church, and to work and pray and give for the spread of His Kingdom.

Missions Handcraft Exhibit New Venture of Woman's Auxiliary

A DREAM that has been in the minds of many of our Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary members for a number of years will be realized in April when a missions handcraft exhibit is opened at the Exhibit Hall of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. This exhibit will sell and display, on a permanent full time basis, the handcraft products of the missions of our Church. Through the generosity of the Cathedral, the Woman's Auxiliary has been given the use of a whole unit of counter space in Exhibit Hall, and here a staff of volunteers will offer for sale as wide a selection of native handcraft as is obtainable from our missions, both in the United States and abroad.

The purpose of this project is threefold. The primary object is educational. Certainly, appealing and useful objects which have been made in various parts of the world will attract interest, not only from the members of our own Church, but from the many visitors who pass through the Cathedral. Secondly, we seek to aid the missions by giving them an outlet for their handcraft and a means of

An Unusual Once-in-a-Lifetime Circumstance

UNDER dramatic circumstances the congregation of St. Simon's, Richmond — (a Mission for over 50 years) — voted to incorporate at a special meeting held the evening of Ash Wednesday, February 23rd. As the many Canonical and State requirements for incorporation were attended to under the guidance of the Vicar, the Rev. Arthur F. Widlak, those present awaited uneasily for consideration of a most difficult and unusual resolution to be presented following the meeting.

When the time came a member of the newly elected Vestry stood up and presented the following:—

> "Resolved: that the Congregation of St. Simon's Church, in view of the encroachment of the proposed cross island parkway, ask for the condemnation of the church buildings and grounds and do further request that the Diocese of New York be informed of our action."

It was a move demanding great faith. But the Vicar and his people were ready for it and stood firm. For the park-

". . . Continues in the Basic Work of the Church"

DURING this coming June of 1955, Trinity Church, Fishkill, will commemorate the 200th anniversary of the planting of the Episcopal Church in Dutchess County. In June of 1755, the Rev. Samuel Seabury, father of our first American Bishop, also Samuel Seabury, journeyed north from Long Island on the first-known missionary journey of an Episcopal priest into Dutchess County. Mr. Seabury was at that time Rector of St. George's Church, Hempstead, Long Island, one of many missionaries supported by the Venerable Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in foreign parts. He traveled the difficult eighty miles north to preach and to administer the sacraments of the Church of England, having received the formal invitation of John Baily and Thomas Langdon, who were Church Wardens of the area, appointed by the Governor. Mr. Seabury was also urged to make the trip by former members of St. George's, Hempstead, who had migrated north into Dutchess County.

This energetic missionary spent six days in Fishkill on his first visit in 1755. He preached at four services with an aggregate attendance of 600 persons. Mr. Seabury made three more visits to Fishkill, Poughkeepsie and the surrounding towns — one each in 1757, 1759 and 1761. He reported a good response to his ministry each time. Following his first journey, work was immediately begun in Fishkill to organize the parish and to begin a subscription for purchase of land and building of a Church. Upon receiving the missionary's report, the S.P.G. responded by promising "to send a minister among them when they

LENT has only one purpose — to bring us nearer to Our Lord. If we use this Lenten season right it will help us to know Him more personally, to believe in Him more fully, to love Him more really. Are you observing Lent with this aim in view? Have you looked at your life in the light of Our Lord's life and tried to see yourself as you are? Have you confessed your carelessness, your indifference, your disloyalty and all your other sins? If you need help and guidance consult one of the clergy for "further comfort and counsel" as the Book of Common Prayer directs.

Are you attending the services of the Church more frequently this Lent? There can be no such thing as a Christian life without worship. If your attendance at Church has been occasional, Lent is the time to form the habit of regular attendance at the services of the Church. Worship, like eating and sleeping, must be systematic and not spasmodic if it is to be beneficial.

Remembering that the primary purpose of Lent is to bring you face to face with Our Lord let the central point of all your effort the rest of this Lent be more frequent attendance and increased devotion at the Eucharist. This is a service of Our Lord's own appointment; no other service can be substituted for it. To the early Christians a Lord's Day without the Eucharist would have been inconceivable. Be present at Holy Communion at least once every Sunday throughout the year and more often if possible during Lent. If you will make the Eucharist the center of your Lenten thought and devotion, and kneel often there in Our Lord's presence you will not fail to receive the blessings which this holy season should bring to you.

Continues in the Basic Work

should build a Church and purchase a glebe for his support". On each of these visits to Fishkill Mr. Seabury conducted Divine Services both in private homes and in the Reformed Dutch Church of Fishkill. However, the Reformed pastors held dutifully to their regular Sunday afternoon service, with the result that Mr. Seabury wrote this mild complaint: "We waited long in the afternoon for the benefit of the Dutch Church, which we had the favor of very obligingly, when the Divine service in the Dutch Church was ended; and so late was it when we entered the Church, that it was with difficulty that I could conclude my sermon for the approach of night." This good priest and missionary died in 1764. He should be remembered not only as the father of our first bishop, but as one who, in the words of his tombstone: "with the greatest diligence and the most indefatigable labor performed every duty."

Trinity Church, Fishkill, is usually dated from the year 1756. In that year the subscription for the erection of a Church was begun in Fishkill, and the S.P.G. officially recognized this intention. Next year, therefore, in 1956 Trinity Church will observe the 200th anniversary of its foundation.

In 1766 the Rev. John Beardsley, also supported by the venerable Society, accepted the charge of both the Fishkill and Poughkeepsie congregations. He was a talented young priest, having been ordained in 1761 in England and first sent to Norwich, Connecticut. It was under his leadership that Trinity Church was built.

Construction was started in 1769. The architect and contractor was a New York master-carpenter named Barnes. The building originally included a four-decked spire a little more than one hundred feet high, directly over the main entrance. In 1803 this spire was considered unsafe and money was raised to remove it. The exact date is not clear, but before 1820 the spire was removed and only a short, square tower with a balustrade remained. In demolishing the spire a workman fell 60 feet and was killed. The original construction of the Church was hindered and delayed by shortage of funds, of competent labor and other reasons, with the result that even in 1776, when the Revolution began, the interior was practically barren of furnishings.

The Rev. John Beardsley was a conscientious royalist, loyal to the Crown throughout his life, and this made his ministry from 1766 to 1777 difficult and his accomplishments the more noteworthy. These eleven years, his years in Fishkill, were ones of increasing strain between the Colonies and the King, and yet Trinity Church was built in 1769 and 1770, and Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, built its second edifice, a stone church, in 1774. Finally, in December of 1777 the Committee of Safety voted his banishment, and the following May he, with his family and household goods, was sent down the Hudson by sloop to New York City. He was appointed a chaplain of a loyalist regiment and served with it until New York was finally evacuated by the British. He remained a loyal subject of the King until his death, serving many years in churches in New Brunswick, Canada.

Fishkill was an important military center during the Revolutionary War, and Trinity Church played its part. Here were located magazines, hospitals, workshops, public depots of treasure and state papers, and many large barracks. Generals Washington and Putnam had headquarters in Fishkill and frequent sojourners with them were Steuben, Lafayette and Anthony Wayne. Trinity Church was early taken over as a hospital for sick and wounded soldiers, perhaps partly because it still lacked pews and other furniture. After the Battle of White Plains the wounded were laid along the streets, and we are told that at one time there were 1768 wounded in Fishkill. From 1776 to 1783 it was in hospital use almost continuously, and many of the dead are buried in the churchyard which surrounds the church on three sides.

In September of 1776 the Provincial Congress, later known as the Constitutional Convention, came to Fishkill from White Plains to continue the work of organizing our new state government. It met first in Trinity Church, but again the barren and dilapidated condition of the interior led the Congress to adjourn and reconvene in the Dutch Church down the street. This Congress, which met briefly in Trinity Church, included many names later to become famous in our history, such as John Jay, the first Chief Justice of the United States.

After the war government appraisers in 1788 examined the church building and allowed a sum of 350 pounds as compensation for the use of the building and damages to it. With this money repairs and completion were undertaken. However, it apparently took some years to finish, for in 1797 Abram Wetmore was voted "ten pounds to recompense for losses in pewing the church." The interior when completed had square-built, high back pews and an hourglass pulpit and sounding board.

Trinity Church is a simple wooden church building of graceful proportions. It is substantially unchanged with the exception of the removal of the tall tower and spire, surmounted by a weather cock, which when it stood was only three feet shorter than the spire of the Dutch Church. During the rectorship of the Rev. Philander Chase a dispute arose about the safety of the spire, and as stated above, it was removed sometime before 1820. For fifty years the church remained unchanged, until in the 1860's numerous alterations were made. The remaining portion of tower was taken down, leaving the exterior as it appears today. Inside the church the high pews were replaced with low seating in a more usual arrangement, all facing forward. The old pulpit was discarded, and plaster arches were constructed to give the impression of a Gothic chancel and sanctuary arrangement. A stained glass chancel window replaced the clear glass which still exists in all other windows. The old holy table was replaced with a solid wood altar, and many other items of furniture were given at this time.

The next substantial material improvement was the building of a rectory. This large and handsome house,

The Department of Christian Education Believes Family Worship Essential

THE second of the four essentials mentioned by the National Council Department of Christian Education is Family Worship every Sunday. (See Feb. issue of THE BULLETIN for comments on the first essential — 'a concerned group')

The practice of the Church has been one of dividing the family where worship is concerned. Much worse, we have denied our own theology of worship by considering worship as a prelude to instruction rather than a meaningful experience. Therefore what has so often been done for children has been liturgically unsound, due to a watering down of the service, and has given children the wrong preparation for full participation in the real worship life of the Parish.

More than any other Christian activity worship provides a means of deepening the understanding of the truth we proclaim. This is particularly true in the Anglican Communion where the words of worship are so much tied up with the words of Scripture.

Further, this is not only the most important area in which to strive for a family unity, it is the easiest area in which the whole family can be united — true, children enter worship at a different level than their adult parents but there are many who believe that because of the simplicity and imagination of childhood the children are able to "leap" more deeply into worship than their parents.

The "Family Service" has been the greatest major development in the Church worship pattern in the past few decades, and in some parishes it has become the "chief service of the day." Usually it is one of the regular Prayer Book Services, generally Holy Communion or Morning Prayer, but frequently special services such as Baptisms, are also used.

It should be noted that there is no suggestion that this must be an additional service even though this is what has happened in most parishes. What is requested is that the family should become a 'worshipping unit' and if this can happen without addition to the program or an extra load on the clergy so much the better.

In most instances the Family Service is followed by classes of instruction, but in a few cases the classes preceed the service. There is a growing desire to retain the adults in the Church, or in their own classes elsewhere, while the classes for the children are being conducted.

A member of the National Department is just now completing a study as to how extensive this development is in the Episcopal Church and how details are being arranged. The fruit of this study will appear in a special pamphlet to be available from the National Council in May or June of this year.

The Dean's Column

WHEN I was in England last year making a brief study of cathedral churches, I was interested to find that each of the great cathedrals had "Friends" throughout the Nation. There are Friends of Canterbury in Ely, Friends of Ely in York, Friends of York Minster in Canterbury. This was very encouraging since it furnished a precedent for the development of our own Friends, which we have revived this year. This is especially important in the light of the fact that we are experiencing a constant increase in out-of-the-city attendance at our principal Sunday service —we now estimate it at about 60% of those present.

Accordingly, we have arranged to have the Committee of the Friends represent the Nation as a whole as well as the Diocese, with members now from San Francisco, Providence, Hartford, Houston, Lake Forest, Ill., Indianapolis, Philadelphia, Cleveland, and New York City—and even Geneva, Switzerland.

To increase the national membership of the Friends, as well as the membership within the Diocese, we have each Sunday, after the 11 o'clock service, a coffee hour for those from outside the city and those visiting for the first time. Boy choristers escort to Cathedral House the various individuals and families who accept our invitation, extended by each of our clergy at the doors, as well as by announcement at the service. This brief social period enables the Canons and me, and some of the ladies of the Close, to welcome our visitors personally and to invite them to become Friends. We find that those thus greeted tell others in their home cities about the Cathedral and so the Friends grow—and so grow both our Sunday attendance and national interest in the Cathedral.

While I am on this subject, a reminder of our invitation in an earlier column: if you have not already done so, become a Friend of the Cathedral! Write Canon Darby W. Betts, Executive Secretary of the Friends.

which still serves the parish priest, was erected in 1892 and is situated diagonally across the street from the church. Prior to 1892 most of the clergy ministering in Trinity Church were also in charge of other congregations and often lived in nearby towns, especially Poughkeepsie and Glenham where their cures were located.

Trinity Church has had twenty-seven clergy in her 199 years, as well as substantial periods without regular ministration. Perhaps the best-known was the Rev. Philander Chase, who served the parish from 1799 until 1805. In a colorful and not uncontroversial career, he founded Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio and Jubilee College in Illinois; was consecrated bishop and by seniority became Presiding Bishop of the American Church. Prominent among the laymen of the parish was Gulian C. Verplanck, a distinguished scholar and legislator of the mid-nineteenth century, and associate of Washington Irving, professor at the General Theological Seminary and simultaneously Warden of Trinity Church, New York City, and Trinity Church, Fishkill.

Today, in 1955, Trinity Church stands at the beginning of a new era in its ministry to the Fishkill area. From a predominantly rural and thinly populated countryside, lower Dutchess County is rapidly growing with the coming of large industrial enterprises such as the International Business Machines Corporation and the Texas Company Laboratory. There is every indication that this trend will continue, and it has already brought many new people to the area. Trinity Church has moved to meet this new opportunity in various ways. The Church School has grown rapidly in the last dozen years and now enrolls well over 100.

In the last two years the parish has acted to fill a long felt need of the church, by the planning and construction of a Parish House. The needs of Christian education have been primary in the decision to build and the actual planning, but it will also provide a parish home for the informal fellowship and parish meals which help to build Christian community. This Parish House, including ten class rooms, an office, dining hall, bathrooms and kitchen, will be completed and formally opened this month. With this addition to the parish, Trinity Church expects to be far better able to serve the area, as well as to deepen the family life of the household of faith.

The next goal of the parish is to grow to the point where it can again assume all its own expenses and resume full parish status. This is important chiefly so that it can cease to be a missionary burden of the whole Diocese and become instead a source of missionary effort and funds. The present Vicar of Trinity is the Rev. R. DeWitt Mallary. The parish continues in the basic work of the Church everywhere, to preach the Gospel, to administer the sacraments, and to minister to the people. But the coming of the 200th anniversary of its founding and the completion of the new Parish House have given a new zeal and enthusiasm to the parish, as both priest and people strive to do God's work in this historic church.

The Archdeacon

The Venerable George F. Brätt

Two things of great concern to me should be given much thought by all.

First, there are altogether too many of our people who feel that the Episcopal Church is for Episcopalians only. Such a concept of the Church's ministry is tantamount to saying that we have no responsibility beyond our own doors. Were this true the missionary program would cease, and we would slowly and surely die.

Now there are more ways of expressing this philosophy than by standing up "in meeting" and saying so. There are, for instance, several new residential areas in our Diocese where Episcopalians have settled in such numbers as to assure a strong nucleus for a new Church. Aggressive programs in existing parishes some miles away have brought some of these communicants into active association with them. One can be justly proud of the Rectors and Congregations so concerned. But limitations of staff and the problem of distance, particularly during stormy weather, lessen the effectiveness of this evangelistic effort. However, when after careful studies point to a fertile field, the protest is heard that "our existing parishes can take care of the Episcopalians in the development", one must inevitably ask "What of the 90% who are not?"

Indeed, we have discovered that when another Church group goes in before we do and builds, some of our own people feel they do no wrong by associating with and joining such other Church bodies!

Secondly — and I think this can be particularly true in smaller congregations — there is evidence of something much like the "closed corporation" of the business world.

"We, who have 'borne the heat and burden of the day' can run things without help from outsiders." The stranger is not welcomed or, if he is, his ideas are looked on with suspicion. No one will argue that the faithful few do deserve praise for their work, but to labor just to keep things as they are — "and always have been" — is to lose sight of the reason for the very being of the Church.

It is good for us to remember that we are committed to carry out a Divine Communion and that to do so we must pray and work and give for the extension of the Kingdom of God. The whole community is our field; the stranger is our greatest concern.

Orders have been placed with missions in many places and shipments have been received or are arriving soon. Linens from the Philippines, table mats from Alaska, ivory from Liberia, mahogany bowls and trays from Haiti, baskets and bead-work jewelry from Indian areas in the United States, are among the items ordered. Native dolls and handmade trinkets will add an appealing touch for children.

The exhibit will open on April 19 with a tea at which missionaries from all over the mission field will be our guests. All women of the Woman's Auxiliary are asked to keep this date in mind and watch for further announcements of time and special events. # Report from the N.Y. Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society

EVERY year the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society serves more people than the entire population of many American cities. This has been revealed in the Annual Report of the organization's 123rd year of ministering to the troubled and needy in one of the world's most heavily populated areas.

Describing the Society's functions as work which is set apart from the services of similar agencies, Bishop Donegan, President, stated in the foreword of the report:

"This uniqueness stems from two convictions. The first, that no person is truly helped unless he has grown in self-responsibility. The second, that religious faith is paramount in the development of such a quality."

The six departments of the Society extended their facilities and service to a total of 29,522 individuals during 1954 — Chaplaincy, 26,185; Summer Camps, 1,499; Port and Immigration, 910; Family Service, 406; Saint Barnabas House, 341; and Westfield State Farm, 181.

But those who are closest to the work of the Society seemed to consider another banner year for the organization as just routine. In a letter contained in the report, Mr. Thomas M. Peters, Chairman of the Executive Committee, stated in part:

"Year after year of continuing progress can so condition one to taking growth for granted that even a one hundred and twenty-third year, in which there were outstanding achievements, can seem like a normal year.

The Rev. William E. Sprenger, Director of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, discusses with his executive staff the 1954 edition of the Society's Annual Report which was published early this month.

"The realization of that struck me as I looked back over the Society's work in 1954. The mortgage ($150,000) on Saint Barnabas House was burned and the Chapel consecrated. A new infirmary was built and paid for at Elko Lake Camps. We assumed increased responsibilities brought about by the closing of government facilities for immigration at Ellis Island. Our Family Service Department pioneered a project for teen-agers. The Chaplaincy program was strengthened, and the work with the children at Saint Barnabas improved.

"In September Mr. William H. Deatly, President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, was elected a member of the Board of Managers and Treasurer of the Society. I don't see how we could have made a better choice.

"Yet with all these changes, 1954 seemed to be just another normal year."

In his own section of the report, Mr. Deatly presented a financial statement which showed that the Society came within $132 of hitting its budget for 1954 right on the nose. Income for the year totalled $413,864.77 against expenses of $413,732.60. Balance: $132.17.

The Rev. William E. Sprenger, who has served as Director of the Society for 14 years, was anxious to get right at the basic source of credit due for accomplishments during the year. He had high praise for the "competent, devoted" help of the Board of Managers. The staff of 26 part and full-time chaplains, 68 full-time and 95 part-time lay workers, served faithfully, he said, many many times far beyond the call of duty.

"But none of this would have, or will be possible without the continuing support of our host of friends who demonstrate their loyalty through generous gifts of their time, talent and resources."

The Annual Report was published by the Society under the direction of its Public Relations Committee whose Chairman is the Rev. John M. Mulligan.

Christian Social Relations Takes Action on Bingo

ON February 18th there was mailed to Governor Harriman, and the members of the Legislature, of the State of New York a communication from the Inter-Diocesan Committee on Legislature representing the six dioceses of the Episcopal Church in the State of New York. (Diocese of Albany, Diocese of Central New York, Diocese of Long Island, Diocese of New York, Diocese of Rochester, and Diocese of Western New York)

The Committee respectfully requested attention to its considered judgment concerning the proposals for the legalization of bingo when played for the benefit of religious or charitable institutions.

"We are opposed in principle to the proposed legislation:

1. We believe that bingo, wherever played, encourages the players to attempt to get something for nothing, — a large prize for a small investment. It undermines the solid virtues of industry and thrift, which are essential to personal morality and to social well-being.

2. The argument that the stakes are small and that therefore bingo is harmless is fallacious. If it is true, then it means that bingo is appealing to the very people who can least afford to gamble. But it is not necessarily true. If bingo is legalized, the stakes may be high, unless the law attempts the difficult feat of policing every game.

3. The considered judgment of the people of New York State has written into the Constitution of the State (Art. 1 Sect. 9) a general prohibition of gambling. The Penal Law (Section 1370) contains the following provision:

> "A 'lottery' is a scheme for the distribution of property by chance among persons who have paid or agreed to pay a valuable consideration for the chance, whether called a lottery, raffle or gift enterprise by some other name."

We believe it repugnant for a church or a charitable institution to seek special exemption from the clear provision of the Constitution and the penal law. To seek such exemption is to raise a serious question concerning the claim to moral leadership in the community.

4. The experience of many years indicates that wherever gambling exists corruption of the gamblers and of law enforcement officers go hand-in-hand. The church ought not to seek financial gain at the cost of social demoralization.

In addition to these objections in principle, there are practical difficulties involved:

1. Legalized bingo would require policing in order to make certain that unauthorized organizations were not taking advantage of the exemption which would be granted to churches and charities. This would impose terrific burdens upon already overburdened police departments throughout the State and would impair law enforcement in other fields.

2. There would unquestionably be attempts to use churches and charities as fronts to evade both the letter and the spirit of the proposed amendments.

3. The organizations entitled to take advantage of the exemption provided by the proposed legislation would have to be defined and the State would have to set up an organization to determine whether those operating bingo gambling under the proposed amendments met the qualifications and definitions of that statute. This would be costly and would involve the regulation and supervision of activities of churches heretofore considered outside the province of the civic authority.

Finally, there are sound constitutional and legal objections to the proposed legislation:

1. The proposal to by-pass the clear provision of the State Constitution by removing the penalties for acts contrary to its provisions is a direct attack upon the due process of law, and hence upon the very foundations of democracy.

2. Article 1, Section 9 of the New York State Constitution provides among other things as follows: "... No lottery or the sale of lottery tickets, pool-sales, book-making, or any other kind of gambling, . . . shall hereafter be authorized or allowed within this State; the legislature shall pass appropriate laws to prevent offenses against any of the provisions of this section." Contrary to statements which have been made by the proponents of bingo gambling, the State Constitution is not merely permissive with respect to legislation prohibiting gambling; it is mandatory. If the legislature were to amend existing statutes by deleting provisions for penalties for the violation of the gambling laws, it seems clear that such legislation would be unconstitutional. It certainly would constitute a direct violation of the duty imposed upon the legislature by the Constitution.

The Inter-Diocesan Committee on Legislation, therefore, urges you to oppose any measure to remove the penalties for an act declared illegal by the Constitution of the State. It further urges you to oppose any proposal to amend the Constitution to exempt churches and charitable institutions from the necessity of obeying the law."

Respectfully yours,
Leland B. Henry
Chairman*

This Winter snow has come seldom to the Cathedral Close. But when a deep one came in February, it found the boys of the Choir School ready and willing. They hilariously tobogganed on the gently sloping roadways surrounding the Choir School — and found a pause that refreshed the exacting discipline of study and choir practice.

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

DURING Epiphany seven forums on Adult Christian Education were conducted in the various Convocations of the Diocese under the leadership of the Reverend Canon Edward N. West, Chairman of the Division of Adult Work of the Department of Christian Education. The promotion pamphlets which were circulated in advance of these forums contained on the last page a long list of questions which are continually asked of the clergy, and of the lay people, of our Church. The questions were not hypothetical but were gathered from the actual experience of the clergy and people of the Diocese. They dealt with the Liturgy, the Creed, and the Canons of the Church.

These questions have attracted a great deal of attention, both during the conferences and in parish meetings following the conferences. As a result the Division of Adult work is making these questions available to you, in much more readable form, in the hope that they will be of use to you in one or more of the following ways: — as a stimulant to questions — as an assistance to lay people who need help in framing their questions — as a suggested curriculum for adult groups — as a resource for sermon topics. These suggestions are passed along because the original pamphlet has already been used in this manner.

The Division of Adult Work, realizing the importance of these questions and their answers, offers to send you, Free Of Charge, as many copies of this question pamphlet as you feel you could put to good use.

Note that there is no special arrangement of the questions, and no attempt is made in the pamphlet to answer the questions. Basically, the answering of the questions is the responsibility of the Clergy in the Parish. However, the April, and subsequent, issues of the BULLETIN will contain a column prepared by Canon West, under the title "Things I Always Thought I Knew". In these columns some of the questions will be answered, or the resource for their answering will be indicated.

You may obtain these pamphlets from the BULLETIN office.

A Primer on The Bishop's Discretionary Fund for Diocesan Needs

THE Bishop of New York announced, through the Department of Promotion, a booklet called, "A Primer on The Bishop's Discretionary Fund For Diocesan Needs".

This primer will be sent to each church of the Diocese prior to an Episcopal visit. Church clergy are being asked to make the widest possible distribution of this booklet and the Offering envelopes which accompany it.

By well-established precedent the loose offering received is presented to the Bishop at the time of his visit. The announcement states that by furnishing a primer which would elaborate, and list, the purposes for which these funds would be used, it is hoped that additional financial support would be received.

For several years past it has been the practice in this Diocese to have an Annual Bishop's Offering to help support affiliated agencies. Under the newly announced system this annual offering has been discontinued. The agencies will now benefit from the offering received at the time of each Episcopal visit.

The agencies supported in part by this effort are: The New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, The Youth Consultation Service of The Diocese of New York, The Episcopal Service To The Aged, and The Seaman's Church Institute of New York.

Diocesan Convention May 10

THE 174th CONVENTION of the DIOCESE OF NEW YORK will be held on Tuesday, May 10, 1955, in the Synod Hall, Cathedral Close, 110th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.

Following a celebration of the Holy Communion in the Cathedral at 8:15 a.m., and breakfast in the Undercroft of the Synod House, the business sessions of the Convention will open at 10:00 a.m.

The Convention is the legislative body of the Diocese consisting of all canonically qualified clergymen together with three lay delegates from each parish in union with the Convention, and one lay delegate from each aided parish and organized mission.

This year, in addition to the regular elections of members and delegates to The Standing Committee, The Provincial Synod, The Council of the Diocese and The Trustees of the Cathedral, four clergymen and four laymen will be elected as delegates, and four clergymen and four laymen as provisional delegates from this Diocese to the 58th General Convention, which will convene in Honolulu in September.

Christian Education Says "Parent Classes—A Necessity"

"THE home is the chief 'earthly' factor in determining what people will become." This chorus is being chanted again and again by the Diocesan Department of Christian Education, and will continue to be a major element in its planning and program.

The National Department considers this so important

Modelled After A Church Rebuilt in 1494 in Monken Hedley, England, St.-Mary-the-Virgin, Chappaqua, Progresses in To-day's Tradition

THE name of Horace Greeley has been intimately related to Chappaqua, the beautiful village in Northern Westchester, since 1852 when he bought a farm there and made it his country seat. Recently his heirs sold most of that land with its buildings, and new homes are arising there now.

But one part of the land remains in the Greeley tradition, for on it was erected in 1904 the Episcopal Church of Saint Mary the Virgin. It was built by the Reverend Frank Montrose Clendenin, D.D., who married Gabrielle, the daughter of Horace Greeley. Dr. Clendenin was at that time Rector of Saint Peter's Church, Westchester, a community now incorporated in the Bronx, largely through his vigorous work to that end. When in 1903 the Clendenin's little daughter Muriel died of poliomyilitis they decided they would erect a church in her memory. Mrs. Clendenin donated four acres of the land she inherited from her illustrious father and Dr. Clendenin built the church at his own expense.

During the building of the church it appeared that tragedy was striking again for Dr. Clendenin became ill with tuberculosis. His doctors advised him to leave Chappaqua and go to another climate considered to be more beneficial, but he would not leave the village where work was progressing on his church, and took the cure on the balcony of his summer home there. His decision was the subject of much newspaper interest and publicity at the time. When

THE LORD IS RISEN! This was the incredible announcement that transformed the frightened, dejected disciples into fearless, devoted followers of the Living Lord. Before Easter Day they were disappointed and doubtful; they were not completely converted to Christ. But after they knew that God had raised Jesus from the dead their wavering faith was restored. From that day forward their loyalty never faltered. With amazing courage and exuberant joy they preached the gospel of Eternal life.

The basis of their whole faith was not an assumption but an historical fact. Had there been no Resurrection there would have been no Christianity, no Christian Church, no New Testament. The dynamic of Christianity is the gospel of the Risen Lord.

Our loyalty to Christ is often as weak and wavering as that of the first disciples after Calvary. We are only partially committed Christians. We do little or nothing for the sake of Christ, or for the good of the Church which is His body.

The good news of Easter is not only the promise of Eternal life to all who believe in Christ, but also the assurance that through the power of the Resurrection our feeble faith can be transformed. But the conditions our Lord set forth must be fulfilled. The words of the conditions echo through the centuries. Some of them are: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it." "Love your enemies." "Do this in remembrance of me." It is through loving, loyal obedience to Our Lord that we are changed, and receive His power and share His victory. Our Lord is gracious beyond our understanding, but He is also exacting. acting.

THE LORD IS RISEN! At Eastertide, and always, may we pray "that I may know Him and the power of His Resurrection."

Faithfully your Bishop

Horace W. B. Donegan

St. Mary-The-Virgin, Chappaqua

the church was finished and consecrated June 21, 1906, the large gathering of Bishops, clergy, and lay folk were more than surprised and delighted to see Dr. Clendenin present and addressing the congregation, fully recovered and vigorous again.

Originally the church was a private chapel but in 1916, at the High Altar of the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine, the Clendenins deeded and transferred the church and the land to the Diocese of New York as a votive offering for the union of Christendom.

Modeled on an English Church

The beautiful little church is in a lovely valley surrounded by wooded hills and flanked by a stately grove of tall pine trees which Horace Greeley himself set out on either side of his farm drive. Beneath these same pine trees the famous nominee for the presidency of the United States and many of the nation's leaders met and discussed the country's future when Greeley held a reception there in 1872 for the Democratic National Convention.

One of the charms of the Chappaqua church is that it is modeled on the Church of Saint Mary the Virgin which was rebuilt in 1494 in Monken Hadley, Middlesex, England, not far from London. A small window from the ancient church in England was sent over and installed in the church in Chappaqua and an inscription over the window reads "The light has fallen through this window for nearly five hundred years upon the children of the Catholic Church of England and now falls through the same glass upon the daughter church in America, witnessing to us the unbroken life through the ages of the Catholic Church of the English speaking people."

The Chappaqua church is of English Gothic style like the mother church in England and was built of fieldstone taken from the fences dividing the fields of the Greeley farm. In the small, low-fenced plot which lies at the east end of the church, under the altar window, Dr. and Mrs. Clendenin and their children lie buried. The grave of Muriel Clendenin lies at the northeast corner directly alongside the cornerstone bearing the Latin dedication.

Gifts to the Church

The sun dial upon the south wall of the church was given by a Paulist Father of the Roman Catholic Church. One of few such large sun dials to be built into the wall of a church, if indeed it is not the only one, it has marked off the sunny hours for almost fifty years under the Latin inscription "Fugit Velociter Hora—Vigila—Ora—Labora." An icon for the door of the Tabernacle on the altar was given by an Eastern Orthodox Cathedral after being blessed by the Russian Archbishop, and gifts from Protestant friends as well as offerings from those of the Anglican Communion were received and incorporated in the church.

The interior vista focusing upon the altar is inspirational. Above the altar is a round window which last summer was filled with stained glass of Chartres colours designed by the eminent craftsman Wilbur Burnham of Boston, depicting the Blessed Virgin and her Holy Child. The window is in archaic style and is a memorial to Wilbur Norseen, a former vestryman.

To the right of the sanctuary, against a rose dossal, hangs a beautiful ceramic plaque, a copy of Andrea della Robbia's "Adoring Madonna." The plaque and an Italian white marble bust of Dr. Clendenin which is mounted on a pedestal near the front door of the church were given to the church last year by the sculptor of the bust, Frederick Guinzburg.

Mounted on top of the church tower is a carillon of ten bells, a memorial to Alfred Holland Smith who was President of the New York Central Railroad. The bells frequently ring out over the village in the evening and are heard before Services each Sunday.

Following the gift of the church to the Diocese in 1916 the parish was a mission in the care of its own clergy, but subsequently it shared a priest with the neighboring parish of Pleasantville. Then in 1939 the parish once again had its own resident priest with the advent of the Reverend Vincent Strohsahl, during whose ministry the parish became increasingly independent. When he resigned in 1943 to become a missionary to the Phillippines the congregation, under the leadership of his successor, the Reverend Howard D. Perkins, was soon incorporated as a parish.

In 1951 another stage in the growth of the parish was reached when the first floor of a parish house was built to the rear of the church. Until that time there had been no parish building where church school and other parish organizational meetings could be held, other than the church. The church school was held in the church and other organizational meetings were held in the homes of parishioners, frequently in Rehoboth House on the Greeley property on the hill behind the church.

At the close of the year 1951 a change of Rectors took place when the Reverend Howard D. Perkins resigned and the present Rector, the Reverend Reginald G. Stewart, succeeded him in January of the following year. Circumstances necessitated the purchase of a rectory, and a house was acquired a few minutes walking distance from the church.

With the first floor of a parish house erected the growth of the parish was accelerated and in 1953 the Rector called a special meeting of the parish to determine what should be done to meet the needs of a church school grown beyond the capacity of existing accommodation. It was decided to launch a campaign in 1954 to provide funds or pledges in order to complete the parish house by building its second floor. The building was proceeded with and the opening took place in October 1954. The church school now has separate accommodation for the nursery, the kindergarten, the primary school, and the junior and senior schools.

One of the remarkable features of all this advancement and improvement was that there was no mortgaging of any property, all the financing having been done by unsecured loans.

The church itself is small, and with the growth of the parish this could have been a distinct handicap and embarrassment. But the problem has been met by the distribution of services. On Sundays there is a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a.m., a choral celebration called

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West, Sacrist

Q. Are all of our clergy rectors?

A. No. In the United States the term describes the spiritual head of an independent parish. In England, the term in most cases describes the person who has the right of nomination to the spiritual supervision of the parish. The title, Vicar, in the United States describes one who is the spiritual head of a subordinate or non-self-supporting chapel of a parish or a diocese. In England, the term is used for the spiritual head of a parish who has been nominated to that position by someone else, not necessarily a clergyman. The title, Curate, is used to describe clergy assistants appointed to help the rector of a parish or the vicar of a chapel.

Q. What is the difference between a parish and a mission?

A. A parish is a self-supporting ecclesiastical unit of a diocese, incorporated under the national and diocesan canons, and accordance with the Religious Corporation Law of the particular state involved. A mission is an ecclesiastical operation set up in a particular community to meet a particular need, which operation receives its prime support from either the diocese or a particular parish.

Q. What is the attitude of the Episcopal Church towards the Blessed Virgin Mary?

A. The Second Article of Religion states that our Lord "took Man's nature in the womb of the Blessed Virgin, of her substance." Hymn 599 addresses her directly in these words: "O higher than the cherubim, More glorious than the seraphim, Lead their praises, Alleluia! Thou bearer of the eternal Word, Most gracious, magnify the Lord, Alleluia!" Hymn 117, in stanzas 1 and 3, sums up all of this. "Sing of Mary, pure and lowly, Virgin mother undefiled, Sing of God's own Son most holy, Who became her little child. Fairest child of fairest mother, God the Lord who came to earth, Word made flesh, our very brother, Takes our nature by his birth." Thus, in common with the Orthodox Church, we obey the Scripture and call her blessed and pray with her and for her.

Q. Isn't religion a crutch for incompetent people?

A. If the person who asks this question had humility, the answer would be "yes" — since there aren't any people in the world who aren't imcompetent. If, on the other hand, the person asking it has a superior attitude, then the answer is "no." Religion is only for the strong. Christianity offers men crosses and tribulation with no slightest chance to escape from anything, ever. A Christian doesn't even have the luxury of thinking that he can die dead — and thus avoid his responsibilities. The only "comfort" offered by Christianity is the strength to live this kind of life.

Q. Are not many church members hypocrites, who worship God on Sundays and then please themselves the rest of the week?

A. As to whether there are many or few, I don't know, but there are certainly some, since there is no other definition of a hypocrite. A man who does not accept Christian standards and, therefore, does not make any pretense about living up to them is not a hypocrite but, as a matter of actual fact, this does not make him a good man.

The Dean's Column

SOMETIMES a question posed as either/or is better answered with a both/and. One of the questions which divides the Church is whether Holy Communion or Morning Prayer should be the principal service on Sunday. Those who answer "Holy Communion" argue, quite rightly, that this is the service of our Lord's own institution, that it was the principal service in Apostolic times and was throughout the Church right on through to the Reformation, that Luther, Calvin and the English reformers were of one mind in intending it to be continued as the principal service, that the Prayer Book attaches a sermon and offertory only to this service.

Those who answer "Morning Prayer" argue, quite rightly, that it affords greater opportunity for participation, that it strikes the notes of the praise of God in His creation of a sense of the holy history of the old and new Israel, which our Eucharistic rite lacks, and that the people like Morning Prayer.

Popular irritation at the replacement of Morning Prayer by Holy Communion is not, I believe, because people do not like the Eucharist but because they do like Morning Prayer. The fact is that when our Prayer Book rite was shaped it was assumed by Archbishop Cranmer and his associates that the people would have been at Morning Prayer before the Eucharist as was the custom with Matins and Mass in the Middle Ages in England. When the two are so conjoined there is not lacking the psalmody, the Old Testament, the fervent praise of the canticles. It is true that under modern conditions people in a parish would complain of the length of the service if an attempt was made to have full Morning Prayer, a choral Eucharist, a full length sermon and a suitable number of hymns. But the 1928 Prayer Book happily provides for an arrangement which supplies the elements of Morning Prayer which are lacking in the Eucharistic rite and appoints a psalm and Old Testament lesson congruent with the Epistle and Gospel for the day. With careful planning as to length and placement of hymns the whole service can fit into a reasonable time. At our summer church at Wellfleet on Cape Cod the service finishes within the hour (with two clergy distributing Communion). Incidentally, we have had there the combined service for five years — ever since the institution of the Chapel, and although the worshippers come from parishes of all types no one has ever even asked me why we have the Eucharist every Sunday — nor has anyone cried "high church"; and why? Because the service begins as Morning Prayer.

At the Cathedral Church the order of service combining Morning Prayer and Holy Communion is as follows: Opening sentence, preces, Venite, psalm, Old Testament lesson, a canticle (which serves as the introit), the Collect for Purity, the Summary of the Law, Kyrie (the Commandments and responses once a month), the Collect, the Epistle, the gradual hymn, the Creed, the sermon, a hymn, the offertory, and through the rest of the service, closing with the benediction. The service so arranged usually runs no longer than it did when the Eucharist was celebrated without Morning Prayer.

What is suitable varies in each parish, of course; but some such both/and solution will bring a greater unity of our Church and a richer experience of worship to our people.

Woman's Auxiliary Cuts, Sews, and Models

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York had its regular monthly Diocesan meeting at Synod Hall, Cathedral Heights, on Tuesday, March 1st, at 7:30 P.M. The theme of the meeting was "Come And See A Mission Box Opened", and the program was put on by the Supply Department of the Diocesan Auxiliary. The pictures herewith, upper left, show the cutting room where garments are cut to pattern, folded, packaged, etc., and sent to parish Auxiliaries, who complete the garments by sewing them together. The photograph upper right shows the W. A. Workshop at Calvary Church, Manhattan, busy completing the garments, and the four smaller photographs at the bottom show the admirable finished products, as they will go to missions in many places far and near.

"Parent Classes — A Necessity"

that it lists 'Parent Classes' as one of the four essentials a Parish should fulfill before attempting to use the New Curriculum Materials.

Such a view of the home denies much of what the Church is usually doing. "Bring us your children and support us by carrying further the things we have started in Sunday School" more truly represents the present action. The more enlightened help we can get from publishing houses provides us with material the Church should use with children and then sends into the home suggestions as to what the home should do to follow this up.

Any view which sees the home as supplementary to Sunday School or any other earthly agency, in the fashioning of personality, is unrealistic. Through all of our years, not just our years of childhood, the influence of those with whom we have a "love-relationship" is stronger than any other influence no matter how perfectly that influence is exerted.

For this reason the Church needs to see that it cannot begin to do, at the deepest level, those things we know we ought to do for children without the initiative of the home. This means that the Church has the double job of (1) providing its adult people with a mature experience of the truth we proclaim, and (2) interpreting the ways that we communicate this truth to others.

This twofold job can best be carried out in 'Parent Classes', and 'Parent' should be considered more broadly than mother and father, grandmother, grandfather, godmother, godfather, uncles, aunts — in short, all those who loom large in the life of children.

Many vain attempts have been made to carry out our responsibility to parents through printed literature. The vision that now holds the spot light is one that has the children being led through the experiences of Christian truth which speak most meaningfully to them at their stage of development. It is hoped that the parents will be, at the same time led through mature experience of the same areas of truth the children are discovering. This means that the home becomes the place where this childish experience and mature experience meet.

We must maintain, however, the distinction between the Church's responsibility in parent education and its responsibility for general adult education. Adults need to grow in their appreciation of religious truth much more broadly than their immediate responsibility to children would require. But certainly it is true that those adults who hold an important place in the eyes of children have a further responsibility which is a basic importance in the salvation of souls.

MARCAN CURIOSITY

A meditation for St. Mark's Day (and any other time, for that matter).

"AND a certain young man followed with him, having a linen cloth cast about him, over his naked body; and they lay hold on him; but he left the linen cloth, and fled naked." Mk. 14:51-52

Do you know who that was? That was undoubtedly Mark himself. Much later on, as he wrote the Gospel account which bears his name, the first evangelist just couldn't help slipping into the record that revealing little personal touch. It is a choice bit of revelation, given us by one who had full measure of boyish curiosity and reverence.

I am sure that there were fourteen people in, or almost in, the Upper Room on that first Maundy Thursday night; the fourteenth was the boy Mark. Tradition has it that the Last Supper was held in the house of John Mark's mother, and, if so, can you imagine a teen-ager's not being excited under the circumstances? If Mark wasn't unobtrusively squatting in a corner of the dimly lighted upper room, you can be sure he was peeking through the keyhole.

In any event, he must have watched intently all that went on. And he never forgot what he heard: "Take ye: This is my Body . . . Drink ye: This is my Blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many." Mark's youthful heart must have jumped into his mouth as he heard the disciples say, "Lord, behold, here are two swords", to which Jesus replied, "It is enough."

After singing a hymn, we are told that Jesus led his disciples to his favorite spot, the Mount of Olives, over beyond the brook Kidron. Mark couldn't resist sneaking back into his bedroom, throwing a sheet over his naked body, and following them. Thus thinly clad, he must have shivered as he stood barefoot on the damp ground. But his curiosity got the better of him and he exposed himself, probably when Peter, resisting the dastardly arrest of Jesus, struck out and cut off the ear of the servant of the High Priest with the sword. For, "the band of soldiers spied him and lay hold on him", and Mark, literally oozing out of his wrap-around, fled back home and to bed.

John Mark never got over that experience. His curiosity had led him into the very heart of the Good News, the atoning death of Christ, mediated to men through the sacrament of his Body and Blood.

Let us have real Marcan curiosity about everything that has to do with our religion. The more curious we are, the more we will experience the abiding love of Jesus wherein his joy remains in us and our joy becomes full.

the Parish Eucharist at 11 a.m., and Morning Prayer at 9:45 a.m. all Sundays except the first Sunday of each month when the Church School attends a celebration of the Holy Communion sung by a junior choir. The Morning Prayer and the 11 o'clock Eucharist each has its own choir and the Rector preaches at both services. The choirs are under the direction of the organist, Mrs. Geraldine Bronson Farley, who has served in that capacity for seventeen years, and achieves a standard of church music admired by all, and envied by visitors.

As the Church School meets at the same time as the 9:45 service the Rector has found it necessary to have the assistance of another priest, and the Reverend H. Mason Palmer, Chaplain at Saint Mary's-in-the-Field School in Valhalla, has been associated with the parish since 1953, superintending the school and officiating at services. At Morning Prayer the Lay Readers of the parish, Mr. Wesley Heilman and Mr. George Hinck, render much assistance.

Organizations of the parish include a thriving Woman's Guild-Auxiliary and Men's Society, while the care of the sanctuary and its services are faithfully attended to by Altar and Acolytes Guilds. A Youth Group enlists the young people in the church's life and worship.

In addition, the parish serves the community by sharing the use of its parish house with community organizations.

Regarding plans for the future, the Rector announced to the annual parish meeting this year that the senior warden, Mr. C. Herbert Gale, is giving the parish a beautiful baptistry and font, the baptistry to be built on the side of the church this spring. This will mean that when the time comes, as it no doubt will, that the church must be enlarged, the baptistry will have made a beginning in the extension of one of the church walls. In itself the baptistry will enlarge the church, not only architecturally, but by removing the present large font from the body of the church where it now stands, more seating space will be provided. This generous gift of Mr. Gale, being made as a memorial to his wife, is an example of the splendid spirit alive in the parish, a spirit which has an outward and visible sign in the legend written over the front door of the church:

"Wouldst have a friend?
Wouldst know what friend is best?
Have God thy friend.
He passeth all the rest."

It Is Not Too Late For You To Be A Builder For Christ

THE Builders-for-Christ Campaign, which is the name of the capital funds drive authorized by the National Convention meeting in Boston in 1952, is now in its final stages.

Of the six hundred thousand dollar goal, at the present time a little over four hundred and fifty thousand dollars has been pledged. This six hundred thousand dollar goal is divided into two parts: one, the Builders-for-Christ campaign, as authorized by the National Convention, of four hundred thousand dollars, and second, two hundred thousand dollars to be used in the Diocese of New York and identified as the Diocesan Revolving Fund.

As noted, the people of this Diocese have pledged the full amount assigned by the National Church. However, we have not done so well in taking care of our own Diocesan requirements.

As Bishop Donegan has pointed out, the funds received in the closing weeks of the Builders-for-Christ Campaign will be spent within the boundaries of our own Diocese. The Campaign ends July 1, 1955.

The facts about the Diocesan Revolving Fund were stated in a booklet recently published by the Department of Promotion. Additional copies of the booklet may be secured by contacting the BULLETIN. Briefly these facts are:

The Purpose: To provide places of worship for new congregations in rapidly growing areas. . . . Westchester, Dutchess, Ramapo and Hudson Convocations.

The Pattern: To encourage existing parishes to establish parochial missions in nearby rapidly growing areas where possible . . . or send forth missionary priests to establish parishes.

The Problem: Naturally to start a new parish requires faith, hard work and sufficient financial help until the new congregation becomes self-supporting.

The Solution: The Diocesan Revolving Fund solves the problem. With a fund of $200,000 . . . the Diocese can lend money without interest to start new parishes. Then as the new parish prospers and the money is repaid . . . funds will be available for the development of other new parishes.

It should be pointed out that in many instances an outstanding job has been done in supporting this urgently needed Diocesan program.

As an example, every single church in the Convocation of Ramapo has pledged its full quota. In the Convocation of Richmond all churches but three have pledged their quotas. In Dutchess all churches but four have pledged their quotas. In the Bronx and in Westchester all but six have pledged their full support. In the Convocation of Hudson all churches but eight have pledged their full support. And in Manhattan all but fourteen have pledged to pay their full quotas as Builders-for-Christ.

As we enter into the last few weeks of this campaign all those who have not pledged their support to this worthy effort are urged to do so.

Either make your pledge through your local church, or send it directly to the Bishop. In either case your local church will receive full credit for your pledge.

Remember it is not too late for you to be a Builder for Christ!

Grant Them, O Lord, Eternal Rest, And May Light Perpetual Shine Upon Them

DEEMS, CHARLES PRICE. The Reverend Charles Price Deems, D.D., recently on the staff of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City, died on Sunday morning, March 13, at the Roosevelt Hospital, New York City.

Dr. Deem's ministry was in the service of seamen as Assistant Superintendent of the Seamen's Church Institute, New York City, and later as he initiated a similar work in San Francisco and was Superintendent there for many years. He also held pastorates in Ross, California, and at Trinity Church, San Francisco. In 1934 he became the Dean of St. Mark's Cathedral, Minneapolis, where he served for 14 years before coming to St. Bartholomew's.

The funeral service on March 16 was held at St. Bartholomew's and was conducted by his Bishop, the Rt. Rev. John S. Higgins of Rhode Island. Bishop Donegan read the Lesson, and the Presiding Bishop, Bishop Sherrill, pronounced the final Benediction. A memorial service at the same hour was held in St. Mark's Cathedral, Minneapolis.

McGREGOR, DANIEL A. The Reverend Daniel A. McGregor, Ph.D., S.T.D., died Sunday, February 20, while enroute to St. Paul's Church, Ossining, where he was acting as interim pastor. The funeral was held February 22 in Trinity Church, New Rochelle, with Bishop Donegan, Archdeacon Brätt and the Rector, the Reverend Philip Styles, officiating.

MORSE, DONALD H. The Reverend Donald H. Morse, Assistant at Trinity Parish, Manhattan, died on February 15 at Bradford, Massachusetts.

He preached almost daily at Trinity for 15 years. Before this he served at St. Edward the Martyr and at New York Cathedral.

Requiem was held February 18 in Trinity Church, Manhattan and the funeral was at Haverhill, Mass.on February 19. The interment was at Bradford, Mass.

The Bishop's Message

THE BISHOP'S ADDRESS AT THE 174TH CONVENTION OF THE DIOCESE OF NEW YORK

May 10, 1955

"MY BRETHREN of the clergy and laity, it is a great pleasure to welcome you to this 174th annual convention of our Diocese. We meet, at a time when conditions emphasize the need for us and all Christians, to put forth our best efforts to make this a world wherein dwelleth righteousness and peace. May this convention bring to us a new vision of our tasks and responsibilities as Christians and Churchmen, and may God use us, unworthy as we are, as instruments of His will in bringing to mankind at home and abroad the Good News of the everlasting gospel.

"At the celebration of the Holy Communion this morning we remembered before God the clergy and laity of this Diocese who during the past year have entered into the Church triumphant. May they rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon them.

"The canons of the Church require that the Bishop at every annual convention shall make a statement of the affairs of the Diocese since the last meeting of the Convention. In the time available it is quite impossible to report these matters in detail. My journal together with the vital statistics and ecclesiastical acts have been filed with the Secretary of Convention. I can assure you that the past year has been full and busy.

"I would refer briefly to some of the statistics that have special interest to the convention. During the past year 3,781 persons have been added to the communicant strength of the Diocese. One hundred and ninety-three adults have been received from the Roman Communion and fourteen from the Orthodox Church. Bishop Boynton and I are able to carry out the heavy Confirmation schedule because we have the help of Bishop Campbell, to whom I again express our thanks and appreciation for all the assistance he has given us, and which I trust he may be able and willing to continue.

"I have ordained 18 candidates for the sacred ministry to the Diaconate, and ordained 15 Deacons to the Priesthood. I have received the final vows of Sister Hilary of the Community of the Holy Spirit.

"At present there are 482 clergy associated with our Diocese; of this number 413 are canonically resident, and 69 have my license to officiate. There are 73 pre-theological students, postulants and candidates for the Holy Orders, and 11 deaconesses.

"During the past year the following clergy have retired from active service in the ministry: the Rev. Dr. Roelif Brooks, the Rev. Frederick W. Dearing, the Rev. George R. Hiatt, the Rev. Bertram J. Mortlock and the Rev. John Nevin Sayre. We wish them many blessings, health and happiness in the years of their retirement.

"Since the last convention 27 clergy have been received into the Diocese. We welcome them most cordially into our Diocesan family with full assurance that they will add vitality and zeal to the life of the Church.

"It is enheartening to report that three mission congregations have become incorporated as parishes: the Church of St. Simon the Cyrenian at New Rochelle; St. Clement's Church, Mount Vernon; and St. Simon's Church, Staten Island. In my own name as Bishop, and in your name, I congratulate the clergy and people of these congregations on their accomplishments.

"Last year I reported that plans were under way for a new church at Granite Springs. I am glad to tell you that the new and handsome edifice was opened for services last Christmas Eve, and with gratitude I announce that Mr. Koegal, who gave the church, has most generously offered to give a Parish House to be built this summer.

"The Chapel of the Holy Name, Cragsmoor, in the Convocation of Hudson has been given to the Diocese by the New York Altar Guild. Under the Department of Missions this chapel will now provide a full-time ministry to the people in this area.

The Council

"I NOW turn to the work of the Council of the Diocese. The Bishop and Council, as you know, is the ad interim agency of this Convention just as the National Council fulfills a similar purpose for our General Convention. This second year of full operation of our Diocesan Council has seen much progress in all fields.

"While the Council report will be given by its secretary, Bishop Boynton, I wish to underline particularly the work of our Department of Missions and Christian Education.

"Our Department of Missions is rapidly reaping the rewards of sound policies and aggressive clergy leadership. Its chief present concerns lie in three widely varying fields: the urban field in Manhattan and the Bronx; the suburban fields in Westchester, Richmond and Rockland counties, and the work in growing communities in Dutchess, Ulster and Orange counties.

"We have been most fortunate in being able to enlist the services of clergy who see the challenge in these fields to which they are appointed by the Bishop.

"The Church's ministry in such areas as Chelsea, East Harlem and Manhattanville in Manhattan, and the East Bronx in Morrisania in the Bronx require the services of clergy who are as truly missionary as their brethren who serve in the mission field anywhere in the world. In overcrowded, restless areas they are ministering to people of every ethnic background, all seeking that better way of life which is promised in the gospel of Our Lord. These clergy carry on a 24-hour day ministry of preaching, praying, caring, visiting, counseling, teaching and providing wholesome recreation without any thought of their own comfort or privilege. I know from personal contacts, as does Bishop Boynton, the spirit in which the urban priests are meeting their responsibilities, and the faithful work they are doing for the Diocese and the Church.

"In Westchester and Rockland counties we are continuing to see great population growth. I spoke of this last year and expressed the hope that our parishes would assume some responsibility for establishing new congregations. One parish has accepted such responsibility, and I wish to commend its example to others. St. Paul's Church in Ossining has agreed to assume charge of a congregation to be gathered together in a new development called Torbank, west of Ossining on Route 9A. A contract for the purchase of land and buildings suitable for conversion to church purposes has been signed and work will begin next Fall.

"I am glad to report that the Department of Missions will build a new church in Ardsley, Westchester County, this summer, and hopes to acquire a site for the construction of a new church in Valley Cottage, Rockland County, next year.

"In Richmond County we now have no missions and only two assisted parishes. We face with all the parishes on Staten Island what may well be a revolutionary growth in the population of the island as a result of the proposed vehicular bridge across the narrows. St. Simon's Church, Concord, deserves particular commendation for having taken steps to incorporation despite the certainty that one of the approaches to the bridge will require the condemnation of its comparatively new church and rectory.

"In Orange and Ulster and Dutchess counties several of our missions and assisted parishes are showing new strength and growth. Old St. Andrew's in Walden has relinquished Diocesan aid, and in addition has assumed responsibility for St. Andrew's Mission at Montgomery as a parochial chapel.

"Our new St. Gregory's Mission at Woodstock is now organized and is raising funds toward the cost of a new church. For the establishment of this new mission I pay tribute to Father Swezy, who gathered together a group of the faithful in Woodstock and conducted services for them, and is still doing so in addition to his duties as Rector of Ascension Church, Esopus, and Vicar of Holy Trinity, Highland.

"The establishment of industrial plants nearby and the consequent population growth have convinced the Department of Missions that St. Gregory's Mission will grow rapidly to self-support.

"In Fishkill historic Trinity Church has just completed the construction of a handsome and functional new Parish House, which I had the honor of dedicating two weeks ago. This parish is experiencing growth in communicant strength from the new residents that are moving into the area. Financial aid to this parish will not much longer be required.

"Maintenance of such progress has been possible largely because we have been able to command the services of highly qualified clergy. Many of them are married men with young children who for some years will be a heavy charge on the family resources. The Department of Missions seeking to ease this financial strain has instituted a system of dependent children's allowances varying with the age of the children and terminating at age 22, or before if a child marries or ceases to be a dependent or in school. The response to the inauguration of this plan has been most gratifying and I cannot help but feel that it has relieved many a difficult financial situation.

"Our Department of Christian Education has now carried its work into every area of the Diocese. Following the plan adopted two years ago, the Department is preparing to staff its Division of Leadership Training. Only as we can bring the impact of the whole program of Christian Education into the life of every parish and mission shall we see its full value. The staffing of this Division of Leadership Training is another forward step in this advance.

"For the creative and exciting progress that has been made in the field of Christian Education, we are indebted to the Director of the Department, the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore.

Business Practices

"I WISH to comment briefly on the matter of the conduct of business affairs in parishes and missions. You will have noted from the report of the Committee on Diocesan Finances, as printed in the Calendar of Business, that for the first time it has been made possible to secure bonding of all employees of all churches at very low premiums. While the canons have long made bonding of treasurers compulsory, there has been some resistance by those who have felt it was too expensive. It is now possible by your approval of this item in the Assessment Budget to remove this objection and to secure broader coverage. This marks the second major safeguard provided by the Convention within the past few years with respect to the administration of the gifts of our people; the first step being the enforcement of the provision in the canons for the auditing of accounts.

"A third safeguard is the adoption by every Vestry and Advisory Board of sound methods of securing, counting, and depositing the offerings. I do not feel it is my duty to suggest a procedure, but I do urge that every Vestry and Advisory Board re-examine their present practice in this matter.

Builders for Christ

"A YEAR AGO, as you may remember, the Builders for Christ Campaign had just been initiated. You will recall that our goal was $600,000, of which about $393,000 was our National Council quota and $200,000 for a Diocesan Revolving Fund for financing new church buildings. There was evidence that the challenge was being accepted with zeal in many parishes, but it was too early to have any definite results. A little later I was more than gratified to learn that a sufficient sum had been pledged to insure the payment of our National Council quota. This is the first time in the long history of organized campaigns for missionary work that this Diocese has pledged the full amount requested of it. I want to thank every one who had a part in this achievement.

"I can report to you now that about $450,000 has been pledged and that we have received in cash $385,000. I am most anxious that by the closing date of the campaign, June 30th, we shall have received at least the full payment of outstanding pledges so that I can say to the Presiding Bishop, 'The Diocese of New York has done its job.'

"But what of the Diocesan Revolving Fund? On the basis of present pledges the most we can expect if they are paid in full is $30,000.00, which is pitifully inadequate for meeting any of the great opportunities available to us in our Diocese. Shall we consider the project closed with this small amount for our advance work, or shall we review ways to find additional resources?

"One thousand dollars each from 100 parishes and $500.00 each from another 100 congregations would enable us to build for Christ right here in our own Diocese.

Proportionate Giving

"THERE is before you a resolution from the Department of Promotion recommending the adoption of proportionate giving as a minimum basis for stewardship in the churches of this Diocese. I would point out that a number of dioceses where this principle has been adopted are reporting not only increased financial support but more important still, the revitalization of their spiritual life.

"The growing concern in regard to stewardship throughout the Church is motivated by the fact that Christian stewardship is a theological concept. It is an important doctrine because it is based upon three fundamental principles.

"God is the creator and owner of all things. 'In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth.' No believing Christian will seriously argue the theological doctrine that 'all things come of Thee O Lord.'

"If God is the owner of the world and all that therein is, we are not. Therefore it follows that we are only the stewards of our possessions. We do not own anything, we only possess it. The difference here is emphatic. The psalmist says, 'The earth is the Lord's.' When God speaks to Israel through the prophet He says, 'this land shall be your possession.' God the owner, we the possessors.

"The third principle implicit in these two is the principle of the tithe or proportionate giving as a basis for stewardship. It is clear that there is a theological foundation for the principle of proportionate giving. That is the reason the Council of the Diocese last October, acting on a resolution presented by the Department of Promotion, adopted the resolution on proportionate giving which appears in the calendar of business.

"There should be no question in anyone's mind that this is a sound and advisable course of action not simply for increasing the financial resources of our Church, but for the deepening of its spiritual life. In accepting the principle of a fixed percentage which belongs to God, whether it be the tithe or proportionate giving, we are thereby acknowledging the sovereignty of God. He is the owner of all things. We are the possessors of that which He gives us. This is fundamental. We must return to Him of His own for His work in the Church.

Resolution on Canons

"THERE is before you a resolution proposing an amendment to the Canons and Constitution of the Diocese to make it permissible for women to serve on vestries and as delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

"In considering this important matter I trust that you will keep in mind the fact that today women serve and hold offices of responsibility in almost every governmental, civic, professional and political body. I would also remind you that in six of our seven convocations women are accepted as delegates to convocation. Last year this convention gave permission to women to serve on Advisory Boards of mission congregations. Women also serve on the National Council of our Church, and they also serve on our own Diocesan Council and in several of our Diocesan departments. Anyone closely connected with the affairs of the Church recognizes the thoughtful, creative and conscientious contribution being made by the women. They are ready and able to share in the responsibility, the difficulties and the satisfactions of toiling to make straight in the desert a highway for our God.

"This is an appropriate moment to express my appreciation to the members of the Woman's Auxiliary for the spiritual and financial support they give to the program of the Church. Under the leadership of Mrs. Simpson the work is being carried on effectively.

"I am sorry there is not time in this address to speak in detail of the service being rendered to the community by our Diocesan agencies: the City Mission Society, the Seamen's Church Institute, the Youth Consultation Service, and the Episcopal Service to the Aged. We can be proud of these agencies which continue to make an important contribution to the total ministry and witness of our Church.

"As President of the City Mission Society I am glad to announce at this time an anonymous gift of $98,000.00 for St. Barnabas House, which will enable us to expand the fine work which is being done for children.

Cathedral

"I AM happy to report healthy progress in the life and work of our Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine. Last fall I installed the Rev. Howard Johnson as Canon Theologian and the Rev. John Pyle as Canon Pastor. We have now a full chapter and each of the branches of the Cathedral activities is manned. The Exhibit Hall under the Canon Precentor has been revitalized with an extended selection of books and fine religious art, and especially by the Mission handcrafts exhibit maintained in cooperation with the Woman's Auxiliary. The Friends of the Cathedral under the chairmanship of Mr. Walter Baker have been revitalized and there are now nearly 700 persons in various parts of the country who have signified their interest in our Cathedral Church. Progress in the music of the Cathedral has been made this past year under the direction of our new Master of Choristers, Mr. Alec Wyton, who is also serving as Headmaster of the Choir School.

"During the past year the Nave has been enriched by the Mortlake New Testament tapestries, the gift of Mrs. Louis Sather Bruguiere in memory of her husband; the Manning Chantry has been erected with lifelike figure in Carrara marble of our late beloved Diocesan William Thomas Manning, who was so conspicuously concerned with the building of the Cathedral.

"A great occasion in the history of the Cathedral was the unveiling of the magnificent Motherhood Window by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother, on October 31, 1954, in memory of Eleanor Van Rennsselaer Fairfax. The involved details and arrangements for the dedication were under the supervision of Canon West, who on this occasion gave further evidence as to the reason he was chosen to compose and oversee the service at the Anglican Congress in Minneapolis.

"A new stained-glass window in All Souls Bay to commemorate the corporal works of mercy and containing emblems of various social service agencies affiliated with the Diocese is being installed.

"As usual, the Cathedral has been the scene of a number of civic, patriotic, and special services, including the Bicentennial Convocation of Columbia University.

"Widespread attention has been given to several magazine and newspaper articles that have recently appeared on the subject of finishing the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. There has been varied response to the suggestions made as to the style of architecture in which it should be finished. Some have welcomed the possibility of completing the Cathedral in modern style, and others have expressed strong disapproval, all of which is quite natural and indeed reassuring. It would be most unfortunate if the greatest Cathedral on this continent, already world-famous for its splendor and majesty, were of so little interest that any proposed form for its completion did not call forth strong reactions.

"In view of these reactions and the misunderstandings involved, I think it is only fair to make known the exact standing of the publicized suggestions and the process by which any work is commissioned for the Cathedral.

"To take the latter point first, the Bishop of New York as President of the Board of Trustees of the Cathedral Corporation, and the other clerical and lay trustees (nominated by the Bishop and the Diocesan Convention), constitute the only body which can initiate any action, approve or disapprove of any proposed design, or authorize any construction work of any kind. This corporate responsibility is so clearly defined that not even an inscription may be placed in the Cathedral without the approval of the Trustees, and after recommendation by the Fabric Committee of the Board. This procedure assures, and indeed requires, that only after the most thorough study and thoughtful consideration can any decision be made as to whether the Cathedral will be finished in Gothic or contemprorary design.

"In regard to the suggestions made, it should be remembered that they were part of an article appearing in Architectural Forum. The article was written by an outstanding architect and as is only natural, is an expression of the point of view of the period in which he writes.

"The value of the article lies not in any particular suggestions, for to be strictly accurate he made none, but rather in the reintroduction of the New York Cathedral to the architects of our own day. To have the imaginations of creative artists fired by the problem of completing a great House of God can produce nothing but good.

"I am grateful to all the Canons for their effective contribution to the life of the Cathedral, and not least to the life of the Diocese. We all recognize, and no one more than I, that the outstanding ministry of the Cathedral Church today is traceable to the vision and enthusiastic leadership of Dean Pike, to whom I offer this public word of appreciation.

Diocesan Center

"THIS is the first opportunity I have had to inform the convention officially, since the public announcement made last January, of the magnificent gift made to the Diocese by Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, communicants of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York.

"Ever since I became Diocesan it has been my conviction that we shall not get very far in promoting the spirit of real fellowship among us until we have a Center where throughout the year we can come together in small groups for worship, study and fellowship for several days at a time. The Diocesan should have a place where the Bishop can take his ordinands for retreats before their ordination; where the Bishop and Diocesan Council can meet; where the members of the Woman's Auxiliary and the laymen's groups, women's groups and young people can hold week-end conferences, and have a place where we could come together under one roof to pray and study and plan together for the future at a deep level.

"It had been my hope that some member of our Church would be moved to provide such a Diocesan Center so essential to our corporate life, and I have hoped that such a gift would include some endowment to help with the cost of maintenance in order that the upkeep would not be a burden to the Diocese.

"After thoughtful consideration Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor came to the conclusion that their estate in Lattingtown, known as 'Killingworth,' would lend itself most admirably to a religious center which would provide the proper atmosphere for conference and study amid pleasant and historical surroundings, and attain perpetuity in its ownership and occupancy consistent with its character and history.

" 'Killingworth' indeed has great historical background. It dates back to the year 1650 in the family of Mr. Taylor's mother, Mary Morgan Underhill Taylor. It was the last home of Captain John Underhill, who some 300 years

THE work of cataloguing the Cathedral Library is proceeding rapidly: about five thousand books are at present being organized. Please do help us spread the word that we are eager to have more theological books as gifts, since the funds available for accessions are limited. The donors can be assured that their books will be put to good use over the years.

THE third series of Summer Forums for School Teachers will begin the second Sunday in July after Evensong. The lecturer this summer will be the Reverend Professor J. S. Whale, D.D., the distinguished English theologian and the author of Christian Doctrine. His topics will be The Problem of Evil, The Problem of Time, The Problem of Death, and The Problem of Freedom. The lectures will be followed by supper and discussion groups on the relationship of religion to various fields of teaching led by a very well qualified staff of leaders. Last summer there were 350 enrolled in this four-week Forum.

THE permanent exhibition and sale of handcrafts from the Missions of the Church at home and overseas opened at the Exhibit Hall on April 26. Like the School of Worship, this is a joint project between the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral. This exhibition is serving a fine educational purpose and, at the same time, provides an outlet for the many attractive and useful objects produced at our mission stations in many parts of the world. Among the items available are linens from the Philippines, table mats from Alaska, ivories from Liberia, mahogany bowls and trays from Haiti, baskets and beadwork jewelry from Indian areas of the United States, and native dolls and trinkets for children. If you have not seen this exhibition, do visit the Exhibit Hall soon.

Woman's Auxiliary Promotes Mission Training Institute

THE Metropolitan Missions Training Institute, on June 6th and 13th, from 9:15 to 4:00 p.m. is offering a two-day Study of the Christian Mission in a Revolutionary World, and The Indian Americans, at the Broadway Congregational Church, 211 West 56th Street.

The Woman's Auxiliary is most anxious to have a good attendance of its members at this Training Institute, as Mrs. David W. Clark, an Episcopalian, and an outstanding speaker, is to be a member of the Panel on the Indian Americans.

Mrs. Clark has a wide and varied experience in the Church's work among American Indians. Prior to 1942, when Mr. and Mrs. Clark went to Fort Defiance they had been working in the Crow Creek region among the South Dakota or Sioux tribe, in which there are more than five thousand communicants of the Episcopal Church.

Among the Sioux, Mrs. Clark was largely instrumental in organizing a self-project for the perpetuation and development of ancient Indian arts, principally wood carving and bead work. It is interesting to know we are showing some of this lovely bead work at the Missions Handcrafts Exhibit.

At the Good Shepherd Mission, Mrs. Clark shared in the administration of the Institution, which cares for Indian boys and girls, mostly orphans, between ages of 8 and 18.

For the past several years Mrs. Clark has been working with her husband on the United Church Committee on Indian Work in the Minneapolis area, whose purpose is the integration of the Indian into urban life. At intervals she gives her time to tell Church groups of the work of our Church with the Indian people.

Mrs. Godwin, vice-president in charge of Education of the Diocesan Board of the Woman's Auxiliary, and a member of the Manhattan Council of Church Women, has been instrumental in obtaining Mrs. Clark for the Training Institute, and has the backing of the Board in urging that as many members attend as is possible.

You Can Help a Refugee

DO you know that your Parish, or your Auxiliary, can make it possible for a young refugee to come to this country and be trained to be a useful and happy American citizen? Perhaps you are a parent yourself, or know from experience what it means when a young person is lost, uncertain, without hope. We can do so much to give someone a new life!

There are in our Diocese technical schools where the tuition is relatively low, but where one can train in two years for a job in industry, nursing, or office work. You can find, and offer a suitable scholarship and/or board and lodging in your own Parish for some young person who is eligible under the Refugee Relief Act of 1953. Thus you will benefit him, or her, and you will benefit your community which needs technically trained people.

If you know of such an opportunity, or perhaps a place where such a person can earn board and room, or if you know of a job opening for a refugee, won't you please talk with your Rector, or your Parish Auxiliary Social Relations Committee Chairman, or a member of the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations. Or please write the Reverend E. Walter Chater, All Saint's Church, Harrison, N. Y. — Chairman of the Diocesan Refugee Placement Committee.

Diocesan Youth Work Project

THE 1955 Diocesan Youth Work Project will swing into action for its third consecutive year of operation at the Chapel of the Incarnation, 31st Street and Second Avenue, New York City for a ten-day period from August 22 to September 2. The Rev. and Mrs. David T. P. Bradley will again be the leaders, and will be assisted by the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Hayden. The general plan of the Project will be the same as in former years:— to establish an experimental Christian community of young people and leaders on the work-site, with the responsibility and tasks of the project shared equally among the members while they perform a work of considerable challenge and worth to themselves and to the Parish where they are located.

The enrollment of the project will be limited to ten young persons of 16 years and older, who will assist the Chapel of the Incarnation in reaching out in a missionary enterprise to the surrounding neighborhood that is now in process of change. The immediate purpose of the project is to make door-to-door calls with the aim of establishing a Vacation Church School to be conducted by the young people themselves; and also of discovering the unchurched families situated in the area. The ultimate plan of the project is to bring the unchurched, especially the children, into the life of the Chapel of the Incarnation on a year-round basis. Since the Rev. Robert Hayden is the curate of the Chapel, there is considerable likelihood that the work will assume a permanent worth to the parish after the Vacation School has completed its work. The young people and their leaders will live in the very spacious and well-equipped quarters furnished by the Parish House.

The type of work to be done by the Youth Project will not only be exacting and very interesting, but will be especially valuable to any young person who is interested either in Church Social Work, Teaching, or the Ministry as his future career. Considerable knowledge of experience in calling, teaching methods, planning and executing curricula, and an over-all appreciation of what it is to do Church work and to share in the Church's challenge in an area of great promise, will come to anyone who participates in the project. The tuition charge is $17.50 as before, and several scholarships are available. Registrations will close the last part of April; further information may be obtained at Diocesan House, or from either of the leaders.

The Bishops Address

ago distinguished himself not only as a brilliant and successful soldier but also as a leader in the civil life of America in its early days. He was a man of education, wisdom, courage and a deep religious conviction and practice.

"Mr. Taylor is a direct descendant of Captain Underhill who was born in Warwickshire, England, in 1597, and came to Boston with Governor Winthrop in 1630 to train the colonists in successful defense against the attacks by the Pequot Indians in Massachusetts. He became the first Governor of Exeter and Dover, which is now New Hampshire. Later he received a call from the Dutch in New Netherland to organize their resistance to the Indian tribes which were threatening that colony. Eventually Captain Underhill moved to Long Island where he led the colonists in defense against the Indian tribes. Subsequently he received from the Indians a tract of land in Matinecock known as Killingworth, where he continued to live until his death in 1672.

"Captain Underhill took part in the conquest of New Netherland by the English, and he was given permission by Governor Lovelace to retire at 75 years of age, spending the remainder of his life at 'Killingworth.' His grave is marked in the Underhill burying ground on the family property at Matinecock by a shaft which was dedicated by President Theodore Roosevelt in 1908.

"Though this gift has come to the Diocese of New York, I would gladly make the Diocesan Center available to the clergy and laity of the Diocese of Long Island, and I have written Bishop De Wolfe some time ago assuring him that it will be a pleasure to have the Diocese of Long Island use the facilities.

"The consummation of this gift will depend on favorable action by the Mayor and Board of Trustees of the Village of Lattingtown who have called a public hearing to be held on May 14th to act on our petition for an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would permit our proposed use of the property.

"As you know, Mr. Taylor has had a distinguished career as an industrial leader, as a philanthropist, as a humanitarian who has been given to all good works. He occupied with distinction the post of Personal Representative of the President to His Holiness the Pope under two administrations. This office carried with it the rank of Ambassador and its purpose was to advance the cause of international peace. He has been decorated by the governments of several nations for his outstanding services. Among Mr. Taylor's many benefactions for religious purposes was his gift of the Inter-Faith Center at Cornell University.

"I know that you and every member of our Diocesan family will join wholeheartedly with me in expressing the profound feeling of gratitude which is ours to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor for this munificent gift.

What We Can Do For Peace

"IN the fast moving international scene we are sometimes tempted to feel that there is nothing that we as individuals can do. But there is. And as Christians we are especially called upon to contribute all we can, however small the effort of one individual may be, to the cause of peace. Here are some of the things that we can do:

"1. We can keep well informed. Never was there a time when there was such a positive ethical obligation to read papers and other channels of informed interpretation. Without the proper background and the relative current information we cannot form our opinions aright.

"2. We can influence public opinion by thoughtful and persuasive conversation with others about what we feel conscientiously in the light of the facts to be the right way for the nation to react in the international crisis we are facing.

"3. We can signify — by letter and, when appropriate, by telegram — to the President and Secretary of State and our Representatives in Congress, our support for all that is good and sound in the direction our leadership has taken, or where we feel concerned as to a trend, we can express constructive criticism.

"Especially is this kind of informed reaction on the part of Christian people important now, because recent days have seen a firming up of a policy of patience and willingness to exhaust every remedy and try every avenue before taking any step which could lend directly to war. And the Administration has been holding to such a policy in the face of constant and vociferous pressure from spokesmen who in their eagerness for the consummation of particular solutions are almost recklessly willing to risk a war which could not but end in disaster to millions on both sides of the Iron Curtain. If our President and his advisors are able to continue the policy of patience and remain open to every means of negotiation, it will be because the conscientious people of our nation gave them increasing support in these intentions.

"So, as a follower of the Prince of Peace, I beseech each of you and those whom you represent to keep studiously informed on these matters, to seek earnestly to influence the opinions of others, and to register openly your support for the attitudes and actions on the part of our national leadership which tend toward the peaceful solution of the grave tensions of our world.

Visit to Australia

"BEFORE I conclude I should like to tell you that I have been asked by the Archbishop of Sydney to visit the churches in Australia this summer. I have accepted this invitation feeling that such a visit would serve in some measure to strengthen the bonds of understanding and fellowship between our respective churches. Another reason for accepting this invitation is that it will give me an opportunity to visit our churches in the Philippines and Japan on my way to Honolulu for the meeting of General Convention. Since I am a member of the Overseas Department of the National Council it seemed I should take advantage of this opportunity to see firsthand some of our work overseas. I plan to leave for Australia soon after Trinity Sunday.

General Convention

"WE are all looking forward with great interest to the General Convention meeting in Honolulu. There are many important matters which will claim the time and attention of the delegates. As in the case of national and international affairs, I heartily commend that you keep fully informed through the religious press of events significantly affecting the life of the Church, and also to remember daily the Bishops, clergy, and lay delegates in your prayers."

"I CANNOT end this message without voicing my appreciation to the clergy and the great company of the faithful, and fellow workers whose continued cooperation means so much in upbuilding the Church in this Diocese. There is a high sense of responsibility and devoted service on the part of all those who are associated with me in the administrative affairs of the Diocese. The Treasurer, Mr. Theodor Oxholm, not only supervises the finances but also has dedicated concern for the life of our Church which deserves our full appreciation. The Archdeacon, the Venerable George Bratt, travels tirelessly to all parts of the Diocese and is a constant help to the mission churches and a source of strength to the Bishop. To the Chancellor, Mr. Forrest Butterworth, for his invaluable legal guidance; and to the Reverend Lawrence Larsen for his careful work as Registrar and Secretary of Convention I offer my appreciation.

"Finally, I wish to express my thankfulness to my Episcopal colleague, Bishop Boynton, not only for his able and devoted assistance, but also for his steadfast loyalty and cheerful companionship. It is hard for me to imagine any two Bishops in the Church working in closer friendship, harmony and understanding, than Bishop Boynton and I.

"I am sure you will all join me in sending greeting to our beloved former Diocesan, Bishop Gilbert, who is undoubtedly thinking of us at his home at Heath as we meet here today.

"Now as we proceed to the business of our Convention, we might helpfully bear in mind some striking words of a great leader, William Temple: 'So shall we go forward together, not without stumbling, not without weariness, but always toward the loving welcome that awaits us in our Father's Home, where the conflicts which now beset the earth have vanished, where self-seeking cannot find entrance, where misery gives place to joy and quarreling to peace; because self is either sacrificed — or forgotten in the realization of the Love of God.' "

Faithfully your Bishop

Horace W. B. Donegan

Teacher Training for The Church School New Curriculum

THE National Department of Christian Education is preparing the way for a more adequate use of the new curriculum materials by suggesting four basic requirements. Three of these have been dealt with in earlier issues of THE BULLETIN: 1) A Core of Concerned People; 2) Family Worship every Sunday; 3) Parent Classes.

The fourth requirement is Teacher Training. Where curriculum materials have fallen short in the past it has been because the materials have attempted to make any extensive training unnecessary. They have failed in the attempt and they have given the Church inadequate resources for the Church's teaching work.

In preparing the "Seabury Series" material the National Council has been brave enough to face the question:

The Venerable George F. Brätt

Bishop Bentley and the Angel

EASTER dawned bright and lovely, and the Angel Gabriel, atop the little bell-tower on St. Gregory's, greeted the day. To be sure the extended trumpet did not sound. The parishioners hadn't placed him there for that purpose. But he faced the East and at an early hour paid silent tribute to the rising sun and the new day which the Lord had made.

Long before the appointed hour for the service, the people of Woodstock began to assemble. Their love for the quaint church they had fashioned out of a corn-crib was exceedingly apparent, for the furnishings of St. Gregory's were made by them. The Altar Rail, the Altar, the Cross, the pews all bear marks of hands that care, and of hearts intent on worshipping God in the beauty of holiness.

Bishop Bentley arrived in good time, and soon the country-side echoed with the strains of joyous Easter hymns. The people listened intently as once again they heard the Gospel of Easter preached. Then they came reverently to the Altar to discover their Risen Lord in the Breaking of the Bread.

All this the Angel "saw". There was joy in heaven; there was joy on the earth. And the people of Woodstock will never forget the Bishop.

Later in the week Bishop Bentley played an angel's part himself. The modest remuneration he received for his services he sent to the Treasurer of the Mission with this note:

" ..... the privilege and joy of being with you good people for the service on Easter morning was compensation enough. Please accept the enclosed check as a contribution toward your Church Building Fund."

Excerpts of Report of the Council of The Diocese of New York to the 174th Convention in the Diocese of New York by the Suffragan Bishop

THERE is no question but that the ever-expanding work of the Diocese is being carried out more and more efficiently through the Diocesan Council system, which Convention established three years ago. This is true not only because of the nature of the system itself, but also because of the consecrated service rendered by the elected and appointed clerical and lay members of the Council. The Bishop wishes me to express his deep appreciation to these faithful workers, an expression in which, I am sure, Convention heartily concurs.

Full reports of all the departments of the Council are on file with the secretary, and they make very exciting and encouraging reading indeed. Would that there were practical ways and means of acquainting every member of Convention with their contents in detail. In this report I can but summarize the work done and planned for in the case of all departments except that of Christian Social Relations. This department has been selected for special emphasis this year and will present its own report immediately following this.

DEPARTMENT OF MISSIONS

In the interest of brevity, and also to avoid duplication, I will add nothing more to that which has already been said by the Bishop and earlier in this report concerning this primary responsibility of the Council. The cause of Missions is synonymous with the cause of the Church, and it will ever be true: "How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?" (See Bishop's address)

DEPARTMENT OF PROMOTION

The Department of Promotion during the past year more than fulfilled its canonical duty "to disseminate information regarding the aims and work of the Council, the affiliated agencies, and the National Council, to the end that the general public and the membership of the Church in this Diocese may be informed thereon, that the Church may exert a greater Christian influence on the life of the community and that its work may be adequately supported."

Without the department's effective efforts through trained personnel and appealing promotional literature, the results of the Builders for Christ Campaign and the Every Member Canvass would not have been as successful as they were.

The Director of the department, has interviewed the clergy of some one hundred parishes and missions so far in his Diocesan survey, thereby securing new and workable ideas in the field of parish finance.

The ideal of proportionate giving as the minimum standard for the basis of stewardship in the churches of this Diocese was presented at five area meetings during the fall of 1954 and will be repeated during the fall of 1955.

Currently, elaborate plans are being formulated for the 1955 Every Member Canvass effort. A Canvass Director's Handbook, brochures, folders, and other materials are being prepared and should prove of great assistance. The department is looking forward to the years 1955 and 1956 with renewed hope that much can be realized from the basic work that has been done in the past years to establish a definite promotional program for our Diocese.

DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

The emphasis of the Department of Christian Education during the past year has been upon the development of leaders on the parish level. To this end the department has conducted six Parish Life Conferences for clergy and eight for lay representatives from twenty-six parishes, all of which were excellently attended. Follow-up sessions have been held in almost every parish represented. This brings to a total of seventeen the number of these conferences since April, 1954, over and above the six conferences which have been conducted by parishes for their own membership.

It is because the response to these conferences has been so strong, and the resulting work in the parishes so complicated, that the department brought its request to the Council for a staff member on leadership training.

In June, 1954, Curriculum Conferences for clergy and teachers were held in all seven of the Convocations of the Diocese, with an attendance of two hundred seventy-eight teachers and fifty-seven clergy. During December last special Clergy Curriculum Conferences were held in the Convocations with one hundred seventeen clergy attending.

New Curriculum Introductory Conferences and Teacher Workshops are planned for late spring and early fall to prepare qualifying parishes and missions for the use of the Seabury Series materials just off the press.

Adult Education Forums during the year were attended by three hundred nineteen lay leaders and sixty clergy, representing seventy-seven parishes and missions.

The Division of Youth Work of the department has been especially concerned with its new emphasis for young people on theological implications in everyday life, under the title "Because I Believe". So far, conferences supporting this emphasis have been held in four of the Convocations, resulting in a very successful Cathedral Youth Day on April thirtieth, at which more than three hundred were present.

"During the past year," the annual report of this department concludes, "the department has received outstanding cooperation from a great many clergy and laity. We are conscious that we are on the threshold of a new era in the Church's task in the communication of the Gospel, and we ask the continued prayers and support of all who see the challenge now before us."

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

The Department of Finance, in accordance with its canonical duties, has given careful study to the financial problems of the departments of the Council and the agencies receiving financial assistance. All budget requests and financial operations were reviewed and a detailed report containing budgetary recommendations was submitted to the Council at its January meeting.

The department also continued to act for the Council in matters of policy regarding staff personnel other than executive.

THIS report of your Council will conclude with the detailed report of the Department of Christian Relations, which will be presented by its Chairman, the Reverend John A. Bell.

I shall close, as in previous reports to Convention, by saying in the name of all on the Council that it has been a privilege to serve the Diocese during the past year as members of the Council. It is still true that our aim is your aim, and your aim is the aim of the whole Church, namely, to fulfill the prophecy of Joel: "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and daughters shall prophecy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams: And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit: and they shall prophecy: . . . And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved."

The Rt. Rev. CHARLES F. BOYNTON
Secretary

Excerpts from the Annual Report of the Woman's Auxiliary

DURING this year Personnel has had the overall supervision of all committees of Diocesan projects, such as the School of Worship, Hospitality Teas, Leadership Training and the brand new Permanent Mission Handcraft Exhibition, as well as carrying on its own College work and personnel promotion. Each of these sub-committees has its own chairman. The School of Worship was well attended, and we are planning another for this November. This is particularly important to all of us because the Woman's Auxiliary plans and carries it out in co-sponsorship with the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral, and it serves a double purpose of real study and of bringing us together for worship in our great Cathedral.

The Hospitality teas in Cathedral have been successfully run by the parishes.

In College work, the Committee working closely with Dr. Reddick, head of the Diocesan department, has brought to the parishes the sense of responsibility for our college students.

The Missions Craft Exhibition is, as we say, a dream come true. There is much work to be done to make it a success. Here again it was made possible by the splendid cooperation and support of the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral.

To go to another department, Christian Education, again I wish to emphasize that the Woman's Auxiliary works closely with the Diocesan department and to quote the Chairman's report, "The emphases being placed on Adult education by the Diocesan Department are being reflected constructively in the Woman's Auxiliary Branches."

In Christian Social Relations we have made great strides in bringing to the members of the parish branches a realization of the scope of the work and their responsibility towards it. Almost every branch now has a chairman for Christian Social Relations, and the growth of interest has been very steady, and what is to my mind more encouraging, there is evidence that the Woman's Auxiliary members know now what Christian Social Relations really means and are broadening their horizons about it.

The Mission Supply work goes steadily on its way. Garments and household articles have been sent to 11 missions and 3 hospitals at home and abroad. In our own Diocese we aided 17 institutions, and through the interest and hard work of the chairman for this part of the work, have now a real knowledge of the needs of these institutions. She has visited every institution on our list. In the cutting room 10 women volunteers have in the 6 months from October to May, cut, assembled and shipped 8,673 garments; this includes the 53 layettes and wool for 170 garments. The total value of the garments was $27,954.20 and 3557 articles of used clothing has also been sent.

In the Devotional Life Department, again while the regular Diocesan monthly work shop at St. Thomas Church has been well attended, it is in the parishes that the growth of a deeper understanding of the spiritual value of all efforts is evidenced. This feeling of dedication is being developed through all the districts by much more carefully prepared devotional periods before meetings, more corporate communions, quiet days and prayer groups.

The United Thank Offering shows great increases in the number of women sharing in the Offering this triennum, as well as the largest amount of money, and is due to the personal efforts made by Diocesan District and parish officers, to reach every woman in this Diocese and to tell them the meaning and use of the Offering.

The Bronx — Here the Missionary work of the church has been emphasized in all meetings. Interesting speakers from the mission field of many countries have led to increased interest and support in that most important part of all that we do.

Dutchess — The district board has proved that personal contacts with parish branch officers pays off. Visits to all the branches and small informal meetings with parish officers have resulted in much larger attendance at district meetings and a far greater understanding of what the Woman's Auxiliary is all about. A new constitution and by-laws for the district has been compiled and is a model which other districts can well copy.

Hudson-Ramapos — The highlight of the year was the School of Worship held in March, well attended with good

Church Doctors for 106 years

Large or small, they all need periodic attention. Trinity on the right received our ministrations in 1944. Little St. John's, the Charlotte Church at Oakdale, Long Island, erected 1775, is now undergoing complete restoration, interior and exterior under our care.

Teacher Training

"What type of material will be most constructive in the redemptive work the parish has at hand?" The result is a different kind of material and a different kind of teaching. This all requires a new kind of teacher training and more of it.

This was all made clear to the 109 clergy of the Dioceses who attended the special Conferences during December, 1954. The theology underlying the new materials was outlined and definite suggestions made as to what should take place in Parishes this spring if the "Seabury Series" is to be used in Grades 1, 4, and 7 next autumn.

At the same time announcement was made of the New Curriculum Introductory Conferences to be held in each Convocation during June. These conferences, for teachers, officers and clergy, are scheduled as follows:

Saturday, June 4th, for the Convocation of Dutchess
Sunday, June 5th, for the Convocation of Bronx
Saturday, June 11th, for the Convocation of Hudson
Sunday, June 12th, for the Convocation of Manhattan
Saturday, June 18th, for the Convocation of Westchester
Sunday, June 19th, for the Convocation of Richmond
Saturday, June 25th, for the Convocation of Ramapo

These conferences will introduce and review the new materials and will point out the distinctive difference in preparation and teaching these new materials will require.

As further assistance to those teachers who actually begin to use the new courses in September the Diocesan Department plans to set up teacher workshops in local areas during the latter half of September and throughout October. The location and extent of these workshops will not be known until Parishes have actually decided to use the new materials and the teachers realize that "workshop" help will be needed.

However, in spite of the many conferences that might be conducted, there is no evading the real issue, viz: the real burden of teacher training can be carried only by the Parish — and in most cases this means only by the Parish clergy. This has always been true and is especially true with the new materials.

How will the training need to be different?

1) In the past most training of Sunday School teachers has been in the technique of teaching; more than ever, now, the training must be on the implications of theology and how these can be made meaningful.

2) In the past most training has been of an intellectual nature only; now we see that this must be preceded by a great deal of what we call evangelism.

3) In the past, training has been largely in how to make proper use of printed resources; now we see more clearly that the chief resource a teacher has is his or her own experience of the worship of the Church and of the Church's true textbooks — the Bible and the Prayer Book.

4) In the past teachers have been trained to be as skilled as possible in providing answers to questions without any real consideration as to whether or not the questions have been asked; now teachers will need to see the way in which they establish the experience where the questions are being asked before the answers are given.

5) In the past much teacher training has been in large groups, concerned with many age-levels; now more and more of this training will have the nature of individual counselling.

It is sincerely hoped and strongly recommended that no Parish in the Diocese of New York will attempt to use the "Seabury Series" materials until the clergy and teachers have faced up to the deeper responsibilities required of the whole parish in general and of themselves in particular. The four essentials are really essential, and the most difficult of all will be the on-going teacher training required.

Excerpts from the Woman's Auxiliary

group discussion. This district is contemplating changes in their organization, a return to two districts instead of the present one. This would only be returning to the form originally planned.

Manhattan — Here again we see the result of personal contacts between officers and parish branches in increased interest in the whole work of the church and a sense of knowing more and accordingly doing more. The officers both day and evening have worked untiringly towards this end. A definite step forward to greater integration is that the Woman's Auxiliary of this district will make a regular report to the convocation this spring.

Richmond — This district was the first to plan and promote a leadership training course on the pattern of the Diocesan courses. This created a good deal of interest. They also had a second school of worship and have been outstanding in their cooperation with other churches and institutions, in the support of the Farm Colony, Sea View Hospital and a record attendance at the World Day of Prayer.

Westchester — The outstanding project, aside from the usual activities which grow steadily, was the very fine School of Worship which was not only attended by many women but was participated in by many of the clergy. The chairman reports a closer fellowship between all the members of other churches.

The Church Periodical Club has been more closely affiliated with the Woman's Auxiliary than ever before and we hope this will continue. Besides their regular work of supplying books, magazines, etc., the fund for supplying seminarians with new books has increased and 30 postulants and candidates for Holy Orders were sent 77 books at 1 to 4 books per man.

The Girls Friendly Society — This has been a year of broadening horizons for girls and leaders alike. They are cooperating with the Woman's Auxiliary in many ways, for these youngsters will make good auxiliary members some day, we hope. One of the colorful responsibilities is that they have kept the cookie jar filled for the Cathedral Club for the Aged! They have also helped to feed the Woman's Auxiliary members after the Diocesan meetings.

Diocesan Meetings — This leads right into the reports on our meetings. These have on the whole been successful. The two held in the evening were well attended by the evening members who have expressed to me their great interest in learning more about the organization of which they are a part. The one held in March, where they had time to visit the cutting room and Diocesan headquarters, was of particular interest.

Respectfully Submitted

DOROTHY M. SIMPSON
President, Woman's Auxiliary Diocese of New York

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West, Sacrist

Q. — Does your Church have any provision for private confession?

A. — On pages 87, 88 of the Prayer Book there occurs the following paragraph: "And because it is requisite that no man should come to the Holy Communion, but with a full trust in God's mercy, and with a quiet conscience; therefore, if there be any of you, who by this means cannot quiet his own conscience herein, but requireth further comfort or counsel, let him come to me, or to some other Minister of God's Word, and open his grief; that he may receive such godly counsel and advice, as may tend to the quieting of his conscience, and the removing of all scruple and doubtfulness."

The fourth Rubric on page 313 reads as follows: "Then shall the sick person be moved to make a special confession of his sins, if he feel his conscience troubled with any matter; after which confession, on evidence of his repentance, the Minister shall assure him of God's mercy and forgiveness." These are the Church's provisions. The form of administration is a particularized and local matter.

Q. — What does incarnation mean?

A. — The word, literally, means the act of assuming a human body and human nature. As used by the Church it refers to the second person of the Holy Trinity, the eternal Word of God, taking on Man's nature and body through the Blessed Virgin. As the Nicene Creed states it: "and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and was made man."

Q. — I have heard a great deal about original sin; what does it mean?

A. — It means that man, left to his own devices, is a backslider. In the words of the Articles of Religion "Man is very far gone from original righteousness, and is of his own nature inclined to evil." It is the result of corporate choice of generation after generation. It has, of course, nothing whatever to do with sin of origin. The Church does not regard the basic acts of Christian marriage as sinful in any sense.

Q. — What do you mean by the Real Presence in the Holy Communion? Is this the same thing as transubstantiation?

A. — Real Presence means the presence of the res or thing signified. Thus, the Prayer of Consecration in the Communion Service refers regularly to the bread and wine until the conclusion of the Invocation and from that moment onward, they are never referred to save as Body and Blood. The Church regards the method by which God effects this to be a mystery. Thus, the Sacrament conveys in, by, and through itself that which it represents. Transubstantiation is a particular theory about God's method of effecting the Consecration. It is based on a Medieval distinction between substance and accidents. The Episcopal Church is, fortunately, not bound by this or any other particular theory of God's methodology. Like the early Church, it is content to know the presence of the Living Lord in the breaking of bread.

For Those Entering College Next Fall

For the first time this Spring, the Division of College Work of the Department of Christian Education is holding a series of Conferences for high school seniors, who will be entering college next Fall. All members of parishes and missions within the Diocese, whether they are graduating from private schools or public schools, may participate in one of these Conferences. The Division hopes that this program will become a yearly affair, preparing high school graduates for participation in the Church's program on college and university campuses.

The dates for the Conferences are June 3-4, June 10-11, June 17-18 and June 24-25. All four will be held at the General Theological Seminary, 175 Ninth Avenue in New York City.

The purpose of these Conferences is to introduce the student to the Church's work on the campus. Many young men and women coming onto a college campus for the first time have no idea that there is an organization for Episcopal students. At each Conferene there will be a number of student leaders from Episcopal organizations on various campuses and a number of Chaplains to these organizations. The program will be intended to give candidates for college some conception of the way in which the Church may speak to their needs, both intellectual and more strictly personal, during their years in college. It may well be that these Conferences will provide a student with an opportunity to get to know people with whom he will be associated during his four years at college.

Each Conference will begin on a Friday afternoon at 4:30 and will close at approximately the same time on Saturday afternoon. The student will, of course, be provided with food and housing at the Seminary. The total charge will be $5.00.

The Division of College Work would appreciate the assistance of the parish clergy in this endeaveor. Any publicity which might be given to these Conferences through bulletins, announcements in the services, and any other means would be invaluable.

Any further questions concerning these Conferences should be addressed to: Dr. Allen Reddick, Director of College Work, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25.

Q. — Does the Episcopal Church ever allow divorced people to marry again in the Church?

A. — Technically, No. But to understand this statement, one must recognize that under certain specific canonical provisions, the Church is empowered to annul the spiritual obligations of people already divorced under civil law. The grounds of annulment are specific. Evidence in the legal sense, is required and certain specific time prescriptions are imposed. The restoration of persons to Communicant Status is, of course, an entirely different matter.

Exhibit of Sculpture and Crafts

IN accord with the new plans for Exhibit Hall at New York Cathedral, it is the purpose of the Director to institute a series of revolving exhibits of contemporary and ecclesiastical art and objects — sculpture, painting, carving, etc.

The first of these exhibits is now in place in Exhibit Hall, 112th Street & Amsterdam Avenue, and comprises sculpture and metalcrafts. The artists represented are:

JEAN de MARCO is represented by four works, two of which are different sized versions of the cross with portraits of the apostles. These crosses represent a unique conception and achievement in sculptural technique. These portraits were worked individually on copper or brass in the repousse method of bas-relief, and the entire group assembled on the cross by nailing to the wood. The "Singer of Psalms" in white marble is a finely chiseled conception, while "Shepard" has the earthy simplicity and ruggedness which the title indicates.

NINA WINKEL's inspirations tend toward portrayal of the spiritual. The "Inner Light," which is a figure with arms upraised, appears as one in a moment of religious ecstasy. It is executed in terra cotta, a material both earthy and expressive, which is born of terrestrial clay and matured in the high heat of fire. Mrs. Winkel finds this to be a most direct approach as a means of expression.

HENRY KREIS — Another sculptor who feels at home with the medium of terra cotta is Henry Kreis. He has developed a unique system of constructing fairly large compositions which are composed of units large enough to fit into his baking kiln. When assembled, these units give an architectural and monumental feeling by the manner in which they are united. Mr. Kreis' style is very simple. Details are submerged in the large masses and altogether his figures give a feeling of quiet resignation and of peace with the world. Many of his titles are of religious origin.

PAUL KIRCHMER is primarily an ecclesiastical sculptor whose chief medium is bronze. His "St. Francis," "Madonna and Child" and "Entry into Jerusalem," the latter a unique version of Jesus on the donkey, were all executed in Florence, Italy. After spending five years there, he is currently in this country working at the Huntington Hartford Artists Colony in Los Angeles and is due to return in the Fall to work at the American Academy in Rome, for which he has received the coveted Prix de Rome. Mr. Kirchmer has exhibited in the Dayton Art Institute, the Detroit Art Museum, the Syracuse Museum, the Metropolitan Museum and the Vatican Museum in Rome.

The public is cordially invited to visit this exhibit, without admission charge, and also to see the display of handcrafts from the Philippines, Liberia, Alaska, Virginia, Haiti, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Japan.

One Year Old

On Tuesday, May 31st, the Cathedral Community Club will be one year old, and, as is customary among such clubs, there will be a birthday celebration. The party will start at the usual time, 1:30 PM., and will continue during the afternoon. Refreshments will be served at about 3:30. Guests are asked to come between 3:00 and 4:00, if possible.

The birthday party will precede the regular meeting of the Board of Episcopal Service to the Aged, which instituted and operates the Community Club.

This Cathedral Community Club, which meets in the Undercroft of the Cathedral weekly, is for older people and purely non-sectarian in operation. Although there are some 60-odd day centers scattered over the 5 Boroughs, there is nothing in this area between the middle west side and Washington Heights, with the exception of the center operated by the National Council of Jewish Women at 110th Street and Broadway. In the immediate neighborhood of the Cathedral, between 110th and 116th Streets from Amsterdam Avenue to Riverside Drive, there are a great many rooming houses occupied by unattached older women and men, many of whom have nowhere to go during the day. In this group have been found a great many people who will attend weekly.

St. John The Divine in Westchester

On Trinity Sunday, June 5th, the parish of the Church of St. John the Divine, Mount Vernon, is commemorating the 25th anniversary of the ordination of their Rector, the Reverend Jerome Dunbar, to the Ministry and his assignment to St. John the Divine, Mount Vernon, in the same year — 1930.

Miss Hall Dies

J. M. Hall, Inc. announces with deep sorrow the death of its Founder and President, Miss Janette M. E. Hall, on April 20, 1955. The firm will continue under the management of Robert W. Henderson, her cousin and associate in business for many years.

Husband, Wife Join Council

A HUSBAND-AND-WIFE team has been added to the staff of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The Rev. Richard L. Harbour and his wife, Virginia Markham Harbour, of Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y., have been named Executive Secretary and Editor of Publications respectively, in the Youth Division of the Department of Christian Education.

Since 1950 Mr. Harbour has been rector of St. Barnabas' Church in Irvington. He will now be responsible for developing the overall program of youth work in the Episcopal Church. Mrs. Harbour will prepare the special Church literature for young people. Since 1950 she has been Executive Secretary of the Association of Professional Women Church Workers.

145 Clergy Now Protected By Diocesan Life Insurance Contract

A YEAR AGO with the endorsement of the Convention the parishes and missions of the Diocese were offered an opportunity to participate in a Group Life Insurance Plan administered by the Diocese and covering the lives of the active clergy. During the year 145 clergy received this protection and as a result of the first year's good experience a 15% dividend was paid.

Only one death occurred among the group insured. In this case the deceased clergyman's son, largely because of this insurance, was enabled to meet family obligations, move out of the rectory and find residence elsewhere.

Any parish which does not now participate in the plan may do so upon application to the Treasurer of the Diocese.

Annual Meeting of Cathedral Guild

THE Annual Meeting of the Cathedral Guild of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine was held on Thursday, April 14th, at Cathedral House. The Bishop of the Diocese, the Dean of the Cathedral and the Canon Sacrist of the Cathedral made addresses. There was a large attendance. The meeting was followed by a reception and tea.

Several parishes were represented by delegates who brought contributions. $500 was given to the Bishop of the Diocese toward the Building Fund of the Cathedral, and $1500 for music at the Cathedral during the summer months, also a scholarship for a boy at the Choir School. Vestments, flowers and many other gifts had been presented to the Cathedral by the Guild in the past year.

This Guild provides and cares for the linen and flowers for the Altars, as well as vestments for the Clergy and Choir. It is hoped that each parish, through its members, will help to support this work which is necessary for the carrying on of the services at the Cathedral.

The annual dues are $1.00; Associate Membership, $5.00; and Life Membership, $10.00. Checks may be sent to Miss Emie S. Day, Treasurer, c/o City Bank Farmers Trust Company, 22 William Street, New York 15, N. Y.

The Proper Place of Curriculum Materials

Now that the first units in the New Curriculum Materials "The Seabury Series" are available and the month of June in the Diocese of New York will be marked by special conferences introducing these materials, there is need for a word of caution as to the place curriculum materials should be given in any worthwhile program of Christian Education.

In the past errors have been made in allowing the curriculum materials to seize too important a place on the stage. This has been the case in the Canadian Church and has been a danger everywhere. The more successful curriculum writers have been, and the more extensively their materials have been adopted for use in an area, to just that extent has the danger increased that the curriculum materials become the "tail that wags the Christian Education dog."

The genius of the National Council Curriculum Development Division has been that they have been able to broaden the concept of what the real curriculum of Christian Education is, and at the same time keep alive the demand for curriculum materials which in their view are a comparatively small part of the over-all curriculum.

The real text books of the Episcopal Church are the Bible, the Prayer Book and the Hymn Book. We have reached the ideal in teacher training when the Church, through its worship, its preaching, its adult study classes, etc., has developed the people who can receive from the Church a request to "hit" a certain "objective" and these people can go out and do the job out of their experience of the Church's real resources.

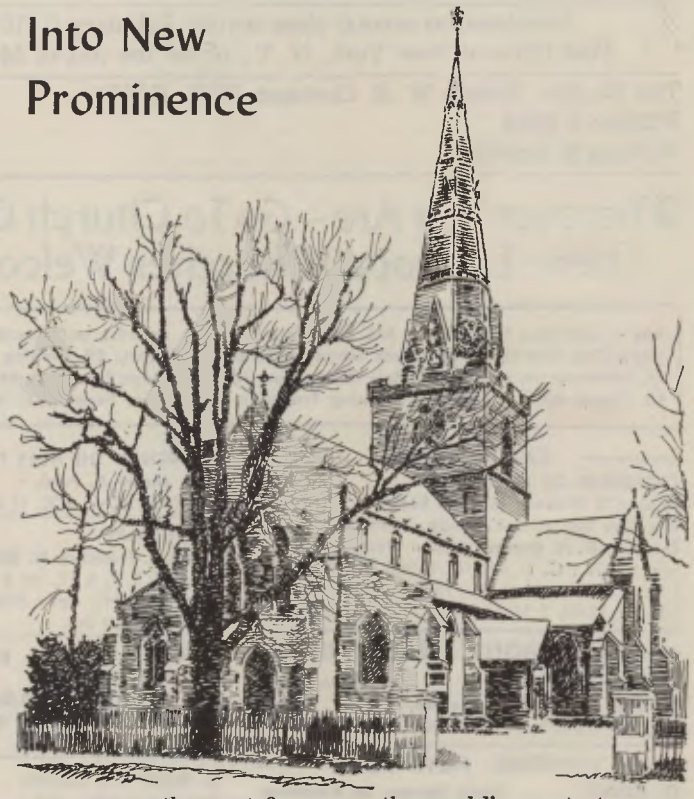
St. John's, Staten Island, Will Come Into New Prominence



Within the next five years the world's greatest suspension bridge will span the Narrows, the mile-wide pathway of water that leads into New York's inner harbor. With the new bridge, an Episcopal church on Staten Island, St. John's, will come into new prominence.

The bridge, an old dream soon to become a reality, will link Brooklyn and Staten Island. It is being designed as an integral link in a new high-speed motor highway connecting New England and Long Island with the South.

For motorists crossing from Brooklyn to Staten Island, the first church they will see on Staten Island will be St. John's. As they approach Staten Island, St. John's will be on their right.

St. John's, of which the Rev. Alexander A. Frier is rector, is near the waterfront. It can be seen from the Brooklyn shore so it will be visible all the way across the bridge. It will lie almost within the shadow of the span.

Because of its unique position at the entrance to Upper New York Bay — a neighbor of the U. S. Quarantine Station in Rosebank, S. I. — St. John's has long had the soubriquet of "The First Church in America." For arrivals in the New World through the port of New York, St. John's is actually the first church they see.

On the Bishop's birthday, May 17th, two of the Church School children from Christ Church, Tarrytown, came down to his office to sing him a birthday greeting and present him with flowers. The young lady is Miss Martha Kley, and the young gentleman is Michael Erhart.

CORRECTION: Due to an error in printing in the May issue, the name of Mr. Clifford P. Morehouse was omitted as an elected lay member of the Council of the Diocese, Class of 1957.

Also on page 16, of the May issue, the Bishop's appointment to the Committe on Canons should read the Reverend G. E. Nichols, instead of the Reverend F. E. Nichols.

The Bishop's Message

ON Monday, June 6th, Bishop Donegan left on an extended tour, first to Australia, and then to several parts of the Far East. The take-off was from Idlewild at 10:15 A.M., and he was accompanied on his tour by his Chaplain, Canon West.

The Bishop's travels will include Australia, the Philippines, Hong Kong, Japan and Hawaii.

He is visiting Australia on the invitation of the Archbishop of Sydney, the Most Reverend Howard W. K. Mowll, D.D., C.M.G. and accepted the invitation feeling that such a visit would serve in measure to strengthen the bonds of understanding and fellowship between our respective Churches. Under the Archbishop's guidance he will visit all the Episcopal institutions of Australia.

The Bishop's visits to the Philippines and Japan are the result of his interest as a member of the Overseas Department of the National Council. In the Philippines, on invitation of the Bishop, the Right Reverend Norman S. Binsted, D.D., S.T.D., he will visit the schools and hospitals in that country. In Japan, on invitation of the Presiding Bishop, the Most Reverend Michael Hinsuke Yashiro, D.D., S.T.D., Bishop Donegan will visit the schools and hospitals, and the reconstruction in that country. He will have the opportunity of seeing, first hand, some of our Church work in those lands.

His visit to Hong Kong is at the invitation of the Bishop, the Right Reverend Ronald Owen Hall, M.C.

From Japan the Bishop will go to Hawaii for General Convention, and thence back to New York.

St. John's, Staten Island

It is a handsome edifice of gray stone that these visitors from abroad see, a late 14th century Gothic structure with a spire reaching some 180 feet heavenward.

This church, and its spire, played a heart-warming role at the close of World War I. Oldtime Staten Islanders not connected with St. John's still proudly relate how St. John's welcomed home America's soldiers.

In the rectory of St. John's is a yellowed copy of the magazine section of the old New York World of September 7, 1919 that tells the story of these welcomes. The article, which covered the entire first page and an inner page, was entitled "The Welcoming Spire of New York Harbor."

The article related how each shipload of returning soldiers was welcomed by the St. John's sexton, Frank Pfleging, who rang out a greeting on the chimes and waved a Flag from the tower landing.

Who knows how many thousands of returning doughboys fought back their tears as they heard these chimes of "The First Church in America"?

St. John's has stood on this spot since shortly after the Civil War, but the history of the church goes back to before the Mexican War.

The first services were held early in 1843 — in a hotel. The exact date has been forgotten, but the place was the old Clifton Hotel on Cliff Street. It was not long before it was realized that more space was needed. At a meeting on July 14, 1843, it was decided to build a church.

The first church edifice, a wooden building with a bell tower, was built on land donated by Lewis Lyman on the northwest corner of Belair Road and New York Avenue (now called Bay Street). The present church is diagonally across Bay Street from the original site.

The cornerstone for the first church was laid September 12, 1843. The church was consecrated March 30, 1844 by the Rt. Rev. Benjamin T. Onderdonk, fourth Bishop of the Diocese of New York.

The church's official name is St. John's Church, Clifton — a fact that puzzles modern-day parishioners because the church is located in Rosebank, not in Clifton, an adjacent community. But back in 1844 the area now called Rosebank was a part of Clifton.

The name of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, the railroad tycoon who organized the New York Central Railroad, pops up several times in the annals of the very early days of the church. Among the many valuable gifts given the new church was a large Bible presented by Mrs. Vanderbilt. The first child baptized in St. John's, in 1844, was a Vanderbilt son Cornelius. The first bride to stand before its altar was a Vanderbilt daughter, Sophia, who was married March 9, 1846, to Daniel Torrence of Montreal.

In the mid-1850's a mission for the German population of Staten Island was established in Stapleton. This mission, St. Simon's, later became a Diocesan mission and this year became a self-supporting parish. It is now located in the community of Concord.

About 1867 the increase in population made the need for a larger church apparent. A building committee was formed and plans were laid for the new building. The cornerstone was laid November 10, 1869, by the Rt. Rev. Horatio Potter, sixth Bishop of New York.

This is today's church edifice — a handsome structure of pure decorated Gothic of the Edwardian period. (The steeple, however, is not a characteristic of this style.)

Once more many fine gifts were given — chimes for the tower, which still announce the services; a town clock (a gift from the church's neighbors), many large stained glass memorial windows and many liberal cash donations.

It is recorded that when it came time to have the church consecrated it was impossible to do so since an indebtedness of many thousands of dollars still existed. Then John A. Appleton, the book publisher, arose from his sick bed, became personally responsible for the amount, and attended the consecration. The church was consecrated September 30, 1871 by Bishop Potter.

The town clock in the church steeple still tells the time for the townspeople, and parishioners, but it no longer has four faces. Probably few parishioners or neighbors realize it, but the clock has had only three faces since the great windstorm of November, 1950.

The hurricane-force winds blew out a section of the steeple, and with it went one face of the huge clock. The clock face landed in a field to the north of the church. Fortunately the wind was strong enough that the clock face cleared the roof because otherwise it most certainly would have crashed through.

As this face of the clock is not seen from Bay Street or from the church grounds, it was decided not to replace it. It was expensive enough repairing the damage!

The church property includes a rectory of stone, a parish house that has been a focal point for many community activities through the years, and a house for the sexton. Incidentally, Frank Pfleging, the sexton who waved the Flag after World War I, is still sexton; he has been sexton forty-seven years.

The present rector, the Rev. A. A. Frier, has been rector since 1943. Mr. Frier came to Staten Island from Walden, N. Y., where he was rector of St. Andrew's Church and served as dean of the Convocation of Hudson.

On Staten Island he has been dean of the Convocation of Richmond.

Mr. Frier is only the tenth rector of St. John's in its 112-year history. Two of its rectors served long periods — the Rev. Dr. John C. Eccleston, who was first rector in the present church edifice, for thirty-nine years and the Rev. Dr. William H. Pott, who served between the two world wars, twenty years. Dr. Pott also served as Archdeacon of the Diocese.

Perhaps the most notable event at St. John's in recent years was the completion, in 1953, of the colorful redecoration of the interior of the church.

Through the years St. John's has maintained close ties with the community, both Rosebank and the Borough of Richmond as a whole. Each year, for instance, the Borough's Masons hold their annual Communion service at St. John's. The church has cooperated with such diverse groups as the New York City Police Athletic League, in its program to aid underprivileged children, and Alcoholics Anonymous, a unit of which meets in the parish house.

St. John's, since its founding in 1843, has seen Staten Island change from a county of farms and little villages, with great summer homes for New York's wealthy, to a suburb-like borough of New York City with 200,000 inhabitants.

The coming bridge across the Narrows will make many more changes. It will also affect St. John's. A number of parishioners will lose their homes as they stand in the way of bridge approaches or the highway that will connect the new bridge with existing bridges to New Jersey.

Will these parishioners move far from the church? Will they be lost to St. John's? Will they, and others, find the new highway makes it easy to get to services at St. John's from greater distances? Will the population of the Borough increase so much that St. John's will get many more members? Will the character of the community near St. John's change from residential to industrial?

These are all intriguing questions, fraught with importance for St. John's. Only time can provide the answers.

The Proper Place of Curriculum Materials

Perhaps we will never reach the Utopia envisioned above. Because we are now so far from it curriculum materials are certainly necessary. But more than ever we are going to need to keep these materials in proper perspective.

The Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, Director of our Diocesan Department of Christian Education has, throughout the past year been suggesting that this proper perspective on curriculum materials can best be seen by remembering that there are FOUR CHIEF DETERMINERS of what a teacher should do in any specific teaching time. These four are in a descending order of importance:

(a). The objective or aim for this hour, month, season or year. This objective should be received from the Church and should be considered the teacher's "marching orders". These are usually stated in the curriculum chosen and should be the chief reason why it has been selected.

(b). The religious experience of the teacher.

(c). The needs and interests of the pupils.

(d). Written curriculum resources, most chiefly the Bible, the Prayer Book, the Hymn Book and other resources prepared for adult use (e.g. The Church's Teaching Series.) and, finally, prepared curriculum materials which help the teacher achieve the objective already set up.

Remember, the above list is in a descending order of importance. Please note that most Sunday School teachers are depending on their present Text Book or Pupil Book for approximately 90% of what he or she will say. This serves to illustrate one of the great differences between the new curriculum materials and those now in general use for it will be absolutely impossible to use the new materials as a source of "canned" Sunday School lessons.

The welcomed arrival of the Seabury Series has already caused a great deal of publicity, discussion, conference and comment. It would be easy, especially now, for us to forget one of the chief understandings on which it is based — that the curriculum material itself is a comparatively small part of the total curriculum. The worship services of the Church, other experiences of life in the Church family, the influence of home and parents, public education, playmates, policemen, Santa Claus — all these and many other influences are important factors in a growing understanding of God.

The Rev. John Bell's Report on Christian Social Relations

(At 174th Convention, May 10th)

". . . in Christian conscience we have a responsibility ever to create a more Christian social order within the life of our Church, and in the society in which the Church is set. It is obvious that this responsibility is a very great one, involving manifold human situations, problems and opportunities. As in other years, during the past one the Department has endeavored to discharge this responsibility.

"To do this it has had (1) an education program, (2) a concern for social legislation, (3) a consideration of the Church's place in our Dioesan Social Agencies and (4) a variety of other activities.

An Educational Program

"This program includes a conference on 'Youth Day,' held in St. Andrew's Church, Poughkeepsie, for the Dutchess Convocation which was attended by 105 parents, teachers, clergy and young people from 11 parishes.

"Another conference on the 'Church's Ministry to

On May 18 St. Luke's Hospital had their graduation exercises in the Cathedral. Above is shown the Bishop with President J. Stewart Baker of the Hospital and Henry T. Heald, Chancellor of New York University, who gave the graduation address, looking over a very pretty group of graduating nurses.

Alcoholics' was held in the Seamen's Church Institute in Manhattan and was attended by 100 clergy and social workers.

"A conference on 'Our Responsibility to our Troubled Children' was held at the Hotel Biltmore, Manhattan, attended by 574 clergy, social workers and lay people. The Bishop, the Suffragan Bishop and a panel of distinguished judges and educators made this a most significant occasion. The addresses of the panel, and particularly that of the Bishop, achieved real progress in our understanding of the deeply distressing problem of juvenile delinquency.

A Concern for Social Legislation

"We opposed the legislation of bingo for the financial support of religious and charitable institutions.

"We backed four housing bills (all of which passed).

"We backed a bill authorizing hostels for youths on probation or parole (which passed).

"We backed a group of bills controlling crime-sex-horror comics (which passed).

A Consideration of the Church's Place in our Diocesan Social Agencies

"As a result of a budget item approved by the Council of the Diocese, the Department has had a meeting with the National Council's Departmental Division of Health and Welfare Services looking toward a study of the place of the Church in our fifteen Diocesan Social Agencies, of their relation to the Diocese, and of their relation one to another. This is a most important activity which will require a great deal of careful thought and collaboration. For, it concerns itself with not only the programs of the Diocese and the Social Agencies, but with our total philosophy and religious conviction about the place of social agencies in the life of the Church and community, and about the way in which we, as Christians, may bring the redeeming Life of the Lord into the lives of needy people. Historically speaking, the service of each of these agencies was initiated out of the Christian conscience of

New Series of Summer Forums at the Cathedral

THE THIRD annual series of Summer Forums at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, to be held on July 10, 17, 24, and 31, will feature lectures by the Reverend J. S. Whale, D.D., on "Four Problems of Theology: Evil, Time, Death and Freedom." Formerly Professor of Ecclesiastical History at Mansfield College and President of Chestnut College, Cambridge, Dr. Whale is now the Headmaster of Mill Hill School and a widely read author in theology.

Following the lectures by Dr. Whale there will be seminars for summer session students led by the Reverend John McGill Krumm, Chaplain of Columbia University; the Reverend Emmet Gribben, Episcopal Chaplain at the University of Alabama; the Reverend Howard A. Johnson, Canon Theologian, Cathedral of St. John the Divine; the Reverend William Turner Levy, Professor of English Literature at City College of New York; Dr. Allen Reddick, Director of College Work of the Diocese of New York, and others.

General arrangements will be under the direction of the Reverend John W. Pyle, Canon Pastor, Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and Advisor to Episcopal Students at Columbia University. Seminars will be organized according to the special interests of teachers, graduate students, and others in the field of higher education. During the seminars those participating will have a light supper.

Preceding the forums and seminars, students are invited to attend the four o'clock Evensong Service at the Cathedral which will continue the tradition of special sermons in conversational form.

The topic this year will be The Seven Deadly Sins, discussed in trialogue form by the Very Reverend Dr. James A. Pike, Dean; the Reverend Howard A. Johnson, Canon Theologian and Mr. Ralph E. Hartwig, a lay reader of the Church. These sermons will also be broadcast over the ABC radio network. Mr. Hartwig will represent the tempted soul, and Dean Pike and Canon Johnson will alternate in the roles of the devil and the voice of conscience.

Two New G.F.S. Groups Received Charters May 14

THE Girls' Friendly Society of this Diocese again surpassed itself by contributing approximately $350.00 as its part of the 1955 missionary offering of the national society. The gift will be used to aid the work of the church in India. At a Cathedral service on Saturday, May 14 the offering was presented by representatives of parish branches following a rally held in the Undercroft of Synod Hall. Nearly 300 girls and advisors attended, dressed in Indian costumes and participating in a program of Indian and American games, songs and dances. Currently studying at General Theological Seminary, New York City, three Indian clergy, The Revs. P. S. Samuel, A. Joseph Matthew, and R. M. Marthan assisted with the program and the service. Also present was Miss Aleyamma George, Windham House student and Mrs. Stephen K. Mahon, Executive Secretary of the National GFS.

During the service, two new branches: St. Simon's, Richmond and St. John's-in-the-Village, Manhattan were presented charters by the Rev. J. Philip Nordeck, Jr., Diocesan GFS Chaplain.

members of our Church to meet the needs of their fellow members, and of people generally in the community. It is of great importance for us to realize that the life and work of such agencies is in its very nature not an 'extra,' but an expression of the very essence of the social awareness of our beloved Fellowship.

A Variety of other Activities

"One member of the Department has obtained eighty assurances for the admission of refugees under the Refugee Relief Act of 1953, which number is a large percentage of the total assurances secured in the whole Episcopal Church.

"Prompt action taken by the Narcotics Committee to keep youthful narcotic addicts at Riverside Hospital on North Brothers Island for treatment instead of having them moved to the Women's House of Detention on Greenwich Ave., Manhattan, was largely responsible for maintaining this vital work in a hospital setting.

"A study of the New York City Department of Walfare Shelters for Women and Children was made by a clergyman and social worker, both members of the Department.

"We shared in a press conference called by the Hon. Hubert T. Delany to answer vicious newspaper attacks upon the whole philosophy of the Children's Court.

"Last, but not least, five resolutions were presented for action by this Convention today.

"These activities have been carried out under the executive leadership of our part-time Director, the Reverend Leland B. Henry. Much of the accomplishment of the year is due to his expert and sensitive leadership, and his indefatigable attention to these great concerns. Though part-time it is continually a mystery to us all how he is able to discharge his responsibilities as Rector of St. Mary's, Scarborough, and still give us such competent direction. Part-time in title and salary, he has been full-time in fact and service.

"The Board has also taken an active part, which has been possible largely because of its particular composition. It is representative of the whole Diocese, having members from each Convocation.

"The Woman's Auxiliary is officially represented, so that not only does the Department have the social judgment of the women of the Church, but it also has the very willing cooperation of the Auxiliary in taking its program to the Diocese.

"Other members have been co-opted as specialists. One is a member of the State Board of Social Welfare; another has been with the State Commission Against Discrimination, and is a specialist on housing. Four are lawyers, of whom one is a Judge of the Children's Court; and one an ex-Justice of the Supreme Court; three are social workers; one is an officer of a Labor Union; and one is a professional consultant in labor-management relationships. The clerical members have represented every type of parish life from that of the Lower East Side of Manhattan and the

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

WHAT higher compliment could possibly be paid to anyone than to be called the greatest of the human race? And what higher source could pay such a compliment than Jesus, the Son of God?

To whom was it paid? To John the Baptist. Why? Because he was the last of all the prophets. He was "the voice of one crying n the wilderness . . . " He alone could say, "I indeed baptize you in water unto repentance: but He that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: He shall baptize you in the Holy Spirit and in fire." He was none other than the fore-runner of the Messiah himself.

Jesus recognized John the Baptist as such. To the multitudes he said concerning John, "What went ye out into the wilderness to behold? a reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out to see? a man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they that wear soft raiment are in kings' houses. But wherefore went ye out? to see a prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet . . . This is he, of whom it is written, Behold I send my messenger before thy face, who shall prepare thy way before thee . . . Verily, I say unto you, among them that are born of woman there hath not arisen a greater than John the Baptist . . . "

But, believe it or not, you and I are greater than John because, Jesus continued, one "that is but little in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he." For John was the last of the old dispensation. Our Lord introduced the new covenant — "If I by the finger of God cast out demons then is the kingdom of God come upon you" — and only through him can one become a member of the kingdom.

At our baptism we were made a member of Christ, the child of God, and an inheritor of the kingdom of heaven. Little though we may be, as members of the kingdom, through Christ, we are greater than the greatest not in the kingdom.

It is a wonderful thought, isn't it? And it's more than a thought — it's true.

Diocese Acquires Mountain Landmark Chapel

On Sunday, May 1st, the Board of Missions of the Diocese of New York took over the Chapel of the Holy Name, Cragsmoor, Ulster County. The Rev. Robert C. Ward, Vicar of St. John's Memorial Church, Ellenville, was appointed Priest-in-Charge by the Bishop. Archdeacon Brätt introduced the Rev. Mr. Ward to the congregation and made the address. From left to right are shown: the Rev. Robert C. Ward; the Rev. Harold H. R. Thompson, Rector of St. John's, Monticello, who read the Second Lesson; the Rev. G. Melbourne Jones, Rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Newburgh, recently made Dean of the Hudson Convocation, who conducted the Service; and the Rev. David Arnold, Vicar of St. Peter's, Stone Ridge, who read the First Lesson.

More Can Be Done

At the 174th Annual Convention of the Diocese of New York, Bishop Donegan expressed disappointment over the fact that so little of the Diocesan Revolving Fund has been subscribed to up until this time. While paying tribute to those parishes, missions and individuals that had done more than their share, the Bishop expressed his keen disappointment that only approximately thirty thousand dollars had currently been realized for the part of the Builders for Christ Campaign known as the Diocesan Revolving Fund.

The purpose of the $200,000 Diocesan Revolving Fund is to make available interest-free loans to newly organized church groups in the rapidly expanding areas of Ramapo, Hudson, Dutchess and Westchester Convocations.

One of the great problems of the Church today, as it moves into new areas, is that more often than not it is forced to wait until funds are available from local sources before establishing itself. Normally by the time a new church group is able to raise the needed funds for a new church the increasing values of property in a growing community force them to pay two or three times what would have been the required price. How much better it would be if they were able to secure, through sources similar to the Diocesan Revolving Fund, the aid needed to make their purchases at an earlier date.

For these reasons, and others, the common sense applications of a Diocesan Revolving Fund are obvious. Too often in the past, the Church has found itself in that position so aptly described by that great phrase-maker, Winston Churchill, as having "too little, too late."

The Bishop has urged all those persons who have not as yet pledged their support to the Builders for Christ Campaign to do so. All pledges paid in excess to those already in hand will be applied directly to the Diocesan Revolving Fund.

Pledges may be sent either to your own rector or directly to the Bishop, Cathedral Heights, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City 25.

Report of The Department of Christian Social Relations

urban sections to those of the suburban and rural areas; and one is the head of the Chaplaincy Service of the City Mission Society.

"There have been three Standing Committees on Health and Welfare Services, Christian Citizenship, and Narcotics.

"It is important to note that many of our members serve on the boards of our own Diocesan Social Agencies, of other departments and institutions of the Diocese and the National Church and of many community agencies.

"We have continued our policy of taking the program to various parts of the Diocese, so that there would be no area or type of situation with which we were not acquainted.

"We feel that these educational and social activities have had some practical effect. In this area of Christian Social Relations we all long for immediate results in the life of the Church, community, nation and world. While we must never relax our efforts to achieve such immediate results, we must also remember that the full impact of one year's work may not be realized for many months, or even years. This Department deals with the great problems: such as, the Church's responsibility to minister to all sorts and conditions of men, the place of social work in the Church, inter-church cooperation on many services to the community, labor-management relationships, race relations, juvenile delinquency, social legislation, Christian judgment in matters of national and international concern. God's will for men, though sometimes clearly seen, is not always easily realized in all situations. Along with the desire for accomplishment, we need great patience and an understanding of the magnitude of our responsibility. In the light of the enormous problems we face, our achievements may seem very small. However, it is reassuring to realize that, as time goes on, it is the power of such active Christian concern and conscience which does create a more and more Christian social order."

The Royal School of Church Music is a Church society founded by Sir Sydney H. Nicholson in 1927 with members and affiliated choirs in all parts of the world-wide Anglican Communion. It is engaged in helping churches to beautify their worship through appropriate music well selected and performed. There are more than 50 affiliated choirs in the United States. Membership is open to churches, choirs, the clergy, organists and choirmasters, and members of congregations who agree to work for the cause of good church music.

THE Very Reverend James Green, dean of the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, Long Island, N. Y. died August 31st at the Cathedral deanery at the age of 54.

Born in Wigan, Lancashire, England, Dean Green studied in this country, graduating from the General Theological Seminary in 1931, and was ordained priest in 1932. He served as curate of Trinity Church, Newport, R. I. until 1939, when he became priest in charge of St. Paul's Chapel of Trinity Parish, New York City, and Chaplain of Trinity School.

A member of the American Guild of Organists, he became canon precentor of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in 1942, a position which then involved taking charge of the Cathedral's music and acting as headmaster of its choir school. He left there in 1953 to become dean of the Long Island cathedral.

Survivors are his wife, Lily Christine Christensen Green; one son James Green Jr.; and two daughters, Mary and Patricia Green.

The Bishop's Message

Honolulu, September 12

My dear People:

As I write this column, the General Convention is in mid-stream, and it is impossible to report in any detail on my visit to Australia, the Philippines, Hong Kong, and Japan. I look forward later on through the "Diocesan Bulletin", and as I go about the Diocese, to pass on to you insights I have gained from my trip to the Far East.

The 58th General Convention is unique since it is the first time in the history of our Church that the Convention has assembled outside the Continental United States. Bishop Kennedy and the Clergy and the people of Hawaii have welcomed us warmly, and extended every possible kindness and courtesy. We are most grateful to Bishop Kennedy for the gracious hospitality we have experienced. Meeting at the Crossroads of the Pacific has made us more aware of our responsibility overseas.

On my arrival from Japan, I met with the Overseas Department to discuss opportunities for expanding the Church missionary enterprise throughout the world, and specifically in the Pacific. The presence of the Archbishops of Australia and New Zealand, the Presiding Bishop of the Church in Japan and the Supreme Bishop of the Philippine Independent Church underlines the need for new missionary endeavor in this part of the world.

All through this Convention there has been a remarkable spirit of understanding and goodwill and patience at all times. Such issues as changing the name of the Church have been debated without partisanship. The United Thank Offering, which was presented at the Overseas Mass Meeting, was the largest ever given, amounting to $3,149,197.83. It is encouraging to note that the largest single gift in the amount of $161,483.43 came from the women of the Diocese of New York. To all who contributed to the United Thank Offering, I express my gratitude.

The General Convention of 1958 has been invited to New York City — though as of this writing no vote has been taken. If our invitation is accepted, it will be the first time General Convention has met in New York since 1913, at which time the Synod House was built to accommodate the Convention.

A large budget has been adopted for the next Triennium, and it is incumbent upon us all, clergy and laity, to make possible the fulfillment of this imaginative effort to expand the effectiveness of our Church throughout the world.

May God bless you all,

Faithfully your Bishop

Horace W. B. Donegan

Convocation of the Bronx

THE challenge to the Church in its urban areas, which was presented at the General Convention in September, by the Bishop of Chicago, is being ably and vigorously met in this Diocese of New York, and notably so within the Convocation of the Bronx. Originally, a series of village and even country parishes, each one with its ecclesiastical and geographical designation, the present twenty-one parishes are in the midst of one of the teeming city populations of our country. Whereas these congregations were once made of people of British and German backgrounds, they now number all races, kindreds, and tongues. Although a "monochrome" parish is entirely contrary to our known Diocesan policy, five of these parishes are located in areas predominantly represented by those who have come from the West Indies or Puerto Rico.

The Faith as "this Church hath received the same" was established in what is now the Borough of the Bronx, 262 years ago, on the Feast of Saint Matthew, September 21, 1693, with the setting apart of the Parish of Saint Peter's, Westchester, whose fourth Rector, Samuel Seabury, became the first Bishop of the Church in this country. The Bronx, therefore, has a tradition second to none in this Diocese. The changes and chances of this mortal life have been many since 1693. Our first parish, although it is not at this writing what is technically known as an "urban parish," is a symbol of adaptation. It has been the parish church of a hamlet, a village, a farming community, a wealthy summer residential area, a suburb, and finally of a great and changing urban population. Mr. Ripley once said, "believe it or not, when the congregation of St. Peter's, Westchester, sat down to worship in 1885, there was represented more than one hundred millions of concentrated wealth."

Gone are these days now, when the church finds itself set in the midst of a steel mill, ship factory, and junk yard, and towering above the elevated railroad.

Such analogous changes have taken place elsewhere. Within recent years weak parishes have become strong, multitudes being served whereas heretofore there had been a modest congregation. Trinity, Morisania, and Saint Margaret's have become two of the largest parishes in the Convocation. The "big three" have become the "big five". Even within the past few months, with new public housing developments and new racial backgrounds in evidence, rapid and remarkable changes have been taking place. Several other parishes have the possibility of a great future. With a glorious tradition behind it, and new opportunities ahead of it, the Church in the Bronx goes forward with confidence to show itself a truly Catholic Church, for all peoples in all places at all times, and with the Gospel to be preached to men and women and children out of every nation, kindred and tongue. There is good reason to believe that the glories of the past may be but a reflection of the glory that shall be.

LESLIE J. A. LANG
Dean, Convocation of the Bronx

Convocation of Dutchess

WE are intending to make a real effort to increase our giving to the Program of the Church. We may even dare to hope that our Convocation will at last meet its quota. We shall continue the excellent work of young people which has been carried on under the excellent direction of the Rev. E. Otis Charles. This will climax at a service in Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, on the Sunday within the Octave of the Epiphany. This service was begun last year as a gathering of Choirs and Servers' Guilds. There were almost 200 in the procession.

The Convocation of Dutchess has for a great many years sponsored a School of Religion in the fall. Within the past four years, this has been very well attended. This year a series of lectures for laymen on the Old Testament will be given by the Rev. Robert C. Dentan, Professor of Old Testament at the General Theological Seminary and author of The Holy Scriptures in the Church's Teaching Series. The School of Religion will be held Monday evenings in October in Christ Church, Poughkeepsie.

ROBERT E. TERWILLIGER
Dean of the Convocation of Dutchess

Convocation of Manhattan

THE Fall Meeting of the Convocation of Manhattan will be devoted to Missions, as the canon directs. It will be held in Trinity Church on November 9th.

After dinner in the new Trinity Parish dining room and nearby clubs and restaurants, the meeting will begin at 8:00 P.M. in the church.

Bishop Donegan, Bishop Boynton and Fr. Gowe, Vicar of St. Edward the Martyr and former head of our hospital in Puerto Rico, will speak.

Parishes will report on their expected payments to the Quota. It is planned that the meeting will end with Compline at 9:15 P.M.

HUGH MCCANDLESS
Dean of the Convocation of Manhattan

Convocation of Ramapo

RAMAPO Convocation consists of twenty-four churches, all of them in the rural area of our Diocese; four have budgets that exceed ten thousand dollars for "current expenses". At least fifty per cent of these churches are on the verge of rapid growth, several are planning to add buildings or to re-locate. Here are examples of the physical activity in Ramapo: Tuxedo has recently spent $23,000 on all their "plant"; Sufffern has begun to restore the rectory, hopes to lay better roads and parking area, continues to work on the parish house; Nyack is re-doing everything, bit by bit; Middletown's church has been re-decorated; and Valley Cottage and Pearl River intend to re-locate and prepare for the immediate needs of expanding communities . . . And you could go on and tell of other congregations in Ramapo that are doing their best to keep the Episcopal Church in the fore-front of progress, during an "expanding economy".

The Dean's Column

THE busy parish priest generally means to preach according to the Church Year, but his busy schedule which often pushes him until Saturday night for sermon preparation, and his little time for consistent theological reading means that he sometimes approaches the great themes enshrined in liturgy in a somewhat "touch-and-go" fashion. Consequently, it has occurred to us here at the Cathedral that we might afford a service to the Clergy — and the laity, who are the ultimate beneficiaries or "victims" of our preaching — if we presented a series of lectures by theologians and preachers of first rank analyzing the appropriate themes for each of the Church seasons, doing so well before each season begins. All of those we have invited to provide the lectures have enthusiastically accepted, and Scribners has agreed to publish the whole series for permanent reference. An invitation will go out to all of the Clergy of our Diocese and surrounding dioceses, but meanwhile, for the record, here are the dates, subjects and speakers:

November 9 — "Preaching in Advent" — the Very Rev. Hughell E. W. Fosbroke, S.T.D., Honorary Canon, Dean Emeritus, General Theological Seminary.

December 7 — "Preaching in Christmastide and the Epiphany Season" — the Rev. Albert T. Mollegen, D.D., Professor of New Testament Language and Literature, Virginia Theological Seminary.

January 18 — "Preaching in Pre-Lent" — the Rev. Theodore O. Wedel, Ph.D., S.T.D., Canon of Washington Cathedral, Warden of the College of Preachers.

February 1 — "Preaching in Lent" Speaker to be announced.

February 29 — "Preaching in Holy Week" — The Rev. Frederick C. Grant, Th.D., D.S.Litt., D.C.L., D.H.L., Edward Robinson, Professor of Biblical Theology, Union Theological Seminary.

March 21 — "Preaching in Eastertide" — the Rev. J. V. Langmead Casserley, D.Litt., Professor of Dogmatic Theology, General Theological Seminary.

April 18 — "Preaching in Ascensiontide and Whitsuntide" — the Rev. W. Norman Pittenger, S.T.D., Charles Lewis Gomph, Professor of Christian Apologetics, General Theological Seminary.

May 16 — "Preaching in Trinity Season" — the Rev. Theodore P. Ferris, D.D., Rector, Trinity Church, Boston.

All the sessions fall on Wednesday and will be held at the Cathedral. Each will begin at 10:30 a.m. with a brief Office of worship, and there will be a "coffee-break" between the two sections of the presentation by the speaker. Adjournment at 12:25. Preceding the first four addresses will be brief statements by the members of the Chapter on certain aspects of liturgical preaching: on November 9th, I will introduce the series briefly with comments on The Church Year in Preaching; on December 7th the Canon Theologian will deal with the question What is Preaching?; on January 18th the Canon Pastor will speak on Preaching at Baptisms, Weddings and Funerals; and on February 1st the Canon Sacrist will comment on Preaching on Saints' Days. Canon Johnson is serving as director for the series.

The lecture series has nothing to do with homiletics in the narrower sense (i.e. projection of the voice, use of gesture, organization of material, etc.), nor is the aim to dole out "prefab" sermons. Rather, we want to deal with content, with the main burden of the Church's proclamation in each of the seasons of the Church Year. For this reason, the series might well have been called "Theology for Preaching".

We hope that many of our Clergy will profit by these sessions — and that in the long run our laymen will profit also.

James A. Pike

Dean of New York

Convocation of Ramapo

A rectory will be needed in New City, a parish house in Sloatsburg. 1,649 children in the Sunday schools indicates an interest in the youth. All places, in 1955, promise to pay, in full, the Missionary Quota and also their various amounts for the "Builders for Christ" Campaign.

Fall Convocation takes place Wednesday, November 2nd at Grace Church, Port Jervis, the Rev. John D. Chequer, Vicar.

FESSENDEN A. NICHOLS
Dean of Ramapo Convocation

Convocation of Richmond

SINCE the number of parishes within the Convocation of Richmond is relatively few as compared with some other convocations, and since the parishes are within a short driving distance of each other, the problems that face our convocation are concerned with the whole island and not so much with individual parish programs. The clergy meet regularly once a month for worship, fellowship and a free discussion of our mutual work. The clergy know each other very well and understand the peculiar situation of each parish. Although we have our differences, there is a fine spirit of cooperation which has been very helpful.

It is my hope that during the coming year we can strengthen and increase this wonderful spirit of working together so that the Church as a whole can more effectively present the gospel message to the community. With the advent of the bridge across the Narrows and an expressway across the Island, every indication points to a very rapid increase in the population and home owners within the coming decade. This will be a challenge to all the churches, and plans must be made now to meet this opportunity.

Plans are already underway for the annual Washington's Birthday Corporate Communion, when up to 300 men and boys from various parishes meet and worship together at the same altar. The ladies of the Auxiliary have also made preliminary plans for another School of Worship to be held just before Lent.

The weak part of the program of the Island is the youth work. We have been just marking time for several years. We have youth groups in every parish but little has been done to coordinate the programs between the parishes. This is a project for consideration this year.

As in the past we will emphasize our relationship to the Diocese and the National Church. Again we plan to support the missionary program, one hundred percent.

BERNARD A. HEMSLEY
Dean of Convocation of Richmond

Army Chaplain Finds World a Small Place

CHAPLAIN (Major) Eric I. Eastman, former vicar of St. Andrew's, Hartsdale and St. Martha's North White Plains and for the last fourteen years serving with the U. S. Army, is now senior chaplain at the Munich Sub Area headquarters.

Early this summer the Treasurer of the Diocese wrote Chaplain Eastman and asked him to look up his son PFC Theodor Oxholm, Jr. of the 370th Armored Infantry Battalion stationed in Munich. Their Subsequent meeting for an off duty chat indicates their mutual regard. In a letter to Mr. Oxholm, Sr. Chaplain Eastman tells of his latest venture.

"This brings me to news of my latest venture. We have in the Army many away from home who are as your own son, they do not know what to do with themselves as the ordinary life is not attractive or appealing. Their tastes are different. Consequently I have begun the restoring of a defunct church here in Munich. I have a Bishop's Committee instead of a Vestry and we are opening an American Church Center this Sunday. It will be open every day. We are operating on a shoe string, but it will be worthwhile. Primarily it will be for the military and students at the University of Munich. Your son was quite impressed when I explained we chose the location away from the central part of the city so that we could attract the University students. Now we will look for a suitable location to have Church services. At the present I am conducting them in an Army Chapel, about 20 miles from where Ted is living. In time we will have a church downtown."

"Diane" and The Floods

At Ellenville

As a result of the flood in Ellenville on August 19th, three families of St. John's Church, Ellenville, were made homeless and suffered total loss of all their possessions. A fourth family had their business destroyed when the flood waters ripped through their soda bottling plant.

The Rev. Charles J. Buck, Rector of the Church of the Holy Nativity, Bainbridge Avenue & 204th Street, New York City; who was Priest-in-charge at Ellenville and Holy Name, Cragsmoor, during the month of August, solicited cash gifts from the congregation in Cragsmoor and ordered a special offering taken on Sunday, August 21, at Holy Nativity. The money thus received was turned over to the Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's to be used for the direct assistance for the flood victims in the parish. Gifts of clothing from the staffs of the Cathedral and Diocesan Offices, plus donations of furniture and other effects by the members of the Ellenville parish, made possible the re-location of the flood victims, in other quarters.

The Priest-in-charge was able to ascertain through direct consultation with the flood victims, the local tax officers, and the real estate men of the community that the loss of the four families concerned exceeded $100,000. As far as was known at the time, none of this was recoverable through any insurance carried by these families.

The Church property was spared any damage.

At Port Jervis

"A billion dollars worth of damage has been done in these many disaster areas. And the damage in Port Jervis yet has to be computed. If there is any doubt in your mind take a look at what is being done now, even at this minute, in The Acre (the poorest section of town, between the Erie tracks and the Delaware River, which was completely inundated well over door sills and in some cases to second story windows) where the process of digging out from under the flood still has a long, long way to go, with threats of yet grim tragedy should the efforts of the community be relaxed even for a moment. (There was a threat of typhoid, but through boiling drinking water and the giving of anti-toxin shots, the scare has not been realized.)

"But let us go back to the night of August 18th. We have read in the papers about the devastation and the loss in money damage. And the more grim loss of life. But in

Help For Your EveryMemberCanvass

THE Rev. Albert A. Chambers, Chairman of the Department of Promotion, has announced that his department, under the direction of Mr. Ed Yowell, has a corps of field representatives who are ready to help individual churches and missions in this Diocese with their Every Member Canvass problems.

This corps of volunteer laymen have been carefully selected, the chairman said, and by virtue of their several secular professions and the training they have received from Mr. Yowell, they are unusually competent to represent the Diocese wherever they may be invited.

The proper procedure for securing the help of one of these outstanding laymen is to contact the Department of Promotion, Cathedral Heights, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25, N. Y. or by phone at UNiversity 5-3600.

The services of these laymen are available free to any parish or mission of this Diocese.

Port Jervis there was no loss of human life. There was a reason for this. It was no accident.

"At 9 P.M. there was a mobilization here like nothing ever seen before. There were the city administrators, the police, the auxiliary police, then the complete force of volunteer firemen, then a further mobilization of members of the civilian defense corps, and the many others, never to be named, who simply were swept along because there was a job which needed badly to be done and quickly.

"This entire corps of unnumbered, and for the most part unnamed heroes, alerted the entire Port Jervis area as it became apparent that the river was on the rise. You may not know it, but these same men and women, many of them, stood by, working, giving of themselves past exhaustion, for as long as three days without changing clothing.

"Route 97 toward Hawks Nest and Route 42 toward Monticello became impassable as tributaries, beautiful little trout streams, became enormous, ravaging, havoc-creating torrents, tearing out bridges and undermining roads. In this area, Eddy Farm, full of vacationers who never thought to live through a flood, were evacuated by "Ducks," amphibious craft, which did valiant duty without mishap.

"One of the most spectacular feats of rescue work was done along Route 209, the Kingston Highway. Someday the whole story of the rescue at Camp Jubilee in Godefroy will be told — how through the use of short wave radio from disaster trucks, word was relayed that a group of young campers, some 34, was isolated and rescue must be made before the rising flood.

"A helicopter was dispatched from Stewart Airfield, instantly, with orders for flares to be lighted to guide the craft in. At the first attempt to find the ranch, the helicopter missed, but again short wave radio, and the rescue was completed, easily and with complete success — and the rescue truck which had summoned the helicopter, but was incapable of executing the rescue because of floods between, went back to find others marooned — all part of a wonderful night's job.

"Then there was the Neversink Bridge on Routes 6 and 23. Six feet of turbulent waters covered the road bed over which normally dry traffic rides.

"Then when the crisis was over, and the waters started to recede, there was the clean-up job which continues. Firemen and helpers manned pumps so cellars could be drained, and spread chloride of lime and other preventatives to ward off the possibility of typhoid.

"Then there was and is the cooperation of the Churches; and the overcrowding of the hospital; the overtime at the radio station; the cooperation of the men who still are helping to dig-out from under the effects of the flood; and the many more who are serving sandwiches and hot drinks, and those who are giving of their time and effort at the Red Cross headquarters and at the Health Center.

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West, Sacrist

Q. — Why do your people always talk about the "altar" when the Prayer Book talks about the "Holy Table"?

A. — The Prayer Book does not always talk about the Holy Table. It does so only in the Communion Service or in services related to it, where the Rubrics translate the ancient title Sacra Mensa. The term altar once applied to all the area within the sanctuary, since the root word behind it described a high place. The Rubric in the Office of Institution referring to the "rails of the altar" could possibly still imply this same usage, but the prayer of the newly instituted Incumbent allows for no doubt that the Holy Table itself is referred to as the "Holy Altar". In popular usage the word "altar" is more popular simply because it is one word as over against two. There is no difference whatever in the meaning of the two terms, but certainly one never heard an Altar Guild referred to as a Holy Table Society.

Q. — Why is the Holy Communion service the most important service of the Church?

A. — It isn't. It is no more important than Baptism. It is just that Baptism happens once in a lifetime whereas Communion takes place frequently. Of course, the intention of the question was, "Why is a service of Holy Communion regarded as more important than, for example, a service of Morning Prayer?" The Communion Service was commanded by Our Lord himself and his original statement includes the word "oft". Morning Prayer is a superb reduction and combination of some of the ancient monastic services which took place at frequent intervals during the day. These monastic services are highly disciplined and are superb expressions of thought and edification but they are not, and never were intended to be, substitutes for the Gospel services of Baptism and Holy Communion.

Q. — Why do your clergy object to being called Ministers?

A. — They never object if the word "Minister" is being used correctly. Minister is a generic term which means the particular clergyman or lay reader authorized under Canon Law to take a particular service. Thus, in Morning Prayer, the Minister (which means whoever is doing it) starts the service, but when it comes to the absolution, only a priest is permitted to say it. (I hasten to add that a Bishop is also a priest.) "The Sacred Ministers" at a Communion Service are the Celebrant, who must be a priest; the Gospeller, who must be either a Deacon or a Priest; and the Epistoler who, under Canon, may be a lay reader. One frequently finds them referred to under their Medieval titles of Celebrant, Deacon and Sub-Deacon. The phrase "Episcopal Minister" literally means a Bishop, since it would describe one ministering in a particular service then that one happened to be of Episcopal rank and consecration.

Q. — Is there more than one name for the Communion Service?

A. — The Prayer Book refers to this service under a number of titles. They are, in brief: The Lord's Supper, Holy Communion, Holy Sacrament, Holy Mysteries, Heavenly Feast, Holy Supper, the Blessed Sacrament, the Holy Eucharist.

At Port Jervis

hours afterward, Port Jervis was isolated, an island, completely surrounded by raging torrents.

"As the sun rose Friday the level of water had risen higher than ever before in the known history of this area. Those who lived through the flood of 1903 when the ice backed up and caused damage to the shore and surrounding areas by water and by the force of ice itself — when the former bridge was smashed down — declare that 1903 was nothing as compared to this disaster.

"As you looked up the Delaware that Friday morning you saw millions of tons of silt-filled water, raging down the river bed at tremendous speed, throwing eddies up six and ten feet high. Waves as high as those of the seashore were in many West End backyards.

"Let us look at each of the areas which isolated the city. First the river road along the Delaware was overrun, and simultaneously the Pennsylvania River road was flooded; and with this the water rose into the Erie yards and covered The Acre, rising right up into the girders of the arch which supports the bridge from Port Jervis to Matamoras. The underpass was filled as the water drained in reverse into the large basin made by this artificial culvert. Traffic into Pennsylvania was blocked two ways — by the 14 feet of water in the underpass and by the flooded river road.

"Our Church properties and facilities have not been used. There was no need, and there are other facilities much more suited. Most of the available parish family is serving — in canteens — as case workers with the Red Cross — at distribution centers where clothing is being distributed, and other places where designated. It is unspectacular; there is no ostentation; just a lot of wonderful people doing a wonderful work." JOHN D. CHEQUER

Rector, Grace Church, Port Jervis, N. Y.

At Rosendale and Stone Ridge

THE first I knew of flooding condition in Rosendale, N. Y. (on the Rondout Creek) was by telephone late Friday evening, August 19th, while I was at Eastham, Cape Cod, Mass. The Rev. Derek A. Lowe, of Cambridge University, London, England, my summer supply, called to inform me that the Rondout Creek had risen close to 40 feet to flood most of the main street of Rosendale. This, of course, included water damage to the Parish Hall, mostly in the basement; water, mud, and material damage to the Rectory and water, mud, material and structural damage to All Saint's. The Blessed Sacrament was removed prior to the crest, which reached within a foot of the top of the Altar. The damage included: heating system ruined by mud and water, organ possibly ruined by mud and water beyond repair due to shorting of motor and soaking of reeds and bellows; all hymnals (large music edition) and prayer books including two chancel copies ruined by mud and water; the Eucharistic Vestments, which were old and would not stand another cleaning, were ruined by water and mud; the linens, rugs, frontals, cassocks and hassocks were soaked and ruined or damaged beyond any salvage. The surge of the water with much debris caused a large crack in the side wall of the Church. The new rubber tile floor, in place only a year and a half has warped in places.

"I was prevented from returning sooner than Monday morning due to the condition of the roads from Cape Cod and the fact that the Ulster County Civil Defense under the personal direction of Major H. Edgar Timmerman, Senior Warden of St. Peter's Stone Ridge, had declared a State of Emergency, and National Guard Patrols would not let people into the area. In addition to this, Rosendale was isloated due to the fact that Route 213 washed out and Route 32 was flooded.

"On Sunday the Rosendale Fire Company pumped out the basement of the Church, but due to the high water level by Monday it had come back in 7 feet. I personally, with a portable pump from the Stone Ridge Fire Company of which I am Chaplain, pumped for 4½ hours on Monday, removing all the water expect 9 - 10 inches which was the level of the water table on Monday. The Sexton, Mr. Earl Quick, and Mrs. Ethel Schoonmaker have managed to remove some of the debris (including dead fish) from the Church, and before services can again be held the walls will have to be washed and possibly painted, the pews cleaned and waxed and many furnishings replaced.

"There has not yet been a concerted effort as of August 31st to clean and speed repairs because 80% of the parishioners also suffered like conditions, and all their spare time has been at their own homes. For example, our Vestryman-Treasurer lost the East wall of his new home which he, his wife and daughter have been in only 2½ months. Many parishioners were evacuated by boat and taken to shelters in St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, the Dutch Reformed Church and Spindlers Resort Home for 48 hours, while their homes, possessions, etc. were flooded; covered with mud, debris and sewerage and ruined.

"I want to mention that I talked with Mr. Oxholm who offered fiancial assistance, as did the Bishop in his overseas telephone call." DAVID W. ARNOLD

Priest-in-Charge, St. Peter's, Stone Ridge
Priest-in-Charge, All Saints', Rosendale

The UN's Specific Relationship To Christian Social Relations

IN this Tenth Anniversary of the United Nations, the Executive Director of the Department of Christian Social Relations has recommended as one of its major emphases for the year 1955-56 a study of the UN through its related agencies, the World Health Organization, the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, the Food and Agricultural Organizations, the Technical Aid Program, etc. Such study could contribute greatly to a better understanding of the contribution of the United Nations to human welfare. Elsewhere, there will probably be much attention given to political aspects and proposed charter amendments. It seems fitting for the Department to approach it from the point of view of the UN's specific relationship to Christian Social Relations through the various affiliated agencies.

It is hoped that a theme-setting meeting will be arranged for New York City, to be followed up with regional group discussions on the Convocation and Parish level.

Cathedral Community Club Resumes Meeting

THE Cathedral Community Club will resume meetings on Wednesday, October 3, and will meet regularly thereafter on Wednesdays from 1:30 to 4:30. The Club, which is under the auspices of the Episcopal Service to the Aged, is open to men and women over 60 who enjoy getting together once a week for games, simple crafts and refreshments or just for companionship. During the past year there has been an average attendance of 35 to 40. Most of the members live within walking distance of the Cathedral but there are some who come from New Jersey, Queens, and the Bronx. The Club is under the immediate direction of an experienced group worker assisted by volunteers. Added volunteer help is urgently needed both for helping with craft and game activities and also for serving as hostesses. The operation of the Club has been made possible by a grant from the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies and by special contributions.

The Episcopal Service to the Aged is beginning its 5th year as a counselling and referral service for the clergy and their older parishioners. During the five years of operation more than 800 people have been helped to find solutions to their problems.

What Use Will You Make Of The "Seabury Series"?

THE great and pressing topic in Christian Education this autumn is the 'Seabury Series' and the use that will be made of it in the Parishes. The seven New Curriculum Introductory Conferences held last June were attended by 52 clergy and 334 lay people representing 98 parishes and missions. A feature of these conferences was the use of a resource book, "Are You Ready" made up primarily of articles published in THE BULLETIN on the Seabury Series during the past year. It is interesting to learn that the National Council has obtained 100 copies of this booklet and distributed these to Diocesan Directors and Chairmen of Diocesan Departments throughout the Church.

As was expected the Series is receiving a mixed reception. Reviews in the Church Press have been generally favorable though many pertinent questions have been generally favorable though many pertinent questions have been raised. In most cases the secular press has been favorable. It is likely that much will be said on both sides both on the floor of General Convention and in thousands of informal discussions at the Convention. In many instances clergy are questioning the practicality of the series; a few are unhappy about certain specific statements made in the material, but there is little question about the theology and basic concepts.

In the meantime parishes across the country are launching forth in what is actually a journey of faith. Even those clergy and teachers who were involved in the experimental parishes realize that there is much that must be learned for a proper handling of the materials in several classes and grades at the same time. At the moment of writing the Diocesan Department has knowledge of 30 Schools in which the use of the materials will be attempted. These are spread as follows: Richmond 2, Manhattan 12, Bronx 1, Westchester 10, Ramapo 2, Hudson 0, Dutchess 3.

Every effort is being made to learn which parishes are using the materials and to bring special help to the teachers through a series of special workshops announced as follows:

September 26, October 10 and 24 at Calvary, Manhattan, for parishes south of 42nd Street and Staten Island.

October 3, 17 and 31 at Chapel of the Intercession for parishes north of 42nd Street and the Bronx.

September 27, October 11 and 25 at St. John's, Tuckahoe, for Westchester parishes west of Hawthorne Circle.

September 28, October 12 and 26 at St. Mark's, Mt. Kisco, for Westchester parishes east of Hawthorne Circle and for eastern Dutchess.

Additional workshops will be arranged for parishes in Richmond, Ramapo, Hudson and Dutchess if these should be desired. All workshops will begin at 7:30 P.M. and conclude at 10:00 P.M.

These sessions are intended for clergy, superintendents, teachers, observers and any others who may wish to attend. They are designed to solve problems rather than impart a curriculum of further instruction.

The Diocesan Department through its Director will be cooperating with the National Council in a program which evaluates the use of the first three courses in a few selected parishes. This will require regular visits in these schools and frequent sessions with the leaders and teachers.

The 1955 Diocesan Youth Work Project

THE 1955 Diocesan Youth Workcamp, led by the Rev. and Mrs. David T. P. Bradley and the Rev. and Mrs. Robert S. Hayden, closed on September 3rd after a highly successful 10-day session at the Chapel of the Incarnation, New York City. The third Youth Workcamp to be organized by the Bradleys, this year's endeavor was unique in that it included the setting up and carrying out of a vacation church school in an urban situation by the participants, while previous workcamps have involved only physical labor in refurbishing rural parishes. The workcamp this year proved that an urban project can be successful.

The ages of the 6 girls and 5 boys taking part in the project ranged from 15 to 20, and the project attracted participants from Delaware, Nebraska, and Michigan. The total enrollment of the vacation school itself was 45, with an average daily attendance of 32. Approximately ¾ of the students were outside the Chapel group and mainly Roman Catholic.

In the 1955 project, the Workcamp ideas reached a state of maturity, most of the rough spots in the idea having been ironed out.

The accomplishments of the 1955 Workcamp were mainly twofold. First, what the participants did for the parish; and second, what the Workcamp experience did for the participants. In the way of helping the parish, the group exerted a fair amount of physical effort in putting the parish house to right and painting the primary class room. Also, through the apparent success of the vacation church school, the Chapel may look forward to an increased enrollment in the winter Sunday School as well as a recognition on the part of the community that the Chapel is eager to reach out and help the unchurched in the area.

In the process of organizing the vacation school, the work group attracted a good deal of attention in the community by making a door to door distribution of 6,000 announcement leaflets.

One of the more apparent benefits to the Workcampers from their experience was the practice gained in teaching. Perhaps not so apparent, but nevertheless important, was the experience of living in a very closely knit Christian community where everything done was done by the whole group and where a genuine Christian fellowship was obtained by extending the influence of the parish into the neighborhood.

Possibilities for the location of next year's project are already being looked over. Inquiries from those interested in joining into the leadership of this group experiment are invited.

Proportionate Giving

In 1943 a plan was enacted to solve a dilemma for millions of Americans. It was the pay-as-you-go income tax plan. There was no question of being for or against paying an income tax. The question was how to collect it. Pay-as-you-go solved that and gave the government the money it needed for its domestic and foreign program.

The Church has a domestic and foreign program that requires a definite budget. Most Church members would not argue about whether the money is needed. There is agreement on that; as on the need for an income tax. There is no question, either, about money being available. The question becomes one of method rather than of means.

Margin of Luxury

Everybody in the world thinks all Americans are rich, and most of us are — by any standards other than our own. A look at the health of the U.S. economy proves that.

Even though both prices and taxes have skyrocketed in the past decade, the income of the average American was still far greater in 1953 than it ever had been before. In dollars, it had increased by 50% since 1939. What is perhaps even more significant is the fact that discretionary spending power is four-and-a-half times as great as in 1940. "Discretionary Spending Power" is the amount of income over and above what was needed to sustain the 1940 per capita level of such necessities as food, clothing and shelter.

As a result, there is a tremendous margin of luxury in our nation today. The manufacturers of television sets, washing machines, and countless other products designed to enrich life, have discovered that Americans are not foregoing former pleasures for new ones; they are simply adding to the pleasures they enjoyed before. We are buying more automobiles and paying more for them. We are buying more expensive clothes and more expensive food. For luxury items alone, we spent twenty-three billion dollars in 1950. In short, we are enjoying the fruits of a national boom period, and all indications are that this is a trend that not only will continue but will continue at an accelerated rate.

The pay-as-you-go income tax is scaled to income, and so reaps the benefits of the increase in national wealth; but, we have no pay-as-you-go tax for the Church.

Responsibility of the Individual

Actually, the lack of an authoritarian, scaled donation plan is a blessing in disguise. Although the Church may suffer by having to curtail its program and hesitate to initiate new, needed projects, it leaves the responsibility of its support where it belongs — with the individual.

ST. PETER'S, CHELSEA
New Life For An Old Church

More than one hundred and twenty years have passed since the tower of St. Peter's Church peered benevolently over the little village of Chelsea and its bells sang to the oarsmen of the Hudson River. Today, apartment houses dwarf St. Peter's tower and the noise of trucking mutes its bells; Chelsea itself has been absorbed into the great metropolis of New York City. In the midst of change and crisis, external and internal, St. Peter's has stood, sometimes tottering, sometimes erect. And today, its tower and its bells still proclaim the glory of God and symbolize the concern of the Church for the people of Chelsea.

The founding of St. Peter's is tightly linked with the name of Clement Clarke Moore, professor and poet, whose fame lives today in his best-known poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas". From his maternal grandfather, Captain Thomas Clarke, he inherited the estate named Chelsea, and gave sixty lots of it to the Church for the site of the

The Bishop being greeted by the Lord Bishop of Adelaide.

My dear People:

IN my letter this month I want to tell you something of my visit to the Commonwealth of Australia. But first, I wish to bespeak your support of the Every Member Canvass which is now, or will be shortly under way in your parish.

At Honolulu a record budget to strengthen and advance the Church's mission here and overseas was approved by General Convention. The delegates from the Diocese of New York voted unanimously to support the increased budget which is necessary to extend the program of the national Church throughout the world. The action of General Convention clearly indicates that the Church wants to move ahead in its mission at home and beyond, that it wants to equip itself in man power and in workable structure to reach men, women and children everywhere with the Good News of the Gospel following the divine commission of our Lord and Savior, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations."

We have our parochial and Diocesan obligations, and they are important, but we also have a responsibility for the spread of God's Kingdom beyond the borders of our own country. What we are asked to do in support of the Church's program is not beyond our capacity. If we really care about the Christian cause, there is nothing we cannot do.

My visit to Australia was in response to an invitation from the Most Reverend Howard W. K. Mowll, Primate of Australia and Tasmania. Other Episcopal visitors "down under" this summer were the Presiding Bishop, the Bishop of Connecticut, and the Suffragan Bishop of Chicago. In point of time I was the first of the Bishops to arrive, and I dare say it is due to this that I was the first American Bishop to administer the rite of Confirmation in Australia, when I officiated at the Cathedral in Melbourne on July Fourth, as well as the first to dedicate memorials in various places.

The Church in Australia is, of course, the Church of the majority, and though not the officially established Church of the country, it is an essential part of the nation's life. For example, on my arrival at the airport in Sydney with Canon West who acted as my chaplain, we were greeted not only by the Primate and the delegation of his clergy, but in addition by representatives of the Government, the Opposition, and the Foreign Service both of Australia and the United States. Wherever I went there was a civic reception as well as an ecclesiastical one. The Governor of every state I visited took time out to receive me, and in Canberra, Field Marshal Sir William Slim, the Governor General, interrupted his busy schedule to give me an official luncheon at Government House. I mention this not because these receptions were unique, but rather to illustrate the close relationship that exists between Church and State in that great country.

The overwhelming communicant strength of the Church, and its standing in the community, has of course produced many blessings. The Church in Australia maintains some of the finest schools in the world. One of the best known is St. Peter's College in Adelaide. When I spoke there I was impressed by the excellence of the equipment, beauty of the buildings, and the mature planning for ever further expansion which characterized the whole place. Even though I had seventeen speaking engagements in different parts of the city during my four-day stay in Adelaide, I still remember vividly these outstanding educational institutions.

In every diocese I found churches crowded with intelligent, responsive men and women. People were eager to hear about the religious upsurge in the U.S.A. They wanted information concerning the organization of our church — our methods of finance and promotion — christian education — church related social agencies. There was a constantly expressed desire that there should be more interchange of clergy, both priests and bishops.

Three million service men went through Australia during the years of World War II. In Brisbane, which was the home of General MacArthur while he was in the Commonwealth, I saw the monument of friendship erected by the people of Queensland "In grateful memory of the contribution made by the people of the United States of America to the defense of this country during the 1939-45 war." At Canberra I saw the striking national memorial to America unveiled by the Queen on her visit to Australia last year. The Australians regard us with an abiding trust and affection, as the closest of friends, and the best of Allies.

It is surprising that up until almost the present moment the Church in Australia has been unable to agree upon a constitution, largely, I gather, because of sectional and churchmanship differences. In no field does the Primate's saintly and wise statesmanship show up better than in his dealing with this serious handicap. It is undoubtedly due to him and to the universal trust that people have in him, that the General Synod of Australia meeting last month approved the first reading of a constitution for their whole Church.

My travels in Australia took me to eight dioceses, and while I spoke many times every day, I did have an opportunity to visit one of the great cattle stations and a sheep ranch, and to see something of life in "the outback."

No one can visit the great continent "down under" without realizing the close bond that exists between Australia and America. May our friendship grow steadily closer and endure forever.

I cannot hope to express adequately my gratitude to the clergy and people for their kindness and gracious hospitality. All I can say is that within a very short time I acquired close friends whom I shall always cherish.

Next month I shall attempt to give you a glimpse of our Church's thrilling work in the Philippine Islands.

Faithfully your Bishop

Horace W. B. Donegan

Works Of Mercy Window

AT Evening Prayer, four o'clock, Sunday afternoon, October 16th, in The Cathedral Church, there was held the Annual St. Luke's Hospital Service, and unveiling of the Works-of-Mercy Window in All Souls Chapel.

Present at Evening Prayer, and the Service of Unveiling and Blessing which followed, were the representatives of the organizations and the institutions whose work is memorialized in the window — Elko Lake Camps; Episcopal Service to The Aged; Saint Barnabas House; Christian Social Relations. (Justice); Red Cross; House of the Holy Comforter; The Woman's Auxiliary; Youth Consultation Service; St. Mary's-in-the-Field; St. Ann's Church for the Deaf; St. Luke's Hospital; Seamen's Church Institute; Westfield State Farm; Episcopal City Mission Chaplains to prisoners; and St. George Society.

A goodly portion of the money for the window was the gift of the nurses of St. Luke's Hospital and their friends.

At Evening Prayer, the Rev. Otis R. Rice, Chaplain of St. Luke's Hospital read the Lessons, and Bishop Donegan was the preacher. Immediately after Evening Prayer, a long procession of choir, clergy, and representatives, followed by the congregation, processed down the center aisle of the Nave to All Souls Bay for the blessing of the window by the Bishop.

The general subject of the window is the corporal acts of mercy illustrated by the ten larger panels in the Lancets. The response of the Church in the Diocese of New York is shown in the smaller panels. All Souls is expressed by the seals of the Living God and the palms of victory in the border. The donors are represented by the seal of St. Luke's Hospital in the Rose.

In his sermon the Bishop said in part:

"It is only private agencies which can ever hope to carry out religious principles administering to the needs of human beings. No matter how fully the public agencies for social welfare develop they can never take the place of the devoted personalized religiously motivated work of voluntary church-related agencies of the type whose work is commemorated in this window.

"One reason is that the selection of their leadership is free from political considerations. In providing such leadership the concern of those supporting the agencies, and the concern for those to be served by the agencies, are paramount in the decision.

"The ministry of these agencies derives from Our Lord. So these agencies serve all people in need regardless of race or religion. He ministered to all alike. He cared nothing about political persuasions or national backgrounds. He came that men might have life and that they might have it more abundantly. To such a life these institutions are dedicated."

Proportionate Giving

We would have failed had the Church ended the last fiscal year with a million dollar credit from enforced giving. The fact is that we did not end the last fiscal year with a deficit because the budget was cut to fit the income anticipated even though essential work had to be curtailed. It is unthinkable that any responsible Church member wants this to continue. To prevent it, since the resources are there, the simple question is — what is my share?

Proportionate Giving

A perfectly acceptable answer through countless generations was the Tithe.

The Tithe was: 10% of your income given to God.

Is that answer out-of-date? Is it unrealistic? Is it practicable?

Someone has said —

"The ancient Tithe is not realistic for us today, because so many of the charities once conducted by the Temple or Church are now carried on by the community. What is realistic today is 5% of one's income for the Community Fund, the Red Cross and special drives; and 5% for the Church."

Someone else has said —

"The following schedule is more realistic and reasonable because it takes into consideration special situations.

For incomes (or take-home pay) over $5,000 a year:

5% for family of 1 or 2
4% for family of 3
3% for family of 4
2% for family of 5 or more.

For incomes under $5,000, or where unusual medical or educational expenses are involved, these percentages are reduced by 1% in each category; but the minimum should never be less than 2%.

But — What do you say?

Before you answer remember that the responsibility is yours and yours alone to decide whether you will give by

The Dean's Column

THE Cathedral program of Sunday evening lectures and discussions began on October 9, with a lecture on "Christianity and Culture" by the Rev. Prof. Albert T. Mollegen of the Virginia Theological Seminary. In November these lectures, which are open to all at 5:00 p.m. in Cathedral House, will be given by Canon Johnson on "The Sacraments." Topics will be as follows:

November 6: The Sacramental Principle
November 13: Holy Baptism
November 20: The Holy Mysteries

On November 27 at 5:00 p.m. there will be a tea given by members of the Richmond Convocation of the Woman's Auxiliary to which overseas students from Africa will be invited as guests of honor. The Reverend Festus O. Segun, a Nigerian priest who is a member of the Ecumenical seminar at Union Seminary and a member of the Cathedral staff, will speak informally on this occasion.

Following the lectures on Sunday evenings the Cathedral sponsors Supper Discussion Groups for students, faculty, and young business and professional people. These groups have the following purposes:

Columbia-Barnard Canterbury Association — For students at Columbia University and Barnard College interested in furthering the witness of the Episcopal Church at Columbia University through Worship, Study, Christian Action, and congenial Fellowship.

Graduate Faculty Forum — For Graduate Students and Faculty people interested in exchanging ideas on the relation of Christian thought to university life and the various academic disciplines.

Young Business and Professional Group — For recent graduates and others interested in the study of religion on a college level.

Under commission from the Bishop and the Division of College Work of the Diocesan Council, the Cathedral also carries the Church's responsibility for college work at Columbia University. Canon Pyle, with a group of graduate student and seminarian assistants, expresses the concern of the Church for Episcopalians at Columbia in a variety of ways. These inlude Pastoral Calling in the dormitories, Wednesday evening Round Table Discussions at Earl Hall, Friday noon Corporate Communion luncheon at St. Paul's Chapel, Open Houses for students in the homes of staff members, Faculty Luncheons on the third Wednesday of each month at the Columbia Men's Faculty Club and projects in Christian Action. Helping in the direction of this program is the Rev. Vadakkan Alexander of the Mar Thoma Church and a graduate student at the New School for Social Research, John Beaven and William Howard of General Seminary, Judith Gay, a graduate student in Religion at Columbia, and John Day of Union Seminary.

By these and other means the Cathedral carries out its responsibility for being "a center of intellectual light and leading in the spirit of Jesus Christ." In its college work program it aims to do this by witnessing to the Christian Faith "as this church hath received the same" within the life of the Columbia University community.

the minimum standards outlined in either plan above, or by the maximum standard of true sacrifice to which Christ has called all of us. You may be one who should give even as much as 25% of your income because you have been more richly blessed with worldly goods.

Yet, the wealth of the country no longer belongs to "The Rich Few." The great bulk of contributions for the support of Churches, hospitals and charitable organizations must come from individual "small" supporters — now by far the most important group — because many gifts of ten dollars each, add up to far more than one gift of a thousand.

The real value of the present income tax plan "pay-as-you-go" is that you never see the money. You don't have to handle it and in your daydreams earmark it for other things.

The real value of proportionate giving is that you can create your own pay-as-you-go plan for God. Simply allocate a percentage of your income after taxes for the Church. Give back to God a proper and just share — a fixed percentage of what He has given to you. Set apart as inviolable, the proper share for you and keep it just as untouchable as the money you put away for your son's education or a Christmas savings plan, or anything else on which you do mental arithmetic to insure later dividends.

Give back to God a proper and just share — a fixed percentage — of what he has given you.

St. Peter's, Chelsea

General Theological Seminary, which moved there in 1827. It was Dr. Moore, Professor of Greek and Oriental Language at the Seminary, who gave seven lots of his land for a church on what is now West 20th Street, when the growth of worshippers at the Seminary's Sunday services made it imperative to establish an independent parish. And it was Dr. Moore who was first organist and one of the first churchwardens at the new church — St. Peter's, Chelsea — which was incorporated as a parish on May 9, 1831.

From the Seminary came the first rector of St. Peter's, the Rev. Benjamin Isaac Haight, who as a member of the senior class had been active in the Sunday school conducted by Seminary students. During his ministry, the church building, a brick chapel two stories high, was built. It was consecrated on February 4, 1832.

Upon Mr. Haight's resignation, the Rev. Thomas Pyne, a native of England, came to St. Peter's in 1834. The following year, he delivered a sermon on the need to end human bondage (some ten years before the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher took his historic stand against slavery in the United States). The congregation was greatly disturbed by the sermon and the vestry requested and received Mr. Pyne's resignation.

During the ministry of the Rev. Hugh Smith, rector from 1836 — 1848, St. Peter's Chapel proved too small for a rapidly-growing congregation. In 1838, the present church building, built on perpendicular Gothic lines, was finished, and in 1840 the chapel was remodeled into a rectory, still in use. The graceful tower of the church, with its clocks, was the tallest building for miles around until 1885, when the General Seminary built its Chapel of the Good Shepherd.

Trinity Parish began a long association with St. Peter's when the Chelsea church was thrown into financial straits by the panic of 1837, and Trinity Corporation gave the church a bond and mortgage for $25,000. The Parish presented St. Peter's with the tall iron railings which had long surrounded Trinity's historic church on lower Broadway; the railings still stand between St. Peter's Church and the sidewalk of 20th Street.

From 1850-52 the Rev. Eli Hawley Canfield, grandfather of the writer, Dorothy Canfield Fisher, was rector of St. Peter's. At mid-century, the people of Chelsea were already acquiring "new neighbors," as the Irish and German immigration of the 1840's began to swell the population.

In 1853 the Rev. Dr. Alfred Baury Beach began a vigorous ministry which lasted until 1890. Within five years of his arrival he presented a record confirmation class of eighty-one. As time went on, it became apparent that larger quarters would be needed to house the Sunday school, whose enrollment was nearing 1,000, and in 1872 St. Peter's Parish Hall was built to accomodate it. The hall was a social and cultural center of the community, used not only by the Sunday school but also for lectures, entertainments and the commencement exercises of the seminary.

Under Dr. Beach, the parish attained a firmer financial footing. Except for the bond to Trinity, the parish debt had been liquidated by 1872, just before the depression of the 1870's. At Epiphany time in 1877 Dr. Beach introduced a forerunner of the present-day Every Member Canvass: weekly contributions by communicants were established, as a means of increasing parish revenues for benevolences. The "canvassers" were young ladies of the parish!

1890 brought a new rector to St. Peter's, the Rev. Olin Scott Roche, who served the parish until 1923 and was Rector Emeritus from 1923 until his death in 1935. During the early 1900's the church program was expanded. Social, recreational and religious activities included a sewing school for 225 girls, a cadet corps for 12-16 year-old boys, a Woman's Missionary Association and a charitable as-

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West, Sacrist

Q. — Some claim that the Episcopal Church is "Catholic"; others hold it to be "Protestant." Which is correct?

A. — This question is asked on the mistaken assumption that the words "protestant" and "catholic" are antithetic. The opposite of "catholic" is "heretic" and the equivalent of the modifying adjective "protestant" is "Roman" or "Greek" or "Polish" or even "old". Archbishop Laud in his famous relation of the conference between him and Mr. Fisher the Jesuit, derives the word from the Summa of St. Thomas Aquinas which refers to the Sacraments both of the Old and New Testaments as "visible signs protesting the faith." This, of course, is the strict use of the word "protestant" which means "a formal affirmation before witnesses." The word "catholic", according to the Prayer Book means "universal, holding earnestly the faith for all time, in all countries, and for all people; and . . . sent to preach the Gospel to the whole world." There is nothing wrong with the word "Protestant" in the title of our Church. The real difficulty is that some people do not realize that the word "Episcopal" means "Catholic". It is of historic interest to note that the Church of England colonists in Maryland referred to themselves as "Protestant Catholics", and that it is probably from this practice that our own Church's name derives.

Q. Is the Sign of the Cross used or permitted in the Episcopal Church?

A. — The Sign of the Cross must be used in the ministration of holy Baptism. Apart from this service, its use is not required, but it is widely used in either private or public devotion or both.

Q. — What do we mean by "Grace"?

A. — Grace means unmerited mercy. It is used to describe God's favour as something given because of his nature rather than because of any merits of ours. It is through the Grace of God that people are called to respond to the good news about Jesus Christ.

Q. — I have read that one of our churches was the scene of a Solemn Pontifical High Mass. Doesn't "pontifical" mean something to do with the Pope?

A. — The word "Pontiff" is an English form of "pontifex" which in classic Latin times meant a member of the highest priestly college. This college had charge of the Kalendar of superintended public worship and kept the vital statistics of the community — originally, supposedly, of the Sublician Bridge, hence the word "pontifex" which means bridge builder. Christianity took over the title and it is used in appropriate places in the Latin translation of the New Testament, thus it describes Our Lord in the Epistle to the Hebrews. It technically refers to any Bishop. The reason for the confusion with the Pope is that the Bishop of Rome assumed the old title of the Emporer Pontifex Maximus, that is to say, head of the Pontiffs. In this column I need scarcely say that this latter is a point of view with which we do not agree. Hence the adjective "pontifical" means any service or object exclusively associated with a Bishop.

THIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

By A. L. PECK, Ph.D.

Fellow and Librarian of Christ's College, Cambridge

This new book from England challenges the theological basis for the theory that Episcopacy is not strictly of the essence (esse) of the Church, but only of its fullness (plene esse), put forward in the book known as The Historic Episcopate.

Apart from its value as a study of fundamentals it is directly relevant to current discussions on the Church of South India, since such a theory would remove theological objections to the immediate establishment of full inter-communion. Cloth, $1.90 sociation for young men. In 1912, the parish debt was cleared when the Trinity Corporation canceled its long-standing mortgage bond. With a small endowment and its debt left behind, St. Peter's was totally free of financial worries for the first time in its history.

But the years also brought problems. As newer areas in and around the city were developed, St. Peter's younger parishioners moved from Chelsea to better their living standards and improve their social status; even before the first World War, the parish was feeling the loss of its younger membership. To meet the challenge various programs were attempted: social helpfulness, changing the hours of services and adding services; using special preachers to attract congregations; elaborating the music. But as a downtown parish in the 1920's, St. Peter's life hung in the balance. There was a question of merging with another parish or of making St. Peter's a chapel of a financially stronger parish. The congregation decided to carry on independently, if possible.

The years following 1929 were crisis years not only for the nation, but for St. Peter's. Financial difficulties naturally arose, the neighborhood was rapidly changing and for years only the grant from the Corporation of Trinity Parish kept the church financially able to operate.

In 1949 the National Council's Unit of Research and Field Study was invited to study the situation at St. Peter's. The report of Dr. Joseph E. Moore, Executive Secretary, of the study stated: "St. Peter's is sitting in the midst of real opportunity and unable to take advantage of it."

The Missionary Society of the General Seminary made an effort to help the church through fund raising arranging for student workers in the Release Time School and Vacation Church School.

In the meanwhile, the community was experiencing further changes in the heavy influx of Puerto Rican immigrants, and special efforts had to be made to reach their children. The Diocese was technically in charge of the holding operations at St. Peter's, contributing to the total expenses as did Trinity Parish — although no Diocesan aid as such was received by the parish through 1951.

The Diocese, keenly aware of changing conditions and neighborhoods, established its own Division of Social Research, and in 1953 sent the Rev. Benson B. Fisher, Executive Secretary, to become non-resident priest-in-charge of St. Peter's.

He carried on some activities begun under the former Rector, such as a boys' club of largely Puerto Rican membership and Sunday Evening Prayer services conducted in Spanish. He carried on some work among the Spanish-speaking people, especially through an inter-racial recreational group for boys and girls.

With the knowledge gained from Dr. Moore's and the Rev. Mr. Fisher's surveys, from other studies and from first-hand observation; with a growing awareness of the problems and needs of city churches in depressed areas; and with the conviction of real missionary opportunity in Chelsea, the Diocese was ready to infuse one of its oldest churches with new life. The only practical means of assuring continued life for St. Peter's was to change the church's status from parish to mission; this is in process. In addition, much work was needed to repair the worn fabric of the church and its buildings; the Diocese has given a generous amount to St. Peter's and repairs are now underway.

Equally important in the work at St. Peter's was the need for an adequate staff of vital, able clergy and professional workers, skilled in city church work, whose leadership would bring new life to the church. In the spring of 1954, the Rev. Edward Chandler arrived to become resident priest-in-charge. As a General Seminary student and President of the Missionary Society, he had worked at the church. Upon his graduation, he spent three years as priest-in-charge of St. Christopher's, newest chapel of Trinity Parish, which he helped to establish. His work at St. Christopher's among Puerto Rican immigrants was an excellent background for work in Chelsea.

Shortly after the Rev. Mr. Chandler's arrival, the Rev. Wray E. MacKay came from the General Seminary to be full-time assistant at St. Peter's. And in December, 1954, by means of a National Council grant, Miss Esperanza Villanueva, a Spanish-speaking church worker, was able to join the staff.

Today, with a congregation of about 200, St. Peter's is a small but vital church. Services are held twice daily; on Sunday, there are five, including a well-attended Spanish service.

Since the advent of its new leaders, St. Peter's has taken its missionary responsibility seriously. Evangelistic outreach is heavily directed towards children, with an active program of organized and informal recreational activities during the winter and a flourishing summer program, including two weeks of daily vacation Bible School. There are also Released Times sessions for public school pupils and a Church school which will begin, this fall, to use the new curriculum.

The clergy are in touch with several hundred neighborhood families. Adult activities include a weekly Bible study group, a society for Spanish-speaking parishioners and a Spanish class for the English-speaking. The women of the parish have recently disbanded their W. A. and reorganized to take a greater share in meeting the present needs of the parish, still continuing, however, their United Thank Offering. St. Peter's is also represented in the New York Urban Laymen's Group, whose members are drawn from churches in the metropolitan area and one of whose purposes is to study the needs, problems, and programs of their respective churches. The present Rector is Chairman of the New York Urban Priest's Group, a similar group of clergy.

In addition, St. Peter's is one of eleven city churches throughout the nation which has been chosen by the National Council's Division of Urban-Industrial Church

St. Peter's, Chelsea

Work, to participate in a five-year program of research in city church work.

Today, St. Peter's, Chelsea, one of the Diocese's oldest churches and newest missions, is beginning a slow climb from decay to new life. Clergy and laity alike are convinced that St. Peter's belongs in Chelsea; their conviction is strengthened by the faith and support of the National Council, the Bishop and the Diocese. With this conviction and support, St. Peter's looks to its future, a future of bringing souls to Christ and, in the process, bringing new life to an old church.

Highlights at General Convention

Honolulu, September 4-15, 1955

A FRIENDLY Convention . . . a forward looking Convention . . . a missionary Convention . . . These phrases on the lips of Bishops, Deputies, and Woman's Auxiliary Delegates characterized the 58th General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church which opened Sunday evening, September 4, in Honolulu.

The opening service, memorable in itself, was given significance by two of its parts:

1. The Address of The Presiding Bishop was another of our Chief Pastor's discerning statements of those things to which the Church should give heed now. In closing he said: "I dream of a General Convention moved by The Spirit of God to undertake a great missionary advance in every area of The Church's life, to bring spiritual understanding and strength to a world in need of redemption, to rise above petty considerations, to make real the majesty and sacredness of our task. We have had such Conventions in our long history. The times call us to wise and great leadership. To this opportunity, under God, we set our hands." The first note in a missionary General Convention was sounded. The second, derived from the Convention of 1952, followed almost immediately with —

2. The presentation of the Builders for Christ offering. We are all familiar with this great effort during recent months to provide the means for urgently needed physical equipment for a missionary advance in strategic areas throughout the world: for the Church's seminaries; for work overseas in Japan, the Philippines, and Puerto Rico; and for work at home in Negro education through the American Church Institute for Negroes and in mushrooming communities where expanding industry is causing new concentrations of population. During the offertory anthems nearly one hundred men each representing his own diocese and missionary district approached the chancel steps and there placed upon the historic alms basin the offering of his diocese. The Builders for Christ offering thus presented came to $4,113,904.57 in cash toward the goal of $4,150,000. There are still outstanding good pledges in excess of $170,000, but these must all be realized in cash if this missionary advance is to be completely successful.

Of the total given, the Diocese of New York gave $393,548, its full quota.

A COLORFUL moment came in the Missionary Mass Meeting when a procession of children of every race and clime, appropriately garbed, each bearing a large card, came to the chancel. Lined up across the chancel each child in order turned his card toward the congregation. It was an exciting, breathless moment, until all cards were turned, revealing the amount of the United Thank Offering presented the morning before in the same place and before this same altar. The amount, the largest offering of the women of the Church ever presented, was more than $600,000 greater than the Offering of 1952 and was $3,149,197.83. Later the Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary adopted a budget for the careful expenditure of this great gift to implement further a great missionary advance in our time. This budget is given in some detail in a folder, The United Thank Offering 1955, which was published on October 1.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese gave $161,483.43 to this record-beating offering.

Bishop Sherrill on various occasions reminded the Church that the most important matter before the Convention was the determination of a Program and Budget for the ensuing three years. Upon that action would depend the witness which this Church makes in these three years, whether it will mark time or be forward looking and make a missionary advance. In preparation for such action, on the second and third mornings, the House of Bishops, the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies, and the delegates to the Woman's Auxiliary Triennial Meeting met together in Joint Sessions to hear the report of The National Council. These reports, which brought a large company to the Civic Auditorium, were an inspiring and varied recital of the stewardship of the National Council during the past three years and a presentation of the urgent opportunities facing the Church now for which provision should be made in the General Church Program. A third Joint Session came a week later when the Joint Committee on Programme and Budget reported. In its report the Committee said: "Of first concern is the Programme of the Church, and you will note that we have used the old-fashioned spelling because the Programme can never be completed without 'me', the individual, and if I am deleted, something is lost from the composite picture of united democratic interest and action. No Every Member Canvass is possible unless I, the individual member of Christ's Kingdom, have my personal share in it. Program without 'me' can be very impersonal, but Programme with 'me' as the guiding rudder, emphasizes the importance of individual responsibility in the whole work of the Church.

"In finding the adequate Budget for the accepted Programme, we must move forward with our eyes on the objectives. Trying to move forward while looking backward is an unsatisfactory manoeuver, and it is worth remembering that Lot's wife got very salty and stationary looking backwards.

"As we face the future and recognize the vast opportunity for service in Christ's Kingdom. we must not measure the quantity of our endeavour by what we have done before. The world's need and the world's peril call for a renewed and deepened devotion to the Person of our Lord, a more consistent obedience to His Great Commission, 'Go ye into all the world and make disciples of all nations.' We have no choice but to obey.

"Therefore ours is the task to see first what needs to be done and then proceed to do it, using as our gauge, not the standard of the past but the vividly imagined and enthusiastically accepted pattern of the future."

Both Houses concurred in adopting a budget of $6,807,-947 for each of the next three years. The share of the Diocese of New York in the budget for 1956 is $521,814. The new budget provides for strengthening the Church's missions overseas, particularly in Japan, the Philippines, and in Latin America, mostly through increases in personnel. The salaries of all missionary bishops were increased as well as those of many other workers in the field.

Highlights

And finally an appropriation of $100,000 to enable the Promotion Department to make use of Radio and Television through the preparation of suitable materials.

Convention also approved Programme and Budget Committee's recommendation that "the Church School Lenten Offering shall no longer be counted for credit on assigned quotas, but rather shall be allocated solely to specific, special projects of advance work in the Overseas and Domestic Missionary Fields of the Church."

A GREAT variety of matters were considered. The Convention requested the Church to undertake a study of the Church in South India and the Presiding Bishop was requested to appoint a delegation to visit that Church and to report at the next Convention. . . . Approval was given to the Missionary Bishops to issue a Spanish Hymnal based on the Hymnal of 1940 with additions of traditional Spanish material. . . . A proposal to delete the word "Protestant" from the official name of the Church was tabled in the House of Bishops and defeated by the Deputies. . . . Although the House of Deputies favored the election of a Suffragan Bishop for the Armed Forces, the Bishops tabled the matter and no election was held. . . . The Convention expressed its approval of Statehood for both Alaska and the Territory of Hawaii . . . and went on record on a variety of contemporary social problems: alcoholism, segregation, the care of the Aged. . . . A proposal, however, to limit the age of Deputies to Convention was defeated while the compulsory retirement of clergymen at the age of 72 effective in 1957 was approved. This places presbyters on a similar footing with Bishops as regards retirement. . . . Provision was made for the Church's participation in the 350th Anniversary of the Settlement of Jamestown. . . . The National Council's Promotion Department was commended for the leadership it is giving in sound stewardship teaching and was requested to expand its materials to include both tithing and proportionate giving studies. . . . The Convention accepted South Florida's invitation to hold the 1958 meeting in Miami Beach.

The only other invitation was that of our Diocesan on behalf of the Diocese of New York. It was apparent that the Convention wanted to meet in the south if it could avoid the charge of segregation, and that Miami Beach could guarantee that the cry would not be raised.

Attendance at sessions was excellent. Much of the work of the Convention is done by committees meeting during sessions and in the evening hours. Bishop Donegan presented the report of the Committee on Recruitment for Christian Vocations to a joint session of the Convention. He also served on the Committees on the Prayer Book, and Relations with Orthodox Churches. Bishop Boynton was appointed to the Court of Review of the Trial of a Bishop. In the House of Deputies, the Diocese was represented by Dean Pike on Canons; the Rev. Frank L. Carruthers on Christian Education; Mr. George W. Burpee on National and International Affairs; Mr. Clifford Morehouse on Dispatch of Business; and Mr. Theodor Oxholm on Program and Budget.

The Pastoral Letter of the House of Bishops received wide acclaim, taking advantage of the meeting on the doorstep to the East; it sounded the clarion call to the faithful to accept the challenge that lies beyond.

And side by side with Convention the Woman's Auxiliary was meeting in Triennial Meeting. Mrs. T. O. Wedel of Washington, wife of the President of the House of Deputies, presided. Their theme was Our Witnessing Community. Mention has been made of the magnificent United Thank Offering, the expenditure of which will certainly add to the stature of this Honolulu meeting as a forward looking witnessing community.

"God In Man's Creative Years"

THE name Reuel Howe has sky-rocketed to prominence on this continent and elsewhere as the current revolution in Christian Education has developed momentum. As Professor of Pastoral Theology at Virginia Seminary he was among the first group of consultants called together by Dr. John Heuss and was in the forefront of interpretation struggle both at the College of Preachers and in conferences from coast to coast. His special study and interpretation culminated in the publication of "Man's Need and God's Action" which has been both helpful and provocative in the whole field of parish ministry.

Dr. Howe has agreed to assist the New York Department of Christian Education in the launching of a new emphasis in the Department's work among young married couples and people of their age and interest. Sponsored by the Adult Division under the Chairmanship of the Rev. Canon E. N. West a conference will be conducted at the Convention Hall, Cathedral Close, on December 4th, of which the highlight will be Dr. Howe's address under the title "God in Man's Creative Years".

For our earlier years we are recipients of the leadership and culture which surrounds us. But the growth becomes stabilized, vocation more or less settled, residence established and family begun, the emphasis shifts from being the recipient to that of leadership. There is a greater ability to decide upon and move toward chosen goals; the ideals of youth are sometimes on their way to becoming reality, but often enough has now been learned to prove some of them to be unrealistic. Responsibilities have become at times an incentive and at other times a dragging anchor. Yet, this is the age of creativity. This is the "young adult". God brings to him special strength and special comfort.

The Adult Division realizes that the Church has not brought sufficient or proper emphasis into the life of these potent members. In many parishes this is the unoccupied field organizationally; in others there is a desire to do something but leadership and agreed upon objectives are lacking. The "God in Man's Creative Years" Conference is called to explore what is now happening and to seek guidance as to how the Parishes can be aided in either making a new start or doing more.

The Conference will begin with Evensong in the Cathedral at 4:00 p.m. at which the preacher will be the Rt. Rev. Dom Augustine Morris, O.S.B., Abbot, Nashdom Abbey, Burnham, Buckinghamshire, England. At 5:00 p.m. there will be a special session for selected representatives and others specially interested in "Parish Organization for Young Adults". This will be an exchange session for those active at present and others interested in the development of such activity. Tea will be served from 6 - 6:30 and Dr. Howe will address a full Convention Hall at 6:45. The conference will conclude before 8:00 p.m. but there will be informal opportunity for questions and discussion for those who wish to remain later.

Only those planning to attend the 5:00 p.m. session and who will be present for tea will need to register in advance with the Department of Christian Education.

St. George's Church Williamsbridge

On December 11th of this year, St. George's Church, Williamsbridge, in the Bronx, will be celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the consecration of its present Church building. It is an anniversary which means a great deal to the members of the now financially independent Parish, because during the more than six decades that it was a struggling mission its continued existence was often in doubt as its faithful members moved one by one into the suburbs. In short, it was the old story of a city Church being isolated by the steady influx of a people of different religious background.

In the spring of 1889, a handful of Episcopalians in Williamsbridge, met together and discussed the matter of providing a place of worship for our people. After a consultation with the Rev. Frank M. Clendenin, of St. Peter's Church, Westchester, and an evening service at which he presided, those in charge hired the Prohibition Hall on White Plains Road, borrowed a harmonium, and were ready for regular evening services.

Dr. Clendenin conducted these services, and loaned the Choir of St. Peter's Church, for some months, after which the Rev. Gideon D. Pond officiated.

According to Agnes G. Isbell, sometime organist of St. George's for 19 years, the members of St. George's were holding services as early as January 1891 in the old Baptist Church building, long since torn down, on what is now 220th Street, then Sixth Street, west of White Plains Road, directly behind the present Church. The Rev. William M. Mitcham was placed in charge, and following him the Rev. Ralph J. Walker, who both did faithful work.

Mr. Walker started raising funds for the building of the Church, and on his retirement the matter was handed over to the Rev. Franklin N. Strader, and the ground for St. George's was purchased during his term.

After the basement was erected, the Rev. George F. Nelson, D.D., then Archdeacon, obtained money from his friends in New York, some $15,000 to build the Church, and St. George's owes him a deep debt of gratitude for his work.

The Bishop's Message

My dear People:

I have already told you of my experiences in Australia, and I now wish to tell you something of the thrilling work of our Church in the Philippines.

We left Sydney by Qantas Empire Airways plane in mid-afternoon and reached Manila the following morning. The first leg of the journey was over the vast desert land of the Northern Territory of Australia. This portion of the trip ended eight hours later at Darwin where the plane landed to refuel. Darwin was hot and humid in contrast to the damp, cold climate of Sydney. The remainder of the overnight journey was relatively calm. Two hours from our destination we ran into rough weather, but conditions cleared just in time to enable us to land at Manila.

Waiting at the airport were Bishop Binsted, Bishop Ogilby, the Supreme Bishop of the Philippine Independent Church, Bishop de los Reyes, and a number of clergy. Bishop Binsted had made all the necessary preparations, so there was no delay whatever at customs. As we were driven into the city we could see Corregidor across the bay on our left; and in the once prosperous section of Manila on our right there were many scars visible from the last war. In this busy capital of the Philippines traffic moves with a happy combination of American energy and Latin verve. The first thing which makes an impression on the visitor is the cheerfulness of the people, and the natural ease with which they live. The Filipinos are handsome, friendly, independent people. The women in particular, on official occasions, are strikingly picturesque in their beautiful mestiza costumes.

An opportunity I particularly enjoyed was that of meeting at an informal gathering a number of the Mission staff clergy and their families at the Bishop's House.

On two occasions I visited at St. Andrew's Seminary at Quezon City. I not only had a chance to see the excellent buildings, but more important, after preaching at evensong, during a violent thunderstorm, I had supper with the seminarians and faculty and had a chance to talk with these markedly sincere and earnest young men who will be the future leaders not only of our own Church but of the Philippine Independent Church as well. I was there again at Sunday evensong when Canon West preached a notable sermon on "Authority in the Church." The Dean of St. Andrew's, the Very Reverend Dr. W. S. Mandell, is not only a gifted leader but also he has, over the course of years, made himself one of the most useful citizens in the entire community. He is known and trusted by the Filipinos as are few, not born in the Islands.

When I visited St. Luke's Hospital, though I had never seen it before, it was in some ways a familiar sight. I had come to know about the hospital from discussions about it in the Overseas Department of the National Council. The buildings were every bit as inadequate as description had made them. Yet in these inadequate surroundings the skill and devotion of doctors and nurses has enabled them to accomplish the seemingly impossible in terms of healing the sick and checking the spread of disease. The new St. Luke's Hospital, with up-to-date buildings and modern equipment, soon will be erected at Quezon City on a magnificent location near the Seminary. Later on the Cathedral will be built on the same site.

Not far from the present hospital is St. Stephen's school for Chinese Children. It has a large student body. I shall always remember the morning I spent there. Never have I seen a happier or better behaved group of children. It is due to the family training that these boys and girls are so self-disciplined. Thus one teacher can handle a much larger class there than would be possible in this country. It is probable that this school will take over the usable part of St. Luke's property when the new hospital is built, in order to accommodate more students who would like to go there.

We were fortunate, through the kindness of a Belgian Roman Catholic priest, both to see and hear the famous bamboo organ which was installed in one of the smaller churches one hundred and fifty years ago and has been in use ever since.

Inside the walls of the old city of Manila I saw people living in shacks and lean-tos built among the ruins left after the bombing. The poverty and the misery of these people is acute.

In addition to conferences with our own clergy, I had several opportunities to talk with Bishop de los Reyes. He is a man of vision and courage, and is gathering around him a group of superior and consecrated clergy. This Church, which now has between two and a half to three million members, will of necessity have an increasingly important part to play in the religious life of the Philippines. Their seminary was destroyed during the war and will not be rebuilt. Consequently the seminarians of the Philippine Independent Church are being trained at St. Andrew's Seminary along with our own men. Thus the seminary plays a crucial part in bringing the two churches ever closer together. The remarkable friendship that exists between our two churches is the result of Bishop Binsted's understanding, patient, statesmanlike leadership.

It is difficult, in writing something which might perchance come to his notice, to tell you just how great a man Bishop Binsted is. Possibly this will give you some impression. He endured much as a prisoner of war, but he is a sufficiently great Christian to understand with Christ's kind of love the very people who imprisoned him.

The liturgy of our Church, its freedom and historical background makes a strong appeal to the Filipinos. The problem in the Philippines is the problem of expansion. Our Church needs more of everything — more churches in city and country, more schools, dispensaries, rural hospitals are needed, and additional accommodations at the seminary. I have had a glimpse of one aspect of our Church's ministry in this area of the Pacific, and I was never more gratified that the parishes I served as Rector fulfilled their share of the missionary giving which makes such thrilling work possible.

Faithfully your Bishop

Horace W. B. Donegan

On Sunday, October 9th, at the 11 o'clock Service, Bishop Donegan instituted the Reverend Terence J. Finlay, L.Th., as Rector of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City

St. George's Church, Williamsbridge

In 1892 the congregation rented the Old Methodist Church at Park Avenue and Second Street and began holding services in the new location, which building the local residents will recognize as the Moose Hall on 216th Street between Willett and Olinville Avenues. The first service there was on Easter morning. The Rev. Charles S. Brown was placed in charge. He was followed by Mr. Barrett, Lay Reader, who did most excellent work in the Sunday School. His health failed, and his place was taken by the Rev. Percival MacIntyre.

When Mr. MacIntyre received and accepted a call from the Woodlawn P. E. Church, his place was taken by the Rev. Dr. J. Breckenridge Gibson.

Mrs. B. H. Carpenter writes that the ladies of the Guild worked especially hard under the direction of their beloved Priest, the Rev. J. Breckenridge Gibson, S.T.D., to whom she refers as "our Rector from Ossining, N. Y." (The term 'rector' is used inaccurately by the writer since St. George's at that time was only a small mission numbering some 45 members.)

Another former parishioner, Mr. F. J. Parkes, who was then the organist, adds that "shortly afterward, we had our first setback in the passing of our Rector, Dr. Gibson . . ." He died June 7, 1896. There is in the Narthex of the present building a placque given in memory of this devoted Priest.

Then the Rev. George F. Nelson, D.D., again took charge for three years and was very active in promoting the welfare and upbuilding of the Church.

The Church building, now located at the corner of 219th Street and Willett Avenue, was dedicated, on the Second Sunday in Advent, December 10, 1905, by the Rt. Rev. David H. Greer, then Coadjutor Bishop of New York.

During the next forty years the membership of St. George's waxed and waned as the neighborhood changed. But, despite all the ups and downs, there remained a nucleus which one Vicar often termed "the faithful forty." St. George's was still a small Mission.

Perhaps it would be well at this point to give recognition to the priests who ministered to the people of Williamsbridge, and to the faithful lay readers who conducted services Sunday after Sunday when no priest was available. From 1905 to 1908 the Vicar was the Rev. Franklin Nelson Strader; from then until April, 1914, the Rev. Arthur Ketchum served as Vicar; he was succeeded by the Rev. L. A. Edelblute who served until March, 1918: the next Vicar was the Rev. D. S. Agnew who was replaced in April of 1924 by the Rev. Ernest Matthews who remained until his resignation in September, 1936. From then until April, 1937, when the Rev. Augustus Batten became Vicar, the services were conducted by a lay reader, Mr. Allan Fredricksen and several supply priests. Father Batten resigned as Vicar in April, 1943, and Mr. Fredricksen, who had continued all the while to serve as a lay reader under Fr. Batten, took charge of St. George's Mission. Supply priests came at irregular intervals to administer the Sacraments, but the Rev. Herbert R. Stevenson, Rector of the neighboring Parish Church of the Good Shepherd, served as acting Vicar of St. George's.

We have noted already the fact that soon after the congregation of St. George's began holding services in their newly dedicated Church, the character of the neighborhood began to change sharply and instead of continuing to grow, St. George's fell on hard times. Then came the great Depression and St. George's very nearly had to be closed; it scarcely seemed worth while to keep it open when there were other Episcopal parishes in Williamsbridge, Woodlawn and Wakefield, for in all of these places the full-time ministrations of a priest were available. It seems highly likely that St. George's would have been abandoned had it not been for the keen interest shown by a group of the young people of the Mission in 1948. They felt, and rightly, that St. George's did not have a real chance to realize the opportunities now waiting to be harvested in Williamsbridge when there was no full-time priest in residence.
